PROGRESSIVES URGE LA FOLLETTE TO RUN AS THEIR CANDIDATE

National Committee Tells Him the Time Is Ripe for Action.

HIS ACCEPTANCE ASSURED

HUNT FOR RUNNING-MATE

Communists, Eager to Take Part, Are Warned They Cannot Enter the Hall Today.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, July 3.—Declaring that the Republican and Democratic Parties have forfeited all claims to public confidence and have failed "to purge themselves of the evil influences that now dominate them," the National Committee of the Conference for Progressive Political Action formally extended this afternoon an invitation to Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin to make the race for the Presidency as the leader for the "Progressive forces" of the nation.

The invitation to the Wisconsin Senator asserts that under the recent Administrations of both parties "there have been grave scandals and flagrant betrayals of the public trust," and asks the Senator to announce his candidacy and "thus give the people an opportunity to express their deep desire for progressive government."

At the same time the National Committee asked Mr. La Follette to send a message to the convention, which will meet here tomorrow, setting forth his views on the present political situation. Senator La Follette's answer is expected tomorrow and probably will be handed to Chairman William H. Johnston of the National Committee by Robert M. La Follette Jr., who left Washington tonight for Cleveland. It is the plan to read the reply to the convention immediately after the delivery of the keynote speech by Mr. Johnston.

Message to Senator La Follette.

The message to Senator La Follette reads:

Cleveland, Ohio, July 3.
Hon. Robert M. La Follette, United States Senate, Washington, D. C.

The National Committee of the Conference for Progressive Political Action have met and carefully considered the national political situation. They are convinced that the time is ripe for decisive action. The Democratic and Republican Parties have both forfeited all claims to public confidence. Under the recent Administrations of both of them, there have been grave scandals and flagrant betrayals of the public trust.

At their recent conventions both parties have shown no disposition to meet the public demand for fundamental reform. The Republican Party has nominated reactionary candidates upon a platform that is repugnant to every progressive mind. In our opinion it is unnecessary to await the outcome of the apparently endless battle now being waged by the Democratic bosses over the nomination of candidates. No genuine progressive could or would run on the meaningless, hypocritical platform that has been adopted at New York.

We have inferred from your public utterances that if the Democratic and Republican Parties failed to purge themselves of the evil influences that now dominate them, and unless they offered the people sound hopes for substantial relief, you would consent to become a candidate for President and thus gave the people an opportunity to express their deep desires for clean, progressive government.

Recognizing you as the outstanding leader of the progressive forces in the United States, we ask, therefore, whether you will under present conditions become a candidate for President of the United States. We should also appreciate a message from you setting forth your view of the present political situation.

This request is presented by the unanimous action of the National Committee.

WILLIAM H. JOHNSTON,
Chairman.

There is not a member of the National Committee who is not convinced that the answer of Senator La Follette will be in the affirmative. It is not denied that assurances to this effect already have been given to the leaders of the third party movement.

La Follette's Nomination Certain.

The expression of his views on the political situation is expected to form the basis of the platform on which Senator La Follette will appeal to the electorate for support. As the situation stands tonight it is as certain as anything can be that the Senator will be officially in the race before midnight of Saturday.

Delegates to the convention are coming in by every train, and already more than 800 of the few more than 1,000 who will have votes have registered. They represent all branches of labor, agriculture, socialism and the various other elements from the voting ranks of which the La Follette ticket is expected to derive its main support.

The public auditorium in which the convention will be held seats about 15,000 persons, and it is announced that every ticket has been allotted. The Cleveland Progressives and Radicals are predicting the greatest crowd that ever jammed its way into the hall, and from this crowd will come a demonstration for La Follette, they assert, beside which the Coolidge and Smith demonstrations were tame affairs.

With the endorsement of Senator La Follette assured, the leaders of the movement are now searching the list of availables in an effort to settle the Vice Presidential candidacy.

Huston Thompson, Chairman of the Federal Trade Commission, is the man most talked of for second honors and,

Book of Season Ticket Stubs Good After Today's Session

The book of season tickets issued for the Democratic National Convention contained only fifteen tickets and the last of these will be used up by one session today.

The book containing the ticket stubs should then be retained, as it will be accepted for any meeting of the convention that may follow. The seat coupon will be collected at tomorrow's session, but the reserved seat designations are printed on the ticket.

GOMPERS REJECTS THIRD PARTY IDEA

Declares That Organized Labor Should Not Identify Itself With the Movement.

SAYS IT MEANS DIVISION

Federation Head Holds Third Party Draws From Progressives and Weakens Their Cause.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—On the eve of the Cleveland convention which plans to nominate Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin as an independent and third party candidate for the Presidency in opposition to President Coolidge and the nominee of the Democrats, Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, has come out in opposition to the support of any third party movement by organized labor in America.

The attitude of Mr. Gompers is stated in the leading editorial in the July issue of The American Federationist, the official magazine of the American Federation of Labor, just off the press, and in which he indicates what he thinks should be the attitude of labor in the 1924 campaign.

Declaring that the Federation is a "labor organization," emphasizing the word "labor" in black face type, Mr. Gompers asserts that it can achieve greater results in politics by devotion to principles rather than to parties and should not join or align itself with any third party movement.

"Now, as before, the average result of so-called third party adventures will be victory for reaction," declares Mr. Gompers.

"Practically, this is what happens: The 'third party' draws from the most progressive of the other candidates. The more conservative candidate loses no votes to a 'third party' candidate.

"Thus progressive votes are divided, the progressive cause weakened.

"When progressives divide among themselves reaction wins. History records altogether too many sad cases of this 'one foot forward and two feet backward' kind of frog-in-the-well advancement."

Shows Labor Is Not United.

The declaration by Mr. Gompers is regarded as important, as coming from the recognized leader of organized labor in America. It shows that organized labor as a whole is not behind the movement launched at Cleveland for the nomination of Senator La Follette, despite the fact that certain labor leaders affiliated with the A. F. of L. are active in the Cleveland convention.

One of these is William H. Johnston, head of the International Machinists, who is national Chairman of the Conference for Progressive Political Action, which called the Cleveland convention, and is to act as permanent as well as temporary Chairman of the convention and, as such, will deliver the "keynote" speech at Cleveland tomorrow.

While third party movements, in the opinion of Mr. Gompers, "may gratify certain ambitions," he thinks labor should not align itself with any third party, but that if "the time ever comes when neither of the now dominant parties responds to the will of the people then the people will either rebuild one or both of them or abandon both of them in a great revolt and rebuilding." But that, he contends, will not be the sort of thing known today as a third party movement.

"That," he asserts, "will not be the carbonated performance of little coteries, nor the calculated political sabotage of revolutionists."

Says Eyes Are on Labor.

"With a national political campaign already under way, many eyes are turned in the direction of labor's efforts in that struggle," says Mr. Gompers. "Various so-called third party movements are under way, none of them of any particular promise, but all more or less confusing in their locality.

"Those who turn to these so-called third party movements proclaim their profound disgust with what they term the reactionary policy of the American Federation of Labor. They are impatient, and they fail to see that their impatience is leading them to the kind of haste which makes only for delay.

"The political policy of the American Federation of Labor will bear examination at all times, and examination at this time may be helpful to some who do not fully comprehend its meaning, or who have been beguiled by the phrases of the experimenters and dreamers.

"It is the belief of the American Federation of Labor that the greatest results are to be achieved in politics by a devotion to principles rather than to parties, and that the surest way to advance principles is to support those candidates who accept the principles and to oppose those who reject them.

"There is nothing involved about this belief; nothing complicated about the practice. And it is the only way by which labor can avoid the dissensions and schisms that inevitably must come.

GARDEN SHOW LIVENS UP

Democrats Are Offering a Touch of Comedy Once More.

GALLERIES APPRECIATIVE

CROWD HOOTS BRYAN AGAIN

The Commoner, Thought to Be Proselyting, Was Only Thanking Michigan for Vote.

By ELMER DAVIS.

All organized art enterprises, unless heavily financed, discover that they have to give the public what the public wants. Since the Republicans have the money, the Democratic stock company now playing in Madison Square Garden can't afford art for art's sake. It has to play for the box office. Since the crowds that come, or used to come, to the Garden, seemed to have a taste for comedy, the assembled Democrats have booted out the tragic muse and gone in for something lighter.

Yesterday afternoon the house was half empty and it was evident that something would have to be done to prevent a heavy loss on the season. So last night the Democrats went back to the slapstick stuff, drew a big crowd, and received what may be called the plaudits of the multitude.

For a while the comedy kept delegates and galleries amused and no isolated forlorn dwellers on a lonely farm ever reached out so desperately for amusement as these 14,000 people in the heart of New York. For a while almost anything would thrill them or amuse them, but as ballot after ballot went on with no noticeable change in the standing of the candidates, delegates and guests tired out and sank into sodden apathy.

When the convention finally adjourned, at 1 o'clock this morning, until 1 o'clock this afternoon, it had made at least one record. It had taken nineteen ballots in the course of the day—twelve in the day session and seven at night. But these nineteen ballots had accomplished absolutely nothing toward the selection of a Presidential candidate.

The McAdoo boom went through its daily rise and fall. It came back to 495 votes and then fell off again. This boom, like the tide, ebbs and flows twice every twenty-four hours. Al Smith reached his high water mark of 335½ votes on the sixty-first ballot, the last of the night session, but that doesn't prove anything. Ralston started somewhere in the morning and got up to 97 votes, but by the sixty-first ballot he was back to 37.

Meanwhile the crowd had been amusing itself as well as possible. Lieutenant Maughan, hero of the transcontinental flight, was introduced and cheered. As the stroke of midnight ushered in the Fourth of July Chairman Walsh halted proceedings and asked the crowd to join in singing "The Star-Spangled Banner."

Galleries Hiss Bryan Again.

The galleries had a chance to hiss Bryan again when he was seen moving about among the Michigan delegates during one of the later ballots. The bulk of the Michigan vote had been going to Smith, and the galleries, thinking that Bryan was trying to win them away from the local hero, booed him so loudly that the proceedings were halted and a group of policemen went down to protect Bryan against the spectators who crowded in on him. Then it turned out that he had only gone over to thank a delegate who had given him a courtesy vote two or three ballots before.

After the result, if you can call it that, of the sixtieth ballot had been reported a delegate from Tennessee moved to adjourn till 1 o'clock in the afternoon. Hollins Randolph of Georgia, where they get up early, amended the motion to meet again at 10:30, which would have had the effect of keeping the delegates away from the regular Tammany Society Fourth of Today's Official Program.

Following is the official program of today's session of the Democratic National Convention:

FIFTEENTH SESSION.

Convention called to order at 1 P. M. by the Permanent Chairman, Senator Walsh of Montana.

Invocation by the Rev. Paul Mansfield Spencer, of the Church of the Strangers, New York City.

Singing of "The Star Spangled Banner."

Reading of the Declaration of Independence by Augustus Thomas.

SAY BRENNAN CALLS ABSENT DELEGATES

LEADER HERE DENIES IT

Says He Sent No Message, and Insists All Delegates and Alternates Are Present.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 3.—George E. Brennan caused a stir in Democratic circles today by summoning back to the New York convention, according to their statements, several delegates and alternates who had returned home for various reasons.

The Illinois leader wired them to take return trains immediately on receipt of his message, they said. The reported messages did not give reasons for the summons, but were interpreted as indicating [illegible] McAdoo leaders in the convention were confident that they had stopped him and were gathering their forces to assault the unit rule in an effort to nominate by a majority vote.

In the reported messages Mr. Brennan was said to have stated it was absolutely necessary that every one summoned should be in New York tomorrow. A. J. Cermak, President of the County Board and a delegate from the Fourth District, who had just returned from New York, said he talked with Mr. Brennan on the telephone. The context of the conversation was not disclosed, but Charles Michaels, Cermak's alternate, who was also in Chicago, hastened for a train bound for Manhattan.

Frank X. Rydzwski, alternate for Clarence Darrow, delegate from the Fifth District, was another of those who said he had been summoned. Mr. Darrow did not go to New York in the first place and Rydzwski returned today. He said he would answer the summons if Darrow did not go. Other delegates said their alternates were presumed to be on the job in New York. These included former Alderman Michael Kenna.

Democrats here who are hopeful that Governor Smith of New York eventually will be the nominee were enthusiastic when they heard of the so-called orders. They took it as evidence that Mr. Brennan and his allies had enough reserve strength to put the Governor over on a majority vote after abrogation of the unit rule. Others suggested that McAdoo and Smith were about to go into the discard and that Mr. Brennan wanted all his aids at his side to discuss "dark horses."

Mr. Brennan, head of the Illinois delegation, said on the floor of the convention hall last night that every delegate and alternate of his State was still here and that therefore he had sent no such orders as were reported from Chicago.

ASKS HARMONY CANDIDATE.

Porto Rican Declares Neither McAdoo Nor Smith Can Be Named.

Henry W. Dooley, National Committeeman from Porto Rico, declared last night at the Waldorf-Astoria that it was apparent to him before the present convention that a deadlock would ensue between Governor Smith and William Gibbs McAdoo.

"That was apparent to me six months ago," he said, "and I am a student of convention psychology, and I say the only thing for the delegates to do is to pick a candidate upon whom they can agree. If Governor Smith was nominated, he could be elected, but it is apparent from the voting that McAdoo controls 367 votes, and Smith's nomination is impossible."

M'ADOO HITS FAVORITE SONS

Through His Manager He Demands That They Quit the Race.

LAYS DEADLOCK TO THEM

Statement Is Made in Answer to Suggestion That the Two Leaders Withdraw.

CALIFORNIAN WILL STICK

Smith Men Await a Break in Rival's Unit Delegations, Expecting to Win Then.

A demand for the withdrawal of the "favorite son" candidates on the ground that they had had opportunity to develop whatever strength they might have and were now merely creating a deadlock was made at 12:40 o'clock this morning by Judge David Ladd Rockwell, campaign manager for William G. McAdoo.

Judge Rockwell made the demand in a statement. He declared that McAdoo and Governor Smith were the only real contenders and that for sixty ballots the "dark horses" had prevented decision on the issue between them.

The statement follows:

"The newspaper suggestion which has been made, that the names of Mr. McAdoo, the overwhelming leader in the convention voting, and Governor Smith, receiving the next highest figure, be withdrawn so that some of the candidates receiving a far smaller vote might be able to be nominated, is absurd as well as unjust. Whoever heard of a candidate withdrawing who is receiving practically one-half of the convention's vote?

"The withdrawing comes at the other end.—If there be any withdrawals they should of right be from among the list of favorite sons, the attitude of whose friends is preventing the convention from effecting the nomination of any candidate.

Lays Deadlock to "Favorite Sons."

"No clique or cabal should be allowed to thwart the will of this convention. The Democratic Party can ill afford to copy the tactics used by the Republicans in Chicago in 1920.

"The favorite sons have been constantly before the convention, and every opportunity has been given them to develop their strength. If any candidates are to withdraw, it should be they.

"The overwhelming force of this convention is supporting either Mr. McAdoo or Governor Smith. It ill becomes candidates with but a handful of votes to keep the convention deadlocked. The real and only contest is between Mr. McAdoo and Governor Smith. For sixty ballots favorite sons have deadlocked this convention and have not allowed the real strength of Mr. McAdoo or Governor Smith to be shown.

"It is an outrageous travesty."

When the convention adjourned early this morning with the McAdoo-Smith deadlock still unbroken there was no evidence that the Governor's friends intended to give up his fight. They maintained that the first signs of weakening would have to come from the McAdoo side before they would even consider a compromise.

The Governor himself emphatically declared that there would be no compromise which involved his becoming a candidate for Vice President. A report was current early in the evening that an emissary from friends of Oscar W. Underwood had gone to the Smith camp with the suggestion that the Governor consider second place on a ticket headed by the Southern candidate, but the Governor said he knew nothing about it and was not even interested. He said nothing had occurred to change his determination not to become a Vice Presidential candidate.

Still Full of Confidence.

So far as his prospects of getting the Presidential nomination was concerned, the Governor said, he was still full of confidence. Smith field leaders said there were no signs of a break in the delegations fighting for his nomination and they would continue to vote for

Excitement Runs High on Floor Just Before 11 o'Clock as Michigan Swings Votes to Smith—Another Outburst Follows When Three States Return to McAdoo Column.

Having sat for the greater part of the day and two hours of the evening almost inert, delegates on the floor of the Convention Hall suddenly developed extreme activity last night just before 11 o'clock.

Moved like checkers on a board they engaged in two demonstrations in succession and for a few moments at least most of those on the floor were happy, though tired. Michigan started an advance Fourth of July celebration by voting 25 for Governor Smith. The galleries, which have a quick wit, saw the significance of the vote even before the delegates did and hundreds of the latter had to ask their neighbors what had happened, so inattentive had they become to the calling of the roll.

When the parade that was inevitable began the Michigan banner was kept in its place by an arrangement between the majority and the minority of the delegation, but some caustic remarks and good-natured "kidding" resulted in the banner being carried into the parade a little later. But this had an advantage, as the Smith folks saw it, in it prolonged the outburst.

The reaction among the delegates to this move by Michigan, which was ascribed to George Brennan of Chicago, one of the Smith strategists, was extraordinary. The anti-McAdoo forces were loud in their cheers and livened up greatly. The McAdoo cohorts, on the other hand, showed deep resentment. One McAdoo supporter, near the Missouri delegation, proclaimed loudly, "New York is killing Smith." Just what he meant he was not apparently able to explain, for the step taken by Michigan was similar to a dozen moves made by the McAdoo forces the night before.

But the McAdoo delgates were chafing. When Mississippi was called immediately afterwards, it swung back from Robinson to McAdoo with its full vote. The Smith forces and their banners had hardly left the aisles when the McAdoo contingents seized the opportunity that the vote of Mississippi gave, and began a parade of their own, gleefully, scornfully and some of them almost angrily. It seemed as if two opposing armies were trying to annihilate each other with mere noise.

The two demonstrations were a tonic for the delegates. They had come to the evening session hoping for the best, which, for them, as some of those on the floor said, meant a decision, but their leaders told them a decision was unlikely. The word spread quickly. For two hours, therefore, before the Michigan break and the resultant activity, the delegates had sat quietly, an amazing number of the women in special finery and a great many of the men in flannels.

A Dreary Day Session.

As far as the day session was concerned, the majority of the delegates displayed little or no interest in the proceedings. Never were so many newspapers—home newspapers—read while the balloting was going on; never was there so much visiting back and forth, so much gathering in aisles to talk of other things besides candidates.

This was particularly true early in the day, when on several occasions the clerk had to call the name of a State three or four times before any one in that particular delegation heard him.

The proceedings dragged drearily and the delegates tired of the incessant calling. They knew before the vote was announced by Chairman Walsh that there had been no change and frequently they kept right on talking while he made his announcement. They talked of crops and business and this man and that, and where they met last and when they might meet again, and how they liked New York and how sorry they would be to leave and how soon they might get away. But of interest, excitement and speculation there was very little indeed during the early stages of the proceedings.

Even when a break occurred, and there were several during the morning, the enthusiasm aroused was more or less superficial and short lived. Particularly was this true when the Ralston boom was started with the switching of Mississippi, which had been voting for McAdoo. There was scarcely a ripple of excitement. There had been little more when Oklahoma swung out of the McAdoo column earlier and voted for Robinson.

Breaks Stir Little Animation.

The later break in the Oklahoma delegation caused a small commotion in the neighborhood of that delegation and some speculation. The vote, when the delegation was polled, showed nine for Ralston, ten for Robinson and one absent. The absentee was said to be a Ralston man, so that had he been present there would have been a tie vote.

The Oklahoma delegation votes under the unit rule but while McAdoo was endorsed the delegates are not instructed. The speculation in the dele-

After failing to shake itself free of the deadlock in which it was enveloped the Democratic National Convention adjourned at 1 o'clock this morning after having completed its sixty-first ballot on the choice of a Presidential candidate. The convention will meet again at 1 o'clock this afternoon for its fifth day of balloting with no prospect that the deadlock will soon be broken.

At the hour of adjournment William Gibbs McAdoo of California, the leading candidate, had 469.5 votes. This left him 262.5 short of the necessary two-thirds which determines the choice. Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York had 335.5 votes. Third in the race was John W. Davis of West Virginia with sixty votes.

The official summary of the sixty-first ballot follows: McAdoo 469.5, Smith 335, J. W. Davis 60, Ralston 37, Underwood 42, Robinson 23, Glass 25, Cox 54, Ritchie 16.5, Salsbury 6, Walsh 3, Owen 24 and Gov. Bryan 2.

New Record for Balloting.

In its latest session, which began at 8:30 o'clock last night and ran for four and a half hours, the convention settled down apparently to a test of endurance. The record of balloting in Democratic National Conventions was broken during the evening, when the sixtieth ballot was completed. The New York convention passed the record of the Baltimore convention of 1869, when fifty-nine marked the limit.

After 1860 the highest record was at Baltimore in 1912 when Woodrow Wilson was nominated on the 46th ballot. Four years ago at San Francisco the 44th ballot determined the selection of James M. Cox as the party's candidate for President.

McAdoo may have the key that will unlock the deadlock. He holds a position of vantage in that he controls the votes of more than one-third of the delegates, two-thirds being necessary to the choice of the nominee. The retirement of McAdoo might bring a solution of the existing situation. That was suggested yesterday.

The delegates assembled last night in a mood that in some suggested lethargy and, in others sullenness. Irritability began to manifest itself soon after the convention was called to order yesterday morning, and the strain of the protracted contest was apparent.

Compromise Moves Fail.

It was realized by the leaders that a bad situation was being created through the failure of the convention to come to a decision on the candidate. Conferences were held and various proposals were made for ending the deadlock. One of these contemplated having the leading candidates get together to pick a dark horse. Another was that the lowest candidate on each ballot should be dropped.

None of these attempts at settlement got anywhere. The cold shoulder was turned to them by the managers of the various contenders. When the convention met again last night, after a recess of several hours, there was no prospect of an adjustment and when it adjourned at 1 o'clock this morning the choice of the Presidential nominee seemed equally far away. There were complaints that the Democratic Party had no leader with sufficient ability to overcome the deadlock.

In the first session of the convention yesterday there was a violent reaction from Mr. McAdoo's intensive drive for votes on Wednesday night. His top mark then was 505.5. Yesterday morning the tumble began. On one ballot McAdoo went as low as 413½. Last night his managers attempted another drive with the purpose of developing his full strength.

In this they were helped by several delegations which returned to the McAdoo fold for the purpose of letting his managers see what they could do. On the fifty-eighth ballot, the fourth taken last evening he again approached the 500 mark with 495 votes to his credit. On the fifty-ninth he dropped to 473.5, on the sixtieth to 469.5, and remained at this last figure when the convention took its adjournment this morning.

Smith Makes Small Gains.

Governor Smith's score hovered around 320 during the day and advanced slowly at the night session. He started off on the fifty-fifth ballot with 320.5, went to 331.5 on the fifth-eighth, kept that figure on the fifty-ninth, lost a vote on the sixtieth, and ended up with 335.5 on the sixty-first, just before adjournment.

Senator Samuel M. Ralston of Indiana became a central figure in the convention during the course of yesterday. His vote jumped from 31 to nearly 100 and he displaced John W. Davis of West Virginia as a third man in the race. But at the night session Ralston went to 37.5, which brought Davis with 60 votes on the final ballot back to third place.

There were stirring scenes in Madison Square Garden last night. Michigan, which had been claimed as a McAdoo State, gave twenty-five of its thirty votes to Governor Smith. A big demonstration followed. In the recent balloting the vote of Michigan had been evenly divided between Smith and McAdoo.

Hardly had the Smith demonstration subsided when the McAdooites had their chance. Mississippi, which had voted in the early days of the voting for Senator Harrison, John W. Davis and Senator Robinson, and had been voting for Ralston continuously since the forty-ninth ballot, switched to McAdoo on the fifty-eighth soon after Michigan had recorded the bulk of its votes for Smith. This gave McAdoo 20 more votes, and the McAdooites indulged in a counter-demonstration.

States Go Back to McAdoo.

Oklahoma, with 20 votes, and Missouri, with 36, also returned to McAdoo on the fifty-eighth ballot. Oklahoma had been voting for Robinson and Missouri for Ralston. A poll of the Missouri delegation was demanded. It showed that McAdoo had 24 of the delegation's 36 votes. Under the unit rule all 36 were credited to McAdoo. On the same ballot McAdoo received 23 of North Carolina's 24 votes.

But the joy of the McAdooites was short lived. Oklahoma on the fifty-ninth ballot threw all its votes to Senator Owen. Louisiana, which had created a diversion during the evening by leaving Davis of West Virginia and passing its solid vote for Mayor Behrman of New Orleans, returned to Davis on the fifty-ninth ballot. On the sixty-first ballot Smith gained five votes in Illinois. The announcement was greeted with loud cheers. But McAdoo still held the 15 votes he had had in that delegation.

The anti-McAdooites were not worried over the switch of Missouri back to McAdoo. Members of the Missouri delegation had told Thomas Taggart, manager of the Ralston Presidential boom, that they would like to return to McAdoo "for a few ballots," then, they said, they would return to the Ralston column. Taggart told them to go ahead.

After the Michigan delegation had given Smith 25 of its 30 votes, William J. Bryan went over to where the Michiganders were seated and began talking with a number of them. Shouts of "Get out of Michigan, Bryan," came from the galleries. The whole body of delegates rose to see what the commotion was about. Bryan went on smilingly shaking hands with the Michigan delegates, unmindful of the booing from Smith sympathizers.

Various efforts had been made throughout yesterday to bring about an arrangement by which a nomination would be possible. But these were futile. While some of the candidates lost ground and others advanced in the balloting the lines held fast, with no indication below or above the surface, that the convention was approaching a solution of the problem confronting it.

The convention had settled down apparently into a test of endurance. The record of continuous balloting in Democratic National Conventions was equalled late in the evening, when the fifty-ninth ballot was begun, and was broken when the sixtieth and sixty-first were taken. At Baltimore in 1912 Woodrow Wilson was nominated on the forty-sixth ballot and four years ago at San Francisco the forty-fourth ballot determined the nomination of James M. Cox of Ohio.

William Gibbs McAdoo of California, the leading candidate, may have the key that will unlock the deadlock. He has the position of vantage in that he controls the votes of more than one-third of the delegates, two-thirds being necessary to a choice. If McAdoo should retire the solution of the existing problem may be reached. That was suggested yesterday.

Delegates Become Irritable.

The delegates assembled in Madison Square Garden last night in a mood that in some denoted lethargy and in others sullenness. Irritability began to manifest itself soon after the early session of the convention was called to order yesterday morning. The strain of the protracted contest was apparent. It was realized by the leaders that a bad situation was being created through the failure of the convention to come to a decision on the candidate for President.

Conferences were held and various proposals were made for ending the deadlock. One of them contemplated having the leading candidates get together and pick a dark horse. Another was that the lowest candidate on each ballot should be dropped.

None of these attempts at a settlement got anywhere. The cold shoulder was turned to them by the managers of the various contenders. When the convention met again last night after a recess of several hours, there was no prospect of an adjustment.

There was a violent reaction in the convention yesterday from Mr. McAdoo's intensive drive for votes on Wednesday night. His top mark then was 505.5. Yesterday morning the tumble began. On one ballot McAdoo went as low as 413.5. Some of his strength returned to him during the evening.

Delegates Becoming Listless.

The growing temper of the delegates over the deadlock that the convention had reached was evident all through the early session yesterday. In the more than five hours that the convention sat prior to its recess there was a listlessness amounting almost to lethargy manifested by practically all of the body of nearly 2,200 men and women—delegates and alternates included—that sat through the long and wearisome process of recording ballots.

The atmosphere of the convention suggested sullenness. To some of the leaders, each with his pet candidate, this brought a sense of satisfaction. To others it brought uneasiness. McAdoo adherents had especial cause for uneasiness, as the first move to break the deadlock was certain to take the form of a breaking away from the California candidate. Until the McAdoo forces began to disintegrate, or until the unlikely event that all the opposing elements in the convention managed to agree upon one man to support for the nomination, the deadlock was certain to last.

The very first ballot of yesterday's early session demonstrated clearly that Mr. McAdoo's spurt of Wednesday night was merely a spurt with no enduring qualities. At the time of adjournment Wednesday night his score in the balloting stood 503.4. On the first ballot yesterday morning, the forty-third of the convention, he dropped to 483.4. With an occasional upward tendency he held practically that number of votes for several later ballots. On the forty-ninth he dropped to 462.

Then the downward trend began in earnest. When the fiftieth ballot was taken McAdoo had 461.5, on the fifty-first he was 442.5, and on the fifty-second he dropped to 413.5, lower than the strength he polled on the very first day. On the fifty-third he jumped to 423.5, and when the convention took its recess in the late afternoon his vote was 427.

McAdoo Fails to Stem Tide.

As much as the McAdoo workers bestirred themselves, they could not stem the tide that had set in against them. They had a foreboding of what was coming when the convention adjourned Wednesday night, but sought in every way to overcome the psychological effect of having their candidate drop to a point where delegates would look upon him as a certain loser. McAdoo's chance lay in making a big showing, big enough to impress weak-kneed delegates who desired to be with the winner. That was the strategy of Wednesday night's sensational rise.

That heavy vote in McAdoo's favor was due mainly to a strenuous effort by his management to get several delegations to give him an opportunity of showing that with any considerable addition to his vote there would be a tendency on the part of a considerable number of delegates to join the McAdoo contingent. Managers of some of the favorite-son candidates assented to the importunities of the McAdoo generals, but stipulated that they would not consent to remain indefinitely in McAdoo's camp unless he showed such strength as to give promise of obtaining the nomination. In the case of several of the delegations the agreement with the McAdooites was that these delegations should cast their votes for McAdoo for five ballots. If he managed to get a majority of the convention by that time they would stick by him.

Oklahoma was one of the States which gave encouragement of that character to the McAdoo managers. It had deserted McAdoo for Senator Robert L. Owen and had then played a game of switching back to McAdoo and returning to Owen. On the thirty-ninth ballot, which was taken Wednesday night, Oklahoma again took its place in the McAdoo column with all its 20 votes recorded in his favor. It remained a McAdoo delegation through the fortieth and forty-first ballots. But the Oklahomans were then ready to quit the California candidate. While McAdoo's spurt had carried him past the 500 mark, he had not reached a majority, and the Oklahoma delegates were of the opinion that his intensive effort had failed. So they served notice on the McAdoo management that they would switch to Senator Robinson on the next ballot.

This would mean a setback for McAdoo at the very moment when the effort was being made to give him an outstanding lead, close to a majority. Realizing the possible effect of Oklahoma's defection, the McAdoo managers suggested an adjournment until yesterday, and the anti-McAdooites were glad to oblige them.

On the forty-third ballot, the first taken yesterday morning, Oklahoma gave its 20 votes to Senator Robinson. This delegation votes under the unit rule. In a later polling of the delegation on demand, it was found that Robinson had a bare majority. The poll resulted: Robinson 10, Ralston 9. One delegate was absent.

No surprises came until the forty-ninth ballot, the seventh taken at yesterday's early session. On that ballot Mississippi, which had originally voted for Senator Pat Harrison and then had gone to McAdoo, gave its entire vote to Ralston. On the fifty-first ballot there was another defection in the McAdoo ranks. Under the unit rule the Iowa delegation had been giving its 26 votes to McAdoo. By unanimous consent the unit rule was disregarded and the members of the delegation permitted to express their individual preferences. A challenge of the Iowa vote was made by one of the delegates and a poll was ordered. This resulted: McAdoo 9, Smith 7.5, Ralston 4, John W. Davis 3.5, Walsh 1.5 and Underwood 5.

This was a loss of 17 votes for McAdoo, a serious blow at a time when there was a downward tendency in his strength. But the depression of the McAdooites was short lived. Iowa decided to apply the unit rule again, with the result that on the fifty-second ballot a majority of the delegates from that State voted for him and instructed the Chairman to cast the entire 26 votes of the delegation for him.

If the delegates and spectators had not been so listless at yesterday's early session these changes would have produced sensation after sensation and have been followed by demonstrations by the following of the candidates benefited. But the convention had no desire to indulge in handclapping, let alone cheering.

A real opportunity for vociferous joyousness was presented when Missouri on the fifty-second ballot left McAdoo and gave its entire thirty-six votes to Ralston. The accuracy of the poll of Missouri was challenged by one of its McAdoo adherents. This showed that 22.6 votes had been cast in favor of Ralston.

North Carolina Quits McAdoo.

North Carolina showed some evidence of flightiness while the early session was in progress. Under the unit rule the twenty-four votes of the Tar Heel State have been recorded for McAdoo from the beginning of the balloting. On the fifty-second ballot yesterday afternoon North Carolina gave twenty votes of its twenty-four to George Gordon Battle. Mr. Battle is a native of North Carolina, and while he resides in New York he shares with Josephus Daniels the honor of being North Carolina's favorite son. This delegation had been voting under the unit rule, but the gag which this method places upon the desire of delegates to express individual preferences has caused much feeling in the convention, especially among anti-McAdooites, who have felt its effects more than those attached to the fortunes of any other candidate.

A revolt against the unit rule on the part of a number of the North Carolina delegates resulted in an arrangement yesterday by which individual preferences were permitted to be recorded. The first ballot under this arrangement gave Mr. Battle his twenty votes. McAdoo got the other four in the delegation. On the next, or fifty-third, ballot there was a demand that the delegation be polled on the floor. The result of the poll was McAdoo fifteen, J. W. Davis four, Underwood three, Ralston one, and Glass one.

The tendency of delegations and individual delegates to vote for Senator Ralston caused much perturbation to the astute Mr. Taggart of Indiana. His whole plan of campaign was to do nothing or countenance no move that might give offense to any of the candidates or their managers. He wanted to keep votes away from Ralston. Mr. Taggart's idea was, and he has adhered to it consistently, that if Ralston's gain was another's loss, the loser would feel unkindly toward Mr. Ralston's candidacy and might be inclined to make reprisals if the opportunity presented.

Avoids Demonstrations for Ralston.

Mr. Taggart was pleasant to those delegates who came to him with offers of support for the Indiana candidate but he assured them, as usual, that he would much prefer that they should stick to the candidates for whom they were instructed or for whom their delegations had been voting. He could not restrain the tendency on the part of all in the Hoosier delegation to clap hands or cheer when Ralston made a gain in the balloting, but his influence was sufficient to make the cheers and handclaps of the feeblest sort. When Oklahoma changed its vote to Ralston only a part of the Indianians cheered, a very faint cheer.

While the balloting was progressing at the early session, with McAdoo's strength waning to a point where his most ardent admirers were beginning to agree with those who have insisted all along that he would never get the nomination, leaders of the party were showing uneasiness over the situation that the prolonged balloting had produced.

They realized that the convention was in deadlock, and that unless something was done to break it there would be no telling how long the convention would be obliged to continue. Many delegates had left New York for their homes after entrusting their votes to alternates. Others who lived within comparatively short distances of New York were anxious to go home to spend the Fourth of July holiday with their families. Very generally there was a growing irritation among the delegates. The pocketbooks of most of them were showing the effect of hotel living in a big city.

The party leaders, including most of the managers of candidacies of contenders for the nomination, were aware of this feeling and were impressed and disturbed by it. But what disturbed them most was that the deadlock seemed to be causing animosities that might have a serious detrimental effect upon team work in the campaign. Irritation was increasing with the continuance of dreary and fruitless balloting.

Camplaints Taken to Hull.

Chairman Hull of the Democratic National Committee got the brunt of the complaints over this state of affairs. He heard on every side that there was dissatisfaction among the delegates over the failure of the convention to come to an agreement on a candidate. It wasn't Congressman Hull's fault, but a good many of his fellow-Democrats seemed to think that the head of the party organization should find a way out of the maze of balloting.

As a result of these complaints, Mr. Hull had conferences with a number of leaders. Managers of candidates were consulted as to what suggestions they had to break the deadlock. Efforts along this line did not get anywhere.

One suggestion advanced was that the candidates themselves—those of them who are in New York—should get together to see if they could not find a means to straighten out the tangle in which the party found itself. This did not bring any enthusiastic response. There are many persons prominent in the convention, however, who contend that there can be no adjustment of the situation unless the candidates themselves have a conference with the sincere purpose of attempting to do something for the good of the party instead of for their own political interests.

McAdoo Is Urged to Quit.

Much of the discussion among leading Democrats yesterday along this line indicated that Mr. McAdoo had the power more than any other man to unlock the deadlock. The suggestion was advanced that as the leader of the candidates, Mr. McAdoo had the opportunity of making a great hit with his party by withdrawing from the contest as a first move in the direction of bringing order out of the prevailing chaos.

But it was conceded that it would be asking too much of Mr. McAdoo to be the only one to make the sacrifice. The response to the suggestion that he withdraw was that he would not do so unless others, and particularly Governor Smith, consented to do likewise. There was no enthusiasm among leading Smith adherents for the suggestion. They took the position that McAdoo was out of it and Smith was not and that it would be an unnecessary surrender on their part to concede that in falling toward the bottom of the ladder Mr. McAdoo should ask Givernor Smith to take the tumble with him.

Smith Forces Are Encouraged.

The Smith managers were greatly encouraged by the failure of Mr. McAdoo to continue his spurt of Wednesday night. They felt that they had reason to believe that McAdoo would never attain the nomination and they saw in yesterday's developments a realization on the part of delegates generally that their prediction was about to come true. The Smith management declined to do anything. Their avowed purpose was to sit tight and await developments. They were prepared for a prolongation of the deadlock. Smith delegates who went to the leaders of the Smith movement to ask if they couldn't go home for the Fourth of July holiday were told that it would be a grave error for any of them to leave New York.

The Smith plan of campaign, as it was developed while the first session of the convention was in progress yesterday, was to keep sitting tight in the belief that the McAdoo strength would continue to wane to a point where it would be the part of strategy for the anti-McAdoo forces to try a spurt of their own. The object of the Smith management, as it was explained yesterday, was to wait until the McAdoo vote dropped below one-third of the entire membership of the convention and then push their candidate forward. They had been assured, it was said, that at least 150 delegates in delegations which have been voting for McAdoo and other candidates under the unit rule would move into the Smith column as soon as the opportunity came.

The total number of delegates in the convention is 1,098 and one-third of that number is 366. When the convention took a recess yesterday afternoon until 8:30 o'clock last night Mr. McAdoo had 413.5 votes, so there must be a loss of 47.5 by McAdoo before the Smith drive is to begin.

Proposal Made to Break Deadlock.

A number of proposals were offered yesterday with a view to breaking the deadlock. One that was pressed on the managers of the leading candidates and the officers of the convention was that on each ballot the low man should be dropped. Gavin McNab, delegate at large from California, drafted a resolution to carry this suggestion into effect. Former Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock of Nebraska was so taken with the idea that he went to Chairman Walsh to talk over ways and means to put it into effect.

Senator Walsh took the position that, while the convention had the right to adopt a resolution providing that the low man on each ballot should be dropped from the contest, such action would not upset the rules under which the convention was operating and he would be obliged to record every vote cast, even if it was for a man in the street unknown to the party.

It was recalled that a similar proposal had been advanced in a previous Democratic convention and had been rejected overwhelmingly. The idea did not seem to take hold. Among the Smith management the sentiment was that there could be no change in the methods of conducting the convention while it was in progress. William J. Bryan, who was credited with having supported the proposal, denied that he was behind it.

"I disapprove of it," he said.

Ralston Gains in Day Session.

Senator Ralston advanced considerably in yesterday's early balloting in spite of the efforts of Mr. Taggart to prevent any marked increase in his strength. On the last ballot before the recess he had 92 votes, a jump of 61 from his showing on the first ballot yesterday. It was said by those connected with the Ralston management that from 60 to 80 votes in addition have been promised to their candidate.

With the rise in the Ralston vote John W. Davis of West Virginia dropped from third to fourth place. He had started off with 71 on the first ballot yesterday and dropped to 59 on the last taken before the recess. Mr. Davis's friends appeared to be well satisfied. They have been following a policy similar to that of Mr. Taggart. They contended that the strategy of the Davis campaign was to hold back votes that they were able to obtain until they brought forward Mr. Davis as the best compromise.

The Ohio delegation kept former Governor Cox in the race. Efforts were made by the McAdoo management to get the Virginia delegation to leave Senator Glass and come to Mr. McAdoo. Rumors were afloat that the drive against the glass following was likely to be successful, but the members of the Virginia delegation held a caucus and decided to stick to their Senator.

Senator Robinson was one of those whose names was mentioned most frequently in the discussion among delegates yesterday in regard to the selection of a dark horse. A rather surprising sentiment was shown for the Arkansas Senator and it was evident that considerable opinion prevailed that he had a good chance for obtaining the prize.

In spite of the tremendous McAdoo drive the lines of most of the dark horse candidates held firmly in the balloting of yesterday's first session. While Oklahoma switched from Senator Owen, he continued to get four votes from the Illinois delegation. Senator Underwood's strength, with the entire Alabama delegation furnishing the nucleus, hovered around forty votes. Cox had fifty-four on most of the earlier balloting. Governor Ritchie had the consistent support of the Maryland delegation. Former Senator Saulsbury of Delaware got the six votes of his State all along.

There were votes cast also for Governor Bryan of Nebraska, Governor Davis of Kansas, Senator Walsh of Montana and Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, manager for Governor Smith.

STORY OF THE DAY SESSION.

Many Delegates Get Few Thrills in the Rounds of Balloting.

With a drive for William G. McAdoo still in progress, and with a counter-offensive by the forces supporting Governor Smith expected later in the day, Senator Thomas J. Walsh called the thirteenth session of the Democratic National Convention to order at 10:30 yesterday morning.

Not more than half the delegates were present at the opening of the session and barely a thousand persons were in the galleries. The length of time which the convention has been in session has had the effect of lessening interest of both delegates and spectators, as shown by the decreased attendance.

An invocation was offered by the Rev. John E. Heindel of the English Evangelical Lutheran Church of Jersey City.

THE FORTY-THIRD BALLOT.

The roll-call for the forty-third ballot was begun at 10:35. The first important shift on this ballot came when Oklahoma transferred her 20 votes from McAdoo to Senator Robinson of Arkansas. Michigan, which had passed on the roll-call, divided, 15 for McAdoo and 15 for Smith, a gain of 3 for Smith and a loss of 1 for McAdoo.

McAdoo lost 20, the vote of Oklahoma, on this ballot, going down again below the 500 mark to 483.4.

Smith gained one-half a vote.

THE FORTY-FOURTH BALLOT.

McAdoo gained 1 at the expense of Underwood on the forty-fourth ballot. That was practically the only change. McAdoo's vote was 484.4 and Smith's 319.1. The delegates appeared listless and indifferent, as if anxious to end the deadlock.

THE FORTY-FIFTH BALLOT.

There was practically no change on the forty-fifth ballot. McAdoo lost the vote he had gained on the preceding ballot and Smith's vote remained the same. John W. Davis gained 3 votes and Underwood lost 1 vote. Otherwise there was no change.

THE FORTY-SIXTH BALLOT.

There were no incidents of importance during the forty-sixth ballot. North Carolina passed and then gave McAdoo 1 additional vote. McAdoo gained 3½ votes on this ballot.

Smith's vote remained the same, having held at exactly 319.1 during the first four ballots of the session.

THE FORTY-SEVENTH BALLOT.

The forty-seventh ballot showed a loss of 2½ for McAdoo and a gain of 1 for Smith. The deadlock was complete and the delegates were only marking time by balloting while the party leaders tried to find some method to break the deadlock.

THE FORTY-EIGHTH BALLOT.

The forty-eighth ballot was also featureless. McAdoo lost 1 vote and Smith gained 1 vote, and that was all there was to it.

THE FORTY-NINTH BALLOT.

The first break of the day session came on the forty-ninth ballot, when Mississippi abandoned McAdoo and cast her 20 votes for Senator Ralston. A good indication of the complete apathy of both delegates and spectators was afforded by the fact that the announcement of this vote, which might have been a movement to start a drive for a candidate who many believe may be the winner, did not cause even a ripple of applause. There was not even a handclap anywhere, so far as could be heard from the press stands.

McAdoo lost 2 votes in North Carolina. It was evident that the undermining attack upon him, from which he recovered temporarily Wednesday night, was on again. The jump of Senator Ralston's vote to 53 was the feature of the forty-ninth ballot. Announcement of his vote brought faint cheers.

"Get on the band wagon," yelled a strong-lunged Indianian. McAdoo's vote fell to 462½ on this ballot, putting him back almost to the point from which he began his drive Wednesday night.

The drive for Ralston did not develop, and it was reported that Thomas Taggart, the Indiana leader who is the custodian of the Ralston boom, was holding it back until today. North Carolina gave Ralston a vote and cut McAdoo's vote in that State down to 17.

Oklahoma's vote of 20 for Robinson was challenged by W. A. Gulager. The poll reevaled that it was not a fight between supporters of McAdoo and Robinson to determine to whom the vote should go, but between Ralston and Robinson. The poll showed Robinson 10 and Ralston 9. The 20 votes of the State were cast for Senator Robinson.

THE FIFTIETH BALLOT.

Senator Ralston dropped back 9 votes on the fiftieth ballot. McAdoo lost 1 and Smith's vote remained the same.

THE FIFTY-FIRST BALLOT.

Leo Tolstoy's double in the Idaho delegation lifted his voice in his first shout of the day, when that State as usual cast its eight votes for McAdoo. The McAdoo women in California forgetfully waved their McAdoo flags as Indiana reported its thirty votes for Ralston, but stopped immediately with the look of those who have committed a social blunder of the first rank.

Kentuckys report of twenty for McAdoo was challenged and the delegation was passed. North Carolina's vote showed a further loss of 2 for McAdoo, 1 going to John W. Davis and 1 to Carter Glass.

Oklahoma again reported its 20 votes for Robinson, though Mr. Taggart was standing by and talking things over with the Ralston supporters. The vote was not challenged, and it was reported that in a spirit of fraternity the Ralston men were going to lea. Robinson undisturbed in Oklahoma for a few more ballots.

Iowa passed, and when it was called at the end of the ballot it was announced that by unanimous consent Iowa waived the unit rule under which its 26 votes had hitherto been cast for McAdoo. Nine of them were still for McAdoo by individual preferences, but 7½ were cast for Smith, and the galleries burst into a roar. Standards were uplifted, and Smith delegates stood on their seats and shouted.

Indiana shouted a moment later when it was announced that 4 Iowa votes had gone to Ralston. John W. Davis got 3½ votes, Walsh 1½, and Underwood, one-half.

The protesting delegate from Kansas then announced that he would withdraw his challenge for this ballot and let the 20 votes of the State be cast for McAdoo, but that he would demand a roll-call on the next ballot. In view of McAdoo's heavy loss in Iowa this promised a still further setback.

The total on the fifty-firt ballot was: McAdoo, 442½; Smith, 328; Ralston, 63; Davis, 67; Robinson, 43; Underwood, 43 Ritchie, 16½ Glass, 25; Cox, 55; Saulsbury, 6; Davis of Kansas, 2; Owen, 4, and Walsh, 2½. This meant a loss of 19 for McAdoo from the previous ballot, and Smith at the same time reached his high point, to the great approval of the galleries.

THE FIFTY-SECOND BALLOT.

Ralston took a vote away from John W. Davis in Arizona on the fifty-second ballot. Leaders of every boom were besetting the Iowa delegates with their arguments as the vote proceeded. Kansas was also working busily in preparation for the poll.

"Stand by McAdoo," begged one elderly delegate.

"We've stood by him till we're covered with oil," was the response of his colleague.

"We've been voting for Doheny long enough, and we want somebody not 'so oily'," another added.

A rumor spread that after this ballot a resolution was to be introduced calling for the withdrawal of all but the three highest candidates, and that the Ralston people were making a desperate effort to get their man in.

But the ballot showed a reversion to old habits when Iowa again became a unit and cast its 26 votes for McAdoo, and the 20 of Kansas were also cast for him, in spite of much argument in the delegation. In Minnesota McAdoo lost 1 to C. W. Bryan.

Missouri was being polled privately, however, before its vote was called for, and when it was reached in the roll-call it passed. North Carolina also passed. Oklahoma stayed with Robinson.

Missouri was called again at the end of the roll-call and reported its 36 votes for Ralston. It was understood that 22 2-3 votes had been cast for him in the poll, giving him the whole vote under the unit rule.

North Carolina, called again, cut McAdoo's vote from 15 to 4, and cast its other 20 for George Gordon Battle, a native son and now resident in New York.

The result of the fifty-second ballot was: McAdoo, 413½; Smith, 320½; Ralston, 93; Robinson, 42; Davis, 59; Glass, 24 Underwood, 38½ Walsh, 1; Cox, 54; Ritchie, 16½ Saulsbury, 6; Owen, 4; Bryan, 6; Battle, 20.

The votes for George Gordon Battle in North Carolina were purely complimentary. The North Carolina delegation, however, was reported to have become restive under the fruitless fight for McAdoo. The vote for Battle was the first indication of a break—the beginning of a movement to get behind some other candidate not yet determined.

The South Carolina delegation, it was stated, was ready to get behind Ralston, who had been making impressive gains during the earlier balloting.

THE FIFTY-THIRD BALLOT.

There was an outburst of hissing and booing when Texas, true to form, cast her forty votes on the fifty-third ballot for McAdoo, whose friends came back at their opponents with applause and some cheering.

After the roll-call had been completed, North Carolina, which had been passed, was called.

"North Carolina is out caucusing," was announced from the floor. "The delegation has not come back yet."

Chairman Walsh then declared a five-minute recess and the band began to play.

North Carolina finally came in and announced the preferences of her delegates as Ralston, 1; Davis, 4; Underwood, 3; Glass, 1; McAdoo, 15.

On the total vote of the fifty-third ballot McAdoo made a gain of ten votes. Smith held his strength of the previous ballot. Ralston gained one and reached the high-water mark of his strength thus far.

THE FIFTY-FOURTH BALLOT.

"Oregon is still true to her first love, with ten votes for William G. McAdoo," shrilled a woman, jumping on a chair, when that State was reached on the fifty-fourth ballot. The friends of the Californian responded with a little cheering.

North Carolina delegates put their heads together again while this ballot was being taken and went back to McAdoo, giving him 20½ votes, John W. Davis 3 and Underwood one-half. McAdoo made gains on this ballot, too, of three and one-half votes. Smith held his vote of the previous ballot.

The roll-call ended and a motion was made to adjourn until 8:30 P. M. The convention was not at all unanimous about meeting at that hour. Cries came from the delegates urging that the evening session begin half an hour earlier. On a rising vote, however, the time called for in the original motion prevailed, and the convention adjourned.

EVENTS OF THE NIGHT SESSION

Tension Is Evident at the Opening—Clergyman Prays for an End.

Before the night session began there was the usual ovation as Franklin D. Roosevelt, Governor Smith's campaign manager, entered the garden and with difficulty made his way to the seat he is occupying with the New York delegation. The assembled delegates arose in their seats, cheered and applauded.

The convention was called to order at 8:40, ten minutes behind the scheduled time. Opening prayer was offered by the Rev. Henry Clay Risner of the First Baptist Church of Hoboken.

"Let us go away from this convention" was a line in his prayer which met with heartfelt approval from the weary delegates and other functionaries.

Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana announced immediately after the prayer that if the convention should not complete its labors prior to this morning the session today would be opened with the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" by Mrs. Mills, formerly of Helena, Mont., and the reading of the Declaration of Independence by Augustus Thomas, the playwright.

John A. Lusk, a delegate from Alabama, at the opening of the night session, offered a resolution under which the convention would be required to sit in continuous session, with only informal recesses, not exceeding ten minutes in length, until its work of nominating candidates shall have been completed. The delegates applauded but Chairman Walsh declared the resolution out of order.

THE FIFTY-FIFTH BALLOT.

Roll-call on the fifty-fifth ballot was then begun.

There was a burst of cheering when Georgia, giving its 28 votes for McAdoo, declared through the head of its delegation that it would continue to do so for the next 500 ballots.

The Garden was crowded again at the night session. The crowd was a lively and responsive one. The name of Governor Smith was cheered frequently when mentioned in the course of the roll-call.

Nevada was passed on the roll-call, after its report had been challenged. Chairman Walsh had the delegation polled at the conclusion of the roll-call. The result of the poll was 4 votes for McAdoo, 2 for Smith.

"The Nevada delegation, voting under the unit rule, the casting of its vote for McAdoo will be recorded," said Chairman Walsh.

Senator Ralston gained 5 on this ballot. McAdoo lost 1. The vote for Smith was 320½, the same as on the previous ballot.

THE FIFTY-SIXTH BALLOT.

On the fifty-sixth ballot North Carolina again gave all her 24 votes to McAdoo. The change involved a loss of three votes to John W. Davis and of ½ vote to Underwood. The North Carolina gain was the only change affecting McAdoo on this ballot. Smith gained one vote. John W. Davis lost four, Ralston held his vote of the previous ballot.

Governor Cameron Morrison of North Carolina, after the delegation had cast its full vote for McAdoo on this ballot, said to a friend in the Garden that of the candidates placed in nomination none could get the required two-thirds majority and that the supporters of the Californian, after a few more ballots, would be compelled to look about for some new man behind whom to rally. Governor Morrison said North Carolina would not under any circumstances cast its vote for Smith.

THE FIFTY-SEVENTH BALLOT.

The Garden was crowded when the taking of this ballot began. Every available seat and every inch of standing space was occupied. The aisles were too filled to afford easy passageway for delegates and other convention functionaries who had to use them.

There was no change on this ballot in the vote of any of the candidates, with the exception of a loss of one vote to Governor Smith. McAdoo received 430, Smith 320½; Ralston 97. John W. Davis's vote had fallen to 58½.

THE FIFTY-EIGHTH BALLOT.

Before the roll was called on the next ballot an invitation came from the United States Spanish War Veterans to veterans and ex-service men among the delegates to attend the flagraising in City Hall Park this morning. When the reading clerk named the hour and the convention found that the ceremony was set for 6 A. M. it laughed.

The Tammany Society sent an invitation to the convention to attend its annual Independence Day celebration at Tammany Hall, and this was read.

Louisiana, after having voted throughout a dozen ballots for John W. Davis, cast its entire vote on the fifty-eighth ballot for Mayor Martin H. Behrman of New Orleans. Mayor Behrman is a delegate at large from Louisiana. He has been Mayor of New Orleans for sixteen years. Arthur J. O'Keefe, a district delegate, said there were 9 votes in the Louisiana delegation for Governor Smith.

Michigan, which has been dividing its vote 15—15 between Smith and McAdoo, gave the Governor twenty-five votes on this ballot. This announcement was greeted with cheers, but the Smith delegations received their real cue for the demonstration which followed through a pre-arranged signal from the band, with the tune "I'm so tired," played as a cornet solo.

Michigan's standard leading off, was carried up to the New York delegation, where the New York standard was raised in salute, while the crowd in the Garden gave cheer after cheer—a deafening roar. Illinois, Iowa, Wyoming, Connecticut, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Wisconsin, New Jersey, Philippine Islands and Pennsylvania joined in the demonstration. For several minutes the standards were paraded through the aisles. The marching delegates stepping out to the rhythmic chant:

"We want Smith, we want Smith."

The supporters of McAdoo had their innings soon after the Smith delegations. This was when Mississippi quit Ralston and cast her 20 votes for McAdoo. The McAdoo States paraded their standards through the Garden for a space of five minutes or so, amid cheering by McAdoo delegates.

Next on the roll-call came Missouri. For several ballots Missouri had been voting for Ralston. On this ballot its 36 went undivided to McAdoo under the unit rule. This started the cheering by McAdoo delegations anew.

At the completion of the roll-call the vote of Missouri was challenged. The delegation was polled. The result was McAdoo 24, Ralston 9½, Underwood 1, Walsh ½.

Missouri was recorded for McAdoo.

After the Mississippi and Missouri delegates had deserted Ralston and returned to McAdoo, Richmond Pearson Hobson, hero of the Merrimac, was circulating among delegations not in line for McAdoo. He proposed a McAdoo-Smith ticket.

"McAdoo and Smith and end the convention before midnight," was the burden of his appeal.

Oklahoma switched from Senator Robinson of Arkansas to McAdoo, another net gain of 20 votes. Every McAdoo delegate was on his feet cheering. The demonstration, however, was of short duration.

Before the result of this ballot was announced Chairman Walsh caused announcement to be made that the coupons for today's session would not be taken up, but that guests and visitors would be permitted to retain them and that they would be good for admission at any subsequent sessions held.

"We'll get through tonight," yelled W. O. Gray of Bowling Green, Mo., a member of the Missouri delegation.

McAdoo gained 65 votes on the fifty-eighth ballot. His total of 495 almost reached the high water mark of his strength, attained on Wednesday, when he passed the 500 mark. Governor Smith gained 11 votes. John W. Davis lost 18, Ralston 56½ and Senator Robinson of Arkansas 20.

THE FIFTY-NINTH BALLOT.

On the fifty-ninth ballot, which was taken immediately, Louisiana, which on the previous ballot had given a complimentary vote to Mayor Behrman of New Orleans, again cast her 20 votes for John W. Davis.

Miss Margaret Wilson, daughter of Woodrow Wilson and sister-in-law of William G. McAdoo, announced on the fifty-ninth ballot for the Georgia delegation that its 28 votes were for McAdoo. When the supporters of McAdoo in the Missouri delegation sought to have her selected to make the announcement for Missouri, they were blocked by opponents to McAdoo among the delegates.

Oklahoma left McAdoo on this ballot and returned its 20 votes for Senator Robert L. Owen. McAdoo gained one vote in South Dakota at the expense of Senator Walsh of Montana.

Before the announcement of the vote on the fifty-ninth ballot, William J. Bryan was talking to a member of the Michigan delegation. A man in the gallery discovered him and shouted:

"Get out of Michigan, you Bryan."

In a moment hundreds of delegates were on their feet hissing and booing the Commoner. In the gallery the hostile demonstration became bitter. Mr. Bryan did not seem to mind it much, however. He turned a smiling face on the crowd, which suspected that he was laboring with Michigan delegates to pry them loose from their new allegiance to Governor Smith.

Mr. Bryan said he had gone to the Michigan delegation for the sole purpose of thanking a delegate who had given him a complimentary vote on the early ballots.

While the convention paused, preparatory to announcement of the result of this ballot, Chairman Walsh brought forward on the rostrum Lieutenant Maughan.

"I have the honor of presenting to you the hero of the first daylight flight from New York to San Francisco," Chairman Walsh announced.

Lieutenant Maughan was in uniform. He bowed and smiled while delegates and galleries joined in cheering and applauding.

The convention settled down for some more work, but soon was brought to its feet again by the announcement that the midnight hour being at hand, the delegates and guests would be asked to greet Independence Day by singing "The Star-Spangled Banner," with Mme. Alma Clayburgh, a Metropolitan Opera star, leading. Mme. Clayburgh, as she advanced, took the young airman with her, and they stood side by side while the national anthem was being sung.

The vote on this ballot showed a loss of 21½ votes to McAdoo. The vote of Governor Smith remained the same as on the fifty-eighth ballot. Davis gained 1½ and Ralston also gained a couple of votes on this ballot.

THE SIXTIETH BALLOT.

Chairman Walsh then directed that the roll be called for the sixtieth ballot. The delegates were showing increasing signs of weariness, but there was plenty of evidence that many in the convention hall wanted to keep at it in the hope that there would be a break in either the McAdoo or Smith ranks that would result in a nomination.

As the roll-call proceeded, however, it was evident that there would be little change. The final count, as announced by Chairman Walsh, gave McAdoo 469½, a loss of 4 votes. Smith had 330½, a loss of 1 vote. Senator Ralston's vote was the same as on the preceding ballot. Senator Underwood of Alabama had 42, a gain of 2 votes, and his supporters gave a cheer.

When the count had been announced Delegate Charles Bryan of Memphis jumped on a chair and shouted a motion for adjournment until 1 o'clock today. That was at 12:20 in the morning. There was a great shout in protest, delegates from many sections of the hall voicing a demand that the roll-calls continue.

A delegate from Georgia offered an amendment that adjournment be until 10:30 o'clock. This amendment was voted down, and then the delegates, with much shouting and applauding, voted down the original motion for adjournment.

There was no mistaking the fact that those opposed to adjournment without further balloting had the best of it in this contest of shouting.

"The noes have it and the roll will be called," announced Chairman Walsh, and there was a demonstration of approval for his decision.

THE SIXTY-FIRST BALLOT.

As the sixty-first ballot proceeded, many of the leaders and delegates who had been selected to do missionary work made their way from delegation to delegation. George E. Brennan and William J. Bryan, working on opposite sides of the contest, were among the most active.

When Illinois was reached on the roll the first demonstration of any proportions which had been heard for some time was staged for Governor Smith, who made a gain of 5 votes. There was no parade about the hall, however, and the delegations favorable to Smith were content to wave standards aloft and shout.

There were more cheers when Michigan announced 25 of its 30 votes for Smith. This was the same as in the few preceding ballots, but the Smith supporters found comfort in the fact that ten of these delegates who had at one time earlier in the day voted for McAdoo were now standing fast with Smith.

By 12:45 o'clock the crowds were deserting the balconies and arena tier seats, and the guests' section was no more than half filled. The delegates, men and women alike, were sticking on the job pretty well. As the ballot proceeded, however, and it became apparent that no changes were in sight which would cause a serious break in the forces of McAdoo or Smith, a number of the delegates began to file out of the hall. As this ballot was concluded there were many vacant seats in the delegate sections of the hall.

The sixty-first ballot showed that Governor Smith had advanced to 335½, a gain of 5 votes, and this started the Smith followers cheering. McAdoo just held his own with 469½.

There were shouts for adjournment from several parts of the hall and Chairman Walsh recognized E. H. Moore of Ohio, who came to the speakers' platform and suggested adjournment until 1 o'clock in the afternoon so that there would be time for consultation which might result in arriving at some conclusion. The motion was carried and adjournment taken at 1 o'clock this morning until 1 o'clock in the afternoon.

M'ADOO MEN SUGGEST MEETING ELSEWHERE

Talk of Asking for Adjournment to Another City if Deadlock Keeps Up.

The suggestion that the Democratic National Convention might be adjourned to another city in the event of a prolonged deadlock was discussed last night by leading supporters of William G. McAdoo. Many of Mr. McAdoo's adherents have expressed dissatisfaction with the disorder in the convention hall and the repeated demonstrations from the galleries.

Hollins N. Randolph, Chairman of the Georgia delegation, said that Washington had been suggested as the place for holding an adjourned session and July 20 as the date.

"If there is any more booing from the galleries a motion to adjourn to another city may be made tonight," Mr. Randolph said.

Mr. McAdoo again kept in close touch with the moves in the balloting last night from his headquarters in the Madison Square Hotel. Thomas L. Chadbourne and Colonel Thomas B. Love of Texas were among those with him in the early part of the evening.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 3.—William J. Bryan's influence to effect adjournment of the Democratic National Convention to meet in another city is sought in a telegram to the Commoner sent tonight by John W. Gaines and John A. Pitts, Nashville Democrats.

The message charged the New York galleries with "insulting our party and our nation," and said the delegates were "exhausted and needing time for rest and matured second thought."

SUGGESTS RAISING FUND FOR POORER DELEGATES

Bryan Proposes a Move to Pay Their Expenses—McAdoo Manager Backs It.

Fearful that many of the delegates, embarrassed financially by their unexpectedly long visit to New York, would go home before there is a nomination, William Jennings Bryan brought forward a proposal to raise a general expense fund out of which to pay the expenses of those in distress.

He submitted his plan to David Ladd Rockwell, the McAdoo campaign manager, who approved it, and prepared to lay it before the National Committee.

Mr. Bryan did not announce how the money would be raised, but said he would guarantee that it would be forthcoming if his suggestion were adopted.

LUCKING DEFENDS LEAGUE PLANK

Originator of Referendum Plan Likens His Opponents to Don Quixotes.

SAYS MACHINERY IS READY

He Declares Wilson Prayed for Submission of Question to the People.

Alfred Lucking, a delegate at large from Detroit, member of the Committee on Platform and Resolutions and author of the League of Nations referendum plank embodied in the Democratic platform, yesterday likened the extremists who demanded the Wilson League of Nations idea to Don Quixotes who have much courage but little discretion.

"The objections made to the League referendum are easily answered for all reasonable minds," he continued, "except those who are opposed on principle to all referendums. They don't believe in the people, and we pass them by. First, it is said to be unconstitutional. The answer is simple and conclusive. A compulsory referendum, one requiring the Senate and the President to obey, would be unconstitutional, because they, and they alone, are the treaty making powers, and this cannot be changed except by a constitutional amendment.

"But an advisory referendum provided for by Congress itself, including the Senate as well as the President, is constitutional, and no lawyer of any standing whatever will deny it. The houses of Congress are constantly setting up commissions (like the Tariff Commission) to give advice to Congress, and paying the expenses thereof—and Congress may well and properly provide for getting the advice of the people on this great subject, and when ascertained it would be morally compelling.

"Secondly, it is said that it would cost $50,000,000. This is an absurd conjuring of maliciously disappointed minds. Even if entirely new election machinery of the ordinary kind were necessary, it would not cost as much as a single battleship. But a better and efficient method is at hand which is entirely practical, simple and inexpensive. It has all been worked out with officials of the Government.

"The lists of registered voters will be obtained by the Director of the Referendum (preferably the Director of the Census) and the official notice sent through the mails to each voter at his residence, who is required to mark 'yes' or 'no' in the place provided, sign his name, and insert it in the return envelope provided and drop it in the mail. It goes back to the Director, who preserves all ballots, counts and reports the result to the President and Congress. Every step is protected against fraud from any source, and against neglect or delay by officials, by criminal penalties of the strongest kind. Voting by this method has been practiced by many States for fifty years past in the cases of soldiers away from home, travelers and others. There will be no trouble about it. Where there's a will there's a way.

"Thirdly, it is said that it repudiates Wilson. It is strange how equally sincere people differ. Mr. Wilson openly prayed for 'a solemn referendum' to the people. Mr. Wilson did not build the League for the Democratic Party. He built it for the world and for all the American people. The plank binds the Democratic Party to support the League and challenges all opponents to leave the question to the people, the final source of all power in the Republic. Will our enemies dare to go to the contrary, against leaving it to the people? I predict Mr. Coolidge will not dare to offer any basic objection to the referendum. He may quibble about machinery and the like, but he will not meet the issue squarely and take the negative.

"Fourthly, it is said that the plan means a delay. If the Democratic Party were to win every election for the next six years, it could not put us into the League without Republican support. Why, then, make it impossible for Republicans to support the League?

"Why set all supporters of Mr. Coolidge, many millions of them, voting and working and arguing against the League? It is the height of folly for any true friend of the League to make this a political issue this year.

"Finally, it was said by the opponents of the referendum in the convention that what we needed was courage. Courage is a virtue when accompanied by a measurable degree of discretion and ordinary common sense. It seems to me, if I recollect aright, that Don Quixote had any amount of courage."

July celebration. But both amendment and motion were voted down uproariously and the roll-call proceeded.

When Alabama was called on the sixty-first ballot its Chairman responded with a request for permission to make a parliamentary inquiry. Chairman Walsh ruled him out of order, but he made the inquiry anyway: "What is this ballot for!" Nobody knew. What have any of these sixty-one ballots been for? But he had to go ahead and report his vote and one more ballot was taken with grim determination and to no effect at all. Then the convention adjourned at last.

Earlier the crowd had been so eager to find something to cheer about that a great demonstration was made on the fifty-seventh ballot when ten more Michigan votes switched from McAdoo to Smith.

It was more than counterbalanced immediately by the action of the Mississippi delegates, who came back to McAdoo after voting for several ballots for Senator Ralston of Indiana.

The Chairman of the Mississippi delegation announced the action in Bryanistic and Scriptural language—"The prodigal has returned." Maybe the Mississippians discovered that voting for Ralston meant feeding on the husks that the swine did eat. Anyway the Hoosier statesman, whose prospects looked quite cheerful at one time yesterday afternoon, was not so promising last night.

Louisiana, faithful to John W. Davis for fifty ballots, voted on the fifty-seventh for Mayor Behrman of New Orleans. Great excitement. The friends of every candidate expected confidently that on the next ballot Louisiana would swing to their man, but on the fifty-eighth Louisiana came back to John W. Davis and the Democrats were no nearer a nomination. A few days' voting dreary then we're gathered home. A few more days our bills to pay and then go home to work and play—a few more ballots dreary then we're gathered home. But not yet.

The trouble with this convention seems to be that while all the delegates are desperately determined that somebody shall not be nominated, few of them are determined that somebody shall be nominated.

And the convention has attained its collective object with unusual success. They have beaten not only somebody but everybody, and nobody has got anywhere yet.

Time disappears and eternity steals in as this interminable convention keeps on balloting. The Judgment Day will come with Tom Walsh still pounding his gavel in the Garden, crowds still booing Georgia and cheering Massachusetts, and earnest delegates from Oklahoma or the Canal Zone challenging the report of the vote and demanding a poll of their delegations.

If these assembled Democrats have done nothing to forward the cause of politics they have at least helped settle one of the debated points of philosophy. Metaphysicians have long argued whether time was an entity or a figment of the imagination. It may be regarded as settled, now that this convention is swinging into its tenth day with no nomination, that for Democrats at least time is non-existent.

It speaks well for the improved taste of the New York audiences that the galleries were never more than half full during the long day session. Those who missed some of the twelve ballots of that session were fortunate, and those who missed all of them were more fortunate still.

Stories go around of the fifty-seven ballots, followed by a fight and a secession and two ballots more, when Douglas was nominated at Charleston in 1860, and of an even longer deadlock before the Whigs nominated William Henry Harrison twenty years earlier, back in the simple days when nobody reported national conventions, so the number of ballots remains unknown.

Lest it be thought that there were giants in those days, it must be remarked that there were fewer States then and consequently shorter roll-calls. In 1840 it could not have taken half as long to go through the list of States as it does now, and the delegates also had more native enthusiasm and more accessible liquid enthusiasm to sustain them than they have now.

Such excitement as there was in yesterday's session centred around the second deflation of the McAdoo boom, which has now been punctured twice and again patched up. Next time it blows up they will have to stop the car and change tires. And by the time they have done it somebody else will have run off with the nomination.

A number of unsteady States—Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, North Carolina, Oklahoma—gave the crowd something to get worked up about as they threw their votes about this way and that, abolished the unit rule and then adopted it again, split the delegation and reunited.

North Carolina especially raised false hopes in many candidatorial breasts by passing on each of the last ballots. In each case the delegation solemnly went outside the convention hall to caucus, and delayed the report five minutes. But when the vote was announced it was discovered that North Carolina had passed for the best of reasons, and the delegation failed to create much excitement when it regularly came back in on the draw and then turned out to have nothing better than a three-card flush.

The beginning of the magnification of the Ralston boom kept a few heads busily buzzing during the middle afternoon and much was expected, in vain. When the convention adjourned till night nobody knew yet whether the growth in Ralston's strength was the irresistible march of destiny or merely another futile detour.

Major Candidates Holding Fast Despite Delegates' Restiveness

UNCEASING BALLOTS BENUMB GALLERIES

Din Headquarters Become Dormitories After Fiftieth Polling.

JARRED BY NORTH CAROLINA

Delegation's Passing of a Vote Started Rumor of a Convention Walkout.

The galleries made their greatest demonstration during the afternoon yesterday after the North Carolina delegation announced at the close of the fifty-third ballot that it was not voting. Under the impression that this State was setting the example of dropping the whole matter, the galleries applauded.

Thousands in the upper tier stood up to look down at the North Carolina delegation.

"Are they going to walk out?" was a general question. It was predicted that if one delegation quit, it would stampede the whole convention for the exits.

The crowds in the east galleries remained on their feet for five minutes speculating about the possibility of a general strike by the delegates, when Chairman Walsh gave the North Carolinans another chance. This time, to the sorrow of the galleries, the delegation switched from George Gordon Battle back to McAdoo.

During the early balloting many spectators in the upper circles expressed their feelings by going to sleep. For a time the silence was such that one handclap was an important demonstration. The dormitories were roused for a time on the fifty-first ballot by the breakup of the solid Iowa vote for McAdoo, and by the switch of seven votes to Smith. This sensational development, however, stirred the galleries less than the switch of one vote in Smith's favor two days ago. There was weak applause for a few seconds, but not enough to justify the band in swinging in with "The Sidewalks of New York." When, on the next ballot, Iowa went back to McAdoo, the galleries took no notice.

Give Dark Horses a Chance.

For the first time during the convention it seemed to be a dark horse gallery. Ralston, Robinson, Davis and Glass were applauded nearly as much as Smith. The Smith crowd was resting. Now and then a voice would be raised in rusty falsetto for "Al" Smith, but the Smith throats were hoarse from shouting "We want 'Al' Smith" on the night before.

Another cause of the silence was the number of claque killers who invaded the galleries yesterday to give lessons in discretion to the Smith shouters.

"You're killing Smith's chances," cried the claque killers, every time a Smith demonstration started. One man hurried from row to row megaphoning hoarsely to men who tried to breed demonstrations for Smith.

"You're making them madder and madder down there," he said. "Be nice to them and after a while they'll vote for Smith."

With their impaired throats it was easy for the volunteer demonstrators to accept this advice.

"They're behaving nicely this afternoon," said one of the anti-claquers, "but we're afraid of them tonight. Last night they wouldn't pay any attention to us. We didn't plant any of the roughnecks and we wish we had some way of rooting them out. They're in love with their own voices."

The constant voting for favorite sons and for some very dark horses caused faint moans to run through the galleries. The names of Cox and Saulsbury always produced sounds of pain in the galleries. There was a heartbroken outcry when the spokesman for Ohio broke down the formalities and called his candidate by the first name of "Jim." Calling him "Jim" increased the vote for Cox by four votes, and this bid for popularity was repeated thereafter every time Ohio was called on to ballot.

Smith Gallery Weary.

The apathy in the Smith house was best demonstrated yesterday by the silence which followed a clerical error which robbed him of six votes. Vermont had been steadily voting, seven for Smith, one for McAdoo. On the fiftieth ballot the clerk announced it: "Seven for McAdoo, one for Smith." Earlier in the convention this would have brought the galleries to their feet yelling for their lives. Yesterday afternoon it was not even noticed. After a pause, the clerk corrected the error. The galleries continued in their stupor.

There was a demonstration from the section of the galleries where Mr. and Mrs. George Gordon Battle have been sitting through most of the session when North Carolina paid Battle, a native son of North Carolina, the compliment of casting twenty votes for him on the fiftieth ballot. The Battles were not in their gallery seats at the time. Occasional votes for another New Yorker by adoption—David F. Houston—failed to produce appreciable enthusiasm.

The galleries continued yesterday to watch every change of position and every gesture of their arch-enemy, William Jennings Bryan. All through the afternoon session, groups in the galleries were alarmed by the news that Bryan was whispering into somebody's ear.

"He's over there by Senator Copeland now." "He's chattering to that round-faced man that looks like Joe Tumulty." "He's waving his hand at the North Dakota delegation — what does that mean?" "He's whispering to somebody in the press box." He's mopping his head."

The above and other bulletins concerning the Commoner were circulated through the galleries from moment to moment. Nothing waked up a sleeper so quickly as a rumor that Bryan seemed to be getting ready for another outburst of oratory. Bryan was reported to be wearing a cat-and- canary smile that boded mischief.

SEEKS WAR MOTHER VOTE.

Alvin Owsley Talks of His Canddacy for the Vce Presdency.

Alvin Owsley, 36 years old, former National Commander of the American Legion and a candidate for the Vice Presidency, is said to have behind him 400,000 organized voters who are mothers. Mr. Owsley, speaking of his candidacy yesterday, said:

"If the four and a half million former soldiers and the half million women whose sons were in the war should be attached to the Democratic Party at this time by having a man of their choice run on the ticket the party would gain many members who undoubtedly would remain Democrats for the rest of their days.

"I believe the men who fought in the war and the mothers of those men, as well as the women who took an active part in the war, want a candidate for the Vice Presidency who is young, virile and enthusiastic. These voters are lining up nationally for a candidate, not for a party. It is because I am of the boys who fought, a son who knows the feelings of the mothers who made the wartime sacrifices, that I seek the office."

UNEMPLOYED GREET 'FELLOW COMMONER'

'Old Bucks and Lame Ducks,' Per Urbain Ledoux, Declare for Mr. Bryan.

Many delegates received this note yesterday:

"Dear Sir—At a meeting of the Old Bucks and Lame Ducks Club, held at their headquarters (the Tub, 33 St. Mark's Place, this city, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

"Whereas, our distinguished comrade, William Jennings Bryan, is being politically Oslerized at the National Democratic Convention; and

"Whereas, he is really at the greatest political wisdom point as a statesman; and

"Whereas, he is in need of that sympathetic inner understanding that can only spring from the humble; be it

"Resolved, that we manifest this inner understanding of our brother Commoner by publicly declaring ourselves in favor of his nomination as President of the United States.

"Pursuant to this resolution the Old Bucks and Lame Ducks Club, and other unemployed, will march with banners unfurled from Chatham Square, Lower Bowery, to Madison Square Garden, Friday noon, to present this resolution to the Commoner in person, and tender him the spirit of the meek and lowly of the world.

"At the close of this demonstration food for body and mind will be served.

"Humbly yours,

URBAIN LEDOUX."

URGES OWEN AS CANDIDATE.

Steamship Man Assails McAdoo's Record in Message to Bryan.

Philip Manson, President of the Pacific and Eastern Steamship Company, Inc., sent the following telegram to William Jennings Bryan yesterday:

"By nominating Senator Robert L. Owen for President the Democratic Party has an opportunity of serving the people such as it never nad before. No one has a better record of constructive statesmanship than has Senator Owen. He gave us the Federal Reserve act, and as President he would give us the initiative, referendum and recall, which would end all political corruption. If Senator Owen is nominated his election would be certain. He would receive the total vote of every element of the Democratic Party except the negligible few reactionaries and Wall Street emissaries and he would poll a greater proportion of the non-Democratic vote than any other candidate.

"You must cease advocating McAdoo if you want the Democratic Party to win. His intimate relations with that notorious ex-convict, Charles W. Morse, and his relations with others of character more or less similar to that of Morse, takes McAdoo out of the question as a candidate for any public office, much less that of President of the United States, regardless of the fact that the colossal fees he received from Doheny would make his candidacy impossible if he had any sense of public decency. That any one high enough in the Democratic Party to obtain a nation-wide hearing sponsors McAdoo's candidacy shows how low this country has fallen politically. I thought the Republican Party had sunk to the lowest possible depths, but the McAdoo candidacy gives that dubious distinction to the Democratic Party.

"When McAdoo was Secretary of the Treasury he had full knowledge from me of the looting and deliberate mismanagement in the Shipping Board, as a result of which over $4,000,000,000 of the taxpayers' money was stolen, squandered and needlessly wasted. I have a mass of evidence to prove this. Instead of stopping this unconscionable looting and studied and deliberate mismanagement, he awaited a favorable opportunity to resign his high office as Secretary of the Treasury and got busy making money in ways that no good citizen wants to associate with the Presidency. In 1920 McAdoo, after conferences with Bernard Baruch, withdrew as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for President, fearing to face exposure and meet attack on the matter of his relations with Morse. It is to be seen if the Democratic Party has now fallen so low as to nominate him."

LABOR AGAINST RALSTON.

Leaders Become Active When Senator's Vote Begins to Rise.

The steady rise of Samuel Ralston yesterday as one of the possible dark horses for the Presidential nomination caused considerable scurrying about in the labor camp.

P. J. O'Brien, Vice President of the Amalgamated Association of Street Car Employes, who was conducting a strike of trolleymen at Atlantic City, came to New York, and his arrival coincided with a drive by the labor men against Ralston's candidacy. It was reported that O'Brien had been sent for by prominent labor leaders in an effort to attempt to head off Ralston's possible nomination.

O'Brien was in charge of a strike of street railway workers in Indianapolis some years ago when Ralston was Governor, and, according to the union officials, the Governor ordered out the militia an hour after he had promised not to do so.

About 200 labor leaders in New York working for the Vice Presidential candidacy of Major George L. Berry met last night at the Hotel Aberdeen and reported the result of their talks with delegates to the convention. Hugh Frayne was Chairman. The labor leaders said more than 600 delegates had agreed to support Major Berry if a Southerner did not get the nomination for first place.

Labor men yesterday criticized the action of some Congressmen who have been booming Senator Royal S. Copeland for second place. These Congressmen are said to have told their friends that Copeland would greatly strengthen the chances of their re-election in the Fall.

A large number of labor leaders who have been here since the convention began left for Cleveland last night to attend the Conference for Progressive Political Action.

TOLD TO STICK TO McADOO.

Nevada Advised Not to Swing to Smith by Scrugham.

A story was in circulation late yesterday afternoon that the Nevada delegation had been receiving telegrams from home suggesting that it would be wise for the delegates to drop their allegiance to Mr. McAdoo and vote for Governor Smith. According to Senator D. J. Fitzgerald, Chairman of the delegation, there was no truth in the story.

"The only telegram I have received," he said, "came from the Governor of the State, and I am sure none of the other delegates received telegrams of the sort referred to or they would have told me. Here is the telegram from Governor Scrugham":

> Respectfully urge that Nevada delegation stay with Mr. McAdoo to finish. With possible exception Reno, Democrats of Nevada appear to be almost unanimous in their desire for nomination of Mr. McAdoo as firm friend of West. Convey my regards to Nevada delegation.

"We have every intention of following the suggestion conveyed in the telegram," said Senator Fitzgerald.

On the 55th ballot, taken when the night session opened, Nevada continued to give all its 6 votes to Mr. McAdoo.

DELEGATES GUESTS OF FOUR EXCHANGES

Curb Market Joins in Welcome to Convention Visitors.

SCORES VIEW THE TRADING

Cities and Towns in All Parts of the Country Represented in Wall Street.

Wall Street again proved an attraction to the delegates to the National Democratic Convention and their friends yesterday. The Stock Exchange, the Cotton Exchange, the Consolidated Exchange and the Curb Exchange entertained more than a hundred guests during the day.

Among the visitors at the New York Stock Exchange were Mr. and Mrs. K. E. Knidson, Lincoln, Neb.; Theodore Warner, Gillette, N. Y.; Harry Elder, Trenton, Tenn.; J. A. Latimer, Williston, S. C.; David J. Gordon, Platteville, Wis.; W. G. Johnson, Chicago; E. G. Master, Oklahoma City; Mrs. John McSorley, Mrs. A. S. Galland, Leona Davis and Miss Mary Galland, Columbia, S. C.; Margaret B. Hart and Mrs. R. M. Brougher, Portland, Ore.; E. H. Smith, New York City; Mrs. Nora B. Wright and Kate Kane, Denver; Jane Ash and Justine J. Roseman, Washington, D. C.; J. M. McConnell and James McConnell, St. Paul; Carrie M. Drake, Fort Dodge, Iowa.

Visitors at the Cotton Exchange included L. P. Gliddens, Montgomery, Ala.; D. B. Bullard, Palmetto, Ga.; E. A. Tigner, Milledgeville, Ga.; F. M. Peare, Hiawatha, Kan.; W. S. Ridens, Newbern, Tenn.; Harvey R. Teague, Ridgeley, Tenn.; Vincent H. Beekman, Cincinnati, Ohio; S. G. Neville, Ripley, Tenn.; B. Goodman, Memphis, Tenn.; F. B. Howarth, Southampton, England; G. R. Ellison, Maryville, Mo.; J. B. Shandon, Kansas City, Mo.; G. A. Dailey, Baltimore, Md.; B. F. Shields, Taylorville, Ky.; R. C. Simmons, Covington, Ky.; J. W. Colyer, Somerset, Ky.; Mrs. Mary Echols, Birmingham, Ala.; C. E. Thomas, Prattville, Ala.; J. L. Edwards, Tuma, Ariz.

Those who watched the operations at the Consolidated Stock Exchange were: Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Flora and Charles C. Flora, Watertown, Mass.; Rudolph Rebold, New Zealand; Hugh Taylor, Bellefontaine, O.; Sadye Gordon, Chicago; Clemens Havemeyer and David Levy, Cincinnati; F. J. Fagan, Yonkers; Mrs. Irene E. Freas and H. E. Freas, Philadelphia; C. Hohnson, San Francisco; G. E. Fox, Yokohama, Japan; Charles J. Cotter, Erie, Pa.; J. Lopez and Frank Kornider, Brazil; G. R. Staikoff, Philippine Islands; Thelma Tomlinson, Newark, Ohio; Edward Moffet, Johnstown, Pa.; Nathan S. Brening, Hartford, Conn.; H. S. Baylis, Brent, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Crone, Cincinnati; Olive Rainly, Detroit; Pearl G. Holly and Ruby G. Holly, Holyoke, Mass.; Theresa I. Dasey, Cecilia M. McCann and Mr. and Mrs. J. Middleton, Boston; G. A. Pierre, Polo, Miss.; Anne R. Clarke and Bell Daugherty, Liberty, Miss.; Hunter Whitesell, Union City, Tenn.; T. Sullivan, Providence, R. I.; Sha Motheah, Madras, India.

The Curb Market was visited by delegates from Alabama, California and Montana. The Curb Market will continue open to delegates, alternates and their friends during the remainder of the convention.

Kansas Woman Jolts Home Paper.

The most trustful woman in the convention is one from Kansas, who, without orders, sent her personal impressions of the convention to her home paper, 1,500 words, collect, at the time of day when telegraph tolls were the highest.

Survivors of Convention Will Get Bonus After Six Years, Says Will Rogers

By WILL ROGERS.

I am in favor of taking the platform and making a motion that the convention adjourn and let the election go by default.

This thing has got to come to an end. These delegates and visitors may not know it, but right where they are sitting and sleeping every day is New York's municipal swimming hole.

Summer is on us here and you visitors are depriving New York of their annual bath.

I suggested to Tex Rickard, who runs the Garden (when Taggart, Mack and Brennan art not here), that he turn the water on during the balloting. I think the delegates would welcome a bath while here.

I met an old man on the street yesterday with a long beard. He could remember when this thing started.

New York invited you people here as guests, not to live.

One delegation told me yesterday that they either had to move to more modest quarters or to a more liberal candidate.

These halves, and quarters and eighths and sixteenths of delegates make it awful hard for a buyer to get to all of them. You may buy off fifteen and the fellow who controls the sixteenth will try and hold you up and you are stuck.

In years to come children will say, "Father, were you in the big war?" and father will say, "No, son, but I went through the New York convention."

In six years the people of the United States will be paying a bonus to the delegates who survived this convention.

And the tough part of it is that it is not like the convention that you read about in the papers sixty-four years ago that had to move from Charleston to Baltimore. They can't move this one. They have tried it and no other town will take it. A second-hand convention is one of the hardest things to get rid of in the world.

For instance, why should Claremore, Okla. (the best town on Dog Creek), bind themselves to sit day after day and listen to: "Alabama, twenty-four votes. Alabama, twenty-four votes for Oscar W. Underwood. Total votes cast 1,098. Necessary to elect, 732. No one having received the required two-thirds, the secretary will call the roll again."

If any of you feel badly at not having been able to attend, why there is your convention right in those last few lines above.

If Alabama changes her vote we will never find it out, for just through force of habit they will say "Underwood" for days to come.

But she will run at least another week, for Bryan is going to make another speech.

Today is the Fourth of July. I suppose somebody will read the Declaration of Independence, and then Alabama will vote twenty-four for Underwood instead of Thomas Jefferson.

After it is read, somebody will bring in a minority report on it.

Some one prayed again today at the opening. But they are beginning to lose interest even in prayer, as none of their prayers up to now have been answered.

Oh, what a bone-headed move I made by signing up with the papers to write this convention for so much for the whole thing. I have spent more in taxi fares and lead pencils than I have been paid. The next one I will be smart enough to get paid by the month.

I have a nominating speech that I want to take the platform and make, but Bryan has blocked my every move. He is jealous of two monologuists going on the same bill. You have to have unanimous consent to be allowed to speak and I have all the thousand and ninety-seven votes—all but Bryan's. The Democratic Party has got to start breaking in some younger man to take Bryan's place in a few years. So why don't they take me.

But I guarantee you one thing, my friends. While I may never be able to put my man before the convention personally, I am going to do exactly like Bryan and devote the rest of my time to keeping the other fellow down if he shows his head and also to keeping W. J. Bryan off that platform. Because, in naming two dozen candidates yesterday, he failed to mention my name. You may have noticed me with a bundle under my arm. Well, that was my rope, and if he rises to speak on a point of order he exits via the rope.

The thing has just got to break pretty soon, as the women delegates' badges are wearing holes through their shirt waists and the convention will turn into an exposure in two more days.

Another reason I know it can't last much longer is that the women who sit in front, on the speakers' platform, are about to run out of different hats to wear.

They would rather lose the election than wear the same hit twice.

Princess Bibesco, with a bright red one on yesterday, was all that kept the Oklahoma men delegates from bolting the convention.

I am sitting at my typewriter sound asleep, but I can still write "Alabama twenty-four for Oscar W. Underwood." That is better known right now in this building than the Lord's Prayer.

The Secretary will call the roll again.

DANIELS HAS A "HUNCH."

Expects Nomination Today in Honor of Thomas Jefferson.

"I have a 'hunch' that a Presidential candidate will be nominated tomorrow, the Fourth of July, in honor of Thamas Jefferson," Josephus Daniels, former Secretary of the Navy, said last night.

Not having any "hunch" as to the candidate Mr. Daniels said he was unable to make any declaration on the matter.

"Of course, the man with the most votes always has the best chance, but many claim a dark horse will eventually be chosen," said Mr. Daniels, "who that dark horse is, who can get as many votes as McAdoo or Smith is the big question right now."

HOW AISLES ARE PACKED.

One Gateman Was Induced to Admit 2,000 Without Tickets.

This may explain one reason why the convention aisles have frequently been full of ticketless persons. An attaché of one camp boasted that he put forty-nine persons without tickets through a gate by having them mention the name of his leader.

Another complained that his favorite gateman had been let out. "And I hadn't sent more than 2,000 persons to him with my card," he moaned.

RIVALS MEET BY CHANCE.

McAdoo and Saulsbury Take Same Elevator in Hotel.

Two rival candidates met inadvertently yesterday in an elevator in the Madison Square Hotel.

Friends of Mr. McAdoo arranged a room for him on the sixth floor of the hotel, where he would be near the scene of action. When he came to the hotel to go to the room efforts were made to sidetrack reporters and members of rival camps who were in the lobby. The McAdoo party walked to the second floor and on entering the elevator found former Senator Willard Saulsbury of Delaware in the car. There was a tense moment until the two candidates smiled, shook hands and passed pleasantries.

The McAdoo party got off at the fifth floor and walked up another flight of stairs to the McAdoo room on the sixth floor. Later a larger room was obtained on the second floor.

Booms Hylan for Vice-President.

A boom for Mayor John F. Hylan for Vice President was initiated yesterday by Frederick A. Wallis, Commissioner of Corrections, an ardent McAdoo supporter. Commissioner Wallis is the only city official affiliated in any way with Tammany Hall who has openly worked for McAdoo in preference to Smith. He has spent much time in the McAdoo headquarters and is said to be a close friend of the Californian. Under the Wilson Administration he was Commissioner of Immigration.

NIGHT ACTIVITY ROUSES DELEGATES

gation was over the question of what would happen to the unit rule if a tie vote was shown.

When Iowa broke up for one ballot and disclosed seven Smith votes in that delegation there was a real demonstration for a little while. It came largely from the galleries, but the Smith delegates on the floor participated. However, even then the delegates seemed to lack ginger.

That the constant call of the roll was wearing them down was clear. They are hearing from home, too. One man complained bitterly that his absence was causing him a heavy loss and showed friends telegrams to bear out his statement.

Any number of personal telegrams were delivered during the morning session. There were telegrams, too, of a different sort. One man in the Iowa delegation received a telegram suggesting that he vote for Thomas Riley Marshall of Indiana and settle the whole thing. He laughed when he read it.

State Chairman Farris, sitting in the Missouri delegation, has been bombarded with telegrams from railroad employes. He received over sixty, which were of the same purport, many of them having the same wording. All are to the effect that the delegation should continue to vote for McAdoo. It was clear from the number of telegrams and the identical wording that the bombardment was inspired.

The Committee on Rumors was very busy on the floor, but even the rumors failed to interest the delegates. One constant report was to the effect that a resolution would be offered proposing the wiping off the slate of all but three top names, then McAdoo, Smith and Ralston. Another report was that a proposal would be made to lop off the low man on every ballot.

Occasionally these reports would create a little flurry among leaders, and in the New York delegation at one time there was a great searching of the rules of the House of Representatives for precedents. Nothing came of the reports at that session, however.

The Virginia delegation was in a turmoil for an hour or so after the opening of the session. The night before the report was current that the McAdoo managers were trying to get Glass to release Virginia, hoping to bring that State and Arkansas into line for McAdoo and thereby reach a majority.

The Virginians, however, denied that they would depart from their favorite son's cause. But it was stated by some that Senator Glass had released the delegation. It was also stated that any move to turn the delegation over as a unit to another candidate would result in a break-up.

A report was circulated among the delegates in the day session of the convention that "Jet" Bowman, of Jacksonville, the one Smith supporter in the Florida delegation, had received threatening communications from persons in his native State as a result of his persistence in voting for the Governor.

Bowman admitted that he had received six telegrams, but declared that none of them contained threats.

"Four of them were from political enemies in Jacksonville who opposed me in my election as a delegate and whom I would not expect to say a kind word in my behalf no matter what way I voted," he said. "The others were from strangers who commended me for my independence."

T. J. Appleyard of Tallahassee, who has been voting for Senator Ralston, said that he also had received several telegrams in connection with his refusal to support McAdoo in the delegation. He said one of the telegrams was signed with the names of six persons, all of whom he knew and who he did not believe would take him to account for asserting his voting privilege. "I believe that some political enemies down in Tallahassee sent this telegram," he said.

Bowman and Appleyard were seated beside one another in the delegation and did not deny the Jacksonville delegate's statement that Appleyard was ready to vote for Governor Smith "when the right time came."

"This delegation is equally divided on McAdoo and Smith," Bowman said. "Besides Appleyard and myself there are four other delegates here who want to vote for Smith but who are afraid to come out openly for him at this time."

Ralston Too Busy to Listen As Radio Records His Gains

INDIANAPOLIS, July 3.—Senator Samuel M. Ralston did not take time today to listen to the proceedings of the Democratic National Convention over his radio, but he was apprised of his gain in votes for the Presidential nomination on the forty-ninth and subsequent ballots by his secretary, Richard T. Buchanan.

Mr. Ralston offered no comment as his total mounted, Mr. Buchanan said, but the latter added that the Senator was "not displeased." Mr. Ralston remained in the study of his farm home while neighbors, relatives and newspaper men congregated in the living room and listened to the radio.

WORKER BUT NOT DELEGATE

Man Sitting With Georgia Delegation Had Another's Credentials.

A man who said he was B. H. Sullivan of Atlanta, Ga., who had been sitting in the Georgia delegation with the badge and credentials of Miller Bell of Milledgeville, Ga., was questioned at length yesterday by the Sergeant-at-Arms of the convention.

Mr. Sullivan's activities on the floor were so much more marked than those of others that he was taken in for examination. It developed that the badge and credentials were not his and that he had no official standing in the convention. He explained that he was "working for McAdoo."

After officials had talked with him he was permitted to return to the Georgia delegation as a guest, but was warned against interfering with the voting. He said he had not done so to date.

Rumors were circulated during the day that delegates were being enticed away from their seats and dummies were replacing them, but nothing was found to confirm them.

JEERED McADOO BACKERS.

Two Women Are Arrested in Hotel for Excessive Ardor.

Two women were arrested in the lobby of the Hotel Vanderbilt, Thirty-fourth Street and Park Avenue, yesterday morning charged with abusing McAdoo delegates. They were warned not to be so violent in their political activities and sentences were suspended by Magistrate Thomas F. McAndrews in Yorkville Court.

The women said they were Mrs. Eleanor Johnson, 32 years old, a widow, of Elmwood Avenue, New Rochelle, and Miss May Jones of 30 Franklin Street, Worcester, Mass. Daniel Lyons, house detective of the Vanderbilt, insisted that Mrs. Johnson had been in the hotel lobby for four days calling McAdoo delegates "dirty rats and yellow dogs." Mrs. Johnson denied it and testified that she was a McAdoo supporter and an old friend of the candidate and had had a conference with him two days ago. Miss Jones denied she had abused any one.

SAVE CARS FOR DELEGATES.

Railroads Ready to Rush Them Home When Convention Ends.

Despite the unusually heavy Fourth of July traffic at Pennsylvania Station and Grand Central Terminal, railroad officials said yesterday they were prepared to give special attention to homeward-bound convention delegates if the convention ends before the holiday rush is over.

Enough cars are being held out at both railroad terminals to make up special trains to start the delegates home within a few hours after they make reservations.

him until the end. They predicted that Smith delegates would be voting for him next week.

Governor Smith expects Mr. McAdoo to be forced to withdraw soon by a slump in his following to less than one-third of the votes required for the nomination, and the Smith forces then will pick up delegates from the shattered McAdoo units and start on the final drive for victory.

Managers of the Smith campaign devoted all their attention yesterday to coaxing delegates from the Californian. The Smith forces declared that they would not develop the full strength of their candidate until Mr. McAdoo was definitely out of the race.

Once this situation has come about, and the Smith men look for it on any ballot, a concerted effort will be made to run the Governor beyond the majority point. As to what will happen after that in order to get the necessary two-thirds majority, none of the Smith leaders will venture a guess.

Word was brought to the Smith camp during the day that many McAdoo delegates, tied up by the unit rule, would vote for Smith if ever they were released from their McAdoo obligations, because they had become convinced that McAdoo couldn't get the nomination and were equally sure that Governor Smith could be elected if he did get the nomination. It is this propaganda, that Smith could carry the large Eastern States in November, that is beginning to have an effect upon the delegates committed to some one else.

Smith Seeks a Showdown.

The Smith men would like to go into a conference with all the leaders and show just why Governor Smith can be elected if he gets the nomination. If the various conferences that followed yesterday afternoon's adjournment produce no result in ending the deadlock the Smith men will ask for a showdown on the strength of all the candidates. They believe they can convince any body of disinterested Democrats that Smith is the one candidate mentioned so far who has a fighting chance of election.

When a Smith leader was asked yesterday where he expected to get enough votes to carry the Governor over the majority line in the event McAdoo eventually is put out of the race he replied that there were enough Smith votes in the various delegations to accomplish this. He cited Maryland, Illinois, Pennsylvania and Iowa. The fact that Iowa on its one ballot during the day when the unit rule was broken had disclosed 7½ votes for Smith was cited as proof that the Smith votes were to be had if they could be reached.

The Smith managers did not lose any of their confidence yesterday. The Governor himself, at the Manhattan Club, where he is personally directing operations, said he was more sure than ever that the result would be satisfactory to him, and he gave every evidence of thoroughly enjoying the tussle with Mr. McAdoo.

As soon as the Governor reached the Manhattan Club he went into conference with George Brennan of Illinois, who is directing the Smith strategy, and later said that the situation was unchanged and that all was well. A few minutes later Norman E. Mack, New York National Committeeman, joined the Governor, and when he left to go over to the convention hall he said the Smith forces showed no signs of a break and there would be no compromise.

"There has been no compromise talked of at all," said Mr. Mack. "We are standing firm. A compromise will only lead us into a compromise with five candidates in the lead instead of two as at present."

After the afternoon adjournment the Governor, Mr. Brennan, Thomas Taggart of Indiana, Mr. Mack and other Smith leaders held a conference in the Governor's rooms at the Biltmore. It continued until it was time for the leaders to go to the night session of the convention.

Judge David Ladd Rockwell, McAdoo's campaign manager, said his man would remain in the fight to the last.

Judge Rockwell declared that the McAdoo delegates were standing firm, asserted that the delegations which left Mr. McAdoo during the day and reduced his vote from 505 to 427 on the last ballot of the early session would all return when wanted, and that it was still certain that Mr. McAdoo would receive a vote of more than a majority in the near future and ultimately would be nominated.

Judge Rockwell revealed that the McAdoo leaders had considered seriously a proposal to adopt a resolution providing that the one candidate of those placed formerly in nomination receiving the smallest vote on each ballot should be dropped, so as to narrow down the race and release the vote to "favorite sons."

The McAdoo leaders thought so well of this suggestion that Gavin McNab of California drafted such a resolution. Judge Rockwell said the matter had been held in abeyance at the request of William J. Bryan, who wanted more time to study the proposal.

Earlier in the day Mr. McAdoo sent a letter to the Chairman of each delegation supporting him, thanking the delegates for their support, urging them to stand firm and declaring there was no reason why the progressive forces, which he said were in the majority in the convention, should surrender to the minority.

Mr. McAdoo, while the convention was in session, occupied his headquarters in the Madison Square Hotel. There was considerable interest in a visit of Thomas L. Chadbourne, one of his principal supporters, to Governor Smith at the Manhattan Club next door. The visit of Mr. Chadbourne was taken to indicate the possibility of some overtures to the Governor, but Mr. Chadbourne explained that he was a friend of Governor Smith and that his visit was personal and not political.

"Is there any change in your campaign plans?" Judge Rockwell was asked in an interview at the McAdoo headquarters in the Hotel Vanderbilt.

"None," he replied. "I can only emphasize what I said last night, and that was that we were going to stick.

"The opposition to Mr. McAdoo has made no progress. The leaders opposed to him came here with the idea that a few bosses were going to determine the nomination. They underestimated the strength of the McAdoo campaign, which elected delegates to come here and nominate him. Their tactics have made zealots of the McAdoo delegates, who will stick to him until they nominate him.

"Contrast our organization of this character with the opposition. The only reason those opposed to McAdoo have been able to stand firm is because they have two or three big delegations, trained by Tammany and similar political organizations, and made up largely of machine-made delegates. Strip the opposition of the 88 votes from New York and the votes from two other States I could mention, and the anti-McAdoo movement would disintegrate.

"On the other hand, the McAdoo forces have withstood more persistent and vicious attacks than ever were made on any delegates at any other convention. Our delegates have stood up better than any others I ever knew. This is an indication that they are going to continue to do so."

Discussing the proposed resolution to eliminate the low man on each ballot, Judge Rockwell said the suggestion had seemed popular and that he had heard at least a hundred delegates favored it, as soon as they heard of it, as the only thing to do.

"It was proposed by this method to eliminate those candidates who had been placed formally in nomination and had their run," Judge Rockwell said. "This would give Mr. McAdoo and Governor Smith opportunity to develop their real strength, which many think has not yet been fully displayed.

"There were parliamentary difficulties, but a resolution was prepared by Gavin McNab of California, Later Mr. Bryan approached me and said that, while he would not say he was irrevocably opposed to such a resolution, he would like to give the matter further consideration. The resolution was abandoned for the time at Mr. Bryan's wish."

Mr. Bryan indicated to a reporter of THE NEW YORK TIMES that he was more definitely opposed to the resolution than Judge Rockwell had said.

George E. Brennan, leader of the anti-McAdoo forces, said he was opposed to it.

"This convention must be run under the rules that have existed," Mr. Brennan said. "It is too late to change the rules of the game now."

It was recalled that a similar resolution was offered at the Democratic National Convention at San Francisco four years ago, when Mr. McAdoo, James M. Cox and A. Mitchell Palmer, then Attorney General, were in apparently hopeless deadlock. That resolution was defeated by a vote of approximately four to one.

"The thought I have in this matter is this," Judge Rockwell said in discussing the proposed elimination resolution. "If you add the votes received by Mr. McAdoo and Governor Smith you get about 800. In these two camps there are more than enough votes for the nomination. It is perfectly apparent that the 'favorite son' candidates are tying up the convention."

"Have you received any reply to an offer to give Governor Smith the nomination for Vice President?" Judge Rockwell was asked.

"We never made any such offer," he replied. "We have not even considered any one for second place on the ticket. We have no thought of compromising."

Judge Rockwell denied that either he or Mr. McAdoo had made any direct attempt to get any of the "favorite son" candidates, particularly Senator Robinson of Arkansas and Senator Glass of Virginia, to withdraw, but admitted that such efforts might have been made by friends.

He registered an emphatic denial to a question as to whether Mr. McAdoo had been asked to release his delegates.

"It is ludicrous to suggest such a thing," Judge Rockwell said. "Mr. McAdoo has been the leading and outstanding candidate from the first ballot. Why expect the strongest to yield to the weakest or the weaker?"

"Then you are going to stick?" he was asked.

"Absolutely," he replied, "I have just come from a meeting of our leading workers. They were of one mind absolutely, to stick to our guns to the last. Like General Grant, we are going to fight it out on this line if it takes all Summer."

When informed that Governor Smith had made exactly the same statement two days ago Judge Rockwell smiled and added, "With apologies to Governor Smith.'"

Estimates 508 Shock Troops.

"Then no one has approached you or Mr. McAdoo with a proposal to end the deadlock by the retirement of both Mr. McAdoo and Governor Smith?"

"We would be the men to approach, but no one has approached me. I would fear for the man who would venture to approach Mr. McAdoo with such a proposal. He would have to have a lot of effrontery."

Judge Rockwell then estimated Mr. McAdoo's absolute strength in the convention at more than 500.

"I should say 507 or 508 'shock troops,' to say nothing of the reserves," he said.

"Then some of these 'shock troops' are temporarily absent and will return?" he was asked.

"Haven't you seen them do it?" Judge Rockwell rejoined. "Some of the old guard wouldn't even consider leaving us even for one ballot.

"Here is what you will see. There will be an attempt to run up first one and then another. I wouldn't say that Senator Ralston was eliminated in the balloting today, but his showing of strength didn't put him in a class with Mr. McAdoo or Governor Smith. I am not underestimating Senator Ralston's popularity, especially with the progressive forces. You have noticed, haven't you, that Mr. Taggart is not playing w... the opposition leaders?"

"Then your losses during the day were more apparent than real?"

"Absolutely," replied Judge Rockwell, "we can get them back."

Judge Rockwell said the McAdoo delegates, though many of them were anxious to get home, were not complaining. "There is no resentment among our delegates," he said. "They are proud of the showing our troops have made. The bitter opposition to them has only made them more zealous soldiers in the cause.

"They are willing to stay here until Mr. McAdoo is nominated, but they are eager for action. We have now passed the fiftieth ballot. Many problems confront us, the problems of expense and absence from home and business. We have got to meet the problems. We believe we have the solution—stand firm for McAdoo and let those opposed to him come over to us and nominate him."

Delegates were said to have received a flood of telegrams from home, urging them to stand firm for McAdoo. Many telegrams were received by the Ohio delegation, urging them to break and vote for McAdoo, and each of the Ohio delegates received a letter postmarked New York and signed "K. K. K.," directing them to vote for McAdoo or not to go home. Doubt was expressed that these letters were actually sent out by the Klan.

Friends of Mr. McAdoo complained that members of the New York entertainment committees had offered to pay the hotel bills of several McAdoo delegates.

The Chairmen of some of the McAdoo delegates took steps to relieve the financial stringency among the delegates by arranging to have their checks cashed, and in some instances to lend money on notes.

In his letter to the Chairman of the delegations supporting him, urging his followers to stand firm, Mr. McAdoo said:

"Your fine delegation fought a splendid battle yesterday and I want you and them to know again how deeply I appreciate their continued support and how warmly I admire their courageous stand.

"We can win this fight if the progressive lines hold firm. The tactics of our opponents are, of course, to try to wear us out, but this is just as impossible as to change the significance of July 4th. The opposition cannot maintain a merely obstructive position. The strength we have manifested entitles us to victory, and this fact will impress itself upon all fair-minded delegates in the convention with the progress of even this.

"It is not reasonable to expect the progressive forces, which so largely control this convention, to capitulate to the minority. This would not be democracy.

"I shall appreciate it if you will convey these expressions of my gratitude and appreciation to our friends on your delegation."

NO ANTI-M'ADOO PRESSURE.

Only One of Four Loyal Delegations Has Been "Bothered."

Judge David L. Rockwell, McAdoo's campaign manager, having said that pressure had been brought to bear on the McAdoo delegates to abandon their candidate, inquiry was made last night of the chairmen of four of the largest of the McAdoo delegations, those from Missouri, Texas, Oregon and Georgia. At the time three of these delegations were still voting solidly for McAdoo. The other, that from Missouri, had swung over to Ralston during the day, but later last night went back to McAdoo.

Former Governor Frederick D. Gardner, of St. Louis, Chairman of the Missouri delegation, was asked whether there had been any pressure brought to bear on the delegation to desert McAdoo. He answered:

"None at all. The pressure was all the other way. Of course, we have received a lot of telegrams, but most of them urged our staying with McAdoo. There have been personal telegrams, of course, to may of the delegates from friends suggesting all sorts of things. But there was no concerted effort to swing this delegation away from McAdoo. No, we have not been argued with by delegates from other States, though, of course, some men with friends in other delegations have talked the matter over with them. I have seen nothing to lead me to believe there was any real pressure being brought to bear on us from the outside. Inside the delegation, as every one knows, there are people who are not for McAdoo and, of course, there is discussion more or less all the time."

Marshall Hicks, Chairman of the Texas delegation, which has cast its forty votes for McAdoo from the first without the slightest variation, said:

"Pressure? Not a bit of it. The only pressure from the outside or anywhere else came from a man in the Arkansas delegation, who came over and asked me how long we were going to go on voting for McAdoo. I told him we would vote that way until Mr. McAdoo personally released us. He asked me, 'Where will you go then!' and I answered, 'We will go to whomever Mr. McAdoo tells us to go.' If that is pressure then pressure has been brought to bear, but I hardly think I would call an inquiry like that pressure."

"Sure, pressure has been brought to bear," said George A. Marshall, chairman of the Oregon delegation, another solid McAdoo aggregation. "People are coming over here all the time asking our folks to vote for some one else. We have driven some of them out, but others are trying to worm their way in all the time. Women are the hardest to get rid of."

"And do you think that was a case of individuals seeking to influence your delegates for their candidates or was it part of a concerted effort to swing you away from McAdoo?" he was asked.

"Oh, it is all part of this New York propaganda," said Mr. Marshall.

Hollins Randolph, Chairman of the Georgia delegation, said:

"Yes, I would say that pressure had been brought to bear to get us to leave McAdoo, but it won't do any good. I don't know, though, whether I would call it pressure, exactly. People have come over here and talked to us, argued with us and that sort of thing, but it hasn't made any difference and it couldn't make any difference. No, I don't think it was part of a concerted effort to get us to swing away from McAdoo. I think it was individual partisanship on the part of those who came to us and who wanted to help some other candidate."

WOMEN THREATEN A REVOLT AT DELAY

Seek a Spokesman to Take Floor and Demand an End of the Manoeuvring.

WANT LEADERS TO QUIT

If Smith and McAdoo Withdrew They Could Nominate and Go Home to Make Currant Jelly.

The revolt against the delay in naming a Presidential candidate was incubating last night among the women delegates and alternates and the officials of the women's organizations interested in the convention. Although the women assert they will stick to the end of the convention, they have lost patience over what they call the devious ways in which the male are politicians manipulating the convention with the result that the deadlock is not broken and the delegates stay on.

A move was definitely under way last night to get some woman deelgate who would be "brave" enough to get up on the floor of the convention today and tell the men what the women think of their methods.

The women who are leading the movement believe that a woman speaker should rise and say that as women are a unit in advocating world peace, so they should be a unit in urging peace in the convention and an end to the deadlock. Then they hope to have fixed things so that the woman speaker can say the women are organized to secure an end of the balloting today and a return home.

Want Smith and McAdoo to Quit.

"What really ought to be done is for McAdoo and Smith to appear on the platform together," said one of the leaders in the movement last night, "and shake hands, admitting they are both defeated, and then withdraw and let us get to nominating a candidate. But of course they won't do that. It would be against the precedents that the men seem to worship so much, in the first place, and in the second it would be a common-sense thing to do. Then we could get down to business.

"When women first got the vote we asserted that our entrance into politics would help to do away with some of the threadbare scheming for manipulating politics that has been used from time immemorial. It is just the sort of thing that is being done in this convention. The politicians are using it to prolong the convention in the interest of various candidates, and the women are helpless—along with a lot of the men. If the men won't do anything about it, we hope to be able to."

The sharp feeling among the women against the delay received concrete expression last night in a caucus of the Ohio delegation held in the Waldorf at 7 o'clock. Mrs. Bernice S. Pyke, who is National Committeewoman from Ohio, though not a delegate, made a few remarks to the delegates in which she criticized the procedure.

"If women were in control of this convention," she said in her speech, "we would have nominated a candidate long ago and every one would be on his way home long since."

After the caucus, she explained what was in her mind to a mere man.

"Every good housekeeper knows," she said, "that these days are the best in all the year to make currant jelly. We women shouldn't be wasting all this time dangling at the heels of political leaders who are trying to manipulate things for candidates. We should be at home making our currant jelly."

Seek a Woman to Say It.

The women leaders who are trying to arrange this feminine protest at masculine convention methods have high hopes they will be able to persuade one of their sex to take the floor in its behalf, though they realize it will take courage for a woman to appear for the first time at a national convention in the rôle of a critic. Those who watched the fate of William J. Bryan the other night are giving some thought to what might happen. However, they feel the convention will listen to a woman, especially since their sex has been so conspicuously self-effacing in the proceedings so far. They have two or three specifically in mind who could perform the difficult task and they are confident they can persuade one to undertake it.

Many women delegates have run short of funds and have had to move to cheaper quarters and eat in smaller restaurants. More than a score of them would have had to go home if they had not been provided for by New York women Democrats. A group of New York Democratic women who have been quietly working on the problem cleared up the twenty-fifth case of the kind yesterday. The work has had to be done very tactfully, both because of the personal relations of the women themselves and because it might have been said that political motives governed the action. In arranging for hospitality for these women no consideration whatever has been given to the candidate they espouse.

Eye Strain Afflicts Delegates.

Eye strain, attributed largely to the glare of the strong arc lights used during convention sessions, has caused more complaints to the Garden hospital than any other ailment. More than 120 persons have been treated in the hospital in the last ten days.

RALSTON MOVES UP TO SMITH IN BETS

Bulk of the Money Wagered Yesterday Went Down on Ralston and Ritchie.

Odds in betting on Ralston narrowed yesterday and for the first time since the Democratic Convention opened Wall Street wagers gave him an even chance with Smith to win the Presidential nomination. Odds of 3 to 1 against Ralston's chances were quoted by J. S. Fried & Co., 20 Broad Street, which compared with 3½ to 1 the day before.

The same odds were quoted against the chances of Smith, Underwood and Ritchie, John W. Davis, Glass and Cox, unchanged from Wednesday night at 3½ to 1 against. The odds against McAdoo, which had been 6 to 1 before Bryan's speech on Wednesday, shortened yesterday morning to 4 to 1, but lengthened later to 5 to 1.

W. L. Darnell & Co., 44 Broad Street, quoted 3½ to 1 against both Smith and Ralston and 5 to 1 against McAdoo. The firm announced that it had several thousand dollars to wager against any of the above candidates at the odds mentioned and that it was ready to take $5,000 against $50,000 that Ralston will be nominated President and Smith Vice President.

Both firms reported that the most active betting favorites appeared now to be Ralston and Ritchie. J. S. Fried & Co. said they had received substantial sums to wager on President Coolidge's chances for re-election at 9 to 5.

'MAY FOOL 'EM,' SAYS BRYAN

He Qualifies His "May Never Be a Delegate Again."

Mr. Bryan returned to his headquarters at the Waldorf during the recess yesterday afternoon in a very jovial mood. He was asked if he had planned to attend any conferences on breaking the nominating deadlock and replied:

"I have no conference in view at this moment, but, as I told the convention the other day when I said I may never be a delegate again, look out. I may fool them."

SMITH'S SON FREES A M'ADOO ADMIRER

Asks Leniency for Actress Who Cheered Dry Candidate at a Too-Wet Party.

GIRL WENT TO JAIL IN TAXI

Couldn't Pay Her Fare—Magistrate, Impressed by Her Breeding, Asks Al Jr.'s Advice.

While William G. McAdoo was struggling yesterday to keep his battle lines at Madison Square Garden intact, a young actress appeared before Magistrate Charles A. Oberwager in the West Side Court and told how her enthusiasm for the Californian had led indirectly to her arrest the night before for intoxication. She explained that she and friends who shared her admiration for McAdoo had got up a little party at which their moral support for his nomination had been fortified in a manner hardly consistent with the dry stand of their favorite.

Attired in an evening gown, the young woman emotionally told how the evening had culminated in a taxi driver taking her to the West 100th Street Station after he discovered that she could not pay his bill for $1.50 or to direct him to her home, where she might get the money. In some way she had become separated from her friends, and also her bag containing her money. She was arrested by Policeman Koehler at the police station and held in jail over night. In court she was recorded as Miss Peggy White, 27 years old, of 267 West Ninety-fourth Street.

After listening to her story Magistrate Oberwager told Miss White that he found her guilty of the charge of public intoxication, but was uncertain as to how he should dispose of her case. Her situation, he said, was unusual for one of her refinement. "What do you think I ought to do with you?" he asked her.

Then the Magistrate turned to a young man who had been sitting beside him listening to the story of the McAdoo admirers. "This is a son of Governor Smith," he remarked to the defendant, "I'll ask him what he thinks about it."

"Let her go," recommended the young man.

"All right. Sentence suspended," proclaimed the Magistrate, adding that ordinarily conviction of such a charge means a sojourn in the workhouse. Miss White left the courtroom registering great relief.

The Governor's son, Alfred E. Smith Jr., who is a law student, has been sitting on Magistrate Oberwager's bench for several days observing how court is conducted.

CONFERENCE PLANS ALL COME TO NAUGHT

Talk of a Meeting of Representatives of All States to End Deadlock.

When the Democratic convention reconvened for the evening session at 8:30 there was not a sign that the leaders of the various candidates had been able to reach an agreement which would lead to a speedy nomination. Word was passed around at different headquarters that all efforts in the direction of a conference had failed and that another prolonged session was in sight. Some of the leaders admitted this.

An attempt had been made to obtain a general conference of representatives of all the States before the night session, but this came to nothing. A leader from one of the larger States, who had been approached, said that the States with large delegations would not, in his opinion, agree to such an arrangement, believing that it would give the leaders of the smaller delegations a position in discussions which was hardly warranted. It was said that another effort would be made to arrange for a general conference if the deadlock continued throughout the evening.

Word that the Ohio delegation had voted in caucus to continue its fight for former Governor James M. Cox and that the Tennessee delegation had voted 18½ to 5½ to continue in support of William G. McAdoo strengthened the belief that the end of the long struggle was nowhere in sight.

It was stated by one of the leaders that Governor Smith would receive a thorough try-out before any consideration would be given to the release of his delegates. Governor Smith's chief hope, this leader said, was in his ability to obtain a majority of the ballots in the event the McAdoo forces crumbled rapidly or the ex-Secretary's delegates were released.

Among those who attended the other caucuses were former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker and former Senator Pomeron. Mr. Baker has been mentioned as one whom the Ohio delegates might support if it were decided to "break" from Cox. But Mr. Baker is said to take the position that a fight to the end must be made for the ex-Governor.

The question of starting a special drive for Cox was discussed, but no definite decision was reached. Representatives of the delegation will sound sentiment in other delegations.

One argument of the Cox backers is that he has not mixed in any of the quarrels which have involved other candidates, and that when the real break on the McAdoo and Smith forces comes his position will be stronger than that of Senator Ralston or any other "dark horse."

Members of the Cox delegation got word that Mr. McAdoo intended to hang on desperately, although the developments at the day's session seemed to indicate that Mr. McAdoo had little chance of obtaining a majority of the delegates, much less the two-thirds necessary for the nomination.

Meanwhile adherents of the other candidates are trying to break from Cox. Telegrams were received in large numbers urging the delegates to give some other candidate part of the Ohio vote.

The backers of Daniel F. Houston, conferring on his chances, heard that opposition was expressed to his candidacy on the ground that he was not acceptable to the farming interests. They promptly made public a letter written last month by J. R. Howard, a director of the International Farm Congress, which said in part:

"When Mr. Houston was named Secretary of Agriculture, together with many other farmers, I felt a tinge of disappointment. His tenure of office was at a very unusual time and did not give opportunity for the rank and file of the farmers to know or appreciate the man's work. My own position, however, made it necessary for me not only to come in close contact with the work of the department, but to become personally acquainted with Mr. Houston. He has constantly grown in my estimation, not only during the years in which he was Secretary of Agriculture, but in his subsequent work with the American Telephone and Telegraph, in which he has diffused the stock of a great corporation, making it a national organization rather than a localized, Wall Street corporation.

"If the farmers of the country had taken the advice of Mr. Houston following the armistice they would have avoided many of their present difficulties. If business men of the country had heeded what he said to them in his Omaha address and on other occasions war reconstruction would have been accomplished long since."

CROWDS WATCH BULLETINS.

Wait in Times Square Till Late at Night to Get Convention News.

The keen interest in the balloting at Madison Square Garden kept a large crowd in front of The Times Building long after last midnight, where the latest results of the balloting were posted.

A force of policemen from the West Forty-seventh Street Station was on duty in the vicinity of Times Square. A traffic "deadline" was established on the west side of Broadway from Forty-second Street to Forty-third Street so that those who wished to see the bulletins could do so without being in danger from passing vehicles.

RECORDS OF BALLOTING.

Longest Previous Was in 1860 When Democrats Picked Douglas.

Following is the list of the longest convention struggles to name a President previous to this convention:

59 ballots—Democrats at Charleston, S. C., and Baltimore in 1860. Stephen A. Douglas nominated on second ballot at Baltimore.

53 ballots—Whigs at Baltimore in 1852. W. S. Scott nominated.

44 ballots—Democrats at San Francisco in 1920. James M. Cox nominated.

HOOVER ON SUPER-POWER.

Tells London Conference Steam Must Give Way to Electricity.

Copyright, 1924, by The New York Times Company
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 3.—The only cure for city crowds is the substitution of electricity for steam, in the opinion of Herbert Hoover, as outlined in his contribution to the World Power Conference, which was read at today's session of that gathering.

Mr. Hoover said that the centralization of power development and distribution through the medium of great power systems would make possible the decentralization of industry and eliminate crowded urban conditions and the congestion which had been brought into existence by the use of direct steam power in factories and workshops. Technical questions were numerous and intricate, but were rapidly being solved, he said, adding that the more difficult questions arise in the fields of finance, administration and public relations.

The function of the Government was to provide an open road for the exercise of individual initiative to regulate and to control, but not to manage or to operate.

He also said that in the stress of international competition and the endeavor to produce goods and to create means by which to improve living conditions that nation would progress most which left its people most free from hampering restrictions.

The American members of the conference tonight entertained their fellow-delegates at dinner, Sir Arthur Hadley making the address of welcome.

HOUSTON TOO GOOD, GLOOM DECLARES

It Would Violate All Habits, He Says, to Pick a Candidate for His Fitness.

LIKES RALSTON'S CHANCES

But Thinks Republicans Would Change Dawes for Dempsey if Robinson Were Chosen.

By ELMER DAVIS.

Godfrey G. Gloom, the veteran Hoosier Democrat, was discovered by a TIMES reporter yesterday evening munching a sandwich and drinking a glass of milk in his room in a little known uptown hotel.

"Why do you eat in secret, Mr. Gloom?" the reporter asked.

"No Constitutional amendment against dining in public has been passed as yet," said Mr. Gloom. "People don't need Constitutional amendments any more to annoy their neighbors. The doin's of the Klan are contrary to several Constitutional amendments, but the Klan keeps on doin' 'em just the same. I see by the papers where the prohibition agents that was imported from Washington durin' this convention to keep the assembled Democrats from drinkin' up everything in town and deprivin' you New Yorkers of your supply have taken to goin' around to restaurants and arresting everybody in them.

"It seems to be the theory that a man that drops in for a bowl of crackers and milk is bound to have guilty knowledge of whether there is coffee or something else in the coffee cup of persons on the far side of the room, and I take no chances. When I get arrested I want it to be for my own crimes, not for those of others."

"What do you think of the deadlock?" the reporter asked.

"No less dead than ever," said the old-fashioned Jeffersonian. "When a couple of States come in for Sam Ralston this afternoon I says to myself, 'Well, now, Tom Taggart has got his dusky steed all trained down and is ready to let him go.' But I see in another ballot or two that it was all a mistake and that Ralston is just cantering around the track for a light workout.

Watches Taggart's Dark Horse.

"You see, this here dark horse of Taggart's is not only dark but heavy, and if they start him before he's in condition he's liable to pull up winded. Now, Tom is a mighty good trainer and he's careful never to let 'em start unless they got a good chance to finish in the money. They generally place, even if they rarely win. You watch that there dark and heavy horse from Indiana when they start again tonight. He may get there yet."

"I thought for a while this afternoon," Mr. Gloom continued, "that they were goin' to start a stampede for the dark and bloody horse, Joe Robinson of Arkansas. Robinson has been readin' about all these tremendous crowds of eighty or hundred thousand people of championship prize fights, so he fig'res that there are probably enough fight fans in the country to make it a landslide for the fistic champion of the golf links, old Jawbreaker Joe, the one-punch wonder. I was talkin' to some boxing experts about that, but they tell me that he ain't got a chance in the world.

"Robinson has made his fightin' reputation, I understand, by pickin' set ups. If he got the nomination the Republicans would make General Dawes give up his Vice Presidential nomination just the same as Lowden done before him and they'd put Dempsey on the ticket, and I hear that against him Robinson wouldn't last as long as Luis Angel Firpo, nor create as much commotion while he lasted. Bill Lyons of the Colorado delegation is one of Dempsey's ambassadors and I hear he's just waitin' for Robinson's nomination to sign him for a fight. With the connivance of Tex Rickard, they figure Robinson would pull a better crowd in the Garden as a challenger for the heavyweight championship than he would as a Presidential candidate, but I dunno—you hear a lot of lies around a convention while they're waitin' for one of these deadlocks to come to life again."

"Who is your personal choice for the nomination?" the reporter asked.

"I got no personal choice," Mr. Gloom declared firmly. "For geographical reasons I lean toward Sam Ralston, but my main interest is in principles, not men. You may think there ain't many principles in this convention, but there wasn't any principles at all so much as even mentioned by the Republicans at Cleveland. And I was confidentially informed today that the plank I have been urging on 'em to give representation to the Virgin Islands will be favorably considered by the Platform Committee in 1928. They're goin' to come out next time for givin' the Virgin Islands eventual home rule and immediate representation in the convention.

Wants More "Rotten Boroughs."

"It's about time they was doin' that, too. You can't run a political machine without rotten boroughs. The Republicans seen that long ago and their Southern delegations are generally at the disposal of the most attractive bidder. That system is part of our great heritage of constitutional institutions from the mother country. I reckon Mr. Robert Walpole and King George III. knew more about rotten boroughs than even Frank Hitchcock or Bascom Slemp. But we got nothing in the Democratic Party to match them Southern Republican delegations except the Territories, so it stands to reason that the more territorial delegations we can get the better."

"You remember," the reporter suggested, "that the man who nominated David Franklin Houston asked the delegates not to vote for him."

"Yes, sir," said Mr. Gloom, "and they took his advice by acclamation."

"But perhaps the time has come," said the reporter, "when Houston might have some chance to break the deadlock."

"Don't you believe it," said Mr. Gloom firmly. "There's nothing in Houston's favor but the fact that a lot of people believe he's more fit to be President than anybody that's been voted for. What of that? There's probably a million people in the United States, male and female, that's more fit to be President than anybody so far mentioned in this convention, or Cal Coolidge or Bob La Follette either. But that argument can be dismissed as incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

"If Presidents had been selected for their fitness for the office a lot of American history would have been different. No, sir, nobody but Washington ever got the job on that ground. Nobody knew Lincoln was fit for it when he was elected, and Grover Cleveland's rise was due to the excessive rottenness of the Republicans more than to any virtue in the Democrats. No, sir, we are not in the habit of selectin' Presidents on the ground of their fitness for the office, and I don't believe either of the great parties is goin' to break with the most deeply rooted tradition of American politics.

"That lets Houston out, but it don't have any effect on the chances of these dark and light horses that are still bein' voted for."

HAITI NOW PEACEFUL

And Industrious, Too, Says M. L. Froen of Port au Prince.

"After more than four centuries of wars, bloodshed and revolutions, the Island of Haiti is becoming stabilized and settling down to a peaceful, industrius republic," said M. L. Froen, from Port au Prince, who is now at the Hotel Pennsylvania.

"Haiti is a mountainous island in the West Indies, and is one of the most interesting of countries in that it was the earliest and most successful attempt at self-government made by negroes.

"When Columbus discovered it in 1492 it was populated by Indians. These were exterminated by the white people and the present natives are descendants of the slaves which were imported from Africa.

"A group of English and French settled there in the seventeenth century and turned to buccaneering. The island was eventually ceded to France, and to this day the French influence remains apparent in the language and customs of the people.

"In 1801, Toussaint l'Ouverture, an accomplished negro and military genius, established order on the island and drew up a proposed form of republican government with himself as Governor for life, subject to the approval of France. But this was little to the liking of the Emperor Napoleon, and he sent his agents to the island to overthrow l'Ouverture and take him back to France a prisoner. Revolution upon revolution followed, and it is only within a few years that the country has been comparatively peaceful.

"It is now a republic, governed by a native President, though it functions more militaristicaly than democratically. Its chief exports are coffee, cocoa, logwood, tobacco, cotton, gum, honey and sugar, and all of these are exported in large quantities."

Mr. Froen is on his way to his home in Norway, where he wil spend the Summer and then return to Haiti, where he is representative of an import and export company in Port au Prince.

Reply to Berlin Control Note Ready.

PARIS, July 3.—The Allied Council of Ambassadors, after hearing today the report of the Interallied Military Committee on Germany's reply to the communication of the Council regarding allied military control of Germany's armaments, agreed on the terms of the reply to be made to Germany. This will be submitted to the allied governments for their approval.

British American Oil Business.

A. L. Ellsworth, Treasurer of the British American Oil Company, Ltd., in a statement to stockholders in connection with the dividend for the second quarter of 1924, says the business of the company for the first six months of 1924 "exceeds in volume that of any similar period since the formation of the company."

PREHISTORIC VILLAGE UNEARTHED IN EGYPT

Petrie's Discoveries Shown in London Are Believed to Antedate Any Others.

Copyright, 1924, by The New York Times Company
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 3.—Discoveries of an ancient civilization believed to be of earlier date than any of which there was evidenced previously will be shown at the exhibition opening in London tomorrow of the British School of Archaeology in Egypt. The discoveries were made by Professor Flinders Petrie and his students about thirty miles south of Assiyut.

A settlement of prehistoric days was discovered and strata about 6 feet deep were worked by removing about 6 inches of surface at a time. One of the exhibits, arranged in layers, shows the results obtained from this careful combing. Ripple pottery, absolutely unknown before in Egypt, is found at the bottom and disappears at the height of 5 feet. The flints at the bottom are rough and formless, but as the scale ascends they show a better finish.

Sickle flints are scarce at the bottom, but occur in large numbers toward the top, suggesting that agriculture advanced rapidly in the later periods, and that wheat was rubbed out on the stalk, or else uprooted, in the earlier days.

Grain is first found in the stratum about half way down. Here, too, are the first pre-dynastic bricks which have come to Europe. There is a definite structure of brick, probably of Nile mud, which is roughly baked, but is obviously part of a dwelling. Underneath this exhibit is the body of a man belonging to this prehistoric period. The body is wearing clothes, and is in a good state of preservation. There are distinctive features indicating that the dwellers in the settlement were not Egyptians, and it is hoped that it will be possible to establish who they were.

Fine pottery work from the dawn of a time hitherto unknown in Egypt is also shown. One of important discoveries made during the year was that the Princes of Qau were of Galla origin, and were ancestors of the Twelfth dynasty. Some of the human remains shown are of the oldest type. They are completely petrified, and are attributed by Flinders Petrie to from 8,000 to 5,000 B. C.

Call Prices Here "Reasonable."

Two Arkansas travelers—Floyd Wingo and O. L. Bodenheim of the delegation of that State—find prices in New York, contrary to frequently voiced complaint, reasonable. Their room, says Mr. Wingo, costs less than any he has ever had at a convention, and Mr. Bodenheim feels that the taxicab service should be praised as "the cheapest and best" he has encountered.

A New Style College Diploma.

No longer will the South Dakota State College graduate receive a big rolled diploma on Commencement Day, which in most cases in the past has been framed and hung in the home or office. A new style diploma has been authorized by the Regents for members of the class of 1924 and subsequent years. The new "sheepskin" will be only six by eight inches in size and will be contained in a portfolio of leather, with the institution name stamped in gold on the cover. The insert need not be sheepskin, a Japanese vellum alternative being offered the graduates. The wording of the smaller diploma is practically the same as has always been used.

WOMEN FURNISH CONVENTION COLOR

Two in a Delegation Withhold Their Votes Until They Know How Others Are Going.

MRS. MARC ANTHONY THERE

Roosevelt Wants Man Who Voted for Him Thrown Out—Some Sidelights.

The group of women in the Missouri delegation is worth watching every minute. Mrs. A. C. Parsons, for instance, will be voting for McAdoo, whether he is nominated or not, when election day comes around, unless her determined looks and decisive announcements convey a wholly false impression. Yesterday, when the delegation was announced as voting for Ralston, Mrs. Parsons mounted her chair and insisted that the result was "under the unit rule."

No one can count her for any one but McAdoo without hearing her protest.

Two women in the Missouri delegation while the delegation was being polled prior to the switch to Ralston, insisted on waiting until they learned how the majority was going before they would announce themselves.

It was evident at yesterday morning's session that the interest had dimmed considerably. Empty seats were on all sides and many delegates and visitors seemed more interested in the costumes being worn than in the prosaic proceedings. On the platform was the Princess Bibesco, who made a colorful picture in a white dress and red hat. She has attended every session of the convention and wears a different gown every day. She is very much interested in American politics and is constantly surrounded by the party leaders, who keep her posted as to the trend of the battles between McAdoo, Smith and the many dark horses.

One young lady was heard to say that she hoped Smith would be nominated, and when asked why she replied:

"I don't want him to lose the happy smile that he always wears, and I think it would be a shame to defeat him and make him unhappy."

Franklin Roosevelt, Chairman of the Smith committee, who in nominating Governor Smith referred to him as the happy warrior, is himself entitled to be thus referred to. He sits on the aisle, in the second or third row of the New York delegation, visited during each session by scores, smiling always, always confident.

Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War, climbed over the seats past Mr. Roosevelt on his way out of the hall after the day session yesterday.

"What do you make of it, Frank?" asked Mr. Baker.

"Well, Newt, the first hundred ballots are the hardest," replied Mr. Roosevelt.

Finally Roosevelt said:

"Who gave me that vote? I want him thrown out of the building."

"I'm for you," replied Mr. Baker.

"That's so," replied Mr. Roosevelt. "You lost your vote, didn't you? Now they've put me in. That's fair enough. Fifty-fifty, fifty ballots for you and fifty for me."

"The Last Ditch" McAdoo delegates have been greatly angered by the opposition of the spectators in the galleries to Mr. McAdoo and their partiality to Governor Smith. There have been cries of "Clear the galleries" from McAdoo delegates at almost every demonstration and there was great resentment expressed by the McAdoo men and women yesterday over the booing of Mr. Bryan the day before.

"'Boos and booze' ought to be the Smith slogan," was the caustic comment of a delegate from Tennessee.

Mrs. Mary A. Reynolds, of Chicago, a negro woman who was educated at Fisk University and is the wife of a negro physician, came here at her own expense to work for the nomination of William G. McAdoo and has been one of those in charge of the rooms of the McAdoo women's organization at the Hotel Vanderbilt.

"Mr. McAdoo is going to be nominated," she said yesterday. "Then I'm going to take my rabbit's foot and luck him into the White House."

There's a man in the Fourth Avenue lobby who has fountain pens for sale. The first few days he had a hard time of it. Now he is doing better. He keeps a piece of blotting paper handy for out-of-town delegates who want to sign checks with their pens.

In the Fourth Avenue lobby there is a man selling State flags. Seemingly, he is new to this particular line of endeavor and, seemingly, too, he has deficiencies as a salesman.

"Flags of all the States," he announced yesterday. "Buy a Maryland flag. Buy a Maryland flag. It looks like a beef stew."

Maybe the need of money is the reason, and maybe there is some other cause, but the fact remains that in the Macy Convention Club during every session there are scores and scores of people writing letters home. It's the easiest thing in the world. The stationery is furnished, there are pens and ink on the tables, cigarettes to smoke, and when the letter is written it has only to be taken to the desk, where a stamp will be affixed, also free of charge. All one needs is the idea.

Spectator Has It All Settled.

A man in the gallery yesterday had the whole thing settled to his entire satisfaction:

"This doesn't mean anything at all," said he to the admiring few within sound of his voice. "They are just going through a lot of motions. From the first they have intended to nominate Walsh of Montana. There never was any question of that since the oil investigation. They'll jockey about a bit longer and then start going to Walsh. There he is now, down by the Connecticut delegation with the green hat on."

Just then Senator Walsh, on the platform, rapped for order.

In the search for announcers some one apparently has overlooked a bet. There is a delegate who bears a name the mere mention of which ought to be enough to start a stampede. One of the delegates at large in the perfectly peaceful Tennessee delegation is Mrs. Marc Anthony.

Josephus Daniels, former Secretary of the Navy, who is a newspaper man when he isn't busy otherwise, sits in the North Carolina delegation and makes notes. Then he goes down to the Associated Press room in the basement and writes dispatches. And he's been voted for the nomination, too.

Any one who has sat through the monotonous sessions at Madison Square Garden is probably totally out of sympathy with F. T. Woodings and Elmer R. Getchell, two youths who walked from San Francisco to attend the convention.

They set out from their homes forty-three days ago, hoping that they would arrive in time for the finale of the convention. When they arrived yesterday they were told they could not be admitted without tickets, and all other methods of "gate crashing" having failed they obtained jobs as bus boys in the World Convention Club in the basement of Madison Square Garden.

"Spare the Ice and Spoil the Food"

It isn't even penny wise to risk spoiling expensive food by failing to keep your refrigerator at an even temperature by a regular supply of ice. For pure, clean, Knickerbocker Ice costs only a fraction of a penny a pound and a few cents' worth of ice daily keeps many pounds of food fresh, sweet and healthful.

If you're been depending on the windowsill during the winter don't be unwise enough to delay longer in putting your icebox in "commission." Just telephone Murray Hill 2127 today and the Knickerbocker Ice Wagon will be at your door tomorrow.

We're jumping to-day and to-morrow.

Thanks to George Washington and his little pals, we won't be open again 'til Monday the 7th. A safe and sane idea.

And while we're all enjoying ourselves let's give the doctors and firemen a holiday too:

Don't hold a firecracker when lighting it!

Don't pick up a firecracker to see why it doesn't explode. It usually does!

Don't point a pistol at anyone—ever! Pistols that "aren't loaded" always go off.

SEES RUSSIA HEADED TOWARD PROSPERITY

BUT ADVANCE IS SLOW

Says the Government Is Now More Careful in Giving Concessions to Foreigners.

By WALTER DURANTY.

Copyright, 1924, by The New York Times Company
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, July 3.—The economic situation of Russia was set forth today by Premier Rykov in a detailed speech before the International Communist Congress. His tone on the whole was optimistic, less perhaps in regard to the results actually achieved than to the steady progress of the past three years. Rykov said concessions would henceforth be given to foreigners less readily than before.

Industry, Rykov admitted, had only attained 45 per cent. of the pre-war production total, but, this was contrasted favorably with the position in 1920, which represented only 15 per cent. of pre-war output. Light industry had improved more rapidly than heavy, but throughout there was steady growth.

Thus production of pig iron increased form 7,000,000 pounds in 1921 to 35,000,000 this year. Coal production was satisfactory and oil sufficient to give a large surplus for export.

The financial position had vastly improved by stabilization of the ruble and the foreign trade balance was now in Russia's favor to the extent of 100,000,000 rubles.

Unemployment was still a serious problem, although the number of workers employed in industry had considerably increased. In November, 1922, there were 150,000 persons at work in fuel production. Now there were 200,000. In the metallurgical industry the figure had risen from 246,000 to 281,000 and in the textile industry from 312,000 to 374,000. Wages had risen in the last two years from 40 per cent. pre-war to between 65 and 70 per cent.

In agriculture the sown area had increased steadily since the introduction of the Nep until this year it was between 85 and 90 per cent. pre-war.

All this, said Rykov, had induced the Soviet Government to show far greater care and hesitation in giving concessions to foreigners than was formerly the case.

"If the terms suit us," he said, "we give concessions; if they don't we don't. We now scrutinize the suitability of the terms much more severely than before. Our demands are higher."

ACCUSE 5 IN AUTO MYSTERY.

Four Men and a Woman Indicted for Death of Katherine Wallace.

LANCASTER, N. H., July 3.—Indictments charging murder in the second degree against four men and a woman were returned here today by a special Grand Jury investigating circumstances in connection with the death of Mrs. Katherine Wallace in Groveton.

Those named in the indictments are Osman Cowell, Oscar Tanguay, R. Boutin and Miss Hazel Huntoon, all of Berlin, and M. Brideau, of Island Pond, Vt.

The body of Mrs. Wallace was found in the Ammonoosuc River on June 24. An autopsy showed that although death was caused by drowning the skull had been fractured either by a blow or by striking a rock in the river.

Mrs. Wallace was a member of an automobile party with Cowell, Tanguay and Boutin and Miss Huntoon, according to the police, a week before her body was found. While the party was returning from Beecher Falls, Vt., to Berlin, the authorities allege, the two women left the automobile to settle a dispute and Miss Huntoon returned to the car alone.

BOBS HAIR; FAKES ASSAULT.

Berlin Girl Invents Bold, Bad Man to Explain Shorn Locks.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, July 3.—"I must bob my hair," said a young Berlin fraulein named Charlotte to her parents.

"You must not," they answered.

So Charlotte decided to take drastic measures.

She appeared at the nearest police station shortly afterward, with her luxuriant hair cropped close to her head and tearfully told how she had been accosted on her way home by a terrible footpad, who, just before he was driven away by her faithful dog, whipped out scissors and cut off most of her locks.

Unfortunately for Charlotte, the police cross-examined her so relentlessly that presently she confessed that she had not been molested at all, but had invented the entire story, fearing to go home with her hair bobbed.

It is not on record what Charlotte's parents said to her.

ROBED MEN SHOOT POLICE.

One Fatally Wounded—Crowd Surrounded Fiery Cross at Ardmore, Pa.

PHILADELPHIA, July 3.—Two members of the Lower Merion township police were shot and seriously wounded late tonight when they attempted to disperse a crowd of several hundred white-garbed men surrounding a fiery cross on the outskirts of Ardmore, a suburb. The policemen, Albert Miller and Charles Roy, had been summoned by a negro who expressed fear that he might be attacked. The officers said, however, that beyond a noisy demonstration about the burning cross they found no disorder and heard no threats made against any one.

None of the men were masked, and with two exceptions all dispersed quietly at the command of the policemen. These two, the officers said, were inclined to ignore their orders, and in an argument that followed the policemen were shot. Roy was so badly wounded that physicians at the Bryn Mawr Hospital said he could not live.

Live Stock Markets Stronger.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 3.—Live stock values were strengthened by lighter receipts, with shippers active buyers of hogs, advancing prices 10 cents to $7.30 as the top and $6.85 as the average. Receipts at Chicago were 27,000. Choice steers sold at $11.15, the highest of the week with yearlings at $10.40. Lambs are 75 cents to $1.50 above last week's close, with $15.25 paid for the best, while sheep sold up to $6.

Guardian for Mrs. F. A. Wheeler.

Marshall Snyder, a former Assistant District Attorney, was appointed yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Lewis in Brooklyn to act as a temporary guardian of Mrs. Frances A. Wheeler, 81 years old, of 214 St. John's Place, Brooklyn. Her estate is said to be large. Her nephew, Emerson C. Love, 1,817 East Seventeenth Street, Brooklyn, alleges his aunt is incompetent to manage her affairs and has applied to be appointed permanent guardian.

SOVIET DELEGATES ASSAILED IN LONDON

House of Lords Passes Seditious Teaching Bill, and The Times Denounces Any Loan.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 3.—It may be said of the Soviet delegates in London that, like eavesdroppers, they are hearing no good of themselves. Hard words were said of the Communist methods in the House of Lords today, when, by 102 votes to 20, Lord Danesfort's bill to prevent seditious and blasphemous teachings to children was adopted.

Lord Danesfort, who was formerly Sir John Butcher, has devoted considerable attention to this subject, and it has made him so unpopular in Soviet circles that in the recent May Day demonstration there were vehicles in Hyde Park filled with children waving red flags. Upon the sides of the wagons were placards to the following effect: "Damn the seditious teaching bill. To hell with Sir John Butcher and long live Soviet Russia."

Lord Danesfort said that the teaching at which his bill was aimed held all religion up to contempt, preached class hatred, the rebel spirit and anathematized private property as robbery.

The Duke of Atholl said that as to the proletarian Sunday schools, he had seen the paper for boys and girls, which came near to "downright filth." The Archbishop of Canterbury said that some of the teaching in the proletarian schools was not only anti-Christian, but vicious and immoral. He had in his possession, he said, some of those publications containing matter which was so vile as to be unquotable. They included, he said, the teaching of free love in its widest and most animal sense.

While hard things are being said here of Communism, harder things are being written of the Communists themselves. The London Times, after reviewing the fruitless efforts of the Soviet delegation to obtain a loan in London, observes editorially:

"It is quite incomprehensible that any one in this country should dream of giving the Bolshevists financial assistance in the dilemma into which their own destructive policy has brought them. The banks have declared their attitude, and they cannot depart from it without disturbing that basis of credit on which all their great business rests. They cannot lend money to people who repudiate debts.

"The Governments, in their turn, have to take account of this very important fact. There would be unbending opposition to any attempt to allocate any portion of the money provided by the British taypayer for the purpose of providing credits to bolster up the Soviet system in Russia.

"While the conference in London has been dragging on, the Communist reaction has been checking the first faint signs of natural evolution toward normal conditions in Russia, where cruel arrests and expulsions are once more the order of the day. What purpose then, can this exhausted and discredited conference now possibly serve? It has become completely unintelligible."

ZAHGLUL ANXIOUS TO SEE MACDONALD

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 3.—There is authority for stating that Prime Minister MacDonald has had further correspondence with the Egyptian Government in regard to the forthcoming negotiations in London for a settlement of the outstanding questions between Great Britain and Egypt, especially that of the Sudan.

Mr. MacDonald is anxious to convey to Zahglul Pasha that he is quite ready to discuss any question that can reasonably be raised in connection with the four points left over when the British protectorate in Egypt was withdrawn; that neither party could be held to accept the position of the other simply because they were ready to listen to an exposition of their views and that nobody's position would be compromised by the mere fact of entering into negotiations.

The British Prime Minister is most anxious that the negotiations should begin and they would, of course, be entered into on a footing of perfect equality.

In Egyptian circles it is believed that Zahglul is anxious to have a meeting with MacDonald and is deterred only by fear that his entry into the conference chamber may be held to denote a weakening of his attitude. It appears that in the course of earlier correspondence the Egyptian Minister in London was instructed to protest against the participation of the Sudan in the exhibition at Wembley.

$3,000 HOLD-UP IN DAYLIGHT

Man Pushed Into East Side Office He Is Passing and Robbed.

Fifteen minutes after $3,000 had been paid to him yesterday afternoon, Vincent J. De Sanctis, a lawyer, of 125 Thompson Street was held up in East 106th Street and pushed into a real estate office at No. 332 and robbed.

De Sanctis had received the money in the Brookside Poultry Company's market at No. 429. Alfred Loscalzo had sold the market to Salvator Conegeno for $10,000, taking $7,000 cash himself and turning over the remaining $3,000, $1,000 of which was in a check, to De Sanctis, in payment of a debt.

De Sanctis noticed two men following him when he left the market. As he was passing the real estate office of Felix Quaremba, the pursuers ran suddenly alongside and pushed him into the office, the door of which was open. The noise disturbed Modeste Lucciula, asleep in a rear room. Lucciula entered the office, whereupon he and De Sanctis were pushed into the back room, where the lawyer was robbed of the $3,000 and his watch and chain.

After warning the victims to keep still, the hold-up men met Quaremba entering the office. When he attempted to halt them, one of the robbers drew a knife. Quaremba let them pass and they fled to an automobile waiting near by. Quaremba's shouts attracted a crowd, which started in pursuit, but the robbers were soon out of sight.

SHOOTS WIFE AND HIMSELF.

Husband Will Die; Woman, Wounded Thrice, Will Live.

After firing three shots at his wife as she was preparing supper in the kitchen of their home at 26 Towers Street, Brooklyn, yesterday afternoon, Hugh Hickey, 49 years old, turned the revolver on himself and fired a bullet into his head. Both were taken to St. Catherines Hospital where physicians say that Hickey will probably die. Mrs. Hickey, though she has a bullet in her left shoulder, another in the left breast and a third in the right forearm, has a bare chance for life.

Hickey had shown signs of being slightly deranged and Mrs. Hickey was advised by a doctor a short while ago to make arrangements to have her husband placed in an institution.

GIRL, 4, LOST 3 DAYS AT BEAR MOUNTAIN

KIDNAPPED, FATHER FEARS

State Troopers Believe She May Have Been Taken Off in a Wagon —Bloodhounds to Be Used.

In a final effort to trace Eleanor O'Connor, 4 years old, of 62 Gouverneur Street, who has been lost in the dense woods near Bear Mountain since Tuesday morning, the child's father, Michael O'Connor, a chauffeur, appealed to the Missing Persons Bureau at Police Headquarters last night. He supplied the bureau with a photograph and description of his daughter and pleaded that detectives be sent to mountains to hunt for the girl.

Eleanor, with about thirty of her playmates ranging in age from 3 to 5, went to Fort Montgomery, N. Y., near Bear Mountain, last Monday, the guests of the Salvation Army Barracks at 94 Cherry Street. Eleanor was to spend seven weeks on the big estate that had been loaned to the Salvation Army by a New York business man.

The children reached their playground Monday afternoon. Eleanor was last seen just before noon Tuesday sitting on the steps of the kitchen. When the crowd of hungry children assembled around the dining tables Eleanor was missed, and a search was begun that continued throughout the afternoon.

In the evening the camp officials became alarmed and appealed for help to the State Troopers. Troopers hunted for the child throughout the night.

Word of Eleanor's disappearance was telegraphed to this city and the child's father hurried to Fort Montgomery to join in the search. He and others traversed the woods, swamps, creeks and mountains within a radius of five miles in all directions without finding a trace of the girl. O'Connor finally returned to this city and said he believed his daughter had been kidnapped. The State Troopers have sent to Bloomfield, N. J., for bloodhounds.

State Troopers said they could not understand how the child disappeared so quickly, unless she was carried away in a passing automobile or wagon.

When she disappeared Eleanor wore a romper and tan slippers. She has light brown hair and blue eyes and speaks very distinctly for her age.

WOULD BAN BARKING DOGS.

Greenwich Residents Seek to Enjoin Mrs. Estermann's Kennels.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., July 3.—Dog fanciers are awaiting with interest a decision in the Superior Court, Bridgeport, in the case of twelve prominent Greenwich residents, who seek to stop by injunction Mrs. Helen Hotchkiss Eslermann from maintaining on her estate a kennel of twenty prize fox terriers, valued at $10,000. Judge William M. Maltbie has been hearing the case.

The plaintiffs, who desire removal of the kennels, represent owners in an exclusive colony on Stanwich Road, Greenwich. They allege the dogs bark day and night and are a nuisance.

Mrs. Eslermann is the daughter of Justice Hotchkiss of the Supreme Court of New York.

The degree of unreasonableness which would justify a kennel of barking dogs being held a nuisance, warranting their removal by court order, and whether the unreasonableness should not be measured by the reactions of normal persons and not sensitive, nervous persons, are two legal issues discussed. The defense maintains that the dogs are modernly housed and do not bark in an unreasonable or unwarranted fashion.

Judge Maltbie's attention was called to a recent decision he made in the case of Joseph Buccino against the Singer Sewing Machine Company, in which he refused to grant an injunction against the company using trip-hammers which caused vibrations.

STEALS PRISON HEAD'S CAR.

Crook Takes New Sedan of Col. Hunt, Warden at Great Meadow.

Special to The New York Times.

OSSINING, July 3.—Colonel William Hunt, reform Warden of Great Meadow Prison at Comstock, who is visiting at Sing Sing, informed Warden Lewis E. Lawes this afternoon that some crook had stolen his automobile.

Hunt, who is prominent in the Democratic organization of Buffalo, and has been attending the Democratic Convention in Manhattan, parked his car this forenoon in West Thirty-fourth Street to confer in the Waldorf-Astoria with other politicians. He and James Clark, a chauffeur employed at Sing Sing, left the car together. When they returned they found that Hunt's new blue seven-passenger Buick sedan had been stolen..

Hunt, who receives many of New York City's crooks to reform after they are transferred from Sing Sing to Great Meadow, declared that he would like to receive the one who stole his new car.

LONG ISLAND FARE HEARING.

Transit and Public Service Commissions Set Aug. 5.

The Transit Commission and the Public Service Commission of the State will hold a joint public hearing on Tuesday, Aug. 5, at 10:30 o'clock in the morning, at the new offices of the Transit Commission, 270 Madison Avenue, on the proposal of the Long Island Railroad Company to increase its commutation rates.

The matter falls within the jurisdiction of both commisisons, the Transit Commission having jurisdiction over rates within the city limits, while the rates charged from points in Nassau County or beyond are under the Public Service Commisison. Communities on the north shore of Long Island are preparing to fight vigorously before the joint commissions against the proposed increase of rates. Executives representing about fifteen civic associations have held two meetings in Malba, L. I., to organize and to increase the membership of the Association of Long Island Commuters.

ESTHONIAN ARRESTED HERE.

Held for Trying to Pass Check Stolen From Stinnes Company.

Anton Heilman, who told the police he was in business at Reval, Esthonia, was arrested yesterday by Detectives Nothies, Brown and Mayer on a charge of trying to pass a check for $3,567.90 that had been stolen.

Heilman was arrested at the International Acceptance Bank, Inc., 31 Pine Street, where he had gone to cash the check. The check was drawn on a Rotterdam bank for payment in New York and purported to be signed by the firm of Hugo Stinnes & Co., in Hamburg, Germany. The local bank was advised from Germany that the check was part of a lot of checks totaling $41,000 that had been taken by a defaulting cashier when he went on a vacation and failed to return.

La Follette Supporters in Session Today

PROGRESSIVES URGE LA FOLLETTE TO RUN

if he will accept, his endorsement probably will be a feature of Saturday's session. A Democrat is wanted for this place and if Mr. Thompson is not the man the choice may be Carl A. Vrooman of Illinois who was Assistant Secretary of Agriculture in the Wilson Administration.

These are the most talked of possibilities. Others mentioned include Representative George W. Huddleston of Alabama, Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana and Warren S. Stone, Chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. There are other dark horses, but these are the names most often heard.

Convention Meets This Morning.

The convention will convene at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. The Rev. Dr. Daniel Bradley of the Pilgrims' Church of Cleveland will offer the invocation. The call of the convention will be read by Arthur E. Holder, Secretary of the Conference for Progressive Political Action, and the keynote speech of Chairman Johnston of the National Committee will follow.

Short addresses by Mrs. Mabel Costigan, wife of Edward P. Costigan of the Tariff Commission; ex-Representative Edward Keating of Colorado, now the editor of Labor, and Senator Lynn J. Frazier of North Dakota will conclude the first session.

The afternoon session will hear the report of the Committee on Credentials and then proceed to the election of permanent officers and the naming of a platform committee. The work of the latter will be of the cut and dried order, as it is well understood that the platform is ready and that its author is Robert M. La Follette.

Representative Henry Allen Cooper of Wisconsin, who led the La Follette forces at the Republican National Convention, was invited today to come to Cleveland and address the convention, and he is expected to appear tomorrow afternoon. The message to Mr. Cooper assured him that this time he will be cheered and not "jeered," as it is asserted was the case when he appeared before the convention that nominated Mr. Coolidge.

The lobby of the Hotel Statler tonight is as crowded with radicals, Progressives, Farmer-Laborites, Socialists, and others of similar schools of political thought as is the Waldorf lobby in New York with Democrats. Those who are to "whoop things up" for Mr. La Follette have come from all parts of the country. There are 500 representatives from the Farmer-Labor Party of Minnesota in one group. There is a group of New York Socialists headed by Morris Hillquit. The Non-Partisan Leaguers are everywhere in evidence, the most prominent member of this delegation being Senator Frazier of North Dakota. Officials and members of the railway brotherhoods are numbered in the scores, as are men and women of the labor unions, of farmer organizations, and of various State and local organizations which are affiliated with the Conference for Progressive Political Action, and which, it is asserted, represent for the most part men and women of the business and professional walks of life.

Many Women in Attendance.

The women are here in even greater numbers than was the case at the Republican Convention, or is the case at the Democratic Convention in New York. Among these are trained politicians of the woman suffrage organizations.

The Woman's Committee for Political Action has the greatest number of delegates. The women of this organization have a platform of principles all their own, which, among other things, calls for the public control of natural resources, the public ownership of means of transportation and communication, public control of money and credit, and legislation taking from the courts the right to declare legislative acts unconstitutional.

Also among those present are a few who are not welcome. They are the Communists. The advance guard appeared today with Alexander Howatt, the Kansas Communist leader, in command. They want to get into the convention, but have been informed that they are not wanted, and if they seek to enter the hall tomorrow will be refused admission. Should they manage to get by the doormen they will be ejected.

Another discordant note was sounded today by the Socialist group headed by Representative Victor Berger of Milwaukee, who is opposed to the endorsement program and wants the Socialists to get together and nominate Mr. La Follette on a straight Socialist ticket.

"La Follette," Mr. Berger said today, "has been a Socialist in everything but name for twenty years. He has not voted the Republican ticket since 1904, and there is no reason why he cannot be our candidate."

Socialists to Meet Sunday.

The Socialists will meet independently on Sunday, when they will decide whether to endorse or nominate. The indications are that those favoring an endorsement will be in control. The Socialists, like all the others who are to have a part in the Cleveland show, are expected to do what Mr. La Follette wants them to do.

Officially, this convention is a meeting of the people with no bosses. Unofficially, it is the convention of Robert M. La Follette. He is the candidate, he is the platform. He is everything except the Vice Presidential endorsee.

The delegates and their leaders are hoping against hope tonight that the Democratic Convention will be history when the Conference for Progressive Political Action convenes tomorrow, and their fervent prayer is that the nominee will be a conservative. But, no matter who is the nominee, this convention is going to put Mr. La Follette into the field.

Chairman Johnston said tonight that the Democratic platform was a makeshift and, no matter who the candidate might be he could not be progressive and go to the country on the Madison Square Garden platform.

There is much speculation as to who will propose the name of Senator La Follette for the endorsement of the convention. It was suggested that Representative Cooper or Representative Nelson, both from Wisconsin, might be selected. Another suggestion was Mr. Stone of the Railway Engineers.

200,000 WANT LA FOLLETTE.

Petitions Presented to Senator, Who Delays His Answer.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Petitions coming from 200,000 American citizens were presented to Senator La Follette, the Wisconsin radical, this afternoon urging him to head a third party ticket. After hearing W. T. Rawleigh, head of the La Follette For President Committee, present this demand, the Senator refused to commit himself.

In a very few words Mr. La Follette expressed his gratification, adding that he would take the matter under advisement and give his reply later. This reply, Washington believes, will be transmitted to the La Follette convention beginning in Cleveland tomorrow, and no doubt will be carried there by the Senator's son, Robert M. La Follette Jr., who departed for the Ohio city tonight.

Senator La Follette will be nominated at Cleveland for the Presidency, but just when he will accept would not be revealed by his son, who refused to comment on theories that the Senator might withhold his acceptance until after the Democratic Convention in New York had selected a candidate.

Stories that Senator La Follette would prefer to remain silent until after definite action in New York came from the Wisconsin man's own supporters, but even they merely stated that they believed this was a possibility.

The presentation of the petitions took place at Mr. La Follette's home, when Mr. Rawleigh and members of a committee composed of Miss Zona Gale of Wisconsin, Gilbert E. Roe of New York, Dante M. Pierce of Iowa, Miss Jane Addams of Illinois, Alan Bogue of South Dakota, James H. McGill of Indiana, Julius Kespohl of Illinois, Mrs. Elizabeth Glendower Evans of Massachusetts, Donald R. Richberg of Illinois and Mrs. Laura C. Williams of the District of Columbia reached this city.

Rawleigh Attacks Coolidge.

Newspaper men and other outsiders were not admitted, but young Mr. La Follette said later that the ceremony was very simple and devoid of any formality. In his speech, Mr. Rawleigh declared that Senator La Follette was the one man fit to cleanse the Government and that it was to his credit that the oil scandals had been uncovered, with the resultant investigations. A savage attack on President Coolidge was made by the speaker, who arraigned the President as one who glossed over the scandals, tried to halt the investigations, and later tried to make his Republican Congressional leaders the scapegoats.

Linked with this assault was one against the Republican Party, but Mr. Rawleigh added that due to past scandals the Democratic Party was in no better position to bring about clean government.

Declares Scandals Led to Movement.

"On behalf of more than 200,000 American citizens in every State in the Union, we have the honor to present their petitions urging you to become a candidate for President of the United States," Mr. Raleigh said.

"The committee was formed in February, 1924, when the investigations in Washington were revealing to the world a condition of venality, corruption and degradation in public office that shocked the moral sense of mankind," he said, referring to the La Follette for President Committee. "In this crisis we instinctively turn to you as the one man big enough, strong enough and courageous enough to drive the thieves and money changers out of the temple of the Government and restore it cleansed and purified to the service of the people.

"It was, indeed, through your vision and courage that the raid upon the nation's oil reserves by Fall, Doheny and Sinclair was exposed. Your masterly speech in April, 1922, laid before the Senate every essential element in this gigantic, criminal transaction except the actual bribery of the Secretary of the Interior. By sheer force of reason and weight of evidence you forced an indifferent Senate to vote unanimously for a searching investigation. Subsequent disclosures merely confirmed your analysis of the case.

"Our conviction, born months ago, that the American people must turn to you for independent leadership has been confirmed by recent developments.

"The Republican Party not alone refused to purge itself but sought to conceal and to condone its iniquities. Its titular head, the President of the United States, glossed over the offenses of each corrupt Cabinet officer in turn until outraged public opinion forced him to drop them. He used the mighty powers of his high office in a vain, unconstitutional attempt to halt the investigations and thus conceal further corruption. Hiding his incapacity under a mask of silence, he has sought to make his Republican associates in Congress—the former leader of the party—the scapegoats to whom the sins of the Administration might be attributed.

"The party of Lincoln is no more. In its place stands an unprincipled band of public spoilsmen and petty politicians, united only in common service to predatory wealth. This is the only leadership available within the Republican Party to millions of progressive Republican voters.

Also Assails the Democrats.

"Neither can the organization and leadership of the Democratic Party serve as an instrument for clean government and national regeneration. Drawing its life blood from the same corrupt sources as the Republican Party in the form of campaign contributions, dominated by essentially the same perverted instinct to prostitute public office and public resources to private ends, the Democratic Party comes to the task of governmental purification with hands stained with war frauds, Shipping Board and alien property scandals and gross degradation of the Department of Justice.

"Many of the leading officials of the last Democratic Administration, who remain in positions of leadership within the party, stand thus convicted and unpunished only because their Republican accusers could not proceed without convicting themselves or their most influential supporters.

"The Democratic Party, equally, with the Republican Party, has been unable and unwilling in this crisis to rise above petty partisan ends. The pot can only call the kettle black. There is no cleansing virtue in either of them.

"We await merely your command—'Forward march!'—confident that millions stand ready to join with those who have already enlisted, and look forward under your leadership to that victory which will bring peace, progress and prosperity for all the people."

GEN. COXEY BARRED.

Credentials Committee Deaf to His Claim as Populist Delegate.

CLEVELAND, July 3 (Associated Press).—The Credentials Committee of the Conference for Progressive Political Action closely inspected today the credentials of arriving delegates for tomorrow's convention, approving only those from established bodies known to have no connection with the Communists.

"General" Jacob Coxey of "Coxey's Army" fame, was denied credentials, and announced wrathfully that he would "see about it."

The committee explained that "General" Coxey did not represent any of the organizations affiliated with the conference, and the "General" said he represented the Populist arty. He planned a second appeal to the committee tomorrow.

REBUFFS LEAGUE UNION.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 3.—In view of Premier MacDonald's announcement that he will attend this year's assembly of the League of Nations comment was caused today by an evening paper's statement that the Prime Minister had refused to become Honorary President of the League of Nations Union or even to receive its literature.

It is said his action was the result of the Union's refusal some time ago to allow affiliation of the Independent Labor Party.

The League of Nations Union is a non-party organization which exists in Great Britain to disseminate information and engender enthusiasm concerning the League. The Daily News, however, observes editorially that in the mind of the public the two bodies are identical and the League is not in a sufficiently strong position to make an attack on the Union by responsible public men a matter of indifference.

LOSES $50,811 JUDGMENT.

Court Holds Jury Misunderstood Status of Injured Fireman.

A judgment for $50,811 obtained by Louis B. Christman, member of Engine Company 60, against the Union Railway Company was reversed yesterday by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court and a new trial ordered on the ground that the jury misunderstood the facts. Christman was injured Jan. 13, 1921, in a collision between the engine on which he was riding and a trolley car at 141st Street and St. Ann's Avenue, the Bronx.

Justice Martin, who wrote the opinion, stated that "it was evident that the jury did not understand under what circumstances Christman would be entitled to half pay." A juror inquired whether a fireman must work in order to collect half pay and was answered erroneously in the affirmative. The Court thinks the jury gave the verdict in the belief that since the fireman could not do light work he would get no pay from the city.

from party partisanship. Parties must take position on matters that are not in any sense purely labor questions. For example, they must deal with the tariff, a matter on which labor has taken no position for a great many years for obvious reasons.

First Concern for Wage-Earners.

"The American Federation of Labor is a labor organization. Its principal object is to protect and promote the interests of the toiling masses. It must, in the field of politics, press for these men and meaures that advance the interests of the toiling masses. Labor has its broad interests of citizenship and general progress, but its first concern is solely with the welfare of the great masses of wage earners.

"Principles for which labor contends cannot be the private property of any political party. These principles have to do with humanitarian and libertanian issues. They are neither Republican nor Democratic, neither socialistic nor Populistic, not any more than that they are Presbyterian or Baptist.

"These principles must be considered by men and be accepted or rejected by men. If a whole political party organization wishes to support any or all of labor's principles, that is entirely agreeable to labor.

"But such an act could not put the party label on the principles to the exclusion of any other support.

Calls Labor's Principles Non-Partisan.

"Principles which labor supports may, on the other hand, be rejected entirely by an entire party organization, but that cannot signify that there has been any change in the principles. Politically, they remain as non-partisan as ever.

"Representatives of all parties have espoused measures for which labor has contended. Witness such measures as the seamen's act, the eight-hour act, the Clayton act, the suffrage amendment, the recent immigration act, and the still more notable child labor amendment to the United States Constitution.

"In each case a larger percentage of one party voted for these measures than was mustered by the other party, but that did not make them party measures. Labor was interested in the success of the measures, not in the fortunes of a party.

"Seldom has a labor measure been fought through Congress as a strict party measure, either Republican or Democratic, and labor has not had any wish that any party should seek to exclude the other party from sponsorship of and support of labor's demands.

"There is nothing inherent in any labor demand to stamp it as impossible of acceptance by men of any political allegiance. There is nothing in any labor demand to stamp it as Republican or Democratic. Nor is there any labor demand that inherently requires a new political party for its success.

"Labor's Demands Not Political."

"It is all condensed in the simple statement that essentially labor's demands are not political.

"To enter into a partisan relationship with any political party—even a party which might call itself a labor party—would necessitate the espousal of propositions that were not an outgrowth of the labor movement and its requirements.

"The labor movement would have to participate in the fight for or against propositions of a purely political nature having nothing to do with labor.

"And, regardless of what the intellectuals may say—they must be saying something at all times—there is no partisan political labor movement anywhere, in America, Europe or elsewhere, that has yet demonstrated its real value to labor or to the masses of the people generally. That is said not as a criticism, but as a judgment on the results achieved.

"The American trade union movement is a labor movement. It has to its credit achievements unrivaled anywhere else in the world. It has demonstrated the soundness of its own contention, which is that a labor movement cannot also be something else and maintain its labor character and secure its labor results.

"The so-called third party movements may gratify certain ambitions. They may suit certain purposes. If the time comes when neither of the now dominant parties responds to the will of the people, then the people will either rebuild one or both of them or abandon both of them in a great revolt and rebuilding, but that will not be the sort of thing we know today as a third party movement. That will not be the carbonated performances of little coteries, nor the calculated political sabotage of revolutionists.

Policy Developed by Experience.

"American labor has developed its non-partisan political policy out of long experience. If experience had shown a better method, that better method would have been adopted. No movement in the world responds more readily to the teachings of experience than the American trade union movement. None is less afraid to blaze the way along new lines, if there is proof that those lines are sound.

"In that connection the temptation is to speak frankly and to say that many of those who shout for partisan political action do so because they are afraid not to. They are afraid that they will lose caste in their surroundings, afraid they will no longer be considered good proletarians, good revolutionists, good uncompromisers. This is all very silly for human beings; but, after all, many human beings are silly and many are sadly lacking in conviction, purpose and courage.

"That is the political status of American labor as the great 1924 campaign gets under way. American labor will be partisan to principles.

"It will fight to the finish against every candidate who is opposed to those principles; it will fight to the last for every candidate who is for them; and it is all the same whether these are candidates for the Presidency, for Congress or for the least and most humble office in the last small village on the further border line. And labor is going to win tremendous victories this year."

HOBSON HAS A WAY OUT.

Proposes Putting Both Leaders on Ticket and Adjourning.

Richmond Pearson Hobson, one-time hero of the Merrimac, evolved last night a plan for getting delegates out of their seats permanently before the Fourth of July passes.

"Let the leaders, McAdoo and Smith, have their runs and then, at a certain time, let the high man accept the Presidential nomination and the low man the Vice Presidential nomination," he said.

"With both men on the ticket we can sweep the country. McAdoo will appeal to the drys and the Protestants. Smith will appeal to the wets and the Catholics. The Klan and anti-Klan matter will be buried forever. McAdoo will carry the West, Smith will carry the East, and both men will carry the South."

When last seen Mr. Hobson was looking for George Brennan and other leaders to present the plan, and a delegate with tired feet who heard of the plan was starting a Hobson-for-President boom.

Three Added to Leopold-Loeb List—Leopold Sr. Visits His Son.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 3.—Three more alienists have been added to the impressive array of mental experts who are to try to save Nathan F. Leopold Jr. and Richard A. Loeb from the gallows. They are Dr. William Healey of Boston, who once was connected with the Chicago Boys' Court; Dr. Sanger Brown of Kenilworth Sanitarium and Dr. Ralph Hammill of Chicago.

The regular routine of Leopold with his examinations by experts and specialists was broken late yesterday, when his father visited him. It was the first time the senior Leopold had seen his son in jail, although he had been in court on two previous occasions on preliminary matters.

For the first time Leopold displayed emotion, and he was plainly nervous as he walked to his father and kissed him. He talked quietly with him for a few minutes, apparently finding great comfort in his parent's visit. He also spoke to his two brothers, Foreman and Samuel.

Attorney Benjamin Bachrach, associate counsel for Leopold and Loeb, has been in New York for several days to obtain the services of several prominent alienists of that and other Eastern cities.

The alienists will be used here in examining the boys for traces of mental disorders, it was reported tonight.

COAL PROPERTIES COMBINE.

Hillman Company of Pittsburgh and 5 Others Complete Merger.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, July 3.—Under a new charter granted yesterday by the State Department at Harrisburg, the Hillman Coal and Coke Company of Pittsburgh and five subsidiary concerns directly connected with the operating end of the coal industry have been combined. The new company will operate under the name of the Hillman Coal and Coke Company. It has a capitalization of $8,752,000.

The companies taken in by the parent corporation are the Diamond Coal and Coke Company, Merchants Coal Corporation, Jenner Quemahoning Coal Company, Pittsburgh and Baltimore Coal Company and the Naomi Coal Company. Several thousand men are employed by these companies.

A. B. Sheets, Vice President of the Hillman and Diamond companies, said today that the action was one of consolidation and did not represent any acquisitions not heretofore controlled by the company.

The officers of the Hillman Coal and Coke Company are: Chairman of the Board of Directors, J. H. Hillman Jr., President; Tracey W. Guthrie; Vice Presidents, A. B. Sheets, Ernest Hillman; Vice President and Secretary, Thomas Watson; Treasurer, R. W. Flennikin.

New Directors for Oil Company.

Directors of the Producers and Refiners Corporation at their annual meeting in Denver yesterday approved a reduction in the number of directors from thirteen to seven. The new board includes Frank E. Kistler, W. S. Fitzpatrick, Nelson K. Moody, Dana H. Kelsey, W. L. Kistler, John Fertig and W. L. Lockhart. Most of the new directors are officials of the Prairie Oil and Gas Company, which now owns the greater part of the capital stock of the Producers and Refiners Corporation.

RIOT IN PHILADELPHIA.

Raid Ends Meeting to Denounce Matteotti's Murder—7 Arrested.

PHILADELPHIA, July 3.—Police interference at a meeting here tonight in protest against the assassination of Giacomo Matteotti, Socialist member of the Italian Chamber of Deputies, resulted in the beating of two detectives and the arrest of seven participants in the meeting.

Among those arrested were C. William Thompson, editor of The New Jersey Leader, a Socialist publication; H. M. Wicks, arrested here a month ago for alleged inflammatory statements, and Emedio Pistilli, Chairman of the meeting and President of Local 21, United Shoe Workers of America. They are charged with inciting to riot.

Following addresses directed against Fascism, speakers announced that a collection would be taken to aid the Anti-Fascisti Association of New York to erect a memorial to the slain deputy. Detective Joseph Mazzeo told the assemblage it had no right to take up such a collection, the police said, but left with his companion, Dominic Gadalati, when shown the credentials of the leaders, including their permit to meet.

According to the police, several men followed the pair outside the hall and attacked them. Gadalati was stabbed in the left shoulder. Mazzeo was beaten about the face, but was able to send in a riot call and return with a raiding squad which broke up the meeting and took the leaders into custody.

ARMY SALES CHARGE FAILS.

Jacksonville Lumberman Exonerated in Washington Court.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—John Stephens, lumberman of Jacksonville, Fla., defendant in the Philips lumber case now on trial in Criminal Court 2 before Justice Jennings Bailey, was exonerated today in a memorandum opinion signed by the court.

Ernest C. Morse, former Director of Sales for the War Department, through whose hands much of the surplus War Department lumber mentioned in the conspiracy indictment passed, was exonerated several days ago.

The court announced that next Monday it would direct a verdict of not guilty as to these two defendants and also explain why.

The court overruled the motions for directed verdicts of not guilty presented by counsel for John L. Philips, Georgia politician and lumberman, Frank T. Sullivan, Buffalo, N. Y., lumberman; Charles S. Shotwell and Charles Philips Jr., the other defendants, who were jointly charged with having conspired to defraud the Government out of about $1,500,000.

KEIM PROPERTY SOLD.

Four Pieces of Realty Owned by Arson Victim Brings $41,000.

Four pieces of realty included in the estate of George F. Keim, a theatrical manager and playwright, who lost his life in an incendiary fire on Oct. 15, at 8,417 Nineteenth Avenue, Bath Beach, have been sold for a total of $41,000, according to a report submitted yesterday to Supreme Court Justice Lewis in Brooklyn. Samuel E. Maires, an attorney, was appointed to dispose of these properties, which were contracted for by Keim and were taken over by his executors.

Keim's son-in-law, William S. Ford, is waiting execution in the death house at Sing Sing Prison, for burning the Bath Beach house, in which five other persons perished with Keim. The appraisal of the entire estate of Keim has not been completed.

FRENCH STIRRED BY LONDON REPORT

Hear MacDonald Proposes New Body to Consider Dawes Plan Default by Germany.

HERRIOT ISSUES DENIAL

Nationalists Charge England Seeks to Deprive of Power French-Controlled Reparation Board.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 3.—The report from London that in the invitations to the Inter-allied Conference on July 16 Premier MacDonald had outlined an agenda including the establishment of a new body to consider default by Germany under the Dawes reparation plan aroused such a furore in Paris that Premier Herriot was obliged this afternoon to issue a veiled denial.

His statement said that the French Government had not yet received the invitation and therefore whatever was said about it was "premature and inaccurate."

The alleged MacDonald proposal might have the effect of taking from the Reparation Commission its power under the treaty to decide when Germany was in default. There are four members of the commission, British, French, Belgian and Italian, and France, by the deciding vote of the Chairman, has always held control. The prospect of giving up that power aroused the Nationalists and some members of the Left as well.

Promise Exacted by Poincare.

It is understood that at a secret meeting of the Senate Foreign Affairs Committee yesterday M. Poincaré exacted from M. Herriot the specific statement that he would consent to no change in the provisions of the Treaty of Versailles. Therefore this morning's papers said that Mr. MacDonald held that inasmuch as the experts' plans contained provisions not in the treaty it would be very natural to set up a new body to consider alleged violations of the plan. There began immediately a pilgrimage to the Quai d'Orsay.

Frenchmen foresee that in the proposed new commission they would not have control. The Nationalists, holding that France's only claims on Germany lie in the provisions of the Versailles Treaty, want the Dawes plan put into operation under the treaty system and under no new plan which, they fear would give England the master hand. Inasmuch as Parliament is remaining in session at the demand of the Poincaréists until M. Herriot returns from London, an important, if not decisive, debate, would surely follow his accepting the plan indicated as being favored by Mr. MacDonald.

The threat to use the force of the French Army always had potency through French control of the Reparation Commission, and many Frenchmen feel that the effect would be unfortunate for payment of reparations if the Germans came to think that a new barrier had been erected between the French Army and the Reich.

The Nationalist press takes the stand that England is seeking to take from France the power to act independently toward Germany, and it fears M. Herriot's great desire to work with England may lead him to make this concession. The Left press takes the stand that it would be better to have an independent, impartial body like the League of Nations rule on German defaults than to leave it to the Reparation Commission.

These are the general lines of the debate which promises to be the centre of interest at the London conference. The experts' plan lays down elaborate systems of control, and naturally the commissions controlling these systems would report when Germany was not fulfilling the conditions. It has hitherto been the French position that these bodies should work under and report to the Reparation Commission, and there is much in the wording of the Dawes plan to support this contention. It would appear that Mr. MacDonald thinks the commissions of control should report to an "impartial" body rather than to the Reparation Commission controlled by France.

The newspapers are inclined to throw the blame for the divergence of views on the subject of the London conference and the curious form of the invitation which has been sent to other countries but not to France, on the permanent officials of the British Foreign Office and not primarily on Mr. MacDonald. Today there will be delivered at Downing Street an inquiry from the Quai d'Orsay concerning the meaning of the information as to the nature of the conference which has come from London. Until that explanation is forthcoming the French press, under official guidance, is refraining from commenting too harshly on the apparent intention to deprive the Reparation Commission of those sovereign rights in reparation matters which were given to it by the Treaty of Versailles.

But Jules Sauerwein in The Matin, who has been not unfavorably disposed to the Herriot Government, writes The Matin the warning that unless admission is made by Downing Street that the views of the object of the conference expressed the invitation which has been made public are purely of English and not of Franco-English origin, "there will not be any French Government which will participate in a conference destined to demolish the few rights which the Treaty of Versailles has left to France."

Why Invitation Was Not Sent.

LONDON, July 3.—The Quai d'Orsay announced in Paris today that it had so far received no written invitation from the British Government to attend the London conference and that "all communications regarding this invitation must in consequence be regarded as premature and tendencious."

The explanation is simply that Premiers MacDonald and Herriot jointly took the resolution that the conference should be held and therefore the British Foreign Office only sent written invitations to the other Allies.

MACDONALD PREDICTS ACCORD IN 3 WEEKS

Tells Constituents of His Pleasure in Americans' Participation in Allied Conference.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 3.—In a speech to his Welsh constituents today Premier MacDonald said he believed the forthcoming allied conference in London on the Dawes report would be successful. This conference of all the Allies, he said, would sit knowing that a new leaf must be turned if Europe was going to be saved; knowing that there was no use in bickering and quarreling over pettyfogging points. The time had come, he said, to make agreements that were perfectly practical and would be beneficial if put into operation.

At that conference, he was very glad to say, the Allies would have America—not fully represented, but there, watching, helping and cooperating. The time must come, he said, when the great Republic of the West would have to help in some way to solve European problems. America would not come in to a European concert. He did not wish her to do so, and she was too wise to do so; but there was no great nation on the face of the earth like America, mighty in the quality of its people, powerful in its wealth, that could isolate itself from others. He felt sure that no people, once it felt that it had a moral obligation, would bear it more manfully and loyally than the kindred people of the United States.

Mr. MacDonald said he was disquieted by the fact that nearly ten years after the war there were more armaments in Europe than in 1914. Armaments, he said, could not be reduced by passing resolutions or writing dispatches; it had to be considered how best to effect reduction. Some poor, petty-minded people had complained because he was not going to let the navy go to rack and ruin. It was not his conception of disarmament that one nation should throw down its weapons and say:

"We are not protected, and you can do as you like." His conception of things was that the nation was bound to keep a minimum of forces going until such time as a complete understanding had been reached.

The best way to get disarmament was to create first of all conditions of peace. An agreement with other nations must be reached, and he believed the allied conferees were going to come to an agreement in three weeks' time on the application of the Dawes report.

RUHR COAL OWNERS CANCEL MICUM ACCORD

Assert It Is Impossible to Finance Further Deliveries to France.

PARIS, July 3.—The Ruhr coal owners decided today at Düsseldorf to denounce at once the agreements signed with the Franco-Belgian Mission only four days ago for delivery of coal up to July 20.

The accords for delivery on reparations account were renewed until that date, and it was expected that there would be no withdrawal before then, when a possible renewal would be made for a period until the Dawes reparations plan was in operation. But the German mine owners have not waited for the time limit to expire.

At the meeting today they announced that it would be impossible for them to find means to finance coal deliveries to France during the month of August. If they stand on that decision, it is said here, then the whole Ruhr mechanism created by te Poincaré Government after a nine months' fight will fall to the ground.

FOUND FRANCE CHASTENED.

Breitscheid Gives Impressions of His Visit to Paris.

BERLIN, July 3.—"France is disillusioned at the results of the Ruhr occupation and her defeat in the Ruhr," said Dr. Rudolf Breitscheid, the noted Socialist leader and Reichstag member, just back from his visit to Paris, in a talk with me today.

"The Herriot Government really desires to come to an understanding with Germany and carry out the Dawes report," he went on. "And even if M. Herriot is unable to continue in power France will still work toward an understanding with Germany, since the bulk of the French, especially the peasantry, are weary of Poincaréism.

"It is inconceivable that a Government composed of parties of the Right should regain ascendency in France. To be sure, M. Poincaré is still strong and intriguing to regain power, as is shown especially by exploitation of the story that Germany was arming to attack France. But no French Government can stand without socialist support now, and the French Socialists lean strongly toward the Left.

"While I was in Paris I talked with M. Herriot about the Ruhr evacuation and the release of the German Ruhr prisoners. From this talk and talks with many other Frenchmen I derived the impression that the feeling in France toward Germany is far friendlier than before. If M. Herriot stays in power complete French evacuation of the Ruhr is bound to come soon. Already he has promised economic evacuation.

"Serious difficulties still lie in the path of ultimate evacuation since France insists upon first receiving payments from Germany based on the Dawes report. Nevertheless, evacuation will occur unless the German Nationalists win such success as to make the French again distrustful. The French trust the present German Government's sincerity.

"Acceptance of the allied military control note made by Germany made an excellent impression in France. Had the note not been accepted M. Poincaré and the other extreme French Nationalists would have been strengthened."

Dr. Breitschild again denied emphatically the German Nationalist accusation that he had advocated the appointment of General Nollet as French War Minister and helped draft the German answer to the allied military note. He called attention to the fact that he had brought suit against General Von der Goltz and the Mittel-Deutsche Rundeschau, a Leipsic newspaper, for their statements regarding his trip to Paris.

FRENCH SOCIALISTS SPLIT.

But They Fear Overthrow of Herriot and Are Trying to Get Together.

PARIS, July 3.—Alarmed by the possibility of the overthrow of Premier Herriot's Government in consequence of a split vote among the Socialists, such as happened last Saturday during the debate of Ruhr credits, the Socialist Party in the Chamber held a meeting today to decide upon their tactics.

Opinion was very divided among them, as half of the group, led by Léon Blum, while anxious to maintain M. Herriot in power is at the same time emphatic that the relationship between Socialists and Radicals must not be such as will in any way compromise the independent position of the former.

The other party, under the guidance of Paul Boncour, argued that whatever sacrifice of independence was momentarily made, the Government must not be jeopardized and must not be placed in the position in which it was last Saturday when it had to depend on the Nationalists for a majority.

The discussion, it is stated, was very confused and no definite ruling could be obtained. It was therefore decided that the party should hold a meeting before every important vote entailing confidence in the Government, to decide upon a course of action.

BERLIN, July 3. — President of the Reichstag Herr Wallraf is not among those allowed to return to their Rhineland homes pursuant to the amnesty proclamation just issued by the Herriot Government.

Herr Wallraf, who belongs to the Nationalist Party and was an active Nationalist worker in the Rhineland, was expelled by the French shortly after the Ruhr occupation last year. The Nationalists here are angry because he has not been allowed to go back, and demand that the Reichstag take up the matter when it reconvenes.

SAY IT'S UP TO GERMANY.

Ambassadors Will Reject Time Limit on Military Control Inquiry.

PARIS, July 3.—The reply of the Ambassadors' conference to Germany's note relative to allied military control, which was completed today and will be submitted to the allied Governments for their approval, takes cognizance of the Reich's promise to permit the resumption of inter-allied military control, effective again July 20.

The council undertakes no engagements with regard to the date of withdrawing military control, as it will depend upon Germany alone if operations are terminated by September 30, as Germany demands.

BERLIN, July 3 (Associated Press).—Chancellor Marx and Foreign Minister Stresemann today explained to the Premiers of the German Federated States, gathered here to discuss the Dawes report, the exact status of the negotiations and urged acceptance of the report.

Although no resolution will be passed, it is expected the Premiers will individually approve the Government's policy.

MUSSOLINI'S CONTROL TO GO

Copyright, 1924, by The New York Times Company
By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, July 3.—An official communication announces that Premier Mussolini has decided that the Fascista militia before the expiration of this month shall swear an oath of fealty to the King.

This new oath which automatically frees the militiamen from their old one of absolute devotion and unhesitating obedience to the head of the State—in other words to Mussolini himself—marks the first step towards the absorption of the militia into the regular army, which was one of the things Mussolini promised the Senate in his speech after Deputy Matteotti's murder.

It also marks the first and greatest step toward the return to true democratic government in Italy, for it deprives Mussolini of the support of 300,000 loyal rifles to which he could always appeal if Parliament failed to support him and which formed the real basis of his dictatorial Government.

Opposition Press Not Satisfied.

The opposition press, however, is not satisfied with this measure, which it considers insufficient, and continues to insist, in the words of the resolution unanimously passed by all the opposition parties on June 28 for the "total abolition of all party militias." The fact that the Fascista militia swears faithfulness to the King, it maintains, nothing as long as the militia itself is still in existence as a machine belonging exclusively to and worked exclusively in the interests of the Fascista Party.

To meet these criticisms of the opposition a further aid still more radical transformation of the militia is expected at an early date. Its membership will be thrown open to any one who wishes to join, a general belonging to the regular army will be placed at its head and it will be subjected to army discipline. Special facilities will be granted to all those who have served in it when their turn comes for compulsory military service at the age of 21.

Difficulties in Applying Plan.

This plan, which is very simple in theory, is finding serious difficulties in its practical application. Most of these difficulties arise from the hasty way in which the militia was formed and its officers chosen. Officers of the Fascista militia in fact were selected on the basis of the progress they showed in Fascismo's fight against Bolshevism and quite irrespective of the rank they held in the regular army during the war.

Thus Italo Balbo, who was a Second Lieutenant during the war, is now Commander in Chief of the militia with the rank and pay of an army General. When the militia is incorporated in the army it is obviously impossible to make Italo Balbo, who is still under thirty years of age, a General in the regular army and it is equally impossible to expect him to submit to being degraded to the rank of Second Lieutenant.

Cases such as this, of which there are thousands, make the problem of the absorption of militia into army extremely difficult.

Premier Mussolini has completed the reorganization of his cabinet by accepting the resignations of all the undersecretaries of state—eight in number—and replacing them with fourteen new ones. The increase in number is due to the fact that under secretaries have been restored in several ministrys where they had been suppressed. The majority of them are Fascisti but they have been chosen from the more moderate wing.

SOUGHT KNIGHTHOOD FOR A FEE, WINS SUIT

Contractor Gets Verdict for £3,000 From College That Fails to Obtain British Title.

LONDON, July 3.—Lieut. Col. G. W. Parkinson, a Blackpool contractor, yesterday won a verdict in his action against the College of Ambulance, Ltd., and its managing secretary, E. E. Harrison, for the return of £3,000 paid by him in the belief that it would get a knighthood for him.

One of the principal witnesses was Mrs. Robins, who said that she gave Parkinson a letter of introduction to some influential persons who could help him in a political career; that afterward she tried to obtain knighthood for him, and that he promised to give her £500.

The Daily Express says that Mrs. Robins is an American by birth, being a daughter of the late Samuel B. Stannard, and that she frequently had appeared on the English and American stage under her maiden name of Anna Stannard.

Miss Stannard, daughter of the late Samuel B. Stannard, a St. Louis politician, was well known on the New York stage twenty years ago. She appeared in the Dumas production of "The Queen's Necklace" at Daly's Theatre with Mrs. James Brown Potter and Kyrle Bellew. She also was in the original production of "Lady Windermere's Fan."

She went to London in 1906 and gained considerable fame as a drawing room entertainer. She also is a writer, and an article of hers on Michael Angelo was favorably commented upon.

Miss Knight, a good swimmer, waded out, the tide being low, and it is thought that she stepped into a hole. None of her companions noticed her go down. When they missed her a search was begun. Policemen William Plunkett and David Hughes of the Interstate Park Police, using a launch, recovered the body.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LYONS, July 3.—According to Count von Bernstorff Germany desires to apply for admission to the League of Nations, but fears a possible rebuff through French and British objections.

Interviewed today the former German Ambassador to Washington, head of the German delegation to the Federation of League of Nations Societies Conference here, said there seemed no good rason why the outstanding difficulties of the German situation should not be settled in London this month and Germany admitted to the League in September, provided Great Britain and France would support her application.

"There are four remaining difficulties—two on each side—between Germany and the other powers," he said. "I see no reason why they cannot be solved in London. France is concerned with a reparations settlement through operation of the Dawes report and with the disarmament of Germany. The German attitude toward the Dawes report is favorable, so there is no reason why it should not be applied immediately. The German note on disarmament has been favorably received and marks great progress. The question would now seem to be on the road to solution. A general inspection can be completed within two months.

"Germany has two desires: She wants to see the German territory occupied beyond the stipulations of the Peace Treaty returned to German control and complete amnesty for those deported or imprisoned as a result of the Ruhr struggle. Germany feels very strongly on the first point. M. Herriot is rapidly bringing about a solution of the second."

The former Ambassador explained that Germany was not sentimentally interested in the League, but being in Europe must work with the other nations for mutual good. Much work was being done through the League and in the long run Germany could not remain out. The attitude of the British Premier so far seemed reassuring as regarded an application by Germany for entry into the League.

In conclusion the Count said he was now out of touch with American opinion and could not say what effect Germany's joining the League might have on Americans of German origin.

YOSHIDA REACHES VICTORIA.

Japanese Charge Arrives From Tokio to Relieve Hanihara.

VICTORIA, B. C., July 3.—Isaburo Yoshida, on his way to assume the post of Counselor of the Japanese Embassy to the United States, arrived yesterday from Tokio.

"I am going to Washington to act as a caretaker," said Mr. Yoshida, who is to have charge of the embassy until a successor has been named to the Hon. Masanao Hanihara, who recently resigned.

Mr. Hanihara is expected to leave Washington soon after the arrival of Mr. Yoshida.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Chargé Caffery at Tokio advised the State Department that he had been officially informed that the man who tore down the American flag in the American Embassy compound had been arrested, and that a representative of the Tokio Police Department called upon him on July 1 to apologize on behalf of the police.

MEXICO RELEASES DR. ROSE.

Hughes Protest Aids Texan Accused of Smuggling Guns to Rebels.

DEL RIO, Texas, July 3.—Dr. Fred M. Rose of Del Rio, held by Mexican authorities since Sunday at Villa Acuna, on instructions from Mexico City, was released last night.

Secretary of State Hughes had made strong representations to the Mexican Government to either release Dr. Rose or file specific charges against him. It had been stated unofficially in Mexican circles on the border that Rose had been connected with gun smuggling to Mexican rebels. This Dr. Rose denied.

RUSSIA GETS MEAT CARGO.

Part of Argentine Shipment Will Go to the Red Army.

LENINGRAD, July 3.—Seven million pounds of frozen meat from the Argentine, the second shipment of South American meat here since pre-war days, arrived yesterday.

Part of the cargo will be placed on public sale in Moscow and other needy centres of Russia, while the rest will be supplied to the Red Army. The appearance of this large quantity of foreign meat is expected materially to lower the present high prices on the Russian market.

AMENDMENT IS REJECTED.

Georgia Senate Adopts House Resolution Relating to Child Labor.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 3.—By a vote of 34 to 0, the Atlanta Senate today adopted a house resolution providing for the rejection of the proposed Twentieth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States which would give Congress the power to regulate and prohibit employment of all persons under eighteen years of age.

The lower House rejected the amendment on Thursday by a vote of 170 to 3.

HEAVY QUAKE REGISTERS.

Rome Thinks Centre Was in Asia—Washington Also Records It.

ROME, July 3.—The seismographic observatories this morning recorded an unusually strong earthquake. The shock came at 5 A. M. and was so violent that it put all the instruments out of action temporarily.

The Bandani Observatory estimated that the centre of the shock was about 5,800 kilometers distant, probably in Turkestan or India. The oscillation lasted one hour.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—A rather severe earthquake was registered on the Georgetown University seismograph beginning at 12:05 o'clock this morning and lasting until 2 o'clock. Father Tondorf placed its maximum severity between 12:40 and 12:46 A. M. Its location was not determined, but it was apparently a distant disturbance.

SEES BIG SETBACK FOR LIQUOR RUNNING

JAIL AND FINES FOR SIX

Stone Announces That Libel Against British Schooner and Whisky Will Be Pressed.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Department of Justice officials regard the conviction and sentence which the Government has just obtained in the Southern District of Texas in the case of the master and crew of the British schooner Island Home, who were charged with a conspiracy to violate the Federal prohibition laws, as an important development in the campaign to stop rum-running at sea.

The department has been advised that three American citizens and three British subjects were sentenced to jail, the terms ranging from four to eighteen months. The fines were in sums ranging from $250 to $5,000.

Attorney General Stone announced that libel proceedings against the vessel and its cargo of 1,709 cases of whisky will now be taken up and prosecuted. The Island Home was seized about five miles off Galveston, Texas, Nov. 23, 1923.

Attorney General Stone is of the opinion that charges filed and sustained against the masters and crews of vessels which are caught in attempts to import liquor will make it difficult for the shore operators, who, the officials say, are the real conspirators, to get seamen to command the boats they employ. The officials state that such criminal prosecutions against the members of the crews result in securing evidence that enables the authorities to bring into the conspiracy the shore operators and those who finance the rum-running operations.

"These are the persons who are really responsible for the smuggling and who reap the profits from it," says an announcement made at the Department of Justice.

The conviction of the master and crew of the Island Home was made possible by the close cooperation between the various units of the Federal Government, according to the Attorney General.

In the first instance, the Attorney General pointed out, the Coast Guard reported the suspicious movements of the vessel to the customs authorities. The customs inspectors at Galveston made an investigation and brought the ship into port, reporting the facts to the United States Attorney, who, acting for the Department of Justice, instituted criminal proceedings against the members of the crew and forfeiture proceedings against the vessel and its cargo.

The Treasury Department aided in the prosecution by supplying letters written by one of the crew to the U. S. S. Bache, containing important information bearing on the illegal operations of the vessels.

"This incident and others," said the Attorney General, "were all worked together by the Department of Justice officials to make a strong circumstantial case against the ship and her crew, and it was only by close cooperation of the various Government units that a conviction was secured."

Announcement was made today by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue that vessels that are permitted to carry sea-stores liquors under the British-American treaty, or other treaties of a like nature which may be negotiated, will be required to keep it securely locked while in American waters. Such stores may be released only in the presence of an American customs official or by written order of the customs authorities.

The new regulation, which is in amendment of one previously issued, provides that vessels that have a treaty or other lawful right to carry beverage liquors shall keep such liquors stored in a room or place not used for the storage of other articles.

CATHEDRAL TO BE MUSEUM.

Decreased Attendance May Close Many Churches in Russia.

LENINGRAD, July 3 (Associated Press).—Church attendance in Bolshevist Russia has decreased to such an extent that many churches are on the point of closing their doors. The religious authorities say that contributions from the congregations are so meagre that they scarcely are able to maintain the churches and pay the slender salaries of the clergymen.

St. Isaac's Cathedral, the most magnificent in all Russia, is a striking example of the changed order since the separation of the Church and State. Finding the collection baskets almost empty each Sunday, the governing body of the cathedral has decided to convert the superb edifice, erected at a cost exceeding $11,000,000, into a museum and offer it as a great relic of the past to the "Old Petrograd Society," a non-religious organization.

The plan, as outlined by the governing body, is to have the society convert the cathedral into a public museum and charge a sufficient fee to support the institution.

Americans who have visited Leningrad when it was known as St. Petersburg or Petrograd, will remember this famous cathedral. Memory may recall to them its superb columns of red granite, its enormous golden dome, the colossal doors of solid bronze, pillars of lapis lazuli and malachite, rich sculptures in striking bronze relief, magnificent paintings, exquisite mosaics, priceless ikons and huge ecclesiastical vessels of gold and silver. Forty years were required to build this great structure.

FARMERS CAUGHT WITH ALE.

Arrested Near Rochester With 200 Cases From Ontario.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 3.—Two farmers of Payne Beach, eighteen miles northwest of Rochester, were arrested early today by Customs Collector Andrew Widemann and 200 cases of Canadian ale were confiscated. The ale, according to alleged admissions made by the two, had just been unloaded from a speed boat that had brought the liquid across Lake Ontario.

Burt Post and his son-in-law, Walter Quinn, the two men arrested, are being held in jail here. Their relatives appeared at the Federal Building with money for bail. They cannot be released until they have been arraigned on bootlegging charges before a Federal Commissioner.

Half of the ale was found in Quinn's cellar. The rest, loaded aboard a truck, was found in Post's apple orchard, where he asserts he had driven when pursued by hi-jackers. Three expensive automobiles and another truck, apparently ready to take ale from Quinn's cellar, disappeared as the customs men approached and escaped in the darkness.

IRISH TO VISA PASSPORTS.

Free State Office in New York Will Take Over Work on July 14.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The international status of the Irish Free State, which will soon name a Minister to the United States, was emphasized today when announcement was made by Professor Timothy A. Smiddy, the Free State's representative here, that after July 14 passports of persons going to that territory from New York must be visad by the passport control office of the Irish Free State in New York. This office is at 100 East Forty-fifth Street.

At present persons desiring to go to the Irish Free State have their passports recorded through British officials. As yet, Professor Smiddy said, he has received no announcement as to the naming of a Minister or of the plan for dividing the work of the Ministry and the British Embassy.

AGREEMENT IN VIENNA WILL AID OUR DOCTORS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, July 3.—The American Medical Association of Vienna, with about two hundred members who are completing their studies, has just completed an agreement which will be of utmost importance to American doctors who wish to study in Vienna in the future.

The Vienna Medical Faculty has agreed to recognize American Class A colleges on the same basis that one Class A college in the United States recognizes a competing Class A college. In other words, doctors who began their work in the United States can finish their medical course leading to and receiving a medical degree in Austria.

Dr. Davis Poe, President of the American Association, said that relations between the American Association and the Vienna Faculty have been so pleasant that the Americans wished to go one step further by bringing academic America and academic Austria closer together by establishing an exchange of professorships.

Thirty-seven American doctors arrived in Vienna two days ago from all parts of the United States to make a few months' study in Vienna. A majority of the American doctors are studying eye, ear, throat and nose troubles. Although many will remain only a few months in Vienna and get a diploma, some are expected to stay for years.

The Americans here have arranged a glorious celebration for the Fourth, when the President of Austria will make an address.

Sir Esme Howard in Ottawa.

OTTAWA, July 3.—Sir Esme Howard, British Ambassador at Washington, came here today to be a guest of the Governor General until Monday. He will address the Canadian Club tomorrow on "Maintenance of World Peace."

RULING ON RENT LAWS.

Court Excludes Tenants Who Let Most of Thier Premises.

The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court decided yesterday that the emergency rent laws do not apply to persons who rent out the greater part of their premises to roomers, because they are "engaged in business," and that the law does not cover so much of the property as is rented out. The court heard the case of Nystad & Kresser, Inc., as landlord, against Gustave Zerbe, tenant at 249 West Twenty-third Street, which was submitted as a test for about sixty similar cases now pending.

Zerbe was directed by the landlord to pay an increased rental or move, and when he refused to pay he was haled to the Municipal Court in a dispossess proceeding. The Court decided that he was entitled to the protection of the rent laws as to three of the seventeen rooms he used personally in the house which he occupied, but that the landlord could have possession of the other rooms. The Appellate Term reversed the decision, but the Appellate Division yesterday upheld the Municipal Court, holding that Zerbe leased the five-story house in part for business purposes. Justice Smith said in the opinion of the Court:

"Under the plain interpretation of the statute, where three floors out of five are let to roomers upon a monthly tenancy, such part of the premises are used for business, otherwise a landlord might occupy a room in a very large house and claim that his occupancy of that room made it a dwelling house."

SEEK POLAR FLIGHT FUNDS.

Italians Want Locatelli to Lead an Airplane Expedition.

ROME, July 3.—A public fund to enable Lieutenant Locatelli, the Italian ace, to lead an airplane expedition to the North Pole was started today. The fund was inaugurated by three wearers of gold medals for valor, headed by Captain Paolucci. Locatelli, who is also a gold medallist, was to have piloted the Amundsen polar expedition, which was recently postponed because of a lack of funds.

In order to finance the proposed Italian expedition, it is planned to negotiate with the industrial firms and journalistic organizations to form a committee which will launch an appeal to the country for a national subscription, which will be in addition to funds provided by the Government.

The fund will enable Locatelli to add other airplanes to his train and also will aid in creating supply stations along the route.

MARTIN LAW FAILS TO BAR COTTON SALES

Attorney General Loses Suit to Prevent Members of Scott Norris & Co. From Dealing.

Supreme Court Justice Wagner denied yesterday the application by the Attorney General for an injunction under the Martin law restraining the members of Scott Norris & Co. from doing a cotton brokerage business. The firm failed last November for $1,000,000. An extensive inquiry was conducted by the Attorney General for the purpose of bringing out testimony as to whether cotton orders were being bucketed.

In his decision Justice Wagner stated that the Martin law was passed to prevent fraudulent practices in the sale of stocks, bonds and securities, but the Court states that the present law does not cover transactions in cotton, although a previous law from which the statute was taken did include "commodities." Justice Wagner said that the contention of the Attorney General that the present law should be held to include transactions in cotton because the former law did so "would open wide the door and give virtual control of all business by examination and inquiry."

Justice Wagner accordingly denied that statement on the ground that cotton transactions are not covered by the law. Indictments for bucketing have been returned against members of the firm, and Earl L. McGuiggan and Carlisle Rountree have been arrested.

FINDS HER KIDNAPPED SON.

Taunton (Mass.) Woman's Child, Away Five Years, Was in Chicago.

CHICAGO, July 3.—A five-year search by Mrs. Florence Smith of Taunton, Mass., for her son Russell, who was kidnapped from their home near Boston, has ended here with the finding of the child, now 8 years old.

A year ago the boy was picked up in a dazen condition by a policeman and turned over by the juvenile authorities to Mrs. L. D. Heinzelman. His frequent repeating of the word "Tonton" led the foster-mother and the authorities to communicate with the Boston police, who informed Mrs. Smith.

Through photographs Mrs. Smith established the identity of the boy, who did not recognize her.

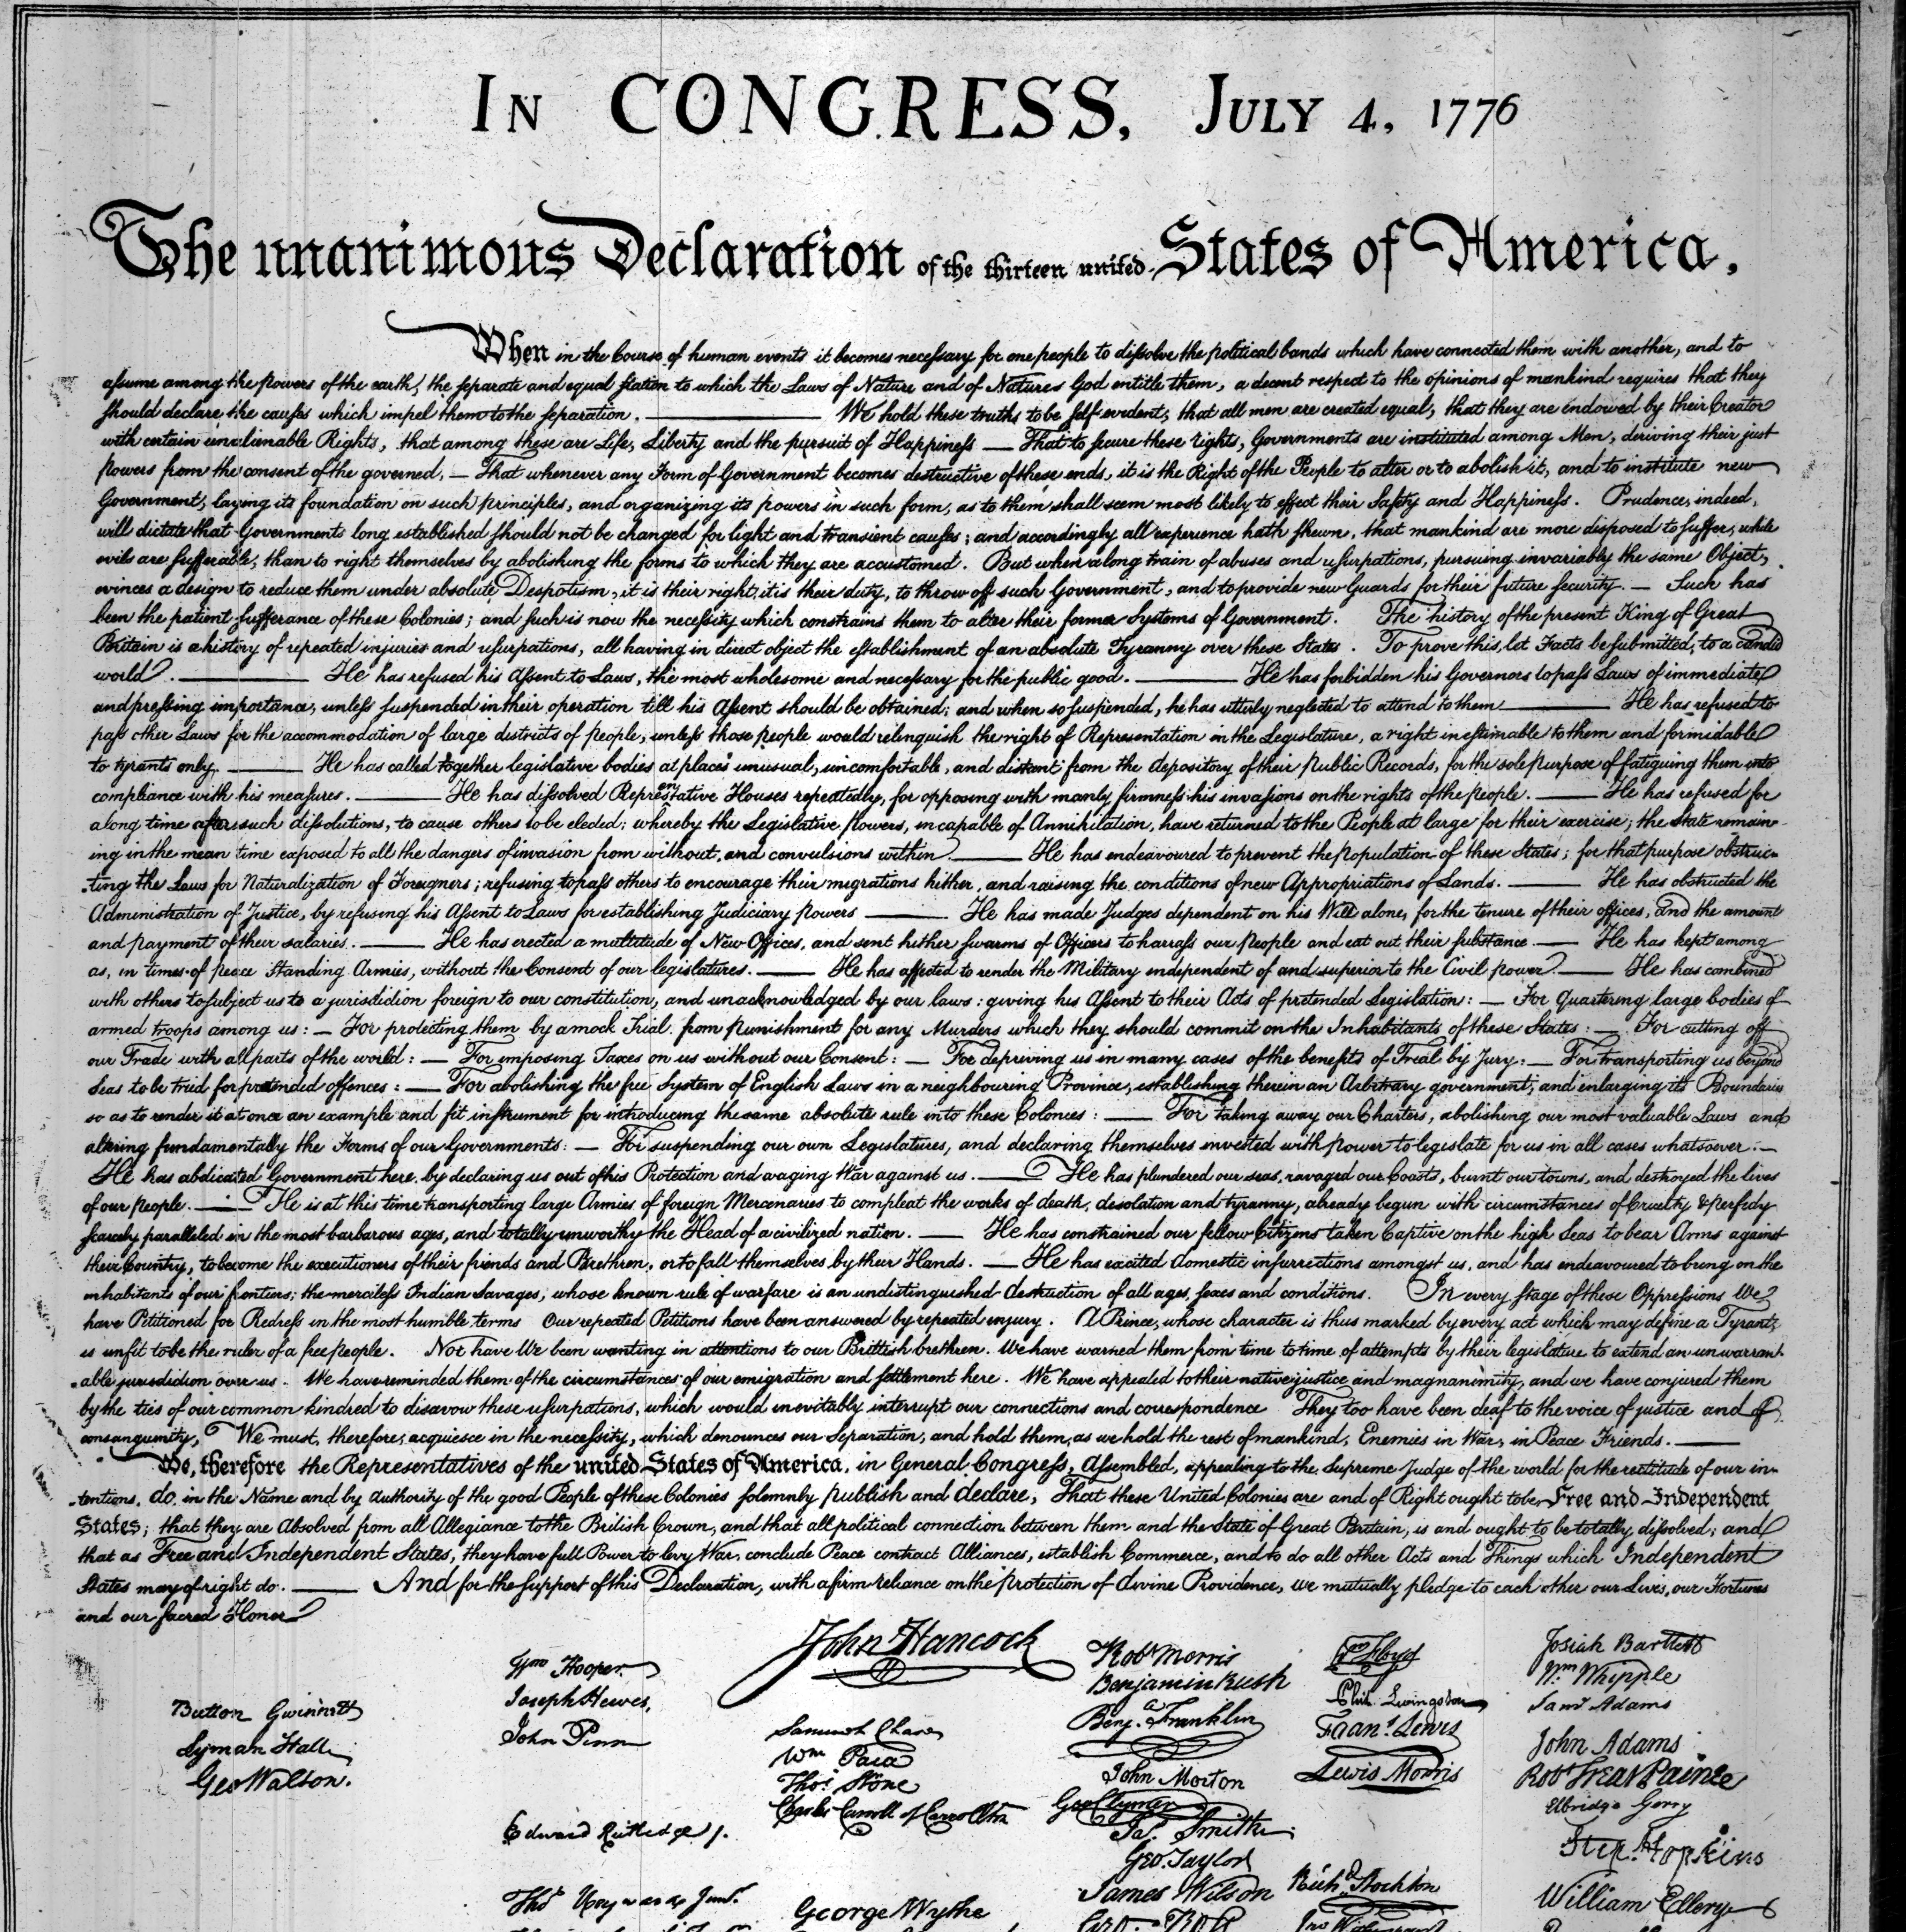
We Have No Brooklyn or Bronx Stores



IN CONGRESS, JULY 4, 1776

The unanimous Declaration of the thirteen united States of America,

When in the Course of human events it becomes neceſsary for one people to diſsolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to aſsume among the powers of the earth, the ſeparate and equal ſtation to which the Laws of Nature and of Natures God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they ſhould declare the cauſes which impel them to the ſeparation. —— We hold these truths to be ſelf-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the purſuit of Happineſs. — That to ſecure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, — That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happineſs. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established ſhould not be changed for light and transient cauſes; and accordingly all experience hath ſhewn, that mankind are more disposed to ſuffer, while evils are ſufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and uſurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object evinces a design to reduce them under absolute Despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future ſecurity. — Such has been the patient ſufferance of these Colonies; and ſuch is now the neceſsity which constrains them to alter their former Systems of Government. The history of the present King of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and uſurpations, all having in direct object the eſtablishment of an absolute Tyranny over these States. To prove this, let Facts be ſubmitted to a candid world. —— He has refused his Aſsent to Laws, the most wholesome and neceſsary for the public good. —— He has forbidden his Governors to paſs Laws of immediate and preſsing importance, unleſs ſuspended in their operation till his Aſsent should be obtained; and when so ſuspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them. —— He has refused to paſs other Laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, unleſs those people would relinquish the right of Representation in the Legislature, a right ineſtimable to them and formidable to tyrants only. —— He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual, uncomfortable, and distant from the depository of their public Records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his meaſures. —— He has diſsolved Repreſentative Houses repeatedly, for opposing with manly firmneſs his invaſions on the rights of the people. —— He has refused for a long time, after such diſsolutions, to cause others to be elected; whereby the Legislative powers, incapable of Annihilation, have returned to the People at large for their exercise; the State remaining in the mean time exposed to all the dangers of invasion from without, and convulsions within. —— He has endeavoured to prevent the population of these States; for that purpose obstructing the Laws for Naturalization of Foreigners; refusing to paſs others to encourage their migrations hither, and raising the conditions of new Appropriations of Lands. —— He has obstructed the Administration of Justice, by refusing his Aſsent to Laws for establishing Judiciary powers. —— He has made Judges dependent on his Will alone, for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries. —— He has erected a multitude of New Offices, and sent hither ſwarms of Officers to haraſs our people, and eat out their ſubstance. —— He has kept among us, in times of peace, Standing Armies without the Consent of our legislatures. —— He has affected to render the Military independent of and superior to the Civil power. —— He has combined with others to ſubject us to a juriſdiction foreign to our constitution, and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his Aſsent to their Acts of pretended Legislation: — For Quartering large bodies of armed troops among us: — For protecting them, by a mock Trial, from punishment for any Murders which they should commit on the Inhabitants of these States: — For cutting off our Trade with all parts of the world: — For imposing Taxes on us without our Consent: — For depriving us in many cases, of the benefits of Trial by Jury: — For transporting us beyond Seas to be tried for pretended offences: — For abolishing the free System of English Laws in a neighbouring Province, establishing therein an Arbitrary government, and enlarging its Boundaries so as to render it at once an example and fit inſtrument for introducing the same absolute rule into these Colonies: — For taking away our Charters, abolishing our most valuable Laws, and altering fundamentally the Forms of our Governments: — For suspending our own Legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever. — He has abdicated Government here, by declaring us out of his Protection and waging War against us. —— He has plundered our seas, ravaged our Coasts, burnt our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people. — He is at this time transporting large Armies of foreign Mercenaries to compleat the works of death, desolation and tyranny, already begun with circumstances of Cruelty & perfidy ſcarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the Head of a civilized nation. —— He has constrained our fellow Citizens taken Captive on the high Seas to bear Arms against their Country, to become the executioners of their friends and Brethren, or to fall themselves by their Hands. —— He has excited domestic inſurrections amongst us, and has endeavoured to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers, the merciless Indian Savages, whose known rule of warfare, is an undistinguished destruction of all ages, ſexes and conditions. In every ſtage of these Oppreſsions We have Petitioned for Redreſs in the most humble terms: Our repeated Petitions have been answered by repeated injury. A Prince, whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a Tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people. Nor have We been wanting in attentions to our Brittish brethren. We have warned them from time to time of attempts by their legislature to extend an unwarrantable juriſdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and ſettlement here. We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity, and we have conjured them by the ties of our common kindred to disavow these uſurpations, which, would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They too have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the neceſsity, which denounces our Separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, Enemies in War, in Peace Friends. ——

We, therefore, the Representatives of the united States of America, in General Congreſs, Aſsembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the Name, and by Authority of the good People of these Colonies, ſolemnly publish and declare, That these United Colonies are, and of Right ought to be Free and Independent States; that they are Absolved from all Allegiance to the British Crown, and that all political connection between them and the State of Great Britain, is and ought to be totally diſsolved; and that as Free and Independent States, they have full Power to levy War, conclude Peace, contract Alliances, establish Commerce, and to do all other Acts and Things which Independent States may of right do. —— And for the ſupport of this Declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our Lives, our Fortunes and our ſacred Honor.

LACOSTE OF FRANCE DEFEATS WILLIAMS

Eliminates American in Four Sets Before 17,000 and Reaches Wimbledon Final.

Frenchman Beats South African and Will Meet Countryman for the Title.

MISS WILLS A WINNER

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 3.—Two Frenchmen will meet each other in the final of the men's lawn tennis championship at Wimbledon. The match will be played on Saturday, tomorrow having as its chief attraction the match between Miss Helen M. Wills of the United States and Miss Kathleen McKane of England in the ladies' championship.

Rene Lacoste today defeated R. Norris Williams 2d, the last American in the race, by three sets to one, and J. Borotra beat L. Raymond by three sets to love.

Lacoste won his victory as much from mistakes made by his opponent as by anything else. He is not yet nineteen, but his steady, clean-cut game overcame his experienced opponent, who, nevertheless, dictated the tactics of the match. He found the American's hard service none too easy, but his activity and strong backhand enabled him to return some of Williams's most carefully placed shots. He took the first three games and lost only one in the first set, which lasted a bare fifteen minutes.

Williams Steadies Down.

Williams steadied down after that and made the score 4—1 in the second set. Then he began netting easy balls and made double faultings and lost two more games. He knew by this time, however, that he could safely come to the net, and by smothering Lacoste's cleverest drives from there he won the set, 6—3.

For a time Williams was dominating the game, and he was sending over beautifully calculated deep drives and volleying Lacoste's fastest shots. The Frenchman did, indeed, put some quite impossible balls past him, but he had to look to Williams's errors for most of his aces.

The third set opened evenly and it was not until the fifth game that Lacoste began to go ahead. Then with the score 4—2 in the Frenchman's favor rain came and interrupted the play for an hour and a half. On the resumption Lacoste took two games in succession and won the third set 6—2.

Clever playing gave Williams a start of three games in the last set, but Lacoste was growing aggressive. He brought off some fine cross-court shots in trying rather unsuccessfully to capture the net and was taking his rival's hard service pluckily. Moreover, he was consistent and so he took the next six games and won the set, 6—3.

Borotra Beats Raymond.

Borotra, the French Captain, then tackled Raymond, who comes from South Africa. He was certainly puzzled at first by Raymond's high kicking service, but once he had mastered that his superiority easily asserted itself. Raymond, still lame from his strained tendon, found it difficult on the baseline to return the bombardment of volleys from the net, but his deep drives along the sidelines cost Borotra some trouble. Still, though he fought desperately in the last games, Borotra won decisively, 6—2, 6—4, 7—5.

A drizzling rain at the end of the match made the turf so slippery that both players had several falls, Borotra, in pursuing a lob, once crashing into the fence at the rear of the court.

In the semi-finals of the women's doubles, as the result of the scratching of Mlle. Lenglen and Miss Ryan, an all-American match was played. Mrs. Wightman and Miss Wills defeated Miss Eleanor Goss and Mrs. Jessup by two sets to love. The first went to 8—6, largely through the excellent play of Mrs. Jessup, but in the second, though she and Miss Goss took the first two games, they lost the next two.

Miss Wills's fine hitting was the chief factor in this set and in the next, which was a splendid fight. Mrs. Wightman used her strategic skill in making openings for her partner. Mrs. Jessup strove hard to turn the fight, but Miss Wills, who made several magnificent strokes, brought the final score to 6—4.

Mrs. Wightman and Miss Wills will meet in the finals Miss K. McKane and Mrs. Covell, who beat today Mrs. Lambert Chambers and Mrs. Shepherd-Barron, 2 sets to 1.

Winners Show Fine Speed.

WIMBLEDON, England, July 3 (Associated Press).—Two dashing young Frenchmen, Jean Borotra and René Lacoste, will fight out the finals for the Wimbledon lawn tennis championship in the men's singles. Both came through the semi-finals this afternoon with the fine speed and audacity characteristic of the rising athletic generation that has hurried all manner of athletics forward in the new post-war France.

In becoming a finalist Lacoste put R. Norris Williams 2d, the only American survivor in the men's singles, out of the running, 6—1, 3—6, 6—2, 6—3, while Borotra won his way to the final round by downing Louis Raymond of South Africa, 6—2, 6—4, 7—5.

Borotra's victory over the South African, who fought hard all the way despite a slight limp from a torn tendon, was more impressive than Lacoste's triumph at the expense of Williams, as the American, by a succession of errors, was largely to blame for his own defeat. Borotra's achievement today, following his recent stunning victory over Vincent Richards, the young American star, firmly establishes him as one of the great lights of the tennis world.

A slight drizzle fell throughout the Raymond-Borotra match, and the slim Frenchman, often racing at full speed, slipped and fell several times and thus lost furtive drives whizzing away from the hard-hitting South African's racquet. His volleying had all the fire, dash and sharpness which it displayed in his game against Richards.

Miss Wills Plays Splendidly.

The other notable match of the afternoon was in the women's doubles, in which Miss Helen M. Wills, the youthful American champion, and her countrywoman, Mrs. George Wightman, took a well-played match from the other American pair, Miss Eleanor Goss and Mrs. Marion Z. Jessup, 8—6, 6—4.

Miss Wills played splendidly, especially toward the end, and the command which she and Mrs. Wightman were able to attain was enogh to give them the slight advantage by which they won each of their points in a hard-fought match. There was a continuous series of long and exciting rallies, a large proportion of the games going to deuce. Miss Wills's service was uniformly effective and the opponents of the winning pair were often unable to return it over the high net cap. Miss Wills will meet Miss McKane in the final of the singles tomorrow.

In the other semi-final of the women's doubles Miss Kathleen McKane and Mrs. Phyllis Covell defeated Mrs. Lambert Chambers and Mrs. Shepherd-Barron 6—4, 3—6, 6—4. The winners will meet Miss Wills and Mrs. Wightman in the finals.

Williams, last of America's big four to fall by the wayside in the men's singles, was put out of the running partly because of the dashing but steady play of Lacoste, the rising young French star, and partly because of his own inability to control his strokes. Rarely was he able to rise to his best form, but in his few flashing intervals of brilliance, he put his French opponent on the run. These sparks of fine play, almost as soon as they brightened the battle, were extinguished by Williams himself through woeful slumping into a series of mistimed and misdirected shots which either found their way into the net or altogether out of the court.

Only in the second set was the American able to rise to the situation demanded by the importance of the semi-final and by the fine ability of his opponent. Then he fired placement shots out of the reach of the extremely fleet-footed and audacious French youth and took the set. In the third set his game once more dropped to a low, erratic level, while that of Lacoste remained both quick and sure.

Crowd of 17,000 Present.

Perhaps the crowd had something to do with the American's failure to do himself full justice, for a majority of the 17,000 spectators manifestly preferred a French victory to an American one. Not perhaps that they love the French the more or the Americans the less, although this may have had something to do with it, but it is becoming more obvious daily that the British are becoming tired of having their most prized trophies in many branches of sport taken across the Atlantic one after another.

This afternoon all of Lacoste's many fine passing shots and sharp finishing volleys were generally roundly applauded. Appreciation of similar shots from Williams's racquet came from only a few hands clapping in little scattered groups about the stadium.

Rain halted the play for about an hour in the middle of the third set, which Lacoste had well started at 4—2 when the precipitation began. With the resumption of play, Williams became his worse self, netting with disappointing regularity. The keen-eyed, quick-limbed and fast-thinking Frenchman seemed refreshed by the rest and with reckless brilliance quickly ended the match.

The other semi-final match which followed, between Borotra, who conquered Vincent Richards and Raymond was even faster than the Williams-Lacoste match, although it took a minimum number of sets to decide.

Borotra seemed even faster of foot than his hurrying compatriot. He rushed after everything and usually got his racquet on the flying ball, often returning fierce drives from the hard-hitting South African's forearm, which seemed certain of placements.

Both French finalists have shown so much improvement at Wimbledon this year over their 1923 form that they are considered to have won high places among the best tennis players of the world.

Williams Wild at Start.

In the first set Williams was wild, frequently netting both returns and service shots from Lacoste, who was fast and sure of stroke. The American had several double faults scored against him. Lacoste was brilliant in backhand returns after long runs and often caught Williams nodding near the net. The American settled down in the second set to a sufficient extent to gain and hold the attacking position. Seldom lapsing into his earlier errors, he kept Lacoste on the run and showed flashes of his supreme winning style. The Frenchman, running like a young deer, contested every point with a fine dash. Williams, playing for the corners and sidelines, was often out by inches.

With a set apiece to the credit of each and Lacoste leading 4—2 in the third set, play was stopped by a drizzle and the tarpaulin was pulled over the court. The crowd manifestly favored the Frenchman. Bursts of handclapping greeted his placement shots, while equally brilliant finishing strokes by Williams were only mildly applauded by a few scattered spectators. The crowd even applauded Williams's double fault and foot fault, which lost him the two final points in the sixth game of the third set.

A wintry chill came with the dampness, but a large part of the crowd, acquainted with the variabilities of the English climate, had coats to don. Those in the uncovered seats shot up umbrellas.

After the resumption of play Williams dropped into another slump of netting, which resulted not only in his losing the third set but the fourth and the match. The American was inaccurate in serving, driving and volleying alike, while Lacoste stuck consistently to his high standard of play to the end, with an impressive victory.

The point score follows:

FIRST SET.

Lacoste	4	7	4	1	4	5	4—6
Williams	1	5	0	4	1	3	1—1

SECOND SET.

Lacoste	6	2	4	1	3	4	5	2	4—3

THIRD SET.

FOURTH SET.

Williams	5	4	6	1	1	1	1	5—3

Men's Single, Semi-Final Round—Rene Lacoste, France, defeated R. Norris Williams II., United States, 6—1, 3—6, 6—2, 6—3; Jean Borotra, France, defeated Louis Raymond, South Africa, 6—2, 6—4, 7—5.

Women's Doubles, Semi-Final Round—Miss Helen M. Wills and Mrs. George Wightman, United States, defeated Miss Eleanor Goss and Mrs. Marion Z. Jessup, United States, 8—6, 6—4; Miss Kathleen McKane and Mrs. Phyllis Covell, England, defeated Mrs. Lambert and Mrs. Shepherd-Barron, England, 6—4, 3—6, 6—4.

Lenglen Sees Tennis in Rain Despite Orders to Stay Abed

WIMBLEDON, England, July 3 (Associated Press).—Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, who withdrew from the lawn tennis title tournament here early in the week because of illness, has not yet obeyed the orders to stay abed she was reported to have received from her medical advisers. Suzanne was out braving the disagreeable weather today and sat in the competitors' stand as the rain continued to come down.

MISS MACDONALD BEATS MRS. LEROY

Wins Semi-Final Match in Connecticut Tennis, 6-1, 8-6—To Meet Mrs. Green in Final.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW CANAAN, Conn., July 3.—Miss Mayme MacDonald, holder of the women's national and metropolitan clay court championships, will make a bid for her third tennis title of the season on Saturday when she will face Mrs. H. Stuart Green at 3 o'clock in the final round of the Connecticut State championship. This afternoon, in the semi-finals, she defeated Mrs. Robert Le Roy, New Jersey champion, at 6—1, 8—6, while Mrs. Green was eliminating Miss Alice Francis of East Orange, N. J., at 6—1, 6—1. So far Miss MacDonald has not lost a set in the tournament, although Mrs. Le Roy, playing splendid tennis, came close to spoiling her record in the second chapter of today's match.

Mrs. Green's performance against Miss Francis was impressive, and it is expected that the final will bring out one of the most interesting matches of the women's season in the metropolitan area.

Mrs. Green and Miss Isabella Mumford of Boston won the doubles championship today, defeating Mrs. Edward Raymond and Miss Edith Handy in the final round of the tourney at 6—4, 6—3. The match was closely fought and in both sets there was little to choose between the two teams. Greater steadiness in the pinches and superiority at the net brought Mrs. Green and Miss Mumford through to victory. Tomorrow the mixed doubles tournament will begin. Among the teams entered are Miss MacDonald and Franklin P. Adams, Miss Florence Ballin and George Stadel, Miss Gertrude Hopper and L. Bleeker and Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Eaton.

O'HARA WOOD WINS FROM JERRY LANG

TO PLAY VOSHELL TODAY

Will Meet Queens Star, Who Beats Rice in Final—Australians Eliminate Japanese in Doubles.

GLEN COVE, L. I., July 3. — Pat O'Hara Wood of the Australian Davis Cup team and S. Howard Voshell of Kew Gardens, L. I., North and South and Queensboro champion, reached the final round of the annual invitation tennis tournament of the Nassau Country Club today and will meet tomorrow at 2:30 o'clock. In the semi-finals this afternoon O'Hara Wood defeated Jerry Lang of Columbia University at 6—3, 6—2 and Voshell put out Lawrence B. Rice of Boston at 6—3, 6—4. In the morning Lang qualified to meet O'Hara Wood by eliminating Irving Weinstein of the University of California in the fourth round at 6—1, 6—4.

Two teams reached the semi-final round of the doubles tournament. They were O'Hara Wood and Fred Kalms, his teammate on the Australian combination, and Lewis N. White and Louis Thalheimer, intercollegiate champions. The Australians gained a victory of international significance when they put out Captain Zenzo Shimizu and Seiichiro Kashio of the Japanese Davis Cup team in the third round. The score was 6—4, 6—2.

Previously the Anzacs had eliminated Robert Le Roy and Fred Baggs at 6—2, 6—3. White and Thalheimer put out, in succession, Ralph Baggs and Kenneth Fisher at 9—7, 6—1 and Lang and Weinstein at 6—0, 7—5. The teams left in the round before the semi-finals are: Voshell and Sam Hardy, Philip and Ludlow Vandeventer, Dean Mathey and Dr. George King, who played two matches, and Edward Chandler and Phil Bettens, who won a hard fought victory over Theodore Roosevelt Pell and Alfred S. Dabney.

Wood had an easier time in defeating Lang than was anticipated. The Columbia player gave so good an account of himself in vanquishing Dean Mathey on Wednesday that his match with the Australian this afternoon was expected to be closely fought, especially since O'Hara Wood had not met with the opposition in his previous matches to make him show anything unusually good. It took today's match to bring out his true game. Lang was not keenly on edge for the play and would probably have given a better account of himself had the contest been his first of the day. Nevertheless, for one set at least, he made it interesting for his opponent and O'Hara Wood frequently found that his best strokes were not good enough to prevail against the hard driving and skillful lobbing of his younger opponent.

O'Hara Wood Hits Stride.

It took the Davis Cup player one set to hit his best stride. In the opening chapter he failed to gauge the height of the net accurately and most of his volleys failed to get over. In the second set he corrected this fault and quickly disposed of Lang with an exhibition of smooth, incisive stroking, forcing his way inside of his opponent's defense with his deeply played ground strokes, which kept Lang fighting hard to get his racquet on the ball, and volleying with such finality that to put the sphere within his reach was to throw away the point. Occasionally Lang crossed him with smashing forehand drives or daring backhand placements along the side line, but these instances became fewer and fewer as the play progressed. Toward the end O'Hara Wood was winning his points regularly at the net, Lang standing in his tracks to watch his best shots come back for aces yards away from where he stood.

At the outset the indications were that the Australian would have his hands full. Lang broke through his service at 5—3, playing a very pretty lob for a placement that trapped his opponent at the net, sending a lightning backhand drive off service down the side line for the final point of the game. After losing on his own service at love on errors, Lang gained a lead of 40—15 in the third game, again smashing O'Hara Wood's service back for a placement. Needing only one point to break through, he lapsed in accuracy and lost four points in succession on three nets and an out.

The Australian took the next two games quickly. In the fourth he started off with two placements, one down the side line and the other crossing Lang as he came in toward the net. Lang was unable to handle his "kick" service in the fifth, returning it twice into the net. A service ace and three errors by O'Hara Wood, one of which was made on a volley shot when he had the whole court before him, gave the sixth game to the Columbian. The seventh and eighth went quickly on service and Lang then made a determined effort to break through in the ninth. After pulling up from 0—40 to deuce, he dropped the next two points on errors, volleying into the net in the last rally, which was the best of the set, both players performing brilliantly at close quarters.

Victor Shows Best Form.

In the second set Lang won the first game on service and carried O'Hara Wood to deuce in the second and third, only to lose both of them. In the second game he had a lead of 30—0 and in the third of 40—15. Errors and a net cord placement cost him the second, and the Australian took the third after deuce had been called six times. Wood reached his best form in this game and kept Lang on the defensive with his volleys, which he directed from one side of the court to the other.

Six of the Davis Cup star's ten points were earned on placements, while Lang's eight were won on two service aces and six errors. The Columbian realized the size of the task facing him with his opponent putting up an impenetrable barrier at the net, and, with his strength ebbing fast from running continually for O'Hara Wood's returns, it was apparent that his defeat was inevitable. Wood rushed through four of the remaining five games, none of which went to deuce, volleying and smashing overhead from mid-court with relentless precision.

Voshell showed against Rice that he can win without going to the net. The Long Island star has had a reputation for years of being one of the deadliest volleyers and smashers in the game. This decisiveness at the barrier, combined with his terrific service, has won his innumerable cups. Against Rice it was his ground strokes that brought him through. Playing the Boston man's own back court game, Voshell outsteadied and outplaced him, driving with full length and angling his shots so sharply that Rice was continually hard pressed in getting to the ball and forced into error making. In the first set each player won on service until the score was 4—3. Voshell then broke through in the eighth and won the ninth for the set. Rice stroked in very pretty fashion, but could make no headway when the other was serving. In the second set Voshell broke through after the score had reached 3 all. The next two games were divided and Voshell then took the tenth at love for the set and match.

The summaries:

Singles, Fourth Round—Jerry Lang defeated Irving Weinstein, 6—1, 6—4.

Semi-Final Round—Pat O'Hara Wood defeated Lang, 6—3, 6—2; S. Howard Voshell defeated Lawrence B. Rice, 6—3, 6—4.

Doubles, First Round—Dean Mathey and Dr. George King defeated Lewis Gordeon and T. M. Whitbeck, 6—1, 6—3.

Second Round—Pat O'Hara Wood and Fred Kalms defeated Robert Le Roy and Fred Baggs, 6—2, 6—3; S. Howard Voshell and Samuel Hardy defeated F. T. Ferguson and Stuart Gayness Jr., 6—2, 6—8; Philip and Ludlow Vandeventer defeated Craig Biddle and Dr. William Rosenbaum, 6—3, 8—6; Mathey and King defeated Walter L. Pate and Thomas Sturgis, 6—2, 6—0; Edward Chandler and Phil Bettens defeated Theodore Roosevelt Pell and Alfred S. Dabney, 1—6, 6—4, 6—1; Lewis N. White and Louis Thalheimer defeated Ralph Baggs and Kenneth D. Fisher, 9—7, 6—1.

Third Round—O'Hara Wood and Kalms defeated Zenzo Shimizu and Seiichiro Kashio, 6—4, 6—2; White and Thalheimer defeated Jerry Lang and Irving Weinstein, 6—0, 7—5.

DRAW IS ANNOUNCED FOR OLYMPIC GAMES

Americans Generally Well Pleased With Selections for Track and Field Trials.

OPPOSITION FOR PADDOCK

Coast Sprinter Will Face Catalon, Filipino Star, in 100-Meter Heat and Abrahams in 200.

PARIS, July 3 (Associated Press.)—With few exceptions the American runners have been favorably placed in the drawings announced today for the Olympic track and field championships which will be held next week at the Colombes Stadium. Under the seeded system of drawing, scattering the stars throughout the trials, no two of Uncle Sam's cracks will oppose each other in first heats, but several of the runners have drawn strong opponents.

Charles W. Paddock, the Olympic 100-metre champion, has drawn formidable rivals in both sprints, meeting in the 100-metre dash Catalon, the Filipino flash who is credited with 9 4-5 seconds for the 100 yards, and Harold M. Abrahams, the Cambridge star and leading British sprinter, in the 200-metre dash. Inasmuch as the first two men will qualify in each of the first trials for the semi-finals, there is little likelihood that the Californian will be in danger of failing to qualify even if the unexpected should happen and he is beaten by one or the other of his strong opponents.

Other outstanding instances of encounters of American athletes with prominent foes occur in the distance events. Marvin Rick, N. Y. A. C., in the 3,000-metre steeplechase, will meet Elvin Wide, the Swedish star, and Willie Ritola, the Finnish-American ace, while John Romig of Penn State, in the 5,000-metre race, curiously enough, will encounter the same pair of Scandinavians.

Rick also has a third rival in Ryan, the widely heralded Irish steeplechaser, so that his chances of qualifying are doubtful, although the first three to finish in the heats of this event as well as in the 5,000-metre steeplechase will qualify for the finals. Romig, if he continues to improve as he showed in today's workout on the Colombes practice track, should push both Wide and Ritola, at least clinching a qualifying place.

Buker to Meet Stallard.

In the 1,500-metre event Ray B. Buker, Illinois A. C., and W. O. Spencer, Mississippi A. and M., have been drawn against two British stars, the former meeting H. M. Stallard, noted Cambridge crack, and the latter opposing D. J. A. Lowe, also a Cambridge man, but as they are the best in each heat, and two qualifying places for the finals are provided, all four should survive safely. Lloyd Hahn, Boston A. A., and Ray Watson, Illinois A. C., the other Americans in this race, should have an easy prospect to qualify, Hahn meeting the only opponent of note in Llewendahl of Finland. Nurmi, Finland's ace, also will have an easy path to the finals in the 1,500, which he will run together with the 5,000-meter finals on the same afternoon, July 10, but he is not drawn for the 800-meters.

Aside from Paddock, the American sprinters have no great obstacles in the semi-finals. Chester Bowman, Syracuse University; Loren Murchison, Newark A. C., and Jackson V. Scholz, New York A. C., will not meet any dangerous rivals in the 100-meter heats, though Murchison has Rivas, a promising Argentine, against him in the first heat of the seventeen composing the trials on the opening program next Sunday. The finals will be contested Monday.

In the 200-meter dash Bayes Norton, Yale, will oppose the Canadian star, Coaffe, who ran indoors in the United States last season under the colors of the Illinois Athletic Club. Scholz has Halme of Finland as his opponent, and George Hill, U. of P., will toe the mark against Matthewman of England. But the Americans should have little difficulty in winning.

J. C. Taylor, New York A. C., in the 400-meter run meets Dustan, the speedy South African, and Schuyler Enck, Penn State, draws Houghton of Great Britain, but otherwise the Americans in these two events have no prominent opposition in their trial heats in which the first three qualify.

The only remaining features of the draw worthy of mention are in the 400-meter hurdles, where C. F. Coulter, University of Iowa, meets Wilen, Finnish star, and in the 110-meter hurdles, where F. B. Johnson, Illinois A. C., encounters the veteran Frenchman, Andre.

Relay Teams Well Placed.

In the relay racing the United States has drawn Sweden, France and Latvia in the sixth heat of the 400-meter event, and Spain, South Africa, Canada, Holland, Mexico and Poland in the third heat of the 1,600-meter event. The Americans oppose France, Spain, Mexico and Sweden in their heat of the 3,000-meter team race.

Despite the second straight rainy day, the Americans had a workout in the Colombes Stadium, all the men being put through their paces for two hours, but owing to the heavy condition of the track the coaches did not extend the runners. The majority of the men who have encountered minor ills and mishaps in rounding into condition, the coaches assert, looked better than ever today, and the coaches are confident that the start of the championships will see few cripples on the squad.

The field event performers in general, after a slow start, are rounding into a condition which augurs well for their chances of victory in the championships next week. The shot putters, hammer and discus throwers particularly have been showing excellent form under the tutelage of Walter Christie, head field coach. F. D. Tootell and M. J. McGrath, youngster and veteran, are rivals for the hammer, and either is likely to triumph. Both during the workouts at Rocquencourt this morning hurled the ball over 180 feet, which is not far from Pat Ryan's world record.

The three shot-putting aces, Ralph Hills, Glenn Hartranft and Clarence Houser, have recorded tosses of slightly more than fifty feet, also close to the world's mark, and promise to be ripe for a terrific battle for Olympic honors with the two Finnish stars, Torpa, who is credited with fifty feet, and V. Porhola, who finished well up in this event at Antwerp. Hills, the Princeton giant, is the most consistent of the Americans, and seems in the best shape of his career.

Hartranft and Houser have also been heaving the discus well over 140 feet, as have T. J. Lieb and Augustus Pope, and the Yankees are confident that this quartet will clean up. L. B. Priester, with several tosses close to 200 feet, appears to be the best of the javelin throwers just now. J. K. Brooker and Ralph Spearow are showing fine pole-vault form, and De Hart Hubbard, while taking no risks in jumping, is declared to be in condition to make a formidable bid for double honors in the broad jump and hop, step and jump.

The second stage of the elimination trials in the 200-meter breast stroke for the American men swimmers brought John Faricy, Illinois A. C., to the front. He gave the best performance, covering the distance in the pool at Les Tourelles in 2:29. This time was a second slower than the mark of yesterday, when Ralph Breyer, Northwestern University, won in the first elimination and clinched his place in this Olympic event, but good enough to defeat Richard Howell, Northwestern University, who was clocked in 2:30 3-5, and Sam Kahanamoku, in 2:31.

Robertson Announces Osborne Will Be Ready for Olympics

PARIS, July 3 (Associated Press).—Harold M. Osborne of the Illinois A. C., American decathlon champion and high jump star, who has been the subject of repeated alarming reports arising from his visit to a hospital several days ago, will be a strong contender at his specialties in the Olympic Games next week, Coach Lawson Robertson intimated today. Robertson declared tonight that the strain in Osborne's back is slight and that a few days of rest will put the Chicago man in good condition again.

CALNAN DEFEATED IN OLYMPIC FENCING

Last U. S. Contender in Foils Competition Is Eliminated—Final Bouts Today.

PARIS, July 3 (Associated Press).—The last semi-final matches in the Olympic fencing foil competition today resulted in the elimination of America's last contender, George C. Calnan of the United States Navy and in the qualification for the final round of Larraz of Argentina, who won three of his five matches brilliantly and lost the other two by flukes. The final round will be competed tomorrow.

Calnan, far below yesterday's form, could defeat only the unfortunate Lorentzen of Norway, who had been beaten by everybody in the tournament. The American representative showed considerable fatigue and nervousness. Cattiau of France was the star of the day, winning all of his five matches.

The finals tomorrow will be fought in twenty-eight matches, twenty in the afternoon and eight in the evening. The following have qualified: Cattiau, Coutrot and Ducret of France, Seligman of England, Ossier of Denmark, Larraz of Argentina, de Benkalaer of Holland and Van Damme of Belgium.

Cattiau and Doucret are the favorites for the finals, but the pluckiness of Larraz is thought to give him a chance against the Frenchmen.

BLOOD TRANSFUSION AIDS OLYMPIC BOXER

Ruffalo Recovering Rapidly After Operation in Which Teammate Makes Sacrifice.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 3.—Following a successful blood transfusion this morning, Patsy Ruffalo, New York boxer and member of the American Olympic team, who had been suffering from internal hemorrhages, was declared this afternoon to be out of danger by doctors at the American Hospital in Neville, where the operation was performed. Ruffalo, however, is out of the Olympic Games competition and probably will not be able to resume boxing for several months.

Ruffalo owes his sudden turn in condition to Ad Allegrini of the Los Angeles A. C., also a member of the American boxing team, who gave a pint and a half of his blood to aid his comrade. Head Coach Spike Webb had offered himself as the first candidate for the sacrifice and when he asked for several more volunteers every member of the American team came forward.

It was decided, however, not to take any man who would take an active part in the games. Allegrini, who already was out of the competition because of an injury to his hand, Ensign Hayes, who arrived too late to get in sound condition, and Louis Ruffalo, uncle of Patsy and one of the coaches, were then selected in addition to Coach Webb. When blood tests were taken at the hospital, however, Allegrini was found to be the only one to suit the conditions and Dr. Tsanch immediately performed the operation.

Although pale, Ruffalo appeared in good spirits tonight and declared he never suspected one could experience so sudden a change in condition. The doctors think Ruffalo's trouble resulted from a blow, but Patsy scorns the idea and declares that he must have eaten some meat on the boat which did not agree with him.

U. S. 5TH IN OLYMPIC SHOOT

Great Britain Takes Final of 4-Man Deer Event—Norway Second.

VERSAILLES, France, July 3 (Associated Press).—Great Britain today won the last Olympic shooting match—between teams of four each at a running deer—with 263 points out of a possible 400.

Norway was second, 1 point behind; Sweden was third, with 250; Finland was fourth, with 239, and the United States fifth, with 233. Czechoslovakia was sixth, with 204.

WOOD WINS RIFLE MATCH.

Takes Palma Individual Shoot in Eastern Championships With 223.

SEA GIRT, N. J., July 3.—H. J. Wood of Bridgeport, Conn., won the Palma individual match at the opening of the Eastern small bore rifle championships today with a score of 223 out of a possible 225. C. S. Hogue of Philadelphia also made 223, but was outranked and was allotted second place. M. Dodson of Kingston, Pa., came third with 222. Ranges were 150, 175 and 200 yards.

J. M. Hilborn of New York City, Charles St. John of Brooklyn, and C. S. Neary of Bridgeport, Conn., came first, second and third respectively in the Spencer match. Each made a score of 99 out of a possible 100, but were ranked in the order named. The range was 200 yards.

The championships are being held on the State rifle range here. Preliminaries were held yesterday.

TENNIS TEAM AT SEABRIGHT

Yale-Harvard Stars Guests Today of Bernon S. Prentice.

The combined Yale-Harvard tennis team, which will sail tomorrow for England to meet the Oxford-Cambridge team in their annual match and to carry out an extensive program of play against foreign club and Davis Cup teams, will be the guest of Bernon S. Prentice, chairman of the International Intercollegiate Committee, today at the Seabright Lawn Tennis and Cricket Club, Seabright, N. J. During the day the team will play a dual match with the Seabright Club.

The collegiate team is composed of Karl Pfaffman, who is captain of the combination; W. W. Ingraham and Alden Briggs, all of Harvard, and Arnold W. Jones, Charles Watson and A. B. Sheridan, of Yale.

TILDEN IN SEMI-FINALS.

Beats Lott in Western Tourney Before Rain Stops Play.

INDIANAPOLIS, July 3 (Associated Press).—Rain halted the Western tennis tourney here today after William T. Tilden of Philadelphia had entered the semi-finals with a 6—2, 6—2, 6—1 victory over George Lott of Chicago, national junior champion. The Tilden-Lott match was the only one completed today, although Gerald Patterson, the Australian star, won a set from Louis Kuhler, Ohio champion, by a 16—3 score before the showers stopped the play.

The postponed matches will be played tomorrow morning and the regular schedule in the afternoon.

WHITES DEFEAT REDS IN POLO TRIAL GAME

International Candidates Show Fine Form in Brilliant Match at Meadow Brook.

WEBB OUTSTANDING STAR

His Playing Against Milburn Thrills Crowd—Pedley's Showing Surprises—Final Score Is 13-7.

Special to The New York Times.

WESTBURY, L. I., July 3.—The start of America's polo preparation for the defense of the International Challenge Cup against the invasion of Great Britain in September was made today on Cochran Field at Meadow Brook when the first of the series of trial matches from which the representatives of the United States will be selected, was played before a large and colorful gathering. Eight of the leading candidates for the four which will wear the American colors in the classic of international polo were divided into two teams and some of the fastest play that has been seen on the field for many months resulted. It was only a side issue that the Whites triumphed over the Reds, 13 to 7, the main issue being the showing of the individual candidates.

The Whites lined up with J. Watson Webb at No. 1, Erie Pedley at No. 2, Robert E. Strawbridge Jr. at No. 3 and H. C. Phipps at back, while the Reds were represented by Morgan Belmont at No. 1, J. Cheever Cowdin at No. 2, Louis E. Stoddard at No. 3 and Devereux Milburn at back. There were three members of the four which brought the cup back to this country in 1921 on the field, as Webb was the No. 3 on that combination, Stoddard was the No. 1 and Milburn was the back. The absent member was Tommy Hitchcock, who was helping to defeat the English horsemen in the Olympic games competition at St. Cloud.

Stoddard's resignation from international competition caused the moving of Webb to the No. 1 position, and today he made a brilliant showing there. Ever dexterous with the mallet, which he wields with his left hand with all the finesse that a fencer handles his foil, Webb on many occasions outmanouvered the great Milburn, who has played on every American international combination since 1909 and against whom Webb was pitted.

Webb Makes Fine Play

One of the cleverest plays that have been seen this season was made by Webb, when he rode down the field carrying the ball with easy taps just on the heels of Milburn's pony, and then when the goal was in sight drove to the side. Milburn, naturally, followed the ball, but Webb was on it instantly, and having drawn his opponent out of position, sent the ball spinning back again directly in front of the posts, for one of his teammates to carry through.

However, it was not every time that Webb was the victor in the thrilling duel between the two men, for Milburn showed all the power which has made his name famous wherever the game is played, and his long drives, ever accurate, turned back the attack and saved a goal on many occasions. There is no worry about America's back being well fortified, for Milburn is the Milburn of 1909, 1911, 1913, 1914 and 1921.

One of the outstanding features of yesterday's match was the showing of Eric Pedley, the Californian who played No. 2 on the Whites. The star from the Pacific Coast has been considered as an international possibility, but Eastern followers of the game didn't realize until today just how strong are his claims to a place. He started in with a dash, although playing on strange ponies and in a strange combination, and he kept up his aggressive performance throughout the eight periods. He pivoted well with Webb, when occasion arose, and constantly he fed the ball forward to his No. 1 with well-timed and accurate strokes. Not once during the game did he fail to make the shot that was expected of him and he was always in position.

Scores Six Goals.

Strawbridge, considered as a possible No. 3 in case Webb is played at No. 1, played more of a forward game today, accounting for six of his team's goals. Belmont and Cowdin were both strong individually, but they did not work with the same smoothness and co-ordination as did Webb and Pedley, and it was not until Milburn came forward from his position at back and started taking a big part in the attack that the Reds were able to pull up on their opponents.

In the first period the Whites got away to a 3—1 lead when Strawbridge, Pedley and Webb each counted. Cowdin brought the score to 3—2 in the second and a moment later Belmont tied the score with a goal. In the third period, however, Webb and Strawbridge each managed to send the ball through twice, and after that the Whites never were in danger, the Reds being held scoreless for three periods. In the seventh Milburn came into the Reds' attack and managed to pull his team up to the short side of a 10—7 count, but the rally was short-lived and again the Whites went out in front, finally to win by 13 to 7.

The line-up:

WHITES (13).	REDS (7).
No. 1—J. W. Webb.	No. 1—M. Belmont.
N. 2—Erie Pedley.	No. 2—J. C. Cowdin.
No. 3—R. E. Strawbridge Jr.	No. 3—L. E. Stoddard.
Back—H. C. Phipps.	Back—D. Milburn.

Goals—Webb 5, Strawbridge 6, Pedley 2, Belmont 2, Stoddard 2, Cowdin 2, Milburn 1. Referee—Harry Payne Whitney. Time—Eight periods of 7½ minutes each.

CAMDEN FOUR HERE TODAY.

South Carolina Polo Team Will Meet Fort Hamilton Horsemen.

Fort Hamilton's polo team, which has not suffered a defeat this season, is expected to come up against the strongest opposition that it has faced this season this afternoon when it meets the Camden four from South Carolina. The Camden team has assembled a strong string of ponies and the players have been getting into condition by playing in the tournaments at Meadow Brook. Camden's combination will carry a higher handicap rating and therefore is favored in the match, but Fort Hamilton's horsemen, headed by Captain John P. Neu, have been playing a stronger game this season than ever before and should furnish strong opposition.

The members of the winning team will receive individual trophies which have been offered by Brig. Gen. Frank Park, Commanding General of the First Division.

The game is scheduled to start at 3:30 o'clock with the following line-ups: Fort Hamilton, Major Bratton, Major Sands, Sergeant Tupper and Captain Neu; Camden Polo Club, Max Phillips, Herbert Winn, R. Rasmussan Jr. and F. Rasmussan. Major A. G. Rudd, leader of the Governors Island four, will referee the contest.

KLINE SETS COURSE MARK.

Garden City Golfer Turns In a 69 in Foursome on Home Links.

William L. Kline, assistant professional at the Garden City Country Club, yesterday established a new record for his home course by making a 69 during a match in which he and Bert Edwards, one of the club's amateur players, defeated William Lupine, Massapequa professional, and Dorst, the Lennox Hills professional. Kline was out in 34, one under par, and home in 35, two under par, in spite of a 5 at the par 4 seventeenth hole. Kline lost a stroke on the short second hole, but got a birdie 3 at the third. He had the next five holes in even par figures, but got a birdie 4 at the 535-yard ninth. His first birdie on the incoming nine holes came at the twelfth. He had an eagle 3 on the sixteenth. Kline has won the Long Island open championship for the last two years and will be one of the strong favorites in the metropolitan open championship to be played at the Engineers' Country Club next week.

Women in Louis XV. Heels Help To Trample Muddy Polo Turf

ST. CLOUD, France, July 3 (Associated Press).—In the polo match here today between the United States and Great Britain the muddy turf was torn up so badly that the French Olympic Committee called upon volunteers to assist in trampling down the clods that had been shaken up by the ponies' feet, making devastated regions out of the polo field. The entire attendance answered the call. Women in Louis XV. heels and men in orthodox low shoes went out from the grandstands and trampled the ground so as to get it fit for the Argentina-Spain match tomorrow.

HARRIMAN WINS FOR ORANGE COUNTY

His Goal in Extra Period Defeats Princemere in Meadow Brook Polo Tourney, 8-7.

Special to The New York Times.

WESTBURY, L. I., July 3.—The Orange County polo team, coming from behind in the last three periods with an attack that swept Princemere aside, won the final game for the Meadow Brook Cups on International Field at the Meadow Brook Club today, Averill Harriman's goal in an extra period deciding the contest, which was fast and exciting throughout, by the score of 8 to 7. At the same time two first round games in the Hempstead Cups tournament were played, the Flamingo four defeating the Freebooters on No. 2 field by the score of 9 to 7 and Eatontown eliminating the Rovers, 10 to 6, on Phipps Field.

The final of the Meadow Brook Cups tournament provided one of the most thrilling games seen on International Field, which will be the scene of the American-Great Britain matches in September this year. Princemere, with H. B. Albright Jr. at No. 1, Harry East at No. 2, Harold E. Talbott Jr. at No. 3 and Frederick H. Prince Jr. at back, got off to a flying start that indicated an overwhelming victory, rolling up six points before Orange County was able to break through the defense of Prince. However, in the fourth period Orange County horsemen, including R. Penn Smith Jr. at No. 1, Harriman at No. 2, Malcolm Stevenson at No. 3 and Walter Camp Jr. at back, started their drive. Slowly but steadily they cut down the lead of the Princemere riders, Harriman riding like a centaur, sweeping the ball up the field and carrying it through the posts himself or else putting it into a position from where it was easy for a teammate to count. In the meantime Camp was holding back every attempt that Princemere made on his goal, and when the seventh period ended the score was tied at 6—6.

In the eighth the struggle was resumed with added energy, back and forth the ball swept as the rival riders attempted to take the lead. Finally a short pass from Harriman left the ball in perfect position and when it was carried through the posts Orange County had taken the advantage. But Princemere was not yet through fighting, and just before the gong rang a long goal tied the score. Soon after the extra period started, Harriman swept the ball from scrimmage and mounted on one of his famous ponies swept down the field, outdistancing his pursuers at every stride and carrying the ball ever nearer the goal at the other end of the field. His journey ended with the winning point, bringing to an end a struggle which kept the spectators thrilled from the start of Orange County's rally through the climb to tie score and Harriman's brilliant dash.

In the play for the Hempstead Cups, Flamingo allowed the Freebooters a handicap of four goals to start with, and the Eatontown four conceded the Rovers as many points before the game commenced, but class told in the end, and each of the higher rated combinations came from behind the allowances and went on to win.

PRO GOLFERS TO OPEN TOUR

Walker and Cruikshank Play Two Matches at Baltimore Today.

Cyril Walker, Englewood professional who now holds the national open golf championship, and his exhibition partner, Bobby Cruickshank of Shackamaxon, will open their out-of-town tour today in Baltimore, Md., where a novel competition has been arranged for them by A. S. Jordy. Walker and Cruickshank will play four matches in Baltimore and every professional in that city will have an opportunity of playing against them. In their two matches today, one in the morning and the other in the evening, over the Sherwood Forest course, their opponents will be Glenn Spencer and Warner Mather and Nate Mather and Willie Dunn.

Tomorrow they will play at the Rolling Road Golf Club, their morning round opponents to be Willie Scott and Jeanie Roche. Cruickshank and Walker will meet Al Watrous and Billy Mehlhorn at the Highlands Country Club, Grand Rapids, Mich., on Wednesday.

OUIMET ENTERS TOURNEY.

Sweetser Also to Compete in Invitation Play at Greenwich C. C.

The Greenwich Country Club, which recently acted as host to the intercollegiate golfers, has announced a selected invitation tournament to be held on July 31 to Aug. 2. Most of the low handicap players on the M. G. A. list and a few on the national eligibility list have been invited to compete in the event. Among the stars who already have signified their intention of entering are Jess Sweetser, Francis Ouimet and Jesse Guilford.

There will be a qualifying round of eighteen holes on the opening day, with match play following on Friday and Saturday. Provision has been made for three sixteens. This is the first invitation tournament that the Greenwich club has staged in the last three years. Laurence M. Lloyd is Chairman of the Tournament Committee of the club.

Plays Brilliantly on Defensive—Britons Show Sportsmanship by Refusing Postponement.

ST. CLOUD, France, July 3.—England, foster mother of polo, followed in the wake of France and Spain before the all-conquering American team here this afternoon in the Olympic competition, the United States four winning its third game in the tourney by a score of 10 goals to 2. For the British, however, it must be said they were unlucky, for some of their best players have been disabled this season and were unable to take part in the game.

In addition to this, the match was played in a pouring rain. The English might have exercised their privilege of having a postponement on account of the weather, but they knew the Americans were anxious to get home and they upheld their national reputation for fine sportsmanship by playing on a field almost unplayable and under conditions which made good polo impossible. When asked whether or not the game should be played Major Baret, Captain of the English team, said, "Oh, let's get it over. The result probably would be the same any way."

The Americans started with a rush and scored four goals in the first chukker, but after that slowed down a trifle, scoring not more than two goals to any one period. As play progressed the field became heavier and heavier. Both teams were covered with mud and the ponies were put under a severe strain which may tell later against the United States four when it meets the Argentines. Having defeated England so decisively, however, the team's supporters are optimistic that it will go on victoriously to the final.

Americans in Top Form.

ST. CLOUD, France, July 3 (Associated Press.)—The United States polo team continued in its victorious Olympic career this afternoon by disposing of the team from Great Britain by the score of 10 to 2. Today's victory came on a muddy field, whereas the previous defeats of France and Spain took place in bright, sunshiny and sultry weather.

The Americans today displayed the best stick handling, especially in their back-hand work, that any team thus far has shown in the Olympic competition. Time and again, when the British appeared certain of scoring, Elmer J. Boeseke, No. 1 for the Americans, and Tommy Hitchcock, No. 2, on their fast ponies would cross the front goal with sweeping back-hand strokes and send the ball flying away out of the dangerous territory.

Weakness of the back-hand has been the drawback with all three European teams which have played America thus far. The British team was far and away the best quartet that has met the United States, but the latter, improving as the tournament goes on, simply toyed with England's best except in the second and sixth chapters, when it was decided to take things easily.

After the match Jack D. Nelson, the referee, said:

"The United States quartet took advantage of every opportunity. Their shooting was deadly and they never missed a single goal after they had worked themselves free from their opponents. Hitchcock played a perfect game, as did Boeseke, and they will probably be rated eight or nine in the international handicaps at the end of this year."

Should the South American team meet defeat tomorrow the North American quartet will be left in the undisputed position of first place in the tournament.

Hitchcock Plays Brilliantly.

It was another banner day for Hitchcock, who scored five out of the total of ten goals for his team. He was also instrumental in bringing about positions which enabled Boeseke to tally four goals. Hitchcock is acknowledged by all polo experts to be the best man seen on any of the four teams which have competed in the Olympics thus far. Rodman Wanamaker at back played a stubborn defensive game, against which Major F. W. Barrett had no chance.

The entire English team played a useful game which might have prevailed against France and Spain, but superior marksmanship as usual counted for the United States. The American ponies were far better than the British mounts, which slowed up to a walk at the finish. Major Barrett changed mounts three times during the last two chukkers, his black mare Mademoiselle, with which he finished the match, limping badly as she returned to the stables. All of the American ponies pulled up with sound limbs.

Hitchcock and Boeseke started off at a breakneck pace in spite of the slippery field, simply stampeding their British opponents. The British ponies seemed slow in the sticky footing, while the Americans, giving their mounts their heads, reeled off four goals in the first chukker, on earned points.

The Britons were making no errors, but were merely outplayed. Hitchcock marked from 50 yards out, while Boeseke scored twice on passes from the great Tommy. Wanamaker, just before the end of the chukker, trickled the ball through the posts on an easy shot which Guest missed.

RUTH HITS HIS 21ST, BUT YANKS LOSE, 10-5

Drive Fails to Help Hugmen, Who Break Even in Six-Game Series With Athletics.

PIPGRAS IS WILD ON MOUND

Mackmen Profit Through His Lack of Control and Then Pound Gaston—Homer for Ward.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, July 3.—The Yankees dropped the final game of the series with the Athletics here today by the score of 10 to 5. The Mackmen found no trouble in collecting fourteen solid hits off the deliveries of Manager Huggins's juvenile hurlers, George Pipgras and Milton Gaston, who were forced into action by the various lamenesses that at present afflict most of the members of the one potent five-star staff. The defeat reduced the Yankees to an even break in their six-game series with the Athletics, and the Hugmen entrained with trepidation immediately after the final out to go to Washington, where a very serious assignment of five games in three days awaits them with the Senators.

Babe Ruth got his twenty-first home run of the season in the eighth inning, with Dugan on base. It was his third circuit slam of the Shibe Park engagement. It was a long line drive into the centre field bleachers. Ruth's other homers here went, one over the right garden wall, and one over the left field bleacher seats.

In the ninth inning Aaron Ward, who only came back to the line-up during this series after more than a month's lay-off, also got a home run. His drive settled in the left field bleacher seats. It was Aaron's fourth four-bagger of the season.

Gray Allows Only Five Hits.

These were the only damaging blows off young Sam Gary, a right handed pitcher whom the Mackmen obtained from the Fort Worth club of the Texas League. Gray only allowed five hits, counting the homers. Two runs that the Yanks scored in the third were due as much to errors by Gray and Perkins as to Witt's double that started the round.

Today's venture was the first game this year that Pipgras was allowed to start. Last year he finished several games and started one late in the season, which he lost. Today his wildness was again his undoing, and Huggins will have to go into the Capital City series with the knowledge that Hoyt and Pennock are his only good bets. The arms of Jones, Shawkey and Bush are all uncertain propositions at present. Markle may be a help, but his starts so far have been unfortunate.

Pipgras started in a way that indicated he would not last long. He hit Bishop, the first batter, with a fast ball in the back, knocking him down. Lamar singled off the pitcher's shins and the ball bounded so far out in right that Bishop was able to get to third from where he counted while Ward was throwing out Welch. Hauser was the second victim of Pipgras's wildness. The first baseman also was hit in the back and knocked down. Then followed a terribly wild pitch by Pipgras, and Lamar scored with the second run, which luckily proved all for the initial inning, for, though Simmons singled, filling the bases, Riconda and Chapman fanned.

Pipgras Goes Out in Third.

In the second round Pipgras went bad again. With two out he walked Bishop, and Lamar's single and steal, and Welch's triple accounted for another pair of runs for the home club. In the third Pipgras got Simmons and Riconda out of the way, only to give a pass to Chapman, and allow Perkins and Gray to single, which produced another run. This hit by Pitcher Gray was enough to end Manager Huggins's patience and he beckoned Pipgras to the bench, ordering Gaston in from the bull pen.

Gaston finished the inning without more scoring, and he survived the fourth without run-making damage, but in the fifth a pass to Riconda, Chapman's infield out and singles by Perkins and Gray made two more tallies. In the sixth Gaston had his hardest time, Welch, Hauser and Simmons getting singles to start the inning, and as many runs coming in before the inning finally ended.

BROWNS DEFEAT INDIANS.

Score 6 in Sixth and 7 in Eighth and Triumph by 16-10.

CLEVELAND, July 3.—St. Louis evened the series with Cleveland today by winning, 16 to 10. The Browns drove Smith from the box in the sixth inning, getting six runs, and scored seven more off Roy and Clark in the eighth. Shocker was effective until the fifth, but was hit hard in the seventh and ninth innings by the Indians. Third Baseman Rice of the Browns drove in five runs and scored two.

GIANTS PLAY PHILS TWICE HERE TODAY

Dean, Barnes and Ryan Slated to Pitch in Holiday Bill Against Fletcher's Sixth Place Team.

The Giants were idle yesterday and lost half a game to the Cubs, but they will try to make it up today when they tackle the Phillies in a doubleheader, while the Chicagoans grapple with the Cardinals at St. Louis. Playing on their home grounds against a team which has never given them much trouble, the Giants hope to cement their lead over the Cubs, who will have to battle away from home.

Few local fans will recognize the Phillies today, for the Quakers are now disguised as a sixth-place team. So far the disguise has been perfect. After spending several years in the cellar, Arthur Fletcher's men sprung a big surprise by socking their various opponents left and right, including the Giants, who were taken for two out of three in the sleepy city lately. As a result of this spurt the Phils have deserted the cellar for the first time since William Jennings Bryan last ran for the Presidency.

Today's first game will start at 1:30 and the Giants expect to have two more victories added to their quota by 6 o'clock at the latest. Despite the upward rush of the erstwhile tailenders, the champions expect to build up their lead over the Cubs in the next few days. Like all the other Eastern teams, the Phils have been easy for McGraw's athletes this season, although their record of seven lost and two won with the New Yorkers is better than that of the Braves and Robins.

Fletcher has done wonders with the frail Phils. He has coaxed good pitching out of Ring, Glazner and Carlson, and Heinie Sand has come through at shortstop. Harper, obtained from the Reds, has helped the outfield, which also has Cy Williams as the kingpin clouter.

The present series calls for five games—doubleheaders today and Sunday and a single game tomorrow. All the while the Cubs will be tilting with the Cardinals at St. Louis, the Reds will be mingling with the Pirates at Pittsburgh and the Robins will be taking some of the joy out of life for the Braves at Boston. The Giants own a four-game lead over Chicago now, and they expect to increase it before taking a fast train late Sunday afternoon for St. Louis, where they open their second Western invasion Tuesday.

Wayland Dean and Virgil Barnes or Bill Ryan will start the holiday games for the Giants. At Washington the Yanks start a five-game series which will be a battle for first place, so to speak. Being slightly more than three and a half games behind the Senators, the Yanks will have to win all five contests to edge into the lead.

ROBINS ARE VICTORS OVER BRAVES, 6 TO 5

BOSTON'S RALLY FAILS

Nets 3 Runs, but Falls One Short of Tying Score—Johnston Is Batting Star of Game.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, July 3.—The Brooklyn Robins opened their long series with the Braves here today by hanging up a 6 to 5 victory. Burleigh Grimes hurled for the Robins and it was his eleventh victory of the campaign. The Braves were held to seven scattered hits until the ninth when they staged a rally that fell one run short of tying the count. The late attack on Grimes netted three runs, but with perfect support he would not have allowed more than one tally.

John Cooney and Red Lucas pitched for the Braves and although the Robins collected seventeen hits off their combined offerings they had to have the aid of an error to score their winning run. Jimmie Johnston made four of the Robins' hits. He collected two doubles and two singles in five times at bat and his stick work was a big factor in his team's victory.

Cooney started against Grimes, but in the third round he was knocked off the mound. Lucas did well as a relief man, but was not favored by luck. The Robins scored what proved to be their winning tally in the ninth. Johnston singled with one out and took third on Wheat's double. Fournier was walked purposely, filling the bases, and Brown followed with a grounder to Tierney, who fumbled the ball when a double play loomed up. The error enabled Johnston to score.

With one out in their half of the ninth the Braves got busy and put on their rally. Singles by Bob Smith, Felix and Cunningham were made in succession and Cunningham's hit sent Smith home and Felix to third. McInnis grounded to Stock, who had a double play in front of him but threw past second. Felix scored on the wild peg and Cunningham reached third. Cunningham scored while Gibson, who batted for Tierney, was forcing McInnis. Stengel ended the rally with a grounder to Grimes.

Each team scored one run in the first. The Robins' tally was the result of a double by Johnston and singles by High and Wheat. The Braves got their run on singles by Smith and Cunningham and a sacrifice fly by McInnis. In the third the Robins took the lead when they chased Cooney off the mound. Three runs resulted from singles by Grimes, High, Johnston and Fournier, an error by Smith and Brown's sacrifice fly. Fournier's single brought about Cooney's finish. The hit also scored High and put Johnston on third, from where he counted after Felix caught Brown's long fly.

In the sixth Griffith singled and scored when Taylor doubled.

GYMKHANA AT BRIARCLIFF.

3-Day Meet to Decide Leading Sportsman Starts Today.

A three-day gymkhana to decide the best all-around amateur sportsman in the metropolitan district will start today at Briarcliff Lodge, Briarcliff Manor. Twenty well-known athletes have entered for the events, which will include tennis, golf, swimming and baseball, and the competitors have been divided into two teams, one composed of the married men, captained by S. Howard Voshell, and the other composed of the single men, captained by Walter Merrill Hall. The tennis singles will start this morning and this afternoon the same men will compete in the swimming and golf events, while tomorrow the performers will play a baseball game.

The married men's team will include, besides Voshell, Fred Baggs, Gerald Emerson, Cedric Major, Kenneth Fischer, E. A. Dionne, Arthur Cragin, Murray Vernon and Henry S. Bassford. The single men's lineup will be selected from Walter Merrill Hall, Jerry Lang, Elliott Binzen, Louis Thalheimer of the University of Texas, E. S. Chandler of the University of California, Muir Rogers of the University of Kansas, Dr. Rosenbaum, Harry Brunie, Ralph Baggs, Manfred Goldman and Fred Kalms of the Australian Davis Cup team.

RUTGERS SETS DRILL DATE.

Coach Wallace Will Hold First Football Practice Sept. 10.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., July 3.—Football practice at Rutgers will start on Sept. 10. Thirty-two candidates, all of whom are eligible, are expected to report. Head Coach Jack Wallace, who succeeds G. Foster Sanford, will have three regular coaches assisting him, all under one-year contracts. They are Mike Whitehill, former Rutgers and Penn star, in charge of the freshman team; Howard Raub, captain of the 1922 team, in charge of the varsity line, and William Kingman, 1923, captain, who will coach the freshman line. Sanford will have nothing more to do with the team and is not expected back this year for more than a visit. Wallace will have full charge of all football affairs at Rutgers. All last year's stars will be back, including Homer Hazel, All-American end.

CYCLISTS RACE TONIGHT.

Chapman, American Champion, to Start in Velodrome Event.

An international one-hour motor-paced race will feature the bicycling program at the New York Velodrome tonight, with four nations represented in the competition. Prominent among the starters in this event will be George Chapman, the America champion, who will make a determined bid to anex his first victory of the season at the New York saucer. Chapman has won nine races this year, but he has yet to score his initial victory at the uptown velodrome. The American titleholder will be opposed by Henry Wynsdau of Belgium, Pasquale Valentini of Italy and Frank Corry of Australia.

The one-third of a mile national championship race, the eighth of the series of eighteen to decide the bicycle championship of America, also will be on the program for decision this evening. The outstanding contenders in this event will be Alfred Goullet, Orlando Piani, Cecil Walker, Alfred Grenda and Arthur Spencer.

42 ON AUSTRALIAN TEAM.

Much Is Expected of Charlton, 17-Year-Old Swimmer, in Olympics.

In spite of great financial difficulties, Australia has sent a team of forty-two athletes to the Olympic Games. The team, with the exception of the tennis players who are in the United States and England, is quartered at Olympic Village in the town of Colombes and workouts are being held every day. The athletes made the trip in excellent shape and no injuries have been reported.

A great deal of attention is being centred in Charlton, the seventeen-year-old swimmer, who arrived with the team. He is credited with having bettered several world's records and is looked upon by experts in Paris as a strong contender for premier honors in the Olympics. No statement has been made relative to the events in which the star will compete, but officials of the Anzaca camp have reported that Charlton will take part in more than three events. At the time the Olympic trials were being held in Australia it was announced Charlton would not go to Paris, but some months ago this decision was reversed and the youth consented to go.

TUNNEY BOUT ON JULY 24.

Date for Match With Carpentier Is Definitely Set.

Jimmy Johnston, matchmaker for the Polo Grounds A. C., officially announced yesterday that Gene Tunney, the American light heavyweight champion, and Georges Carpentier, the French boxer, will clash in their fifteen-round bout at the Polo Grounds on the night of July 24. This is the date suggested by the New York State Athletic Commission when that body refused to sanction July 22, a date originally planned by the Polo Grounds A. C., on the grounds that it conflicted with the regularly assigned weekly dates of local boxing clubs.

Matchmaker Johnston also announced that final arrangements had been completed for the ten-round semi-final to the international bout with Paul Berlenbach, the hard-hitting Astoria light heavyweight, meeting Augie Ratner, Harlem boxer.

ROSENBERG TO BOX M'ALEER

Will Meet for Third Time at the Queensboro Club Monday Night.

Considerable interest has been aroused in the ten-round bout between Dave Rosenberg and Tommy McAleer, middleweight contenders, which will serve as the semi-final to the Paul Berlenbach-Frankie Carpentier bout at the Queensboro Stadium on Monday night. This will be the third meeting between Rosenberg and McAleer, the pair engaging in two slashing battles in their two previous meetings.

Two other ten-rounders are on the program. In addition to these two matches another ten-rounder will appear on the card with Johnny Reisler of Harlem meeting Tommy O'Brien. Tommy Mint and Marty Summers will meet in a six-rounder and Sammy Shack and Georgie Bloom will clash in the opening four-round preliminary.

Ted Lewis Beats Brown, Wins European Welterweight Title

JIM WAKELY DIES OF HEART DISEASE

Backer of John L. Sullivan Passes Away in Hospital at Age of 75.

James W. Wakely, well-known figure in Broadway's sporting fraternity several decades ago and one time backer, with Jimmy Johnson of Brooklyn, of the late John L. Sullivan, world's heavyweight champion, died yesterday afternoon in St. Vincent's Hospital of heart disease after an illness of four weeks. Wakely, who was 75 years old, was one of the outstanding men in the world of sport a generation back, and his café on the corner of Forty-second Street and Sixth Avenue was the mecca for all who followed the fortunes of chance. Among those who were employed by him in those days was Frank Farrell, today a prominent turf owner.

In addition to advising Sullivan throughout the champion's long career, Wakely also was active in the boxing game as manager at one time or another of Cal McCarthy, Jack McAuliffe, former lightweight champion of the world; Peter Maher and Brooklyn Jimmy Carol. It was Wakely who drew the "color line" on Peter Jackson and refused to permit Sullivan to meet the negro.

Arrangements will be completed today for the funeral, which will be held from Delaney's Funeral Parlors at 69 Eighth Avenue. Wakely is survived by a daughter and grandson.

ABBOTT DEFEATS RATNER.

Gets Decision in 12-Round Bout at Steeplechase A. A.

Harold Abbott of Rockaway Beach won the decision over Augie Ratner, veteran Harlem middleweight, in the twelve-round feature bout at the Steeplechase A. A., Coney Island, last night. It was a close fight and a good one all the way and the decision was well received by the crowd. Ratner, who hails from Harlem, weighed 161, a pound more than his victorious opponent.

In the eight-round semi-final Marty Summers of the East Side defeated Tommy Sarraco. Sarraco weighed 148 and Summers 149.

NO DATE SET FOR BOUT.

Decision on Holding Greb-Stribling Match Expected Next Week.

CHICAGO, July 3.—No new date for the Harry Greb-Yong Stribling boxing contest at Michigan City, Ind., will be set until world is received from Mayor Dall of the resort city, President Joseph M. Coffey of the Arena and Boxing A. C. announced today.

The bout, scheduled for tomorrow afternoon, was called off last night after a plea from Mayor Dall that an epidemic of smallpox was raging in certain sections of Michigan and he feared visitors to Michigan City might bring in the disease.

President Coffey said Mayor Dall had promised to give a decision on a new date not later than Monday or Tuesday.

Amateurs to Box on July 14.

Entry blanks were distributed yesterday for the amateur boxing tournament, which will be held under the auspices of the Clermont Athletic Club in the National Winter Garden Theatre, Houston Street and Second Avenue, on the night of July 4.

LUIS FIRPO SAILS FOR UNITED STATES

WILL BE HIS OWN TRAINER

Says He Will Let Nobody Advise Him and Takes Along Own Sparring Partner and Cook.

BUENOS AIRES, July 3.—Luis Angel Firpo, Argentine heavyweight, sailed for New York today aboard the American Legion to prepare for his fight with Harry Wills. Several hundred admirers were at the docks to bid the boxer farewell. Firpo is accompanied by a retinue consisting of a secretary, private cook, sparring partner, business agent and publicity man. Juan Homs, the agent here for Tex Rickard who spent nearly three months persuading Firpo to return to the ring, also sailed.

The Argentine heavyweight declared he did not propose to engage a trainer in the United States. He was not sure that he would even engage American sparring partners, relying upon his own ring-mate who is popularly known here as "Firpito," owing to his resemblance to Luis Angel. Firpo's private cook, who is also a good boxer, will be used as sparring material.

The cook, by the way, is a most important member of the Firpo entourage. Besides being a good boxer, he is also a "gaucho" or cow-puncher. But it is as a cook that he is Firpo's pet. Firpo said that he was taking his own cook along in order to insure that his food will be prepared in the Argentine style to which he is accustomed. American cooking, he said, caused him indigestion.

"This time," declared the South American battler, "I am not going to accept advice from anybody but myself. I am going to be the architect of my own fortunes. Knocking out Wills will be the least of my troubles. What'll trouble me more will be people who want to tell me what to do and how to do it."

Regarding his plans after the Wills fight, Firpo said they were very uncertain. He said it would depend upon developments whether he would return to Buenos Aires immediately or not.

KRUG TRAINS FOR BOUT.

Harrison Middleweight Will Meet McLoughlin Monday.

Spurred on by the probability that a victory will result in a match with Harry Greb for the world's middleweight championship, Phil Krug, the Harrison, (N. J.) middleweight, is putting in his hardest training licks in preparation for this twelve-round bout with Vic McLoughlin, the New York Irishman, which will top the card at the Oakland A. A. in Jersey City Monday night.

Three eight-round bouts will precede the main event, the principals being Murray Layton and Bobby Burns, flyweights; Johnny Midde and Joe Carlo, welterweights, and Fred Mase and Young Skinner, heavyweights.

SIKI SIGNS FOR TWO BOUTS.

To Box Dixie Kid on July 11 and Blacksmith Russell on July 18.

Battling Siki, the Senegalese boxer and former world's light heavyweight champion, yesterday was signed for two bouts. On July 11, Siki will meet Dixie Kid in a scheduled twelve-round bout at Belaire, Ohio, and on July 18 he will clash with Blacksmith Russell in Manchester, N. H. Both of Siki's opponents are negroes.

Martin to Box Battling Leonard.

Eddie Cannonball Martin, Brooklyn bantamweight, and Harry Battling Leonard of Philadelphia were signed yesterday to meet in a twelve-round bout that will top the card at the Steeplechase A. A. one week from tonight.

ATHELSTAN IS FIRST IN HINDOO HANDICAP

LUCKY PLAY IS WINNER

Colt Takes the Forest Park From H. T. Waters—Klondyke Captures Faraway Under Wraps.

Coming from last position in the stretch run, E. F. Cooney's five-year-old gelding Athelstan, by Uncle—Consuelo II., just got up in time to nose out Horologe in the Hindoo Handicap, the featured number of the card at the Aqueduct course yesterday afternoon. Callahan had the mount and Athelstan, carrying 115 pounds, ran the mile and a sixteenth in the fast time of 1:44, just a second slower than the track record for the distance. The winner was second choice in the wagering and earned $1,250 for his owner.

Ideal weather conditions attracted another good-sized mid-week attendance, which enjoyed excellent sport over the fast track. Three favorites, two at odds-on, came home in front. Twenty-four horses out of a total entry of sixty-seven were scratched.

Four paraded for the Hindoo Handicap, with J. E. Davis's Reparation the public choice, closing at 9 to 5. The prophecy that the first shall be last was fulfilled to the letter in this race. H. M. Howard's Nose Dive led throughout to the last sixteenth and finished last. Athelstan ran last and won. Reparation, which trailed the pacemaker all the way, finished third, and the Joaquin Stable's Horologe, which was running third all through, gained the place.

Nose Dive Takes Lead.

Nose Dive had plenty of early speed and Sande rated him out in front from the rise of the barrier, with Reparation at his heels, Horologe a couple of lengths back and Athelstan trailing. Two furlongs from home the field closed up on Nose Dive and from there to the sixteenth pole they made a great race of it, all four being lapped. Reparation showed in front, but Maiben had made his drive a bit too soon. Nose Dive stopped suddenly. Athelstan came with a rush on the outside and just nipped Horologe at the wire, the latter being a little more than a length in front of Reparation. Nose Dive carried top weight of 119 pounds and could not handle it over the distance.

August Belmont's Lucky Play, with McLaughlin in the saddle, was lucky to escape disqualification in the Forest Park Purse, a six-furlong dash restricted to the three-year-olds. In the drive down the homestretch he crowded the Rivera Stable's Bonaparte over on to the rail, forcing Babin to pull up sharply. After the boys had weighed in Babin claimed a foul and the stewards sent for McLaughlin. After some deliberation the claim was disallowed. Lucky Play undoubtedly would have won anyway, as he was drawing away at the time.

Bonaparte set the pace until they were around the turn into the homestretch, where Lucky Play came up on the outside to challenge the leader. For two furlongs they ran head and head, and then they came into close quarters. When Bonaparte was taken back Clarence Kummer sent Abe Hallow's H. T. Waters up on the outside to grab the place two lengths back of the winner, leading Bonaparte by half a length.

Klondyke Shows Heels.

Harry Payne Whitney's three-year-old colt Klondyke, scratched out of the handicap to run in the mile dash of the Faraway Purse, was the easiest kind of a winner of that event. The Whitney colt was the overwhelming favorite, backed down to 2 to 5 at post time. McAtee held Klondyke under wraps until they turned from the back, where he sent the colt through on the rail to finish in a canter seven lengths in front of Samuel Louis's Donnelly. S. Flaherty's Southern Cross, second choice, was third.

The Joaquin Stable's Zero Hour was easily the best of the ten two-year-olds that ran in the opening sprint of five furlongs. William O'Donnell's Royal Girl had the early foot, but could not hold the pace, and after turning into the straightaway Zero Hour came to the front and beat J. S. Ward's Wax Lady cleverly by a length and a half. R. T. Wilson Jr.'s Foolscap was third, three lengths back.

SARAZEN IS NAMED TO START TODAY

Mrs. Vanderbilt's Three-Year-Old Is Entered in the Carter at Aqueduct.

Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt 2d's three-year-old gelding Sarazen, by High Time—Rush Box, unbeaten as a two-year-old, is expected to make his first start this afternoon in two months, having been named to go to the post in the $4,000 Carter Handicap, a seven-furlong dash for three-year-olds and upward, which will be the feature of the holiday card at the Aqueduct race course. Sarazen, Winter betting favorite for the Kentucky Derby, has run only once as a three-year-old, when he finished second to Bracadale in the Lynbrook Handicap, the first week of the season. He did not train satisfactorily and has been given a long rest. Recently he has done some fast work and is expected to show his old-time speed and dash.

Another entry for the Carter that has not been out in many weeks is August Belmont's Ordinance, whose last appearance was in the Metropolitan Handicap the middle of May at Belmont Park. Ordinance was injured in a previous race and had to be thrown out of training after his disappointing showing in the Metropolitan. He is apparently sound again. The appearance of these two lends added interest to the Carter, which has been won by some famous horses since its establishment in 1895.

Seven have been named over night in the stake, with R. T. Wilson Jr.'s Wilderness allotted top weight of 124 pounds. He has not run since the Dixie Handicap. Wilderness, Brainstorm with 112 pounds and Indian Trail with 107 are the older horses to meet the three-year-olds. Ordinance has been given 115 pounds, while Sarazen will take up 118. Lord Baltimore II. has been given 108 pounds and Sun Audience is in light with 98.

The other stake is the Astoria for two-year-old fillies over the five-furlong course. Harry Payne Whitney seems to have the race as good as won with his smart fillies, Mother Goose, Maud Muller and Swinging.

Twelve juveniles have been named to go in the Independence Handicap at five furlongs and the same number will make up the field in the steeplechase over the course of about two miles.

The entries:

FIRST RACE—Claiming; for three-year-olds; six and a half furlongs. Bantam Cock 106 pounds, San Dimas 110, Buck Pond 116, *Malt 111, Tropical Water 111, Corn Products 108, Day Trap 115, Cuba Belle 102, *Free Hand 116, *Sun Silent 98, *Idle Thoughts 101, Passport 111.

SECOND RACE—Steeplechase; selling; for four-year-olds and upward; about two miles. *Clybridge 135 pounds, Eyng 147, Jim Coffroth 147, Mercurius 147, *Schuylkill 139, Graylette 130, Decisive 151, Herriard 142, Hebrides 131, Connlebert 144, Last Man 144, Sea Name 142.

THIRD RACE—The Astoria; for fillies; two-year-olds; five furlongs. Mother Goose 121 pounds, Alliance 111, Maud Muller 121, Lightship 111, Swinging 114.

FOURTH RACE—The Carter Handicap; for three-year-olds and upward; seven furlongs. Lord Baltimore II. 108 pounds, Indian Trail 107, Ordinance 115, Sun Audience 98, Sarazen 118, Wilderness 124, Brainstorm 112.

FIFTH RACE—Claiming; for three-year-olds and upward; one mile and a sixteenth. Negociateur 101 pounds, Wynnewood 114, Escoba D'Oro 96, *Ever Bold 106, Eagerness 106, Minto II. 112, Home Star 111, The Poet 116, Ceylon Prince 113, Friday 13th 101, Blue Hawk 111, Bowman 98, *High Prince 111.

30,000 WELCOME RACING TO CHICAGO

INAUGURAL TO JUDGE PRYOR

12 to 1 Shot Beats Better Luck by Half a Length in Opening-Day Feature.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 3.—Chicago welcomed the return of the thoroughbred this afternoon, approximately 30,000 enthusiastic followers of the sport turning out for the first day of the fifty-four-day meeting of the Chicago Business Men's Racing Association. The oral system of wagering was in use and a large squad of detectives under orders from State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe was present to see that there were no violations of the anti-betting laws.

The place of honor on the card was held by the Inaugural Handicap, a dash of six furlongs, for three-year-olds and upward, with a purse of $2,500. The race provided an upset for the talent, the winner being R. L. Baker's Judge Pryor, a 12 to 1 shot, which beat the even-money favorite, the International Stable's Better Luck, by half a length.

Six went to the post and they were sent away to a good start. Jockey F. Weiner hustled the winner to the front with a rush at the rise of the barrier and into a good lead. Weiner saved ground with the six-year-old son of Vulcain and Frances M. and outlasted Better Luck in the final drive down the homestretch.

Better Luck, which carried top weight of 116 pounds and conceded six pounds to the winner, was taken back off the pace. He went up with determination when called upon, coming with a rush at the end. Lord Granite began slowly, but saved a lot of ground, finishing strongly to take down third money by half a length from Pricemaker. The race was run in 1:12 1-5 over a fast track.

The most sensational finish of the afternoon came in the second race, a six-furlong dash for four-year-olds and upward, in which the first three horses finished noses apart. The winner was J. W. Harwood's gelding Arrowhead, which was up just in time to beat W. C. Weant's Top of th' Morning by a nod. T. E. Crist's Simplicity, which made all the pace, just lasted to take the short end of the purse by the narrowest of margins from Coyne. The race was run in 1:14 2-5.

MURPHY CAPTURES 2 CLEVELAND RACES

FAVONIAN SHOWS SPEED

Trots Fastest Heat This Year in 2:04 1-5—Theodore Guy Wins Purse for 3-Year-Old Pacers.

CLEVELAND, July 3 (Associated Press.)—Tommy Murphy, the Syracuse reinsman, had a field day here today, winning two of the three trophy events on the Grand Circuit program.

He drove Erla Guy, owned by Richard Baird of Hamilton, Ont., to a straight heat victory in the Fasig Sweepstake, which had a purse of $2,000, and then won the trotting Sweepstake with his own Czar Worthy, after Favonian won the first heat in 2:04 1-5, fastest time trotted this year.

Fred Edman let Murphy take Czar Worthy out too far in front in the second heat and could not overtake him with Favonian, but in the third heat he was handicapped when a tire blew out shortly after the start.

Erla Guy was one of four horses trained by Ben F. White, which started in the Fasig as the White entry.

The Experiment, for three-year-old pacers, went into a fourth heat before it was decided. It went to Theodore Guy, owned by Fred Eschmidt, Chicago, after Bob McTyer, owned by the Candler Stables, Atlanta, won the first heat. Marion C. of the same stable, the second.

The Judges took Doc Vail off Milton Wood and C. Lacey off L. D. in the second heat of the 2:12 pace, but put them back in the next for scoring ahead of the pole horses.

FILLY SELLS FOR $7,700.

Alchemy Brings Top Price in Horse Sale at Aqueduct Track.

Horses in training, the property of various owners, were sold by auction at the Aqueduct race course yesterday afternoon before the racing. Nineteen of the catalogued lot brought a total of $23,700, an average of $1,247. Only seven head brought $1,000 or more. Top price of the sale was $7,700, which was paid by T. D. Tennilee for the chestnut filly Alchemy, a three-year-old by Imp. Mont d'Or II.—Imp. Reveries, consigned by the Newtondale Stable.

Alchemy was one of the star two-year-old fillies of last year's Kentucky racing and there was lively bidding for her. She won her first three starts and in her fourth race ran third to those crack colts Worthmore and Black Gold, the latter the winner of the Kentucky Derby. This year she has started twice, winning once at six furlongs in close to record time.

The next best price was $3,600 for the two-year-old chestnut colt Elector, by Ballot-Sister, which J. E. Madden took for J. C. Milam.

The best sales follow:

Alchemy, ch. f., 3, by Imp. Mont d'Or—Imp. Reveries, T. D. Tennilee	$7,700
Elector, ch. c., 2, by Ballot—Sister, J. C. Milam	3,600
Red Pennant, ch. c., 2, by Pennant—America, H. C. Fisher	2,000
Imp. Louverne, b. c., 3, by Rabelais—Glorita, P. S. P. Randolph	2,000
Lincoln, br. c., 2, by Imp. Under Fire—Olivia Israel, M. Goldblatt	1,700
Legation, b. c., 2, by Imp. Ambassador IV.—Sumptuous, R. T. Cogar	1,200
Imp. Boatman, b. g., 5, by Lochryan—Mrs. Partington, S. Louis	1,000

Villacis Is Major Hope of Country in the Olympics.

Three athletes, comprising the Olympic team from Ecuador, have arrived in Paris and have taken up quarters at Olympic Village. The men were a long time on the water and as a result have experienced some difficulty in getting back into condition, but their progress has been rapid and the coach expects all three of them to place in the Olympics.

Villacis will carry the major hopes of the team. He is a tall, powerful athlete with marked agility and an easy running form. He will compete in the marathon, a speciality in which he has taken part frequently in his native land and has never been beaten. Only recently he covered a distance of 16 kilometers in an hour, running through city streets, faced with sharp turns and having to traverse a rugged road. He readily gets into the best of condition and has never trained under the eye of a skillful coach. All that he has accomplished has been done unaided, and Paris experts have been surprised with the smoothness of his running. His stride is long and even and there is a spring in it that is natural and easy. He is reported to have the best form of any marathon runner now training in Paris, but form does not mean victory—there are oher attributes

Jurado, not yet 23 years old, is a sprinter and a high jumper. Just how well he performed in these specialities is not known, but it is understood that he is able to show to better advantage in the jump than in the dashes.

Jarrin is a middle-distance man, and while no records of his performances are available, critics have noted his workouts and report that while his form does not have the even, systematic propulsion that is characteristic of the leading performers, he does cover a lot of ground and does it in a very short length of time. Just where he will be when the races in which he starts are over is a question on which the experts refuse to comment, but his fellow team members are certain that he will be one of the first three.

All in all, the team from Ecuador is a picturesque one and probably will be heard from in Colombes Stadium.

Upson of California Gains Semi-Finals in Canadian Golf

TORONTO, July 3.—Frank Thompson and Seymour Lyon, both of Toronto; Ross Somerville of London, Ont., and Lauren Upson of the University of California today won their way to the semi-finals of the Canadian amateur golf championship on the Rosedale links.

Thompson defeated C. C. Fraser of Kanawaki, Montreal, 4 and 3; Lyon defeated C. B. Grier of Mount Brune, Montreal, 2 and 1; Somerville defeated Norman Scott of Mount Brune, 2 and 1, and Upson defeated F. G. Hoblitzel of Sarnia, 5 and 4. Lyon will meet Thompson and Somerville will clash with Upson in the upper semi-final tomorrow.

BIG FLEET ENTERS EASTERN Y. C. CRUISE

Schooners and 40 and 50-Footers to Start From Marblehead Tomorrow.

Special to The New York Times.

MARBLEHEAD, Mass., July 3.—A fleet of eight schooners, five New York fifty-footers, three New York forty-footers and a flock of power boats gathered here today for the annual cruise of the Eastern Yacht Club, which starts on Saturday for the Southeastern New England coast, calling at Provincetown, Mattapoisett, Vineyard Haven, Newport, Block Island and New London.

The cruise will be pleasantly interrupted by a special race for the squadron by the New York Yacht Club at Newport on July 9 for cups offered by Commodore Harold S. Vanderbilt, while a number of New York boats are expected to join when the fleet comes out of the Cape Cod canal on Sunday afternoon.

Before leaving on the cruise many of the yachts will sail in the annual regatta of the Eastern Yacht Club tomorrow, for which the Puritan Cup, won by the famous cup defender of four decades ago, is the principal trophy.

The squadron runs with the prizes for each of the three divisions, schooners, fifties and forties are as follows:

July 5—Marblehead to Provincetown; Captain Herbert M. Sears, Captain Spender Borden Jr., and Captain Charles L. Harding.

July 7—Mattapoisett to Vineyard Haven; all by Rear Commodore Henry A. Morss.

July 8—Vineyard Haven to Newport; all by Commodore N. F. Ayer.

July 10—Newport to Block Island; all by Vice Commodore John S. Lawrence.

July 11—Block Island to New London; Fleet Captain Guy Lowell, Captain E. Walter Clark, Captain Arthur Winslow.

CREWS READY FOR REGATTA.

New York Well Represented in People's Races Today.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, July 3.—Oarsmen from New York, Detroit, Pittsburgh, Washington, Baltimore and Richmond arrived here today for the annual People's Regatta to be rowed on the Schuylkill July 4.

From the metropolitan district came crews of the Nonpareil Rowing Club, New Rochelle Rowing Club, Nautilus Boat Club of Brooklyn and First Bohemian Club. There was keen disappointment manifested along "Boat House Row" today when it was learned that, owing to the death of Captain Richard T. Terwilliger of the New York A. C. crews, the "Winged Foot" organization has cancelled its entries in today's regatta.

The New Rochelle Rowing Club crews, junior eight, intermediate quadrille sculls and two singles, arrived at the boathouse of the University of Pennsylvania early this evening. Shells were shipped earlier in the day and awaited the New Yorkers.

RACING DATES APPROVED.

The Kentucky Commission Makes Changes in Autumn Meets.

Special to The New York Times.

LATONIA, Ky., July 3.—A meeting of the Kentucky State Racing Commission was held here today to consider dates for the Fall meetings as submitted by the Kentucky Jockey Club and the Lexington Associations. The dates as approved are as follows:

Latonia—Sept. 13 to Oct. 18 (31 days).
Louisville—Oct. 23 to Nov. 8 (15 days).
Lexington—Nov. 11 to Nov. 22 (11 days).

A number of changes were made for the Autumn racing. Lexington, which formerly opened the Fall season, now comes at the close and is granted an extra day of racing. This year, Latonia will open the season, instead of following Lexington, as last year. Louisville is between them instead of closing the season. Louisville also gets five extra days of racing.

A slight change was made in the racing rules and a number of rulings were handed down.

seemed to give the English a new lease of life. They outplayed the United States in a driving rain, Wise scoring the first goal for Great Britain after both Barrett and Bingham had missed easy shots. This chukker was overwhelmingly in favor of Great Britain, the United States players letting up and standing pat on their lead of four goals. Referee Nelson of Argentina called a foul on Boeseke for cross-cutting in front of Wise's pony, but the free shot did not avail England a goal.

Britons' Defense Stiffen.

Britain's defense stiffened perceptibly after the entire team came on the field with new ponies. Although the Britishers were outplaying the Americans, their shooting was poor and they missed three apparently easy goals. The American team was on the defensive in this chukker, taking no chances on the slippery grass and standing on their lead. Wanamaker saved three times with beautiful back-hand shots which electrified the crowds.

The British ponies were tiring fast in the muddy going. In the fourth chukker the turf was all cloggd up, having been cut up by the hoofs of the ponies. The British were apparently unwilling to take chances, while Hitchcock and Boeseke were taking desperate headlong dives into the goalposts, eluding Guest time and again, although the Briton was showing the best game at back which has been seen since the Olympic competition began. Hitchcock and Boeseke both scored in this chukker.

Wanamaker was playing a great game, and Barrett, the British No. 1, seemed unable to get out of his tracks, so closely was he covered by the Philadelphia player. Barrett finally succeeded in getting away from Wanamaker at the beginning of the sixth chukker and scored the second goal for Great Britain.

Rain began falling again as the last chukker began. The British were playing listlessly, apparently merely trying to prevent further American scoring. Hitchcock, however, succeeded in scoring the tenth and last goal for America just before the bell rang for the end of the match.

The line-up:

UNITED STATES (10)	GREAT BRITAIN (2).
No. 1—E. J. Boeseke.	No. 1—Capt. F. E. Guest.
No. 2—T. Hitchcock.	No. 2—Lt. Col. D. J. G. Bingham.
No. 3—R. Wanamaker.	No. 3—Major F. W. Barrett.
Back—F. Roe.	Back—Commandant P. K. Wise.

Referee—Jack D. Nelson.

MISTRAL IS WINNER IN SOUND REGATTA

N. Y. Y. C. 40-Footer Triumphs in Light Wind in American Y. C. Event Off Rye.

BANZAI CAPTURES TROPHY

Takes Prize in 30-Footer Class—Fluky Breeze Cuts Down Times—61 Boats Start.

Special to The New York Times.

RYE, N. Y., July 3.—Light and fluky weather prevailed for the annual regatta of the American Yacht Club, which was sailed off this harbor today and in which sixty-one yachts crossed the starting line.

The New York Yacht Club forty-footer Mistral, taking advantage of baffling puffs of breeze, won the race in her class and the prize offered by Commodore John L. Cutler. Banzai, owned by Edmund Lang, won in the thirty-footer class, taking the trophy offered by Vice-Commodore Philip R. Mallory, and Grey Dawn captured the prize given by Rear Commodore Ogden Reid for Larchmont O Class Sloops. The times in all classes were slow because of the very light and fluky breeze and the last yacht to finish had been out almost six hours to cover a course of 16¾ nautical miles.

The racing yachts were started in a very light southeasterly breeze, the starting line being made between the committee boat Porpoise, owned by Rear Commodore Reid and the gas buoy on Scotch Caps, off Milton Point. D. B. Parsons was Chairman of the race committee, assisted by William Remsen, John B. Shethar, Frederick W. Sherman and W. J. Curtis Jr.

The forty-footers were sent away at 2:05, with Rowdy in the lead, midway of the line, with Shawara close aboard, Typhoon and Banshee toward the weather end and Mistral, the subsequent winner, making a poor start at the weather end of the line.

Benefits by Running Tide.

They all crossed on the starboard tack, but Rowdy soon went about, apparently hoping to get clear and sail out into the Sound hunting for a better breeze. Skipper Duell found himself crowding down on Mistral, which was still on the starboard tack, and Rowdy, her way killed, had to tack again in order not to foul. When clear, Rowdy again went on the port tack and sailed away southeast, where she apparently found a better breeze and benefited by the tide running eastward.

The forties, Larchmont O sloops and thirties sailed a triangle course of 16¾ miles, which took them on a long hitch of 7⅜ miles to the buoy off Greenwich Point on the Connecticut shore, then across the Sound, 6⅛ miles, to Matinicock Buoy, and 3¼ miles across the Sound again to the finish line, off Scotch Caps.

Three boats of the Larchmont O class crossed the starting line, and Grey Dawn, sailed by Vice Commodore Philip Johnson, was the winner, defeating Harold Tobey's Maisie in the fluky airs by almost 28 minutes. These boats are usually very even and the finish gives an idea of the uncertain conditions. Nimbus, sailed by her owner, E. P. Alker, was third, over a minute astern of Maisie.

Nine 30-Footers Start.

The wind hauled and shifted during the afternoon and when the yachts finished there was a good sailing breeze from southward blowing. A fleet of nine thirty-footers crossed the starting line, and after one had gone into the lead after the other the winner turned up in Banzai, with W. H. Hoffman's Minx second and F. J. S. Flint's Phantom third. It was a day when the lucky slant did the business.

As is usual these days a fine fleet of international six-meter yachts answered the starting signal. These boats and others of the smaller classes sailed a twelve-mile triangle taking them to Parsonage Point, then across the Sound to Matinicock Buoy and home. The day seemed to suit the older boats of the six-meter fleet, as Johnston DeForest's Priscilla was once more victorious, having a long lead at the finish over J. F. Bermingham's Lea, another of the older school and a crack boat in light airs.

Dauphin, the new Gardner designed six-meter, sailed by Conny Shields, also did well in the fluky zephyrs and finished third over a minute and a half ahead of Natka, the new six-meter piloted by Rear Commodore H. B. Plant.

Iris, the new Herreshoff boat, built for Commodore S. Stewart of the Seawanhaka Corinthian Yacht Club, which had been undergoing repairs, returned to the races and finished fifth.

The Victory Class race turned out to be another victory for Blue Jacket, owned by Commodore James B. Ford and sailed by Drake Sparkman. Blue Jacket had a big lead at the finish over T. S. Clark's Black Jack.

BREAKING MORE THAN RECORDS.

The Democratic National Convention seems determined to break the record for the number of ballots taken and the length of its sessions. That is an ambition comparatively easy to compass. But in the process a great many other things have been, or threaten to be, broken. The bright hopes which the party had before the convention met; the belief that even Democrats sharply divergent had enough loyalty to party and patriotism to sink their differences for the common good; the expectation that a sense of deep responsibility would sober the delegates and a realization of the great opportunity held out to them would fill them with tempered enthusiasm—all these things now seem like withered and fallen leaves.

About the sole chance left is that a manifestly desperate plight of the party may lead to determined measures at the eleventh hour. A French philosopher said that the wise man will quit things a little time before things quit him. Certainly the Democratic Convention must make haste to quit the bickering and stubborn personal ambitions which have so strongly marked and sadly marred its proceedings up to now. It must, that is to say, quickly get rid of these futilities and humiliations, unless it wishes to see the last remnants of a reputation for efficiency, sanity and public spirit slip away from it.

INDEPENDENCE AND INTERDEPENDENCE.

It was in the "course of human events" that the thirteen American Colonies became thirteen free and independent States. In the copy of the original Declaration of Independence the word "united" was written in small letters and without a capital. "States of America" was written large. They had hardly established their independence of England before they began to practice independence one of another. New York raised a tariff wall against Connecticut on the one side and New Jersey on the other. As one authority states, no skiff from Connecticut could come down through Hell Gate without paying duty and no skiff could put off from Paulus Hook for Cortlandt Street without getting clearance papers as if sailing from Liverpool. There were in turn embargoes by these neighboring independent States.

But soon they all realized that while they were independent they could get on only by recognizing their interdependence. As President Coolidge said in his Memorial Day speech, they surrendered the privilege of performing certain acts for themselves, such as regulating interstate commerce, but they received more than they yielded and entered into a larger individual as well as collective freedom by acting upon the knowledge that they were members one of another. Without independence there could not have been a national life such as brought the little Colonies, when united, not only into "the separate and equal "station to which the laws of nature "and of nature's God" entitled them, but also to assume among the powers of the earth a place of which the men who signed the Declaration of Independence never dreamed. The day of this Declaration will always deserve to be the first in our calendar. No safe and sane celebration should ever let its early color and radiance fade into the light of common day.

Our dominating world position has been reached not alone by the pledging of lives, fortunes and honor to the support of the Declaration of Independence, "with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence," but also by a common renunciation in making one nation of the many interdependent States. Meanwhile, in the further course of human events this independent nation of interdependent sovereignties finds itself in a world of interdependent nationalities—a world in which it is said there must be no "entangling alliances." Washington would doubtless offer the same advice today, so far as individual States are concerned, but doubtless he would be foremost in urging an alliance with all the nations for promoting peace in the earth. Not to enter a League, of such purpose, with all the other nations, is to be false to the obligations of our national freedom. A "decent respect to the opinions of "mankind" impelled the signers of the Declaration of Independence to state the reasons for our separation. A like respect should now impel us to make a Declaration of our Interdependence and give our reasons for it. They are, incidentally, as many and as real as those which led us to declare and fight for our independence. Only peoples independent can enter into interdependent relations. Independence and interdependence are wholly consistent. They are, indeed, one and inseparable in the world as it has come to be in the course of human events on this Fourth of July in the 148th year of our Independence.

ANDERSON'S CONVICTION AFFIRMED.

The conviction of William H. Anderson, former State Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of New York, for forgery in the third degree has been sustained unanimously by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court. It holds that the verdict of the jury was justified by the proved facts, including the testimony of certified public accountants, among them one of Anderson's witnesses, which showed that the books had been falsified and "warranted a finding by "the jury that there was an entry in "the corporation's books falsely made "by defendant's direction with intent "to defraud, and that the corpora-"tion's books had been altered by "an employe with a fraudulent and "corrupt purpose whereby the right "of the corporate body might be jeop-"ardized."

In Anderson's wanderings in Fairyland and the stories he brought back from Mann, Johnson, Green, John T. King, the court sees "a fictitious con-"coction and one which it is almost "impossible for even the gullible to "credit." The trial was conducted with scrupulous fairness to the rights of the defendant, both in the admission and exclusion of evidence and in the charge of the trial Judge, as regards both the facts and the law.

Almost more revolting than Anderson's proved crime was his attack on the courts, the "Irish Catholic Tammany Judges." He asserted that he was the victim of a conspiracy. He virtually appealed to the "aroused Protestantism" and the Ku Klux Klan. Some of his Anti-Saloon League supporters have persisted in believing that he is an innocent martyr of the Rum Power. Last March the Rev. James K. Shields, Superintendent of the New Jersey Anti-Saloon League, uttered these pleasant sentiments, cheered by most of the two hundred brethren present, and expressing characteristically the perseverance of the saints in error:

> The great thinking public is not blind to the outstanding fact that Mr. Anderson is in prison, not because the friends of prohibition believe he had robbed them of a single penny, but because the old liquor traffic, seizing upon a technicality, wreaked its vengeance upon one the weight of whose foot had been felt upon its serpentine head many times.

These persons are always talking about the duty of obeying the laws. Let them learn to respect the law and the decisions of the courts. Let them stop whimpering over a justly convicted criminal. Otherwise, the thinking public will know what to think about them.

FOREIGN SERVICE A CAREER.

A needed step in the creation of a genuine foreign service for the United States has just been taken by the Department of State in reclassifying diplomatic and consular officers in accordance with the provisions of the new law amalgamating the Diplomatic and Consular Services. Instead of listing the two services separately, there are now nine classes in which diplomatic secretaries and consuls are grouped, according to their ability and length of service. In the first class are the dozen or more counselors and secretaries of embassies and legations who have heretofore held the most influential positions, and with them the leading consuls general and consuls now stationed at the most important posts. In the ninth class are the newcomers in both branches of the service. Sixty persons have been dropped or demoted in the process of reclassification.

The two most significant improvements brought about by the new law are the interchangeability of the two services and the fact that they now offer a career as does the army or the navy. Heretofore the Consular and Diplomatic Services have been in almost watertight compartments, although both were under the immediate direction of the State Department. If a consul had qualities which would be useful in a diplomatic post, it was almost impossible to have him transferred. At the same time, the diplomatic secretaries, most of whom enter the service young, were deprived of the educational benefits of service in the consulates. Under the new system a man may be designated to either in accordance with his special fitness.

To the country at large the fact that the foreign service is now established on a solid basis is probably of more importance than is the mere amalgamation of its two branches. Under the new system the men are paid at least a living wage. Heretofore the demands incident to observing the etiquette of a diplomatic mission so far exceeded the salaries of diplomatic secretaries that only men of independent means could go into the Diplomatic Service. This has now been changed. Furthermore, the chances of promotion to a post of genuine importance are now sufficiently good to make the prize worth seeking. The two factors should serve as an inducement to men of ability but without means to enter this national service which has been so aptly described as the country's first line of defense. Whether we join the League of Nations or not, our relations with the rest of the world are ever more complicated and demand greater skill of an expert order. The foreign service needs the highest ability we can command for it.

IS POLITICAL SKILL EXTINCT?

One of the surprising and discouraging things about the Democratic Convention is the way in which it has for four days lurched back and forth aimlessly and helplessly without any sign of political direction. It is not merely a question of lacking a great genius for management. Even moderate ability in guiding the course of the Convention and in making effective combinations among the delegates has been painfully lacking. It may be said that the conditions have been peculiarly confused and hard to deal with. So they have, but such are precisely the things that appeal to high talent for organization and for leadership. It is hard to believe that the Democratic master-mechanics of other days would have let the machine run wild so long as it has done this year. Doubtless there will be in the end some evidence of intelligent control in bringing about a concentration. But it has been a long time coming, and makes old-timers wonder if the race of skilled political managers is dying out.

THE AIR MAIL.

In an age of cheap postage the rate of twenty-four cents for a letter to San Francisco by airplane may seem excessive to some, although delivery is made in a day and a half. In an earlier day when railroad trains were beginning to carry the mails, the lowest charge in the United States for a letter was six cents for a distance of thirty miles, and it had to be written on a single sheet of paper. For every additional page six cents more was charged. If transportation was for more than thirty miles, the cost was ten cents for every sheet. Between 80 and 150 miles the charge rose to twelve and a half cents per sheet; between 150 and 400 miles it was eighteen and three-quarter cents, and for more than 400 miles twenty-five cents. This was in 1840. Horse cars as well as railroad trains and stage coaches were used to carry the mails.

Cheaper postage soon followed and the service rapidly increased in efficiency. When Postmaster General Burleson reported in 1917 that the mails were carried over 1,500,000 miles of railroad, and by steamboat lines and automobiles, the people of the United States could congratulate themselves upon possessing a postal system that was probably the best in the world. The new air mail service between New York and San Francisco is unequaled in Europe or anywhere. The charge of twenty-four cents for a two-ounce letter that is carried across the continent and delivered in thirty-six hours from the time of mailing is moderate.

The service is highly meritorious. Almost perfect regularity may be expected of it all the year round. There are times when dispatch is of great importance for private as well as for business correspondence. A letter mailed in New York for San Francisco is not delivered by railroad until the fifth day after it is put in a street box. By air service the time is cut to less than two days. In fact, air mail becomes a competitor of the half-rate night telegram. But, while the telegram may be delivered twelve hours after transmission, its message is limited to a comparatively few words. The air mail letter may contain a thousand words and is also cheaper.

In this city the Air Mail Extension Committee, an organization of business men, is trying to interest the community in the "thirty-two hour schedule from New York to San Francisco." Unless wide publicity is given to it the service cannot be long maintained. In a telegram of congratulation to Postmaster General New the committee says that it intends to inform business men in other parts of the country "of the great advantages "that are now available to them "through the air mail service." It can be used for all kinds of matter addressed to cities and towns near the relay stations, for mail trains will be used to pick up packages left by the aviators. The service will not pay for itself for a long time to come. But that need cause no astonishment. In his book, "The United States Post Office," Daniel C. Roper says that in 1915 the accumulated postal deficit of a century and a quarter amounted to $326,514,628. If the railway, steamboat and free delivery mail service has not been profitable, the air mail service holds out no promise of being so. But it is good business to give the American people more rapid transportation for their mail matter. Moreover, the air mail service will promote commercial aviation. So it must be supported.

THE UNPRECEDENTED SURPLUS.

Secretary Mellon explains rather than boasts about the Treasury surplus of over $505,000,000 for the fiscal year just ended. This is a sum equaling the total ordinary receipts of the Government thirty years ago. The official estimates of last October prove to be badly out. But for this the experts are not to be seriously blamed. No one could have foreseen eight months ago the cut of 25 per cent. in income taxes this year, nor did the most skilled reader of the signs in the financial heavens predict the great and sudden change in the money market early in 1924. It was this last which most threw out the Treasury calculations. It made inevitable the payment of $50,000,000 in interest on the British debt in cash instead of, as was expected, in Liberty bonds. It also brought about a marked and unforeseen activity in railroad securities on Government account, so that the Treasury had an income on that item of nearly $80,000,000 more than the estimate.

None of these considerations obscure the fact that the big Treasury surplus represented a high degree of national prosperity in 1923, or the fact that American public finance has been admirably managed. The gross public debt has been reduced by over a billion, and the annual interest charge cut down by more than $45,000,000. There could be no better application of a surplus. That the flattering balance of the Treasury books on June 30 should not lead Congress to enter a fool's paradise and to think it can spend unlimited amounts of money next year was pointed out by President Coolidge in his budget speech on Monday. The surplus of the year 1924-25 will be, as estimated, only about one-twentieth of the present one, and the check in business, if continued, may bring it down still lower. Rigid economy must be the order of the day, as the President insisted. The existence of a surplus is to a skilled administrator of public finances chiefly a sign that taxes ought to be reduced, and an added motive for making further decreases in public expenditures, so that the Treasury will still have ample funds in hand even after tax payments fall.

ADVERTISERS ACROSS THE SEA.

Two thousand American advertising men have sailed or are to sail for London, where the convention of Associated Advertising Clubs of the World is about to meet. London is this year the appropriate place of assemblage, because it is now the site of a huge publicity enterprise known as the Wembley Exhibition, undertaken in the interest of no less a concern than the British Empire. The modern world exposition is the ancient fair, except that the object is not the immediate exchange of goods, but the stimulation of trade appetites and the establishment of new trade relations. It is also the place for sampling amusements as well as merchandise. Scientists and scholars hold their congresses wherever the world fairs are. After five shiploads of professional American advertising men we shall be sending to Wembley several cargoes of eminent members of the American Bar Association.

Nominally a congress of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, it will be in fact a congress of the English-speaking world. Advertising is still predominantly Anglo-Saxon. In going to England these American advertisers are going to the homeland of their profession. It is the native land of Pears', of Eno's, of Beecham's and of Pelman, and of the author of "Tono-Bungay." It is the country where newspapers devote to classified ads the front pages that we reserve for Presidential nominations, disastrous earthquakes, peculiarly atrocious murders and welcome tax reductions. London is the town where the busses go swathed from hurricane deck to Plimsoll line in great placards, so that the stranger in London finds it difficult to get a conveyance for the Bank of England among all these great vehicles seemingly bound for Bovril or Michelin.

Between the British and American newspaper advertisement there is much the same difference as between the British and American newspaper. English headlines draw sparingly on the larger fonts and English crime stories are still proclaimed to the world as "A Tragic Incident," or continued serially for a fortnight as "The Bungalow Murder." But British reticence in this respect is relaxing, though much more noticeably in the advertising columns than in the news columns. The highly dramatic imagination of the American display author and artist is finding its imitators. Our picturesque slogans are being copied. Though the case for a separate American language has not been made out, there are sufficiently characteristic differences between the American and the British printed vernacular. But those differences are far less noticeable in the language of the display ads. On going through the advertising pages of Punch, one is frequently struck by a vocabulary that is almost of Dallas or Seattle. Possibly it may be due to the fact that the same display is intended for both sides of the Atlantic. But another explanation would be that the British copywriter is consciously striving for the secret of American "pep."

THE RIGHT TO STRIKE.

The right to strike in the coal industry was exercised in 1920 so thoroughly that the public suffered until the strike was ended by a contract entered into according to an award by the United States Anthracite Coal Commission. The operators assert that the contract was violated by a strike immediately after its signature. At all events, the contract led a more or less disturbed life until its expiration in 1922. Then there was another costly and destructive strike. The miners rejected arbitration, President Harding intervened, and there was another general agreement.

One of the conditions was that there should be no strikes under the contract. There have been strikes, nevertheless. Between the resumption of mining and last New Year's the record is of 30 strikes in 102 days. One such strike is now in progress, and the operators issue a temperate account of it, which serves as an appeal to the public as well as to the strikers. Snow and Spring rains flooded a gangway and eleven miners were laid off. The contract calls for submission of grievances to the Board of Conciliation. Instead there was a strike, with a demand that the men be given other work at miners' pay. The operators reply that they will hire as many men as they can use, since their interest lies in increase of operations. But they refuse to "make work" or to pay wages not called for by the class of work done. This point has been upheld by the umpire of the Conciliation Board in previous cases.

Thus arises a conflict between the right to strike and the right of the employers to ask for the execution of a contract with labor. Society cannot exist if contracts may be violated with both social and legal impunity. Strikes contrary to contract create a presumption that they are admitted to be unwarranted. If the strikers believed in the merits of their case, they would at least take the course laid down in the contract, and appeal if the award went against them. By striking they argue that they create a demand for coal, which must be mined later. But, in fact, the excess of idle days adds to the cost of coal. Moreover, orders may be filled by other miners. If the cost of coal is put above what consumers will pay, strikers lose their jobs instead of raising their wages.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Is Publisher or Author Best Judge?

In reading the periodicals devoted to reviews of books and to information about authors, one frequently comes across the statement that, as originally written and offered to the publisher, this or that work of fiction was anywhere from half again to twice as long as it was on its appearance, and that the cutting down had been done at the request or the insistence of somebody connected with the publishing house.

For some readers, these revelations are irritating, and in their minds there arises the more or less indignant question, "By what right or with what excuse was this abridgement ordered or besought?"

No good book was ever too long, and no bad one ever too short. If publishers were able to tell what the public likes and wants in a book, they would be justified in imparting that knowledge to writers, but most of them will confess that they have little if any power of that kind, and that they can predict success or failure for a book with no nearer approach to certainty than theatrical managers can for a play. Yet these same publishers, undeterred by the memory of the many books approved by them that have failed, in spite of having been made over in accordance with their notions as to length, ending and the like, go right on enforcing those notions, and too many writers too weakly submit to their compulsion.

In many a book the result is obvious. The observing reader sees holes in the story, rough edges where unions have been made of what should not be united, and misses explanations and reflections that something tells him ought to be there. Oftenest of all he sees signs of the weariness and despair which the long drudgery of revision and rearrangement has produced—the evidence of hard work, reluctantly done after the heat and flush of creation have passed.

Of course, a publisher has the best of rights to decide whether or not he will put in print a manuscript offered to him, but why can't he realize that invention and imagination are not in his province, and that he interferes with their products at more than peril to himself?

His Speech Fitted His Purpose.

It took only one speech, apparently, to convince the Georgia Legislature that the proposed child labor amendment to the Federal Constitution should not be ratified. But there is no mystery about the speed with which this important decision was reached, for the single speech was delivered by a statesman and orator of exactly the kind that anybody desirous of keeping children at work in factories would have selected and his remarks had both the tone and the form which fitted his purpose.

Representative McCorsey of Schley was the man who chose for himself the high task of keeping Georgia right on the child labor question, and how well he performed it can be seen even from the few sentences of his speech which are all that as yet have come to hand. The amendment, he said, was "the work of a bunch of long-haired agitatists," a statement marked at once by elegance and originality. Of like quality was the declaration that "I don't want any more monkeying with the buzz saw by that bunch in Washington." There will be little left of them when they hear that Representative McCorsey and the other Georgia legislators "don't mix with them, weren't born under the same régime, and don't want them interfering with our affairs."

The vote against the amendment in the Assembly was immediate and decisive—170 to 3. One of the misguided three was Miss Viola Napier, but the two other women members made no such mistake. At any rate, their names are not given in the dispatches and they will not have to share with Miss Napier the obloquy earned by her deplorable sympathy with the long-haired agitatists.

Arkansas, benighted State that she is, showed what seemed like pride, this week, when she ratified the child labor amendment and was the first of all the States to do so. But cotton mills are few in Arkansas while in Georgia they are many, and the owners see no reason why New England, which came to regard child labor as sinful only after having made a lot of money out of it, should now be allowed to deprive the South and its recently created industries of a chance to put off so-called reform for a period as conveniently long.

Politics Over the Radio.

Whoever sees woman's participation in politics as conducive to the national welfare may credit the radio, according to frequent and credible reports now coming in, with having inspired many women hitherto rather indifferent to the conduct of public affairs with a keen interest in them. Great numbers of women, naturally, have been listening in on the proceedings of the Democratic Convention and have found them exciting.

After the suffrage fight was won, even some women who had professed the utmost eagerness for the privilege to vote failed to find in its exercise the joys and powers they expected and have become more than a bit negligent about registering, and more than occasionally have sought and found excuses for not getting to the polling booths on election day. The battle over, they found politics dull, just as do many men. But this convention has brought hard conflict right into their homes, where it could be observed conveniently, and now a lot of the coolness has turned to impatience to be up and doing.

The change seems to have been due less to admiration for what the radio told the women than to a feeling that the men weren't running things anywhere near as well as women could, and that therefore it behooved the women to get busy and put some wisdom and practicality into politics.

They Must Get More Than That.

Nobody could have read in The Times yesterday the article sent over by wireless, in which Sir Francis Younghusband so eloquently asserted that men were going to reach the top of the world's highest peak, without sharing to some degree his own belief in the importance that the achievement would have as well as in the possibility of accomplishing it. On second thought, however, some readers of the dispatch must have noticed that the only definite result he mentioned, as following the successful ascent and the braving of so many perils, would be that those who made it would have a remarkably wide view over a wide stretch of mountains and plains.

Considered in cold blood, this seems to be hardly an adequate reward for an enormous amount of exertion, with considerable incidental loss of human life, especially as several aviators already have ascended to greater heights than will be reached by the climbers of Mount Everest when they do conquer its reluctant summit, and have viewed landscapes both broader and more sympathetic than that savage eminence can provide.

But it seems to be a necessity of human nature that breakable records should be broken, and to affect inability to understand why men are irresistibly attracted by the chance to do something first or go somewhere first is a waste of time. They are built that way, and to the impulse that rules them the world is enormously indebted.

Pessimism on the League.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Kindly allow me to express appreciation of your editorial in today's issue captioned "Where the League Stands." More optimistic editorials like "Where the League Stands," and another Hiram Johnson will disappear beneath the horizon.

Really this is a fact, for after discussing the League with two friends, whom I had firmly fixed in my mind to be "isolationists" and so called them, they were proud of that designation and proceeded to touch on the usual stock arguments one after the other, gaining momentum as they went. But after I changed their title to "pessimists" instead of "isolationists," this seemed to prick them somewhere, and I could notice it, and the little gods of gloom, sitting on their shoulders and whispering in their ears, failed to make them emit the usual guttural sounds such as are familiar to our own ears.

Your editorial was working through me, through them, and scattering somewhat more of sunshine than we of late have been seeing. They actually began laughing and I could see that the battle against the pessimistic spirit of darkness had been about half won, with the sun just beginning to break through the clouds.

INDEPENDENCE DAY.

Some Fourths we've known when war has made
The Nation just a keen-edged blade
When every stain of fear or doubt
Was by the fire all blotted out.

It is not hard when war drums beat
To "forward march" on eager feet;
With bugles calling high and clear,
The only word for men is "Here."

But now, when Peace, with snowy wings,
Abides with us and sweetly sings—
Why, now, a man who works and votes
May well be pardoned mental notes.

And he who has the sense of sight
May see that things are not quite right—
That we are not so very free
For all our vaunted liberty.

Today, when platitudes will flow,
Today, when speakers fume and glow,
I'd gladly hear, had I the choice,
The sound of Patrick Henry's voice.

OUR RULE IN PHILIPPINES.

We Have Failed to Develop Great Resources, It Is Said.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I read with interest in The Times this morning your editorial on the "Two Philippine Planks." To me, with some opportunity to know something about the Philippines, it was most promising that anybody in this country should have shown the smallest interest in that far distant possession of ours, acquired under unusual conditions.

It soon became a Cinderella of world politics. Nobody seemed to care anything about whether its people lived or died; whether they were Americans or Filipinos or Spaniards or anything else. With the greatest undeveloped resources of any country in all the Orient, American capital has practically paid no attention, so that they have gone on poor, neglected, with no apparent possibility of bettering their material condition.

This, if nothing else, would have compelled them to turn their attention to politics, and they did this with such effect that in 1916 they came under the operation of what was known as the Jones law, which really made a new constitution for the Philippines. It was not long before they took advantage of this, and whatever the nominal conditions may have been they were ruling themselves in spite of the series of mediocre Governor Generals and other officials sent from the United States.

The Jones law was written into the legislation of the United States by Manuel L. Quezon, then the Commissioner from the Philippines.

Even this fact was not known until last year, when Mr. Quezon announced at home that he had been its author. Therefore, when anything political came along the Filipinos knew how to take care of themselves and, nobody else paying much attention to them, they did it with a great deal of energy and with an ability and courage that nobody here knew anything about.

Looked at from the economic point of view, the conditions were entirely different. The Filipino people are poor, they are industrious, hard-working, devoted to their own improvement, nearly all Christians except three or four hundred thousand. This latter fact is hardly appreciated by a few who look upon that group of islands as a sort of mysterious and non-understandable thing. This does not develop their enormous resources. There are four or five industries in that group of islands that would furnish raw materials for use throughout the whole world, but which the American business man has simply passed by in neglect, failing to see that if he took over the people and all their concomitants as conquered territory he yet did nothing to help them in the great struggle of life.

When I was in the Philippines last year I think in the last interview I had with Governor General Leonard Wood I said to him:

"What you need in the Philippines is not politics, but business and economic development. What you want here is a hundred million dollars of free and new American money to develop these resources, which are under you politically but which you are compelled to neglect."

In reply, he said:

"You are perfectly right in this except that you underestimate the amount of money needed. We need a good deal more than a hundred million dollars invested under the conditions to which you allude, but we cannot get it."

If, therefore, the American people, regardless of political platforms or any other public contingency, would realize as a matter of business that if they are to get any return from this great and surprising investment they have made in times of peace, if they are to do their duty, they should develop those resources which lie there on the surface ready not for exploitation in the vulgar sense, but for the use of the world.

As I have already said, if there is anything political to do the Filipinos will take care of that, and they can be trusted to do it well. If, therefore, this new declaration by a political party of its ideas as to the independence of the Philippines shall direct attention to that distant realm of earth it will all be to the good.

The Delegates From the West.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Since the keynote of the Democratic Convention is brevity, I shall try to assume that democratic virtue. I have followed closely The New York Times through all its pages given over to the great convention, graphic, well-written pages, showing fairness in all its statements and editorials with one glaring exception. It would seem that out of the thousand and more delegates to this convention, the only ones who dress badly, who lack grace and charm of manner, who commit all the social blunders, are the people from the West. All your acrimonious humor is turned on the delegate and his wife from the West, and their unique use of the English language. Is the East proud of all of her delegates?

As one who was born in New York and later spent twenty-five years, valuable years, in beautiful Arizona, I resent these attacks. This attitude is as old and lacking in humor as the years that were wasted on the mother-in-law jokes.

Since my return from the great West I have many times wondered, and with good reason, how so many people could live all their lives in New York and its environs and be so grossly ignorant. I know that the average Westerner, who for the most part is Eastern-born, understands the East, appreciates its beauty, its culture, and is often made to appreciate its lack of hospitality. Then why is it that the Easterner seldom understands the great West; can never appreciate the fact that, after all, this old world is about the same everywhere one goes—made up of good and bad, of the cultured and the uncultured?

It is high time that these United States should become more national and less sectional, for, all said and done, if we are anything we are all Americans! Here is where the press can do a great work, and bring about a happier understanding between the two sections of this big country, the East and the great West!

The Naval Reserve Force.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The stand of your paper on the Federal bonus question has been so consistent that, while I disagree with your convictions, I have a great respect for their sincerity. This feeling prompts me to call to your attention a fact that has escaped general attention for too long.

The law under which the Naval Reserve force was organized and thousands of men enrolled for the defense of our country specifically provided that when a man had been confirmed in his rank or rating he was entitled to receive for each year he remained at the call of the Government base retainer pay equivalent to two months' pay of the grade or rating in which confirmed. Further, if he re-enrolled at the end of the first four year period, he was guaranteed the same base retainer pay plus 25 per cent. And another 25 per cent. increase for the third period of four years, and still another 25 per cent. increase for the term of the fourth enrolment.

The Government paid this base retainer pay for about a year, and then we, who were entitled to it, received a curt notice that further payments were stopped because Congress had not appropriated the money to continue them. The money is still due us and the promise to pay it was part of the contract we entered into with the Government. The amount due is increasing all the time, and will continue to do so as long as we remain at the call of the Government.

With many people prating of "paying implied obligation," what is to be said about the repudiation of contracted obligations?

OUR TANGIER VIEWS INTEREST ENGLAND

Arguments She Used Against Convention She Signed Return to Plague Her.

SHE SEEKS AN APPROVAL

But British Observer Admits That Her Own Propaganda Tended to Confuse Washington.

Special Cable to The New York Times.

LONDON, July 3.—The London Times publishes the following letter from its Tangier correspondent:

"As some doubt exists as to the attitude which the United States Government is adopting on the question of the Tangier convention, it may be well to give a résumé of the events which led to the interest Washington now takes in Tangier.

"Until a few months ago the United States was represented in Tangier by an amiable and cultured Irish-American Roman Catholic priest, the Rev. Father Denning, who was both Consul General and diplomatic agent. It was his first post, and Father Denning, whose personality and humor were much appreciated here, did not disguise the fact that he found the company of the early Christian fathers preferable to the less spiritual society of the modern diplomatist. The United States Government took very little interest in Tangier, and Father Denning's staff consisted of an Englishman, a Syrian Christian from the Lebanon, a Gibraltarian of Spanish extraction, two Moorish scribes and a few native soldiers.

"The reverend father soon after his arrival in the Winter of 1922 became the sympathetic objective of representatives of the three powers most interested in Tangier—France, Spain and Great Britain—who were at that moment on terms of undisguised rivalry. Each realized the value of such a recruit as the American representative to their respective causes, and all three tried to guide his feet into the way of anything but peace.

Denning Took No Side.

"With a profound knowledge of human character and a natural shrewd humor, Father Denning refused to be led astray, and on every question professed, even after hours of kindly tuition, profound ignorance. But he was at the same time naturally obliged to report to Washington, and on his own recommendation a young and energetic American diplomatist was sent out to join the somewhat strange international staff which represented the United States in Tangier.

"Early in the Spring of last year local feeling ran very high, and the representatives of France, Spain and Britain, who were at the same time practically responsible for the Government of Tangier, had but one sentiment in common—a distinct disinclination to enjoy each other's society. Indeed, at times they refused to meet at all. So benignly international was this atmosphere that one necessary official meeting ended in raised voices, the putting on of hats, a hurried exit and the banging of doors.

"With the advent of a capable secretary the Rev. Father Denning returned to his breviary and abandoned further interest in the abortive endeavors of his European colleagues to bring about international peace in Tangier by methods which were essentially unsympathetic to a good Christian. A little later he left the troubled waters of diplomacy to return to a calmer and more peaceful existence among his Irish-Americans of Cincinnati.

The efforts of the representatives of the three rival powers were now centred upon the American Secretary who had become Chargé d'Affaires. It was no harmonious trio, but three solos in widely different keys—the nefarious behavior of the French, the villainy of the Spaniards and the obstructive wickedness of the English—that in everlasting succession was poured into his ears.

"The American Chargé d'Affaires listened and perhaps smiled, but he recognized that America's interests in Tangier were similar to those of England—neutrality in time of war and the open door for trade. It may be taken that he strongly recommended to the State Department at Washington the determined attitude which at that moment was being adopted by the British Government—an attitude of insistence on the absolute internationalization of Tangier, with no compromise whatsoever. The Foreign Office had announced in the press that on this point there would be no surrender.

The American Chargé d'Affaires, a man of balanced judgment, was convinced that the position the British Government had adopted on the Tangier question was the right one, and he made no secret of his conviction.

Asperities Softened in 1923.

"As the Summer of 1923 went on there was a change in the situation. The representatives of France, Spain and Britain met on almost amicable terms and even took meals in each other's official residences. In July the French and Spanish Governments sent delegates to London to attempt to come to an arrangement over Tangier with the British Government, and meetings were held at the Foreign Office. The negotiations were unsuccessful, but the conference was resumed late in October in Paris. A spirit of conciliation was manifested by all parties, and after a week of rather undignified haggling a basis of negotiation was found, and by the end of December the Tangier Convention had been drawn up and approved. Sacrifices had been made; principles had been abandoned; but in spirit of real good-will a political solution of the Tangier question had been arrived at, though the value and practicability of the convention had yet to be proved.

"The United States was not a party to these negotiations, and the State Department seems to have been not a little surprised to learn that most of the vehement opposition to the French proposals which the British Government had not only preached but also so strongly recommended as the right policy for the United States to adopt, had evaporated. Anglo-French relations on the Tangier question had become more amicable, as they should and could have been all the time.

"The position of the State Department at Washington was not an easy one. The American authorities were convinced that the policy they had adopted so largely at the instance of England was the right one, and they did not perceive, as England had done to America's surprise, the value of the compromise which had led to the abandonment of so much of this policy. The suppression of the capitulations in Turkey had already caused a deep feeling of discontent in the United States, and undoubtedly American interests in the Near East were thereby severely injured. Had the abandonment of these capitulations in Turkey to be followed by a similar policy in Tangier?

"But the two situations are entirely different. In Turkey American interests passed to the tender mercies of a Turkish Government; in Tangier they will receive the protection of international authority based upon the very principles of liberty and freedom of trade. The situation which has been created at Tangier cannot fail to appeal to American sentiment, for the United States has not lost its ideals.

The status of Tangier is necessarily an experiment, but it is a very interesting experiment; it is an experiment that America would have undoubtedly watched with the greatest interest and welcome had not such active propaganda preceded the convention. It was British propaganda which warned her against so many of the results which Britain eventually accepted herself and is now trying to persuade the United States to approve.

"The State Department can be counted upon to give every weight to the arguments which are being adduced in order to procure its approval of the convention; nor does it seem doubtful that this approval will be forthcoming. The neutrality of Tangier in time of war and the open door for the trade of all nations seem to be satisfactorily guaranteed, and the mixed tribunals which are to be instituted can be counted upon to administer justice.

"There is no reason why the United States should withhold her acceptance once she has assured herself that the convention will injure or lessen none of her rights—but it is quite comprehensible that the State Department is a little puzzled."

MISS ASTOR TO WED RUSSIAN NOBLEMAN

He Was Recently Divorced From One of the Daughters of Czar Alexander II.

ONE OF ANCIENT LINE

Bride-to-Be Is Daughter of the Late John Jacob Astor of New York.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 3.—The engagement of Prince Obolensky Neledinsky-Meletzky and Alice Astor, daughter of Lady Ribblesdale and the late John Jacob Astor of New York, has been announced here.

Prince Serge Platonovitch Obolensky Neledinsky Meletsky is a descendant of one of the oldest families of Czarist Russia. He traces his ancestry back to Rurik, founder of the Russian monarchy. The Prince has been married once before, his first wife being Princess Catherine Alexandrovna, a daughter of Czar Alexander II.

They were married during the World War in the Cathedral of St. Chrysostom in Yalta, in the Crimea, where the Prince was a patient and the Princess, then Princess Yourievsky, widow of Prince Bariatinsky, was a nurse. After they lost their property in the Russian revolution they went to England, where the Prince was well known, having been graduated from Oxford University.

In December, 1923, the Princess obtained a decree of divorce in London under the new divorce act, which allows the wife a divorce on the sole ground of the husband's infidelity.

The Princess is one of the three children born to Czar Alexander II. by his morganatic wife, Catherine Princess Dolgoruky, whom he married at St. Petersburg in 1880, one year before his death and one month after the death of his official wife, the Czarina Marie Alexandrovna. At the time of the marriage she was created Princess Yurievsky, with the address of Serene Highness. She died in 1922 at Nice.

Ava Alice Muriel Astor is the daughter of the late John Jacob Astor and of Lady Ribblesdale and a sister of Vincent Astor. Her parents were divorced in 1909 and Mr. Astor later married Madelaine Force, while his former wife married Lord Ribblesdale. She was introduced to London society about two years ago. She became of age a year ago and at that time came into complete possession of the $5,000,000 trust fund created for her by her father, which has in the years since his death greatly appreciated in value. Her brother, Vincent Astor, was her guardian during her minority. There have been frequent rumors of her engagement, one of the most persistent being that she was to marry Lord Dalmeny, son of the Earl of Rosebery Other reports had it that she was engaged to an American naval officer and later that she would marry a poor English artist. The name of the Marquis of Blandford, eldest son of the Duchess of Marlborough, was also mentioned as a possible alliance.

Miss Langton a Bride.

Miss Mary Langton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. P. Langton of 230 West 108th Street, was married on June 30 in Notre Dame Chapel to Lieutenant James Vincent Carroll, Field Artillery, U. S. A. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Arcidan. The bride was graduated from Barnard College in 1923. Lieutenant Carroll was graduated in 1918 from the United States Military Academy and was one of the last officers to return from the American Expeditionary Forces in Germany. He and his bride will go to New Haven in the Autumn, Lieutenant Carroll having been assigned to follow a special course of study at Yale.

Miss Ruth Gordon Betrothed.

Mr. and Mrs. William Gordon of Kew Gardens, L. I., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Ruth Gordon, to Lambert Prettyman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Prettyman of this city. His father was for many years principal of the Horace Mann School. No date has been set for the wedding.

Miss Agnes Schumann Engaged.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Schumann of 71 Winthrop Street, Brooklyn, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Agnes Schumann, to Patrick B. Healy, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Healy of 478 Lenox Road, Brooklyn. Miss Schumann is a graduate of Adelphi College. Mr. Healy is a graduate of the Fordham Law School and is a member of Delta Theta Phi fraternity. He served as a Lieutenant in the navy during the war.

Miss Boynton Was Wed Saturday.

Miss Elsie Boynton, daughter of Mrs. Frank C. Boynton of West Haven, Conn., was married to John Melville Closs of Mount Vernon last Saturday in the Rutgers Presbyterian Church, Manhattan. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Daniel Russell. Mrs. Edward Roberts was matron of honor, and the best man was Robert W. Ferns. Mr. and Mrs. Closs will spend several weeks on the Pacific Coast before taking up their residence in this city.

Miss Alice Bullock a Bride.

Miss Alice Bullock, daughter of Judge and Mrs. William S. Bullock of Ocala, Fla., was married to William W. Mitchell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Mitchell of Brooklyn, last evening in the Church of the Transfiguration. The Rev. Dr. Rockwell performed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell will go on a motor trip through Pennsylvania for a few weeks. On their return they will live in this city.

GIRL'S THROAT CUT IN AUTO ACCIDENT

TRACHEOTOMY IS TRIED

Rare Operation Performed to Save Victim's Life—Four Others Die.

The victim of an unusual accident, in which she was thrown through the plate-glass window of a store at Third Avenue and Thirty-seventh Street, Catherine Maher, 20 years old, a clerk of 524 First Avenue, was taken last night to Bellevue Hospital, where the operation known as tracheotomy was resorted to in an effort to save her life.

Miss Maher's throat was cut from ear to ear by the plate glass. The automobile is owned by the Refrigerator Construction Company of 145 East Twenty-fifth Street. Harry E. Larsen, President of the Refrigerator Construction Company, a passenger in the car, picked up the girl in his arms, put her in the car and ordered the driver to hasten to Bellevue.

Miss Maher and another young woman were walking on the west side of Third Avenue when, at Thirty-seventh Street, they stopped to look into the window of a women's wear shop. The street is dug up at this point for the installation of sewer pipes. In the automobile besides Larsen was J. Delaney of 1,223 Elder Avenue, the Bronx, employed by the refrigerating company as a salesman who, the police say, was operating the car.

The automobile turned west at Thirty-seventh Street. The same moment that the machine, a large touring car, swung into the street, Miss Maher and the other young woman turned from their "window shopping." Miss Maher was struck by the machine, which was very close to the north sidewalk, and pushed forward. Before the driver could bring the machine to a stop it had run onto the sidewalk and, literally lifting Miss Maher off her feet threw her through the plate glass window. The back of Miss Maher's head struck the window and as the huge pane of glass was shattered she was thrown in the midst of the wearing apparel inside the window.

When the girl arrived at Bellevue she was so weak from loss of blood that Dr. R. Rhoder said the only possible chance of saving her life was to perform the operation. The girl lives with her stepfather.

Mrs. Elizabeth J. Allison, 70 years old, of 492 Seventh Avenue, was killed by an automobile yesterday as she was crossing the street in front of her home. The police arrested the driver of the car, Edward A. Donfe, 62 years old, of 356 Seventy-eighth Street, Brooklyn, who had a learner's license and was accompanied by an instructor.

Tony Rassaele, 3 years old, was instantly killed by an automobile at Guttenberg, N. J., last evening, while in view of his father, from whom he broke away as they were walking together and rushed into the street. The automobile was driven by Edward Swanson, who was held on a technical manslaughter charge.

Mrs. Isabelle Levy of Scarsdale, wife of Edgar A. Levy, a real estate man of 505 Fifth Avenue, New York, died in the White Plains Hospital of injuries received when struck by an automobile on the Boston Post Road near White Plains last Sunday.

Anne Regina Sniffen, 8 years old, was fatally injured at Mill View, L. I., yesterday by an automobile operated by Carmine Angelone of Glen Cove. She died in Glen Cove Hospital twenty minutes after the accident. The child was one of twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Dewitt Sniffen of Glen Cove.

Mr. and Mrs. David L. Fultz of New York had to jump for their lives when their automobile stalled in front of an approaching railroad train on the Erie tracks at Ridgefield, N. J., yesterday. A moment after they leaped their car was thrown twenty-five feet into the air and was smashed to pieces. Mr. Fultz is a lawyer at 165 Broadway, living at 564 East Thirteenth Street. He was formerly President of the Baseball Players' Fraternity.

Thomas Braan, 10 years old, of 11 Hull Street, Brooklyn, was seriously injured when he was knocked off his bicycle at Atlantic and Schenectady Avenues, Brooklyn, last night, by an automobile said by police to have been driven by Almeda Carey of 757 Herkimer Street, Brooklyn. The boy was taken to Kings County Hospital. He has a compound fracture of both legs.

URGE ONE BLUE SKY LAW.

Speakers at Conference in Philadelphia Want Uniformity.

PHILADELPHIA, July 3.—Regulation and control of the sale of securities through the adoption of a uniform "Blue Sky" law and its enforcement by State Securities Commissions to prevent fraud against investors was urged today by Barrett Wendell of Chicago and Paul Keyser of Washington before the national conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws, in session here.

A report recommending a uniform incorporation act was presented by Wade Mills of Detroit. The proposed law would provide that shares shall be issued only for money, property or services, either rendered to the corporation or in its possession as surplus.

Officers were re-elected as follows: Nathan W. MacChesney of Illinois, President; Joseph F. O'Connell of Boston, Vice President; George S. Bogert, Dean of the Cornell University Law School, Secretary, and W. O. Hart of New Orleans, Treasurer.

FIELD DAY AT HOSPITAL.

Veterans Compete for Prizes While Ill Comrades Look On.

It was field day at U. S. Veterans' Hospital No 81 yesterday. While 125 of the more vigorous patients sported on the athletic field adjoining the hospital, which is located at Kingsbridge Road and Sedgewick Avenue, the Bronx, several hundred less fortunate patients sat on the sidelines as spectators. Six hundred visitors made up the rest of the gallery.

There were sprints, jumps and weight throwing events. Three prizes were awarded for each event. The prizes were donated by the Knights of Columbus, the Red Cross, the Y. M. C. A. and several other organizations.

The patients at the hospital are suffering chiefly from mental and nervous disorders. Dr. George S. Brewster, superintendent of the institution, arranged the field day.

FOR CHILD LABOR CONTROL.

Home Economics Association Endorses Amendment at Buffalo.

BUFFALO, July 3.—The American Association of Home Economics, in annual convention here, today elected the following officers:

President, Miss Katharine Blunt, University of Chicago; Vice President, Miss Florence Winchell, Teachers College, Columbia University, and Miss Alice Blood, Simmons College, Boston, counselor at large. Other officers were not up for election.

Resolutions were adopted endorsing the Federal child labor amendment to the Constitution, and expressing the desire of the association to cooperate with parent-teacher associations and other organizations of like nature.

COMMISSION FAVORS UNION OF METHODISTS

Southerners Reject Adjournment Motion Which Would Have Barred Further Action.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., July 3 (Associated Press).—The special General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South today defeated a resolution which advocated immediate adjournment without action on the unification plan.

The resolution, which proposed a substitute General Conference next May because of a doubt as to the legality of the present gathering, was defeated by a viva voce vote, after a debate which began in yesterday's session.

Bishop J. N. Moore of Dallas then read the report of the Commission on Unification of the Methodist Episcopal Church South. It included the plan of unification adopted by the joint commission of the two Churches.

"We, the Commissioners of the Unification of the Methodist Episcopal Church and the Methodist Episcopal Church South," said the report, "holding that these two Churches are essentially one Church, one in origin, in belief, in spirit, in purpose and in polity, and desiring that this essential unity be made actual in organization and assertion throughout the world, do hereby propose and transmit to our respective General Conferences the following plan of unification and recommend its adoption by the two Churches by the processes which they respectively require."

Before a motion that the report be adopted could be acted upon, Bishop Collins Denny began reading a report from the three members of the Unification Commission who do not agree with the majority, explaining their attitude. It embraced a review of previous attempts at unification since the rupture of the Church eighty years ago.

BRITISH TARS FOREGO RUM.

But Only While Squadron Is Entertained in San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 3.—The British service squadron headed by the Hood, mightiest of sea battlers, will be dry during a three-day courtesy visit to San Francisco, which will begin July 7.

Sir Frederick Field, K. C. B., Vice Admiral in command of the squadron, has notified Gerald Campbell, British Consul General here, that a seal will be put on the liquor stores of the big sea fighters. The dispensing of liquor while the vessels are in the harbor would be no violation of the law it was pointed out by the authorities here, but the drought will be declared as a courtesy to the American people.

A noisy and colorful reception, to be participated in by all manner of gaily bedecked bay craft, a number of vessels of the United States battle fleet and the land and air forces of the Army and Navy here, has been arranged.

JOHN BRENNAN.

Governor of the Consolidated Exchange Dies in Savannah.

Special to The New York Times.

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 3.—John Brennan of New York, who resided here until 1902, died last night at the residence of his brother, Patrick Brennan. He was a governor of the Consolidated Stock Exchange and had been a very active member of the association for a number of years. Until recently he was President of the Catholic Club.

Mr. Brennan came here two weeks ago to visit his brother. He was taken ill a week ago and slowly sank. Mr. Brennan was born on June 3, 1863, in Bradford, England. He was of Irish parentage and removed to Savannah when he was 7 years old. Until 1902 he was connected with Kavanaugh & Brennan, who were succeeded by Brennan & Co. His funeral will be held tomorrow morning from the home of his brother.

Ship Brings Accident Victims.

The President Monroe of the Dollar Line arrived yesterday with the bodies of Colonel Macy Brooks, M. D., and Mrs. Martha Brooks, his wife, who were killed in an automobile accident on the Ramleh Road, Alexandria, Egypt, on June 4, last. The funeral will take place at Winchester, Pa. Colonel Brooks was a graduate of Princeton in the class of 1896 and practiced medicine in Philadelphia until 1915, when he offered his services to the British Government and received a commission in the Royal Army Medical Corps as captain and rose to the rank of major. He returned to America when this country entered the war, and after the Armistice went to Alexandria, where he established himself and had built up a good private practice.

VANGUARD OF KLAN ENTERS BINGHAMTON

But Up-State City Doubts That 50,000 of Them Will Attend State Klorero.

THEY WILL MARCH TODAY

Troopers Reinforce the Police, but No Trouble and Little Mystery Are Expected.

Special to The New York Times.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., July 3.—The vanguard of a Ku Klux army, whose leaders promise 50,000 Klansmen before morning, began to pour in on Binghamton today. They came by train and automobile, some of them with their wives and children, to attend their State Klorero and, unless prohibited, to march in force through the main streets of Binghamton tomorrow.

Fearing that there may be trouble, the Binghamton police force has canceled all vacations of its members, and 100 State troopers reached the city today and made camp near the Fair Grounds. They will patrol the city tomorrow and assist the police in maintaining order.

Tonight, however, the possibility of disorder seemed remote. The Klansmen appeared to be anything but bellicose, and Binghamton looked on slightly amused, and here and there in shop windows signs of "Welcome, K. K. K." were displayed.

Should trouble develop it probably will occur during the parade tomorrow afternoon. The city officials are almost powerless to prevent that parade. There is no ordinance that requires the issuance of a permit, and it is pointed out that not only has the Klan a right to parade, but that its request for an escort and adequate police protection must be honored. Such an escort will be provided by the police and the State troopers, and they will patrol the line of march as well.

After looking up the law the city authorities believe they could prohibit the parade on the ground that it might obstruct traffic, but they are not disposed to do that. They feel that the wisest thing to do is to let the parade go on and to provide it with the full protection of the police.

Arrival of 50,000 Is Doubted.

That there will be anything like 50,000 Klansmen in Binghamton tomorrow seems most unlikely. Not more than 300 are here so far, but the big influx is expected tomorrow morning. It is then that the three-day Klorero really begins.

While the leaders attempt to surround all their activities with a great deal of mystery, it would appear that the Klorero is nothing more mysterious than a State Convention. Any Klansman from New York State can come to it. All he needs is the password and enough money to see him through for a day or two.

The password lets him into the Fair Grounds, and the money will be accepted at any of the concessions that have been set up. That appears to be one of the important things about the Klorero. The Klan needs money. It has sold all the concessions it can and has let others in on a percentage basis. It even excluded newspaper photographers and announced that the picture concession was for sale for $500. At a late hour tonight it was still for sale, the photographers deciding to content themselves with pictures of the parade tomorrow.

There was nothing dramatic or distinguishing in the arrival of Klansmen. A few came by train and were met at the station by members of a reception committee. Mostly, however, they arrived by automobile and drove directly to the Fair Grounds on the outskirts of the city. Guards stationed there stopped all of them, but a whispered word opened the gates and the Klansmen passed into the fenced-in realm of the Klorero.

When darkness fell over the Fair Grounds a large cross set in electric lights attracted a crowd to the scene. The Klansmen at the gate appeared in white robes and caps, but were unmasked. As the crowd increased two more guards were called, making the number four in all. It was a sightseeing crowd, however, and by 11 o'clock it began to disperse. At that hour Klansmen were still arriving and Klan leaders said they expected them to come all night long.

Newspaper men were at first refused admission to the Fair Grounds. It was all part of the mystery business, and when at last they were let in there appeared to be no reason for their exclusion as the grounds showed nothing stranger than parked automobiles, some tents and the restaurant and souvenir concessions. One of the latter was that of E. V. Kreuder of Seaford, L. I. A bullet-pierced sign over his booth bore witness to an attack on Kreuder that occurred Nov. 29. He was then in the fruit and vegetable business, and his battle-scarred sign read:

"The K. K. K. Store, choice fruit and vegetables."

Insures His K. K. K. Sign.

It was at night that Kreuder's place was attacked. He said he was asleep in the rear of his store, when the firing began. He ran out but found no one. The sign told the story. But Kreuder did not take it down. Instead he went out of the fruit and vegetable business and stocked his place with nothing but Ku Klux Klan souvenirs and accessories. He shipped them here with the sign, and he thought so much of the sign that he insured it for $500.

The only reason why Binghamton was picked upon for the Klorero appears to lie in the fact that Major E. D. Smith, King Kleagle of the Klan, lives here. Smith said that he expected the Imperial Wizard, Hiram W. Evans, to be here Saturday night. The Rev. Oscar Hayward, an organizer, is already here. Smith is something of a man of mystery. Binghamton residents say that he has been here only a year. He appears to have no other business than the Klan.

The townfolk themselves seem to have no fear of trouble during the Klorero. It so happens that for the first time in years there is to be no official Fourth of July celebration here, and the town is looking to the Klan parade as a substitute. There are rumors of impending trouble, of course, lots of them, but the presence of 100 State Troopers, conspicuously armed, was reassuring. They are under the command of Major John A. Warner, of Albany, and Captain D. E. Fox, who has charge of the barracks at Sidney.

As for the Klorero itself, Klan leaders said there would be talks and band concerts and initiations, and even two weddings. How many would be initiated and whom would be married they would not say. The parade in the afternoon and a fireworks display at night will be the features tomorrow. The weddings will take place Saturday. Sunday there will be a religious service. With that the state-wide Klorero will come to an end.

ANTI-KLAN MAYOR SAILS.

Holcombe of Houston Scores Texas Delegates to Convention.

The Cunarder Lancastria sailed yesterday for London, carrying the second contingent of the delegates to the convention of Advertising Clubs of the World. Many of the delegates were accompanied by their families. A large number will go to Paris to see the Olympic games after the convention is over.

Among the notables was Oscar Holcombe, Mayor of Houston, Texas, who will invite the convention to meet in his city in 1925. He has been elected twice in succession on an independent ticket. He said his sympathies were not with the Ku Klux Klan, nor with the spirit of the Texas delegation in the Democratic convention.

R. W. Weir, President of the Weir Long Leaf Lumber Co., who controls forests large enough to hide some of the New England States, is accompanying Mayor Holcombe. "This Texas bunch at the convention," said Mr. Weir, "doesn't represent Texas Democracy. Every one knows it. We listened to them for a day and that was enough."

The advertising delegates on the Lancastria were under the escort of H. E. L. Marchant of the London Daily Mail, W. M. MacGregor of the Topical Press, and Major A. H. Williams of Selfridge and Company, London.

COOLIDGE IS 52 TODAY; TEACHERS TO HEAR HIM

After Address Before the N. E. A., President and Wife Will Go for Cruise on the Mayflower.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—President Calvin Coolidge will be 52 years old tomorrow.

The President and Mrs. Coolidge have made no plans for the celebration. At 10:30 o'clock Mr. Coolidge is scheduled to deliver an address before the National Education Association, which has brought several thousand educators from all parts of the country to Washington this week. The President and his family then will board the Mayflower for a cruise down the Potomac River as far as Cheaspeake Bay, and will not return to Washington until Monday morning.

Congratulatory birthday messages are pouring into the White House. Louis Demontreaux, Western Union messsenger No. 1, came to Washington from Boston today to deliver to the President a huge birthday greeting in the form of cards from admirers in Massachusetts. The messenger was taken to the New Willard Hotel. He will deliver his messages to the President at the White House tomorrow morning.

The Florists' Telegraph Service of the World gave a large bouquet to the President. It was in a large basket and at the top was a Liberty Bell formed of red, white and blue flowers. The piece was more than five feet high.

The President has concluded his conferences with General Dawes, who left last night for New York in company with Alanson B. Houghton, Ambassador to Germany, who is on vacation. General Dawes expected to return this evening and to be joined by Mrs. Dawes.

Judge Wallace McCammant of Portland, Ore., who placed President Coolidge's name in nomination at the Chicago convention four years ago, was a guest of the President at luncheon.

Senator Harreld, Republican, of Oklahoma, was one of the President callers. He expressed the belief that the Democrats by their action in New York have aided the Republican managers immensely in their plans for the election. He declared that in addition to the split the party "has adopted a colorless, meaningless platform, which cannot appeal to any fair-minded or thinking person." Oklahoma, he said, will go for Coolidge and Dawes, despite the fact that the voters are against the World Court plank of the Republican platform.

The President today received Gelasio Caetani, Italian Ambassador, who called to pay his respects before sailing for Italy on a visit of several months.

COUNCIL CALLED BY FLYNN.

Governor Moves to End Rhode Island Senate Deadlock.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 3.—In accordance with a request from a special committee of citizens for steps to end the deadlock in the State Senate, Governor William S. Flynn today invited the members of the committee through its chairman, T. F. I. McDonnell to confer with him and legislative leaders of both major parties at the State House next Tuesday.

Governor Flynn said he had also invited Lieutenant Governor Felix A. Toupin, presiding officer of the Senate; Philip C. Joslin, Speaker, and Harold B. Andrews, Deputy Speaker of the House of Representatives; Representatives Lavender, Condon and McCoy, and Senators Barry, McGrane, Quinn, Sanderson, Sherman and Eevers. Sherman is the Republican floor leader and Barry the Democratic leader of the Senate.

RUTLAND, Mass., July 3.—Senator Arthur A. Sherman of Portsmouth, R. I., Republican floor leader of the Rhode Island Senate and spokesman of the group of Republican Senators from Rhode Island, now here, declared tonight thta it was "out of the question" for him and Senator Henry A. Evers of Cranston to attend a conference at Providence next Tuesday, called by Governor William S. Flynn with a view to ending the deadlock in the State Senate.

In a statement made after a conference of the group here Senator Sherman said that the position of the Republican Senators still was unchanged and that they would not return to Rhode Island until they received guarantees of personal safety, cessation of the Democratic filibuster in the Senate, and right of way for the Republican calendar of business.

SIX HURT IN GAS EXPLOSION.

Head of New Company at Lewis Run, Pa., Victim—Plant Wrecked

BRADFORD, Pa., July 3.—Two men, Paul Frank of East Weare, N. H., and Victor Deprator of Lewis Run, Pa., were injured fatally, and four others seriously hurt this afternoon by an explosion which wrecked the plant of the Luminol Corporation of Pittsburgh at Lewis Run, near here. The plant, at which luminol gas was extracted from natural gas, began operations several weeks ago and the first shipment of luminol was made last night.

The others injured are George Wisecarber of Waynesburg, Pa., President of the corporation; Joel Light of Allentown, Pa., and John Minchie and Joseph Minchie of Lewis Run.

Little hope is held for their recovery. Two of the injured men were found in a wood some distance from the plant, of which nothing remaineed save twisted steel and débris.

TO SENTENCE 5 GRAFTERS.

Nassau's Convicted Officials Will Face Court Tomorrow.

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., July 3.—The five public officials convicted as a result of the Extraordinary Grand Jury investigation of Nassau County affairs will be sentenced on Saturday. Supreme Court Justice James C. Cropsey will come here for that purpose. The men are Mayor William H. Reynolds, City Treasurer, John Gracy, City Engineer, George S. Vanderwerken and Corporation Counsel Charles C. Clark, all of Long Beach, and Lewis M. Raisig, former Justice of the Peace of Hempstead.

All except Clark, who is out on bail, are in the County Jail.

ACCUSES NEIGHBOR OF LIBEL

A. W. Spiesman Says S. J. Kerwin Called Him a Bootlegger.

Charging that his neighbor called him a bootlegger, Alfred W. Spiesman of 419 Ninety-fourth Street, Woodhaven, a real estate operator, has brought a charge of criminal libel against Stephen J. Kerwin of 417 Ninety-fourth Street.

Spiesman accuses Kerwin of sending a letter to the police of the Richmond Hill Station declaring that he had seen trucks stop near Spiesman's home and that liquor was unloaded from them.

Magistrate Doyle in the Jamaica Court yesterday adjourned the case for a hearing next Thursday.

ACTRESS GETS ALIMONY.

Blanche Yurka Will Receive $50 a Week From Ian Keith.

Blanche Yurka Ross will receive $50 a week alimony from her husband, McCauley Ross, whose stage name is Ian Keith, pending the decision of his suit for separation. Supreme Court Justice Platzek issued an order to that effect yesterday.

William Abramson, attorney for Mrs. Ross, said when the motion was argued Tuesday that Keith could easily earn an average of $300 a week. Keith's counsel, Arthur T. McGivney, contended that his client was only twenty-three years old, a recent addition to the stage, and could earn about $5,000 a year.

SUMMER CONCERTS START AT STADIUM

ADOLPH LEWISOHN SPEAKS

Sponsor Says He Aims to Make City Attractive During Warm Weather.

The seventh season of the stadium concerts with the New York Philharmonic Orchestra under Willem van Hoogstraten began last evening at the Lewisohn Stadium. The concrete seats of the amphitheatre were filled by a crowd estimated at 6,000 to 7,000, with another 2,500 on the field.

Willem van Hoogstraten on his appearance was greeted with warm applause and the audience stood while the orchestra played the national anthem. The first part of the program was taken up by Beethoven's Fifth Symphony. The peculiar and particular timbre of the instruments was very noticeable; the strings softened by distance and atmosphere, the drums more distinct, the reed and wood-wind recovered their woodland note, the trumpet its martial ring, the open-air origin of these instruments become more evident.

Mr. van Hoogstraten conducting without a baton, made an expressive and emphatic figure. His clenched fists gripped the crescendos from his earnestly striving musicians, while the open hands hushed them into diminuendos. Sometimes they sank into almost inaudible murmurs to rise again into a driving climax. The conductor forgot no detail, left no smallest phrase unpointed and carried them with him on the unbroken wave of his interpretive fervor through an effective scherzo to an impressive finale. The end was received will continued applause, Mr. van Hoogstraten being recalled twice.

In the interval, people circulated freely and to the sound of distant firecrackers, light refreshments were served. Presently, heralded by a fanfare of trumpts and applause, Adolph Lewisohn gave an address.

Greeting the audience he said: "I regard it as a great privilege to be able to render this service to the people of New York, and it is a particular pleasure to be able to offer these splendid high-class concerts at a moderate entrance fee to ever-increasing audiences, who are given the opportunity to enjoy the best quality of music in Summertime. It is now proved that the Stadium concerts are a great success and it is conceded that they help greatly to make New York attractive during the Summer months."

The second part of the program consisted of Tschaikowsky's overture to Romeo and Juliet, a Strauss waltz and the prelude to the Meistersinger.

"MUD" AT CHERRY LANE.

It Is a Dark Horse in the Race for the Worst Play.

The dark horse entrant for the nomination for the worst play of the season came close to winning last night when "Mud" was produced at the Cherry Lane Theatre. Only a spirited dispute between the optimists, who insisted on assigning it to the late theatrical season, and the pessimists, who were for including it in the new season's lists, kept it from stampeding the critical audience.

There is a plot, to be sure, and it deals with a perpetual college student—built upon an easily recognizable model—who for dramaturgic reasons gets involved in an elaborate promotion scheme for a mud help to beauty. Things go on in this fashion ever so long, but all turns out happily nevertheless.

The cast is most fortunate in being able to point to the silliness of the material with which it is provided as a logical excuse for the shabbiness of its results. Miss Helen Spring, nevertheless, manages to persuade the audience of her fresh and attractive beauty.

Musical Play for Billie Burke.

Florenz Ziegfeld announced yesterday that Billie Burke will appear under his management next season, beginning in September, in a new comedy with music written by Clara Kummer. The production will be staged by Edward Royce and rehearsals will begin the last week in August. Miss Burke's most recent appearance was in Tarkington's "Rose Briar," in which she sang two songs, and there have been musical interpolations in many others of her previous plays. The announcement says that there will be a complete musical score for her new offering. Miss Burke began her stage career in the musical comedy field.

To Revive Old Melodrama.

"Sweeney Todd, the Barber of Fleet Street, or The String of Pearls," and "Bombastes Furioso," will open at the Frazee Theatre on Wednesday evening, July 16, under the management of Wendell Phillips Dodge. "Sweeney Todd" is among the most famous of old English melodramas and "Bombastes Furioso" is said to be the oldest English burlesque operetta. Both plays, Mr. Dodge announces, will be presented here in faithful imitation of the manner of their production at Covent Garden and the Britannia Theatre in London two hundred and one hundred years ago respectively.

Puccini Opera Premiere Here.

PISA, Italy, July 3.—Puccini's new opera, "Turandot," will have its first presentation at the Metropolitan in New York next year, according to a statement made by the composer to Lieutenant General Count Cadorna when the two met recently at Viareggio. The composer was emphatic in declaring that the opera would not be presented at Milan, where, he said, "they hissed my 'Madame Butterfly.'" Puccini said he was putting the final touches on the opera.

SHOCK FOR W. H. ANDERSON.

Finds Confirmation of His Sentence "Hard to Believe."

Special to The New York Times.

OSSINING, July 3.—William H. Anderson, former State dry leader, now in Sing Sing, was stunned by the news that the Appellate Division had refused him a new trial. His friends in Yonkers launched a movement today to apply to Governor Smith for a pardon.

"It is hard to believe," Anderson is quoted as saying in prison in discussing the decision of the higher court sustaining the sentence of from one to two years given him in Manhattan by Supreme Court Justice Arthur S. Tompkins for third degree forgery of the Anti-Saloon League books.

When his friends talked of asking Governor Smith for a pardon shortly after Anderson was sent to prison, Anderson vetoed the plan on the ground that he feared it might interfere with the progress of his appeal before the higher court.

Woman, 70, Is Engaged to Wed.

RIVERHEAD, L. I., July 3.—Mrs. Anna Ostrander, 70 years old, one of Riverhead's wealthy residents, has announced her engagement to Alonzo Danielson, 71 years old, of Brooklyn, who is affiliated with a New York bond brokerage concern. Mrs. Ostrander is a widow and lives with her widowed daughter, Mrs. Wilfred Jefferson. She and Danielson met some time ago through a realty transaction by which he rented one of her five cottages in the Summer beach front colony at Jamesport, near here. The prospective bridegroom is a widower and has no children. No date has been set for the wedding.

JURY FREES COAKLEY AND W. J. CORCORAN

Prosecutor Had Said Earlier That Signals Passed From Crowd Outside to Jurors.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., July 3.—A verdict of not guilty on every count of the indictments against the two defendants was returned shortly after 9 o'clock tonight by the jury which tried William J. Corcoran, former District Attorney of Middlesex County, and Daniel H. Coakley, disbarred Boston attorney, on charges of extortion. The jury had deliberated nearly twenty-seven hours.

Earlier in the day a cordon of State and city police was drawn about the Middlesex County Court House when District Attorney Reading received information that persons in the street were signaling to the jury.

Throughout the day crowds assembled about the building, in an upper room of which the jury had been deliberating since 6:30 o'clock Wednesday evening. A detail of Cambridge police was summoned to keep the crowds on the move, but late today the District Attorney summoned fifteen State detectives to reinforce this guard, and the police lines were drawn about the Court House. Early tonight District Attorney Reading issued a statement, in which he said:

"My attention, as well as the attention of the Court, was called to the crowds outside the Court House and to groups standing opposite the window of the room where the jury is deliberating. We received information that signals were being made from persons outside the building to the jurors within.

"W intend to keep all crowds away from the Court House. Nobody will be permitted to stand outside the building tonight. We have given ample warning. We will not tolerate such signaling."

The District Attorney personally supervised the placing of police sentries at points visible from the windows of the jury room. Several automobiles parked in the street adjoining the building were ordered removed.

The State had charged that Coakley and Corcoran conspired with others to extort money from various persons by threats of prosecution and exposure. One of the witnesses for the State at the trial was Harry E. Levenson, a Boston lawyer, who said that he was formerly a member of a group of attorneys engaged in extortion, but who turned State's evidence when he was on trial with Corcoran in Suffolk County on blackmail charges. On that occasion Levenson testified that the jury trying the case had been tampered with by Coakley and a mistrial was declared.

Judge Whiting remained at the Court House all day awaiting the result of the jury's deliberations. Twice the jurors filed into the courtroom and asked for further instructions. In one case they required enlightenment as to the meaning of the word "inferences," as affecting evidence.

Their second visit was to ask whether evidence relating to Phyllis Allen and Daniel H. Sugrue, both under indictment but not on trial in the present instance, could by inference be connected with the alleged acts of the two defendants. The Judge ruled that only the defendants' acts as individuals could be considered as evidence.

STOLEN ARMY PISTOLS SOLD TO MEXICO

Copyright, 1924, by The New York Times Company
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, July 3.—American detectives have arrived in Mexico City to trace a large quantity of army pistols which were stolen from the army depot at Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio, Texas, and sold to Mexican Government officials who believed the arms had been legally acquired. The Mexican Government has started an investigation of the agents who sold the arms to the Government.

The War Department reports that General José Moran, the rebel leader, who recently surrendered to the Federal Government, has been arrested at Tampico charged with fomenting a new insurrectionary movement. Letters found in his possession indicated that the new movement would start on July 7. One letter, signed de la Huerta, advised Moran not to mix in another movement as he (de la Huerta) had retired and would not help another revolt against the present Government. It is rumored here that Moran has been executed.

Three hundred rebels in the State of Tabasco have surrendered to Federal troops and the entire State is now in possession of the Federal Government.

WINS RIGHT TO BONDS.

Walter Stanton Entitled to Gift of Angie M. Booth.

Surrogate O'Brien decided yesterday that Walter Stanton had legally established his right to hold $821,000 bonds of the City of Havana, Cuba. The executors of the $11,000,000 estate of Mrs. Angie Booth had sought to obtain possession on the ground that the bonds belonged to the estate.

These bonds were issued to the husband of Mrs. Booth in settlement of a claim for the construction of a municipal lighting plant. Mr. Stanton acted as the agent of Mr. Booth in the settlement of the claim. Later the Havana authorities repudiated the bonds. Learning of this, Mrs. Booth made a gift of them to Mr. Stanton on his arrival in appreciation of his efforts in collecting the claim.

GARDENER ENDS HIS LIFE.

Slashes His Wrists After Talking Over Trip to California.

Christian J. Langer, 65 years old, a landscape gardener, committed suicide early yesterday morning in his home at 337 North Seventh Avenue, Mount Vernon, by slashing both his wrists with a razor.

Mrs. Langer breakfasted with her husband and he spoke of their plans to leave for a trip through California within a few days. Later she found him dead in his room. He left no notes explaining his act.

Worthington Pump Plants Sold.

The Worthington Pump and Machinery Corporation has sold two of its Pennsylvania companies, it was reported yesterday. Its Hazleton works at Hazleton, Pa., have been sold to the Pennsylvania Power and Light Company and its Pittsburgh plant to the Pittsburgh Piping and Equipment Company. The sale of these facilities is in line with the policy of the company to concentrate its operations in its large plants. The two plants were sold for more than a half million dollars.

Moody's Reports Trade Optimism.

Moody's Weekly Review in its summary of conditions, issued yesterday, says: "Optimism is doubtless increasing. Some of the factors in it are the higher prices of wheat and corn, the cheapness of money, the strength of the bond market, the prospect of a European settlement and the improved political tendencies."

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"The Goose Hangs High," "Mr. Battling Buttler" and "The Blue Bandanna" will close tomorrow night.

Many attractions will give special matinees today, some in place of tomorrow afternoon's performances. All such changes are indicated in the advertisements.

There will be no performance of the Charlot Revue at the Times Square Theatre on Monday evening, Aug. 4, and the show will be given instead in the garden of the Parrish Art Museum at Southampton, L. I., for the benefit of the Southampton Hospital.

Flying Across the Pacific on the Way Around the World

One of the most thrilling accounts ever written of the conquest of the air, tells of the dangers, hardships and triumphs of the intrepid aviators of the Army Air Service who recently left Los Angeles to circle the earth.

Lieutenant Robert J. Brown, Jr., Chairman of the World Flight Committee, tells the story of the flight across the broad Pacific, and the future plans for the most daring exploit ever undertaken by man.

Detailed descriptions, an explanatory map and twenty photographs acquaint the reader with the innermost facts of the project, and furnish a genuine thrill of wonder and interest in every page.

Dr. Albert Bushnell Hart, of Harvard University, Chairman of the Current History Board of Associates, writes the story of the Republican Convention, and includes therein a verbatim copy of the Republican platform.

The World History of the past month is told by thirteen university professors of history, each of whom specializes in the area assigned to him.

Together, they cover the entire surface of the globe by means of their own educational contacts, the world-wide news gathering organization of a great newspaper, and the reports received from the Embassies of the different countries.

Twenty other important articles, by prominent authorities, treat the big questions and outstanding events of the day in a most interesting and informative way.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Irregular Movement on Stock Exchange—Sterling Closes Higher, Francs Lower.

Incidents and movement of prices on yesterday's markets were mostly connected either with the impending holiday or with the midyear financial settlements. The stock market was again extremely irregular, with advances and declines occurring simultaneously and with no relation to one another; the bond market merely held firm; grain and cotton prices went slightly lower. All this represented the natural readjustment of speculation, on the eve of what is virtually a three-day holiday.

The "July settlements" were reflected in the weekly returns of the Federal Reserve and of the foreign banks. The Reserve system's long uninterrupted reduction of rediscounted bills was replaced this time by $15,000,000 increase for the week, the New York bank adding $31,400,000 to the account. This is, however, less than usual; in this week of 1923, the system's rediscounts rose $155,000,000 and the New York bank's $99,000,000. On Europe's market the Bank of England reported a loan expansion in the week much larger than a year ago; the resultant increase of deposits carrying the reserve ratio down to 13 1-3 per cent., the lowest since New Year's Day and comparing with 14½ a year ago.

Presumably it will rise substantially when the half-yearly settlements are completed; for the ratio stood at 19½ as recently as May and it had returned to 19, six weeks after the low July percentage of last year. Nothing in the statement, therefore, warrants expectation of the much-discussed higher London bank rate, if the Bank's own position is to be taken as a guide. That discussion, however, appears to have been conducted wholly without regard to the question of reserves and ratios or, indeed, to the state of British trade. It is not easy to foresee such action under present circumstances, even with the praiseworthy purpose of promoting the gold-resumption policy. The Bank of France return reflected the midyear settlements in its own customary way; its loans rose a billion francs during the week and its note circulation 450,000,000. This shows the currency to be better in hand than a year ago; for in the same week of 1923, when the loan account increased only 519,000,000, note circulation went up 972,000,000. Nevertheless, the past week's increase raised the paper currency almost to that of March, when the high point since the war was reached.

In so far as there was any uniformity in the day's stock market, the railway shares ranged higher and the industrial shares lower. But the movement as a whole was unimportant.

The first of the monthly averages of commodity prices, issued yesterday, shows an advance of not quite 1 per cent. during June. The change still leaves the average lower than in any month since 1922, except for June and May of the present year, but it is noteworthy as the first advance in prices since last February. Any recovery in the commodity average is bound to be watched for with more interest than usual just now, because trade recovery will hardly come under existing circumstances without bringing recovery in prices with it. But the June advance in average prices can hardly be associated with even preliminary trade revival. The Dun's Review compilations show that last month's rise was wholly attributable to the breadstuff group, metals standing unchanged on the average and textiles going lower. In 1921 recovery of average prices began in July, but fell off again in the next few months. The vigorous upward movement which preceded the "Spring boom" of 1923 began in September of the preceding year.

In the weekly mercantile trade reviews, published ahead of usual time because of today's holiday, no indication appears of a change in tendencies of trade, but none was expected. Practically all they have to report is that distribution of goods for immediate retail requirements is larger but that basic industrial conditions (as Wednesday's iron-production figures proved) are worse.

MONEY.

THURSDAY, JULY 3, 1924.

In very quiet session, Stock Exchange call loans were maintained at 2½ per cent. throughout, while "outside" business was reported variously at 2@2¼ per cent. About $10,000,000 was withdrawn. Time money also dull and, except for renewal here and there, no fresh funds of any sizeable amount were loaned. Paper brokers reported only fair turnover, but believe that after the holiday bill offerings will most likely show increase; discount continued at 3½@3¾ per cent. Call loans against acceptances advanced ¾, to 2½ per cent., in keeping with firmness on board, but bills prevailed without change.

TO LIST UNION OIL SOON.

Corporation Prepared to Enter New Fields in Colorado.

Application to list the capital stock of the Union Oil Company of California on the New York Stock Exchange is expected soon. Recently a large block of Union Oil stock was sold to a prominent New York banking house, which took over the holdings of the Shell-Union Corporation in the concern.

It was stated yesterday that the Union Oil Company of California had arranged to enter the new fields in Colorado on an active scale. It has organized the Fort Collins Producers Corporation with a capitalization of $10,000,000, consisting of 400,000 shares of stock of $25 a share par value, all of which, except directors' shares, being owned by the parent company. The new company will handle all Colorado operations for the California company.

Trondhjem $2,500,000 Bonds Sold

The $2,500,000 City of Trondhjem, Norway, external 6½ per cent. bonds offered by White, Weld & Co., Brown Brothers & Co. and Blair & Co, Inc., have been oversubscribed and the books closed.

PACKARD NET EARNINGS.

Motor Car Company Reports $2,325,000 for Quarter Ended May 31.

The Packard Motor Car Company reported yesterday net earnings of $2,325,000 for the three months ended May 31, the third quarter of the company's fiscal year. This is at the rate of 35 per cent. on the company's $23,770,200 outstanding common shares.

Net earnings for the nine months of the fiscal year are $4,756,975. Holdings of cash and marketable securities, chiefly Government bonds, are in excess of $16,000,000 and this will be increased, according to the statement, as inventories are reduced. Inventories now standing between $10,000,000 and $11,000,000. The company's dividend payments of 7 per cent. on its preferred stock and 12 per cent. on its common stock call for a distribution of about $3,800,000 annually.

Motor Deal Under Way.

Plans whereby the du Pont Motors Company will take over the Duesenberg Motor Company are under consideration by the directors of both companies, it was reported yesterday.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Markets and Banks Closed Today.

The New York Stock Exchange, the Consolidated Exchange, the Curb Market and the various commodity exchanges will be closed today in observance of July 4. Local banking institutions also will be closed. Virtually all of the out-of-town exchanges will also suspend business today, and many of them will also be closed tomorrow. The local security exchanges, however, will be open for business tomorrow, the Governors of the various exchanges having denied the request of members for an extra holiday. The foreign markets will be open as usual today.

Railway Shares Firm; Industrials Irregular.

Trading on the Stock Exchange yesterday was on a much reduced scale as compared with recent markets. This curtailment of activity, however, was deemed wholly natural in view of the holiday today and the short trading day tomorrow. While the movement of prices on the whole was again irregular, the railway shares were again firm and some fair-sized gains were reported in this section of the list, a few issues actually selling at new high records. In the industrial group the trend was again irregular, gains in some speculative issues being offset by declines in others, with a small loss being reported in the average. At the start of the day there were many cross currents, due to profit taking in many of those issues which have recently recorded sharp gains. Much of this profit taking was for the account of traders who contemplated leaving town over the holidays not to return until Monday. While the market as a whole made little headway for the day, there were many stocks which stood out from the general list because of their sharp gains. These included duPont, which gained 3 points; Northern Pacific, which advanced 2⅝; Cosden & Co. and International Paper 1½ each and Southern Railway 1. Among the less active issues gains of a point or more were numerous.

Steel Trade News More Cheerful.

There were a few developments in steel trade circles yesterday, which gave further evidence that there has been some change for the better in the underlying situation, and in view of this fact further improvement was predicted for later weeks this Summer. Yesterday's developments included a small reduction in finished steel prices by the leading manufacturer, accompanied by reports of increased bookings, and a dispatch from the West reporting an advance of 50 cents a ton in the price of scrap heavy melting steel, accompanied by a more active market. There are still several events of an unfavorable nature overhanging the market, however, which will come to pass during the current month. One is the report on unfilled steel orders of the Steel Corporation, to be published next Thursday; and it is expected to show a further reduction of about 500,000 tons in forward business. Another is the statements of second quarter earnings, which will come later in the month.

The Northwestern Railway Shares.

Attention in both the railroad community and the financial district is once more directed toward the Northwestern railway shares. It was recalled yesterday that just a few months ago attention was centred on these railroads, but for an entirely different reason. Then the earnings and conditions were such that many were very doubtful of the position of these railroads. As a result many of the roads reached new low records for years back. Of late the news has changed. More confidence is being expressed in their position on account of the recent advances in the grain prices, the general change for the better in the Northwest, and also because of numerous reports of possible consolidations in that territory. Some of the followers of the railroad shares freely express the opinion that despite the headway made in recent weeks by the Van Sweringens, and the Missouri Pacific, the first major consolidation may be reported from the Northwestern district. It is still possible, however, to find financiers who are skeptical about the Northwestern railway stocks.

Saturday a Semi-Holiday.

There was every indication in the financial district yesterday that Saturday was to be considered as a semi-holiday. Few of the heads of brokerage firms are expected to be at their offices, and from yesterday's indications the only organizations that will be in the office on the morning following the Fourth of July will be barely enough to handle the business. Many of the partners in prominent firms had planned week-end trips before the announcement was made that there was to be no holiday on Saturday, July 5. Most of these, according to those who profess to know, have made no change in their plans. Most of the smaller Exchanges will be closed.

Condition of Banks.

The call for statement of condition as of June 30, issued yesterday by the Controller of Currency in the case of national banks and followed immediately by a similar call by the State of New York in the case of State banks and trust companies, holds this quarter an unusual interest. It will disclose the growth in reserves of the large New York institutions, and these are expected to stand at a new high point for all time or else very close to the figures reached in 1919 and 1920, when conditions were distorted by post-war inflation. But this quarter a very different condition, it was remarked yesterday by bankers, will be in evidence; instead of large loans from the Federal Reserve Bank, as in 1919 and 1920, this figure will be at a very low point; in some cases it will be shown that not a dollar is owed to the Government bank. Assets now are said to be in thoroughly liquid condition, the recent spirited demand for securities having made it possible for institutions which had been carrying blocks of unsold securities to dispose of these securities at profits during the first half of the year and particularly in the past quarter.

Trapping Bear Speculators.

Wall Street heard yesterday through the very popular route known as grapevine channels that a group of speculators who supposedly have been trapped in the last three weeks of rising security values had singled out next Monday morning in which to make a new sortie. For ammunition, it was claimed by brokers who profess to be in the confidence of the bearish contingent, the most would be made of the results coming from the Conference for Progressive Political Action. Curiously, however, the probable results of this convention have been pretty well forecasted; it is known, for example, that Senator La Follette stands ready to run for the Presidency and that a platform of the proper character for that leader to stand on will be provided; and instead of paving the way for anything like a sharp reaction yesterday, the announcement from Cleveland appeared to have been disregarded. Selling, such as it was, was handily absorbed and in several instances where there had been previous short selling it was noted that brisk covering movements were easily induced.

A DOCTOR WITHOUT an estate is dependent wholly upon his practice for his income. When his activities stop, his income stops—unless he has been a practical investor.

Few men realise just how quickly invested money grows. Investing has made many a man independent of work long before retirement was necessary.

Our booklet "Independence" shows a practical way to build a perpetual annual income of any amount.

PARTIAL PAYMENTS

NOT all of us earn large incomes, but we can all follow these two simple rules with profit:

First: Save consistently.
Second: Invest intelligently.

Our interesting free booklet explains clearly how our partial payment plan for purchasing high-grade securities should help you follow both these rules at once, with maximum convenience.

Beginning March 22, 1923, the Stock Exchange officially quotes Liberty Bonds in units and fractions, the fractions being 32ds of a unit, and the quotations after the decimal point representing one or more 32ds. In the above table, therefore, the figures of highest and lowest prices during 1924 and since date of issue are reduced to the form now used in the Stock Exchange quotations.

BRITISH MISSION REPORTS ON BRAZIL

Government Budget Should Be Balanced, Experts Say, After Four Months' Study.

FINANCING PLAN PROPOSED

Recommendations Made as to Debts, Banking and Currency and Development of Country.

A cabled summary of the report issued in London by the British mission which recently returned from Brazil after a four-months' study of the Brazilian Government's finances and the agricultural and industrial situation was received here yesterday by Dillon, Read & Co. The mission consisted of Sir Charles Addis, Governor of the Bank of England; the Right Hon. Edwin Montagu, Hartley Withers, former editor of The Economist, and Lord Lovat, a cotton expert. They went to Brazil last December by arrangement with the Brazilian Government through its bankers in London. The report is made public with the consent of the Brazilian Government and has received the endorsement of the President of Brazil and the Minister of Finance.

The recommendations of the mission follow:

"Government Finances—The Government budget should be balanced. An estimates branch of the Treasury Department should be established for budget purposes and representatives of the Treasury Department should be placed in all departments disbursing funds for continuous examination of estimates; the exclusion from estimates of all expenditure for capital projects; the presentation of estimates to Congress as late as possible in the preceding year; the presentation of a budget to provide specific revenue to defray the cost of budget estimates; the provision in the budget of a margin to meet contingencies, and, if possible, an additional fund for debt redemption. Surpluses obtained at the end of the year should go automatically to debt redemption.

"A committee should be established to examine all proposals for capital expenditures. Any proposal for capital expenditure should be presented in a separate bill, which should also lay down the method proposed for financing the undertaking. A committee should be appointed to examine all expenditures along the lines of the Geddes committee in England. Agriculture should not be exempted from income tax assessment, and assessments should be on the basis of actual profits. The question of death duties or inheritance taxes should be taken up. No exemption from taxation should be given as part of concessions to individual enterprises. There should be a reduction of import duties on machinery and coal, also in the number of civil servants with an increase in pay. The net cost of the Government's industrial undertakings should be clearly shown in estimates, and rates charged should be raised to an economic level. Each Government department should charge other Government departments with services performed for it. The Government should consider the desirability of changing the present financial year.

"Government Debts—An internal loan should be raised concurrently with any external loan and indiscriminate attempts to borrow should be avoided. The Government should announce either its assent or disapproval to loans raised by States and municipalities. Loans advanced by the Federal Government to individual States should always bear interest.

"Banking and Currency—The Government's share of stock in the Bank of Brazil (representing 52 per cent. of stock outstanding) should be sold to banks operating in Brazil, the board of directors of the bank to be elected by the stockholders in general meeting. The substitution of the gold bank notes of the Bank of Brazil for Government Treasury notes now outstanding should be begun at once, and Government promissory notes should not form any part of the backing of the note issue. For the present, further issues of notes should be based on gold dollars or sterling only. The Bank of Brazil should have custody of all public funds. The Banco Hypothecario, if created, should only make advances to small agriculturists.

"Development of the Country—An attempt should be made to develop exports faster than imports. Foreign capital should be encouraged in every reasonable way. Brazilians should also participate in foreign capital investments in Brazil. All Government concessions should be examined by a committee on capital expenditure. Arrangements should be made for the joint negotiation of concessions by the Federal Government and State Governments. There should be, as far as possible, a vigorous development of transport facilities and the establishment of a railway tribunal to fix rates and to direct the railway policy of the Federal and State Governments. The Federal and State Governments should abandon the policy of constructing and operating railways and should dispose of the present Federal railways and the Lloyd Brasileiro Steamship Line. The Federal Government should avoid the policy of assisting industries by subventions and should not give its guarantee to loans raised by States for construction projects. The Government should postpone the present contemplated scheme for development of steel industries by the Government in Brazil. The Government should not pay contractors by the issue of bonds."

ROBERTS BACK IN WALL ST.

Buys a Seat in Stock Exchange After Retiring Several Years Ago.

Wall Street yesterday showed considerable interest concerning the announcement of the return of Owen F. Roberts to active business. The New York Stock Exchange yesterday announced that Mr. Roberts had purchased the Stock Exchange membership of Samuel Einstein for $76,000, which is $6,000 less than the last previous sale.

Up to a few years ago, when Mr. Roberts sold his Stock Exchange membership in order that he might take an extended trip to the Orient, Roberts was credited as being one of the most active of the individual traders in the district, his activities in the stock market, strictly for his own account, comparing with those of Livermore, Harry Content, Joe Manning and other prominent figures in the street, who do business strictly for their own account and do not handle commissions for the general public. Prior to the sale of his seat about three years ago, Mr. Roberts made his headquarters with Luke, Banks & Weeks, also members of the Stock Exchange.

One story afloat at the time Roberts sold his seat was that he was long several hundred thousand shares of low-priced railroad stocks, which several years ago were selling many points lower than they are now quoted. After accumulating these stocks, it was said that he sold his Stock Exchange seat to "get away from the ticker" and await the day when these railroads would again come into their own.

Other Stock Exchange seats sold yesterday included that held in the name of Ray A. Floyd-Jones and that of William Kempton Johnston. Mr. Floyd-Jones' seat was sold to Eustace de Cordova and that of Mr. Johnston to John R. Coffin.

To Abandon Railroad.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The Lorain, Ashland & Southern Railroad applied today to the Interstate Commerce Commission for authority to abandon its entire line which runs from Lorain to Custaloga, Ohio, 66.5 miles. It was asserted the road has been operated at a loss.

Four New Lorillard Directors.

D. T. Minnigerode, H. A. Stout, H. C. Berkeley and W. C. Drewry have been elected directors of P. Lorillard Company to fill vacancies on the board. The new directors are all younger men within the organization.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

Bank Rate Action and French Statement Cause Early Reaction, but Recovery Follows.

After the market had registered a mild reaction in disappointment over the failure of the Bank of England to raise its discount rate, coupled with the unfavorable statement of the Bank of France showing increased circulation and advances to the Government, a fresh wave of buying was spread about for all documents which lifted them well above earlier lows. In the initial trading sterling yielded ½ cent, to 4.32¾, but rallied a full cent to $4.33¾, while the French bill sagged to a new low point for the week at 5.09 cents, with a subsequent recovery to 5.13¾ cents. Continentals backed and filled in the fashion of the leaders.

Chinese currencies were higher on speculation by Eastern operators, but the Japanese yen was turned down to 41.81 cents, from 42 cents on Wednesday. Canadian dollar finished at 99 cents, a 6-point jump overnight.

JUNE AUTO SALES HEAVY.

With Dealers' Stocks Reduced, Manufacturing Will Pick Up.

Dealers' stocks of automobiles were further reduced during June, and in the current month it is expected that both retail and factory sales will show an improvement, according to an analysis of the automotive industry by the publication, Automotive Industries.

"The feeling is general throughout the industry that operations during the month will show a relatively strong upward trend from the marked recession in June," according to the publication. "Reports indicate that the slowing up in production has been effective in so far as it has given dealers a better opportunity to move stocks without feeling under the necessity of taking output at the same time. More buyers, restrained by backward weather, have entered the market, but buying continues somewhat hesitant, and stocks up to now have not been reduced in line with anticipations."

MEXICO'S COMPACT ON DEBT TO STAND

Suspension of Interest Payment Doesn't Mean Scrapping of Agreement, Bankers Say.

JUST MATTER OF WAITING

Government Is Expected to Resume Remittance When Other Troubles Have Been Overcome.

Suspension of the midyear interest payment on Mexico's reorganized external debt does not mean the scrapping of the agreement between the International Committee of Bankers and the Mexican Government, bankers asserted yesterday. The bankers' position now is one of waiting until Mexico has overcome her present acute financial problems at home, when through her own efforts she may again be able to continue payment of interest on her foreign debt.

Various interpretations were placed upon the announcement by President Obregon. Some understood that a new banking commission would be formed to arrange a new working plan. Another view was that the Obregon message was an attack upon Thomas W. Lamont, who had an important part in working out the debt agreement. That President Obregon's message was not intended to reflect on Mr. Lamont was asserted yesterday by A. Mascarenas, Financial Agent of Mexico in New York. He said emphatically that no attack upon the banker was intended.

Throughout the difficulties between Adlofo de la Huerta, who had represented the Obregon Administration in the debt negotiations, and the Mexican President, Mr. Lamont succeeded in keeping clear of any Mexican political arguments. He has thus kept the debt agreement clear of possible political misfortunes, both Obregon and de la Huerta, having announced just before the start of the late rebellion that they meant to live up to the terms of the agreement if it was financially possible.

The report that a new commission of international bankers was about to be formed to negotiate another agreement was said to be unfounded. As the situation stands, the original debt agreement will continue, waiting only the time when Mexico, either through a foreign loan or an improvement in internal business conditions, can resume payment.

AVERAGE PRICES ROSE NEARLY 1% IN JUNE

Advance Due Wholly to Breadstuffs—Still 2⅞% Below January.

The index number of average commodity prices on July 1, compiled by Dun's Review, shows increase of nine-tenths of 1 per cent. during June. Compared with the high point reached by the monthly averages this year, on Feb. 1, the average shows a decrease at the opening of the present month of 2⅞ per cent., compared with July 1, 1923, there is a decrease of 1¾ per cent. As prices stood at the beginning of the month, the average had advanced 16 per cent. from the low point since the war, reached on July 1, 1921, and they were 29¾ per cent below the high point since the war, reached on May 1, 1920. The July average stands 52½ per cent. above the average of Aug. 1, 1914.

Of the seven groups of commodities classified in the report, four increased during June and three decreased. The only important change, however, was in breadstuffs, whose average index number on July 1 was nearly 9 per cent. higher than the month before and 12¼ per cent. higher than at the corresponding date in 1923.

The following table, giving a record of Dun's index number for a series of months and years, compares as follows:

JAPANESE SEEKING RAILWAY LOAN HERE

Guaranty Trust Co. Approached for $6,000,000 for Lines in Korea.

Japanese railway interests are seeking a six-million-dollar loan in New York to be employed in constructing railway lines in Korea, it was learned yesterday. The Guaranty Trust Company has been approached, and Joseph F. Starr, representing the company, is now en route to Japan to study the problem. The deal, if consummated, would open a new field for American financing.

Japan, as a magnet for American investment, has played an increasingly important rôle during the present year. Negotiations were concluded recently whereby the Diado Electric Power Company of Japan will receive a loan of approximately $30,000,000 from American bankers headed by Dillon, Read & Co. of this city. Fifteen million dollars of this loan will be offered publicly within the next two weeks. Proceeds will be used to purchase equipment for the enlargement of the power company's facilities.

The railroad and power deals were said yesterday to be apart from Japanese Government financing of any kind. Though representing private enterprises, these are reported to have the approval of the Government. The enlargement of transportation facilities in Korea, it was said, has been recognized as essential by Japanese interests that are working in that field. In the case of hydroelectric development, which will be confined strictly to the Japanese islands, great possibilities are declared to exist.

The present money market here has encouraged the discussion of new foreign loans, rates on loans being low and there being an abundance of capital available for new issues of bonds.

HUNGARIAN LOAN QUOTA HERE TAKEN

Speyer & Co. Report That the Entire $7,500,000 Offered in America Has Been Subscribed.

BRITISH SHARE SOON SOLD

Twice Oversubscribed in London—Bonds Priced to Yield 8.75 Per Cent.

Reports from members of the syndicate which offered on Wednesday a new issue of $7,500,000 bonds, comprising the American portion of the reconstruction loan of Hungary, showed yesterday that the whole amount had been subscribed, according to an announcement by Speyer & Co. and the Equitable Trust Company, who headed the underwriting group. Speyer & Co. issued in behalf of the syndicate the following statement:

"Great Britain's share of the Hungarian State loan, amounting to £7,900,000, has been twice oversubscribed in London, and we are glad that the issue of the American part, or $7,500,000, has been successful here. It seems clear that if the people of the United States want to maintain the financial leadership and increase the prestige which has come to them during the war period they must take part in the larger financial transactions during the period of peace reconstruction, whenever this can be done without undue risk. Aside from the general advantages which the United States may expect from the rehabilitation of the principal European countries, experience has shown that there are also certain economic and commercial—if not political—advantage which come to the country which lends money and assistance to those that need them.

"As regards the Hungarian loan, the income from the security pledged, viz., customs, tobacco monopoly, &c., is over two and one-half times the annual requirements for interest and sinking fund of the loan. We should also remember that an American citizen, Jeremiah Smith Jr. of Boston, as Commissioner General of the League of Nations, has supervision of the Hungarian Government budget and of the expenditure of the proceeds of the loan. The people in this country evidently also realize that Hungary is a rich agricultural State, self-sustaining as regards food, and that it used to sell its Government loans on a 5 per cent. interest basis, while this last loan nets over 8.75 per cent. to the investor at its present price. Considering all these factors, it is not surprising that the American offering has been favorably received by our people."

TO BUY ANTILLA SUGAR CO.

Punta Alegre to Exchange 50,000 Shares of Its Stock.

The Punta Alegre Sugar Company has completed negotiations with the Royal Bank of Canada to acquire control of the Antilla Sugar Company, it was announced yesterday. The acquisition of the Antilla will be brought about by exchange of 50,000 shares of Punta Alegre common stock. The Royal Bank of Canada is expected to retain the new Punta stock as an investment.

The Antilla property will be operated as a separate unit under the Punta Alegre management. Control of this new property gives the Punta Alegre six estates in Cuba, with an approximate production capacity of 1,600,000 bags. The two centrals of the Antilla adjoin the Punta's lands and include about 23,000 acres. There are two factories, with a combined capacity of between 500,000 and 600,000 bags a year.

FRENCH NOTE ISSUES UP 450,986,000 FRANCS

Discounts Increase One Billion—London Bank Ratio 13½ Per Cent.

The weekly statement of the Bank of France shows the following changes, in francs:

Gold in hand	increased	84,000
Silver in hand	increased	81,000
Notes in circulation	increased	450,986,000
Treasury deposits	increased	1,407,000
General deposits	increased	68,421,000
Bills discounted	increased	1,029,690,000
Advances	decreased	38,508,000

The State borrowed 100,000,000 francs from the bank during the week. Advances to the State now stand at 24,000,000,000 francs, as against 23,900,000,000 a year ago and 23,700,000,000 in 1922. Largest amount ever reached by these advances, 27,000,000,000, in 1921; smallest during the last three years, 21,000,000,000, in March, 1922.

The principal items in the statement compare as follows with the same date one and two years ago, in francs:

	Gold.	Silver.	Circulation.

The highest point which the Bank of France's outstanding note circulation ever reached was 40,315,994,000 francs, on March 6 of this year. The lowest point since concerted reduction began was 35,281,890,295, on April 27, 1922, which was the lowest of any week since Aug. 29, 1919. Highest of 1924 to date was the 40,305,994,000 on March 6; lowest, 38,400,145,000, on Jan. 25.

The Bank of England.

Yesterday's statement of the Bank of England showed the following changes for the week:

Gold coin and bullion	increased	£4,374
Res. in banking dept., gold and notes	decreased	1,287,000
Notes in circulation	increased	1,291,000
Loans on govt secur	increased	6,625,000
Loans on other secur	increased	14,263,000
Notes in reserve	decreased	1,286,000
Public deposits	decreased	7,851,000
Other deposits	increased	27,433,000

Proportion of the Bank's reserve to deposit liabilities is 13.31 per cent.; last week it was 16.25. The 19.53 per cent. average of May 22 was the highest of 1924 to date; lowest, 12.40, on Jan. 4. The highest percentage since the war began was 23.50, on March 17, 1920; lowest, 7.20, on Dec. 30, 1920.

The statement compares as follows with the corresponding weeks one and two years ago:

	1924.	1923.	1922.
Notes in circulation	129,151,000	126,976,730	124,523,140

Ratio of reserve	13.31%	14.25%	15.00%

The Bank of England's official discount rate remained unchanged at 4 per cent., to which it was advanced from 3 per cent. on July 5, 1923. At this date last year the rate stood at 3 per cent., at 3½ in 1922, at 6 in 1921, at 7 in 1920, at 5 in 1919, 1918 and 1917; at 6 in 1916, at 5 in 1915 and 3 in 1914.

Under California Power Supervisor.

The California Railroad Commission has issued an order placing eight Southern California power companies, including the Southern California Edison and Los Angeles Gas and Electric, under the direction of the Power Supervisor appointed for the emergency created by the power shortage in that territory. It is said the supervision will continue through 1924.

Copper Sale at 12⅜ Cents Reported.

Reports were current in the copper trade yesterday that the American Steel Wire Company, a subsidiary of the United States Steel Corporation, was able to purchase a substantial round block of copper at 12⅜ a pound delivered.

TRADE OPTIMISM STILL PREVAILING

MOST CROPS PROMISING

Better Balance Between Production and Consumption Strengthens Some Markets.

Optimism continues to prevail in trade circles regarding the outlook for the last half of the year, and preparations for Fall and Winter requirements are expected to be well under way before many more weeks are past, especially if the recent improvement in the agricultural situation continues. Business continues dull, as many plants are shut down for the mid-year inventory, and others have closed down for the holiday period, but resumption is expected in most of them on Monday.

"While trade, crop and industrial reports are more than ordinarily irregular, retail and immediate need jobbing distribution and crop reports show further improvement," says Bradstreet's in its weekly trade review, "whereas industrial conditions are, if anything, less satisfactory. There is, however, a better tone visible in the comments elicited as to the outlook. For one thing retail buying seems to have been helped by warmer weather in some, not all, areas by special 'sales' and by preparations for vacations. For another the opinion of experts points to improvement noted in Spring and Winter wheat in recent weeks having somewhat reduced the probable deficiency reported a month ago in the yields of both these crops as compared with a year ago, while an almost surprising gain in cotton condition is also noted. As against this, it is to be noted that the corn crop, owing to excessive rains and lack of sunshine, is still backward and in the poorest condition in at least twenty years. A good hay crop east of the Rockies is, however, probable."

Dun's Review says:

"The sharp curtailment of output in most industries has brought a better balance between production and consumption, and has had a strengthening effect on some markets. A decided narrowing of the excess of price declines appears this week, and Dun's Index Number for July 1 shows a rise of about 1 per cent. This is the first advance that has occurred in five months, yet it is wholly due to the higher prices for wheat and corn, most other commodities being on a lower basis."

WICKWIRE SPENCER PLAN.

New Interests to Furnish $2,000,000 Capital to Steel Concern.

A special meeting of the stockholders of the Wickwire Spencer Steel Corporation is to be called to approve a plan for readjustment of capital.

A temporary plan has been agreed upon and new interests have agreed to enter the organization and furnish $2,000,000 of new working capital. This plan, which will be presented to stockholders, provides that holders of five shares of the preferred stock of the present company will receive one share of the common stock of the new company, while holders of ten shares of the present common stock will receive one share of the new common stock in exchange for their holdings. Under the plan the company will also issue $2,000,000, Series A, five-year 7 per cent. notes. Stockholders taking these notes will receive a bonus of seventeen shares of new common stock for each $100 of notes purchased.

BANKS EXPECT TO SHOW RECORD SURPLUSES

Call for Condition on June 30 Is Issued—Large Resources Piled Up.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The Controller of the Currency today issued a call for the condition of all national banks at the close of business on Monday, June 30.

The call of the Controller of the Currency, supplemented in New York State by a similar call from the Banking Department on State banks and trust companies, is expected to reveal a condition never before seen in American banking. Practically all of the large financial institutions have accumulated reserves rapidly during the last three months and it is expected that total resources will be shown at record high levels on June 30.

Contributing to this condition has been the continued importation of gold. The banks have purchased large amounts of gold for their own account and with the precious metal as a basis for credit operations have not been required to borrow heavily from the Federal Reserve Bank. As a result, their borrowing account will be comparatively low and their reserves high. Contributing also has been a seasonal slackening in business. Bank loans have been reduced and investments in Liberty bonds and other paper regarded as "liquid" have been increased.

Meat Stocks Larger Than Month Ago

CHICAGO, July 3.—Lard stocks at leading packing centres July 1 were 114,832,000 pounds, compared with 90,813,000 June 1 and 86,665,000 July 1 last year. Stocks of meat were 350,719,000 pounds, against 355,163,000 last year and 266,685,000 two years ago. There was an increase in meat stocks for the month of 5,021,000 pounds compared with a decrease of 16,346,000 pounds in June last year.

Railroad Earnings Decrease.

Earnings of the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh Railway Company for the month of June were $1,261,456, a decrease of $820,066 compared with the corresponding month last year, according to figures issued by the company yesterday.

DECLINE CONTINUES IN COTTON PRICES

Selling Pressure Still Heavy and Liverpool Reacts to Our Crop Report.

LOSS IS 12 TO 18 POINTS

Pre-Holiday Realizing a Factor in the Trading—Weather Conditions Show Little Change.

Though the cotton market moved lower more slowly yesterday, selling pressure continued heavy and prices lost 12 to 18 points on the day. With the largest acreage on record and a better indicated yield than for several years, there was less disposition to buy cotton as long as this crop continues to improve under satisfactory growing conditions. Professional operators covered contracts owing to the holidays, and this demand, combined with scale purchasing orders for mill account, furnished buying power when October reached 24 cents. The volume of business proved considerably smaller than on Wednesday.

There was an unusual degree of interest in just what effect the Washington indicated yield of 2,000,000 bales more than last year's crop would have on the foreign cotton trade yesterday. Liverpool closed before the report was issued and the decline of a cent a pound in both American markets immediately following that showing called for a sharp break abroad. The decline not only proved as much as due, but at one time October in Liverpool showed a loss of 70 English points or 15 points more than necessary to meet the decline on this side. This induced further selling here when the local Exchange opened with recessions in all positions until October had broken through 24 cents.

Weather showed improved conditions in Eastern sections, where very little rain fell the previous twenty-four hours for the first time in a week. In the West belt, over an inch fell at Amarillo, Texas, but virtually no precipitation in sections where moisture would be beneficial. Temperatures in nearly all parts of the belt continued lower than for the past three weeks, ranging from 58 to 64 at most stations at 8 o'clock, compared with 70 to 80 degrees recently.

NO SNAP IN BUYING AND GRAINS DROP

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 3.—Grain markets felt the effect of the heavy profit taking of the past few days, and this, combined with the evening up process for the holidays, made the close around the inside for the first time in a week or more. There were net losses on wheat of ¾ to 1¼ cents, with July the strongest. Corn was off 1¼ to 2 3-8 cents, the latter on September. The oats market went to pieces, both cash and futures, the former declining one to five cents and the latter 1⅛ to 2⅛ cents, with July in the lead. Rye finished flat, with prices of 1⅝ to 2¼ cents. Losses in the Southwestern wheat markets were ⅞ to 1½ cents, while Minneapolis was only ¼ to ⅝ cents lower, and Winnipeg, after an early advance, finished ⅛ to ⅝ cents lower for the day. At no time was there any snap to the buying.

Liverpool was ½ to ¾ cents higher, and export business for the day, given out after the close, was more than 700,000 bushels, including around 150,000 bushels of new hard Winter at the Gulf.

The market also felt the effect of moderate hedging sales from the Southwest. Reports from there were of large yields of high quality.

Corn was under pressure from longs who were taking profits, and from the trade generally, owing to the improvement in weather. Buying was less in evidence, especially on the new crop futures and September, while July was tight early, selling up to 97¾ cents with a break of 2¼ cents later, the close being 95⅛. December at its best was around 84 cents, with the finish at 82⅛ to 82⅜ cents. Receipts here were only 72 cars. Cash market was easy to ½ cent lower. The shipping sales were 230,000 bushels, and the charters were 135,000 bushels.

Holders of rye were good sellers, and the market lost its snap. Export buying developed on the decline, and Norway was said to have bought a cargo.

Primary receipts of wheat today were 706,000 bushels; last year, 840,000. Shipments were 756,000 bushels; last year, 569,000.

Corn receipts were 485,000 bushels; last year, 968,000, and shipments, 392,000 bushels; last year, 728,000.

All the grain markets in the United States will be closed Friday and Saturday, but Winnipeg and Liverpool will be open.

GOLD OF RESERVES DOWN $34,900,000

Gain of $32,300,000 in Earning Assets and Note Issue Grows by $30,300,000.

DEPOSITS TOTAL LARGER

Increases Also in Acceptances and Holdings Secured by Federal Obligations.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The consolidated statement of condition of the Federal Reserve banks on July 2, made public by the Federal Reserve Board, shows increases of $32,300,000 in earning assets and of $30,300,000 in Federal Reserve note circulation and decreases of $34,900,000 in gold reserves and of $34,000,000 in deposit liabilities.

An increase of $31,400,000 in holdings of discounted bills is reported by the New York Reserve Bank and of $2,200,000 and $300,000, respectively, for the San Francisco and Philadelphia banks. The Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland reports a decline of $4,000,000 in its holdings; Kansas City of $2,300,000, Atlanta of $2,000,000, and the six remaining banks a total decrease of $6,600,000.

Holdings of paper secured by United States Government obligations increased by $24,200,000, to $142,300,000. Of this amount, $95,200,000 was secured by Liberty and other United States bonds, $46,200,000 by Treasury notes, and $1,000,000 by certificates of indebtedness.

The New York Bank reports an increase of $11,600,000 and Boston an increase of $1,700,000, in holdings of acceptances purchased in open market, while the ten remaining banks show reductions aggregating $5,500,000. Holdings of Treasury notes were $12,200,000 larger than a week ago, while those of certificates of indebtedness and of bonds were lower by $5,100,000 and $1,400,000 respectively. The New York Reserve Bank shows an increase of $4,800,000 in its holdings of Government securities.

Federal Reserve note circulation increased by $30,300,000 during the week, larger figures being shown for all Federal Reserve banks except Cleveland, which reports a decline of $1,200,000, and Chicago which reports a decline of $1,300,000. The San Francisco banks show the largest increase, $8,600,000, while Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Richmond report increases ranging from $2,100,000 to $5,900,000.

Gold reserves declined by $34,900,000 during the week. Reserves other than gold by $16,900,000, and non-reserve cash by $5,200,000.

CRUDE OIL OUTPUT AGAIN FALLS OFF

Daily Average 1,975,850 Barrels, Compared With 1,978,550 in the Previous Week.

Big Increase in Receipts of California Oil at Atlantic and Gulf Ports.

The production of crude oil in the United States last week recorded another reduction, according to the weekly figures of the American Petroleum Institute. The output for the week of June 28 averaged 1,975,850 barrels daily, against 1,978,550 barrels in the previous week and 2,210,350 barrels in the corresponding week last year. Last week was the second consecutive week in which a reduction in output has been reported.

Taken by various districts, a decrease in production was reported in North Texas, Central Texas, Arkansas, Gulf Coast and California, but the decreases reported in these sections were in part offset by gains reported in Oklahoma, Kansas, North Louisiana, Wyoming and Montana and the Eastern States.

The daily average production in barrels by States and fields compares as follows:

	1924 June 28	1924 June 21	1923 June 30
Kansas	76,200	76,100	84,700
North Texas	78,050	80,800	77,700
Central Texas	171,450	173,450	145,450
North Louisiana	56,700	55,750	64,100
Arkansas	152,800	155,100	153,850
Gulf Coast	106,550	109,450	100,850
Wyo. and Mont.	127,650	122,700	135,150
California	626,700	626,750	830,000
Total	1,975,850	1,978,550	2,210,350

Receipts of California crude oil at Atlantic and Gulf ports last week aggregated 1,034,000 barrels against 832,000 barrels in the previous week. Imports of foreign crude oil aggregated 2,526,000 barrels against 1,391,000 barrels the week before.

Receivers for Maltose Company.

TRENTON, N. J., July 3.—Thomas A. Davis and Nicholas Hughes are named as receivers for the Maltose Company of Orange, N. Expect Much More Business.

Reports from wholesalers of cotton dress fabrics, including both white and wash goods, indicate that they still expect to do quite a good volume of business, in spite of the fact that under ordinary conditions the buying that is done after the Fourth of July is largely of a Fall nature. This year, however, the combination of the prolonged unseasonable weather and the hand-to-mouth buying methods of the retailers has kept stocks of lightweight dress fabrics so limited that a good deal of fillin-in business will still have to be done. This assertion is based on the contention that there is a large volume of consumer buying of these cloths yet to be done, as many women, due to the weather, have not yet supplied their full needs in Summer garments. In any event, some additional activity in these lines will be necessary to bring the season out at anywhere near a normal level.

Pumps Will Repeat for Fall.

Judging from the advance business that has been placed in women's shoes for the coming season, this Fall will see a continuance of the vogue for pumps. Both strap and goring pumps are expected to repeat in a large way, with patent leather and satin apparently to be the favored materials. Brown suedes are expected in some quarters to sell, but as yet there has not been enough of this business placed to indicate whether the prediction will be fulfilled or not. In the retail end of the trade the feature at the moment appears to be the efforts of the dealers to reduce their stocks of white shoes with as little loss to themselves as possible. Early in the year there was every indication that they would have the best business in white shoes this Summer in a long while. The continued delay in the arrival of warm weather not only prevented this, but has caused many retailers to face substantial losses.

Fur Trade Undertone Stronger.

A stronger undertone to the raw skin end of the fur trade has been noted in the last few days by leaders in the industry, and indications point to a much more active business in both pelts and the finished garments after the holiday. One of the features of the buying of raw furs this week has been the disposition shown by the manufacturers to use skins that will enable them to offer merchandise at prices apparently more to the liking of the public. To this end they are buying Southern "top rats," which are being used extensively for seal dyeing this season for the first time. Manufacturers are also taking the cheaper varieties of raccoon, and there beaver, instead of Canadian, due to th is a distinct tendency to favor Western lower prices of the latter. Business in other skins is also being done, but those named have been most in favor of late.

Glove Buying for Fall.

Short novelty gloves with fancy or plain cuffs are said to lead in retailers' orders for women's gloves for Fall. A series of browns stands out in the colors preferred. Some doubt has arisen over the prospects for long gloves, owing to the fact that long sleeves will be the vogue for Fall. Manufacturers here, however, say the long glove will continue to find a large degree of favor. The fashionable idea, according to the wholesalers, will be to draw the gloves over the sleeves. White gloves are selling better in the immediate delivery business passing.

Raw Silk Situation.

The local raw silk market is more active, and, under the influence of higher quotations in the primary markets, prices for all grades have advanced 20 to 30 cents since last week. Encouraged by a better fabric demand, manufacturers are placing orders more freely for deliveries extending over the next two months, and, in some cases, well into the Fall. On liberal buying by Japanese exporters prices at Yokohama have advanced 30 to 40 yen, according to H. L. Gwalter & Co., Inc., bringing double extra A up to 1,630 yen and tram stock to 1,560 yen. The Canton market is active and higher under a good demand for European and American account. Prices have advanced $50 (Mexican) per picul from the low level touched last month and reelers are reluctant to make offers. The Shanghai market is quiet, with prices of steam filatures nominal and beyond the reach of buyers. At Milan the market is stronger, best sorts being held at 330 lire.

Fancy Belts in Demand.

Manufacturers report continued interest in belts as dress accessories. Fancy merchandise, particularly wide crushed leather sports belts, leads in the present buying. This type is being offered in suede, sheepskin and safian leathers in widths of two and three inches. The colors desired are red, blue, green, blue gray, violet and gold. Silk belts are also meeting with some favor. Leather is used in combination with silk, the fabric patterns running to Roman stripes and ribbon effects. Belts of white kid with colored sheepskin linings are being offered.

Out With Straw Hat Lines.

By early next week practically all of the straw hat houses will have their men on the road with 1925 samples. Prices, it was said yesterday, will show practically no change from quotations for this season. The significant thing with respect to models is that brims will be wider. This follows the success had with the wider brims during the present Summer. It is also expected that fancy bands will be a bigger factor next season. The general situation in the trade shows little change and manufacturers plan for a more quiet period during July than is usually the case. Opening prices on straws are still being maintained by the chain stores.

Gray Goods Were Quiet.

The approach of a two-day holiday, coupled with the bearish effect of the Government report on the condition of the cotton crop, kept business light in the local gray goods market yesterday. Except for some 39-inch 80-square printcloths, which they let out at 13 cents for July-August shipment, first hands were inactive as sellers. Printcloth sales by second hands, however, included 39-inch 72-76s at 11⅝ cents, 39-inch 68-72s at 9⅞ cents, 38½-inch 64-60s at 8⅝ cents and 38½-inch 60-48s at 7⅜ cents. Sheetings were none too active, but some business was done in them on the basis of 10⅝ cents for 37-inch 48-square, four-yard goods. Sales of pajama checks were made at 11 cents for the 72-80s and 9 cents for the 64-60s.

Examination Bureau Plans Ready.

Final steps are being taken for the establishment of the proposed examination bureau in the silk trade, which will act to check unwarranted returns of merchandise. Revised plans of operation of the bureau have been sent to the committee having the matter in charge and, on approval, will be submitted to the broad silk division (D) of the Silk Association of America. As outlined yesterday, the scheme contemplates a resolution to be signed by members that they will refer to the bureau all controversies that arise over quality of merchandise, either finished or in the gray. Each signer will furnish a list of those in his firm qualified to act as examiners. The merits of the bureau are described as fourfold. Quick settlement of controversies will be had. Unwarranted claims will be curbed and proper shipment made. Time and expense will be saved by both buyers and sellers and friendly relations between the two will be preserved.

THE WEEK'S PRICE TREND.

Declines Exceeded Advances, but Most of Both Were Small.

The present week brought no change to Dun's list of wholesale commodities prices so far as the division of the fluctuations was concerned. The declines again exceeded the advances by a substantial margin, there being forty-one of the former to twenty-six of the latter. Last week the division was, respectively, forty-seven and thirty. As was the case last week, the advances in the foodstuffs outnumbered the declines, but the division was much more nearly equal this week than it was at that time.

The following list gives the minimum wholesale prices quoted on selected standard commodities this week. They are corrected to yesterday, and with them are given comparative prices for last week and the corresponding week last year:

†Nominal.

The only change in flour prices in the local market this week was seen in Winter soft straights, which went up 10 cents a barrel. Other provisions changes here consisted only of a decline in Middle Western lard. At Chicago live beef and hogs were lower, but live sheep advanced. Mess pork and short ribs did not change.

The only two changes shown by the dairy products were both downward. They consisted of fractional declines in the best listed butter and in the first-quality, fresh-gathered eggs.

Revisions in the fresh and dried fruits were wholly lacking, and not many were seen in the vegetables. New potatoes featured the latter with a break of $1.25 a barrel, but choice red and choice white kidney beans were higher.

Coffees were unchanged this week, with the result that the beverage list was bare of revisions for the first time in a long while. Leading grades of raw and refined sugar also failed to change, but four advances were seen in the spice list. They took place in cloves, nutmegs, ginger and white pepper.

Wheat showed the week's only decline in the grains, the advances taking place in corn, oats and rye. Leathers were again quotably unchanged, and advances in hides were lacking. Declines in hides were shown, however, by No. 1 native packer, No. 1 Texas, Colorado and branded cow stock. Tallow was higher.

Metals were more unsettled than they were last week, showing eight revisions. The advances took place in copper, zinc and tin, while the declines were indicated in gray forge and No. 2 pig iron, steel bars, beams and No. 28 galvanized sheets. The week's only change in the lumber was a drop in California redwood bevel siding. In the building materials lower quotations were recorded for Eastern spruce lath and clear red cedar shingles.

For the first time in many weeks the naval stores failed to show change, but in the combined lists for drugs, chemicals, dyestuffs and oils 13 of the 19 revisions were downward. Among the reductions were a drop of $1 a flask in quicksilver and a decline of 50 cents a pound in menthol, in case lots.

Five grades of domestic wool were quoted lower this week, as was Chinese raw silk. Japanese raw silk, on the other hand, went up. The best Brazilian and plantation crude rubber both advanced. Miscellaneous changes included declines in news roll paper and English vermilion paint.

Burlaps continued to hold the centre of the stage in the textile trades during the week, although the market for them showed a tendency to ease off as the end of the week approached. The activity in them was due very largely to the shortage of spot goods, particularly heavyweights. In the cotton goods the features were the reductions of some of the leading lines of bleached goods and the slight easing off in gray goods prices in second hands that followed the Government report on the condition of the cotton crop.

Hard Coal Supply Gaining.

The anthracite market can well afford the loss of tonnage incidental to the holiday shutdown this week, Saward's Journal will say today. With the sharp falling off in demand since the middle of June, full-time operations are no longer necessary to produce all the coal the operators can sell. They would have no troulbe of disposing of more stove coal, it is true, but an increased output of this size would mean a larger surplus of the less active sizes. The latter have been giving the sales organizations considerable trouble lately. As it was a foregone conclusion that the present week would be a dull one in the bituminous trade, no one was surprised when that turned out to be the case.

BROKERS ACCUSED OF CRIME

Two in Cincinnati Indicted for Converting $486,000.

CINCINNATI, July 3.—Thirteen indictments charging criminal irregularity in the handling of customers' securities or funds were returned by the Hamilton County Grand Jury today against Herbert I. Channer, George A. Sawyer and Fred C. McLaughlin, former partners in the brokerage business here.

Eleven indictments charge embezzlement and two indictments allege the obtaining of money and securities by false pretenses.

The total amount alleged to have been embezzled is $484,728. The total amount obtained by false pretenses, as alleged, is $1,300.

It is charged that Channer and Sawyer used the securities of their customers for their own market speculations without the consent or the knowledge of the customers.

The brokerage company failed last Fall, owing customers about $1,000,000.

GARMENT STRIKE'S DATE SET TODAY

Union Rejects Plan of Governor Smith's Commission to Avert Walkout of 50,000.

Governor Smith's special commission was notified yesterday that the Merchants' Ladies Garment Association had rejected the commission's report, which was aimed to avert a strike of 50,000 members of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union. The commission was also told that another membership meeting of the jobbers' association would be held Monday at the Hotel McAlpin for final action, which would be reported to the commission, the union and the other employers' association Monday evening at the office of the State Industrial Commission, 128 East Twenty-eighth Street.

Morris Sigman, President of the garment workers' union, said yesterday that the date of the general strike would be announced tomorrow. It was reported that the walkout was being planned for Tuesday morning, but union officials declined to speak in advance of the official announcement.

The union's officials met last night at 3 West Sixteenth Street and discussed the plans for the strike, which apparently is inevitable. They said the only thing that could prevent a walkout would be the acceptance of the report of the Governor's commission by the jobbers.

Battle Still Hopeful.

George Gordon Battle, Chairman of the commission, said yesterday that he had strong hopes that the strike would be averted. The purpose of the meeting of jobbers on Monday is to reconsider their action of Wednesday night. Eighty of the 130 members of the association were present that evening, and it was said they voted, 50 to 30, to reject the commission's report. The commission hopes that the jobbers will appear in force at Monday's meeting and that a full poll of the membership will result in acceptance of the report.

Before going into the meeting room to advise the Governor's commission of the jobbers' action, Samuel Blumberg, counsel to the association, said:

"We are here to suggest modification of the recommendation which the board already has made. The main contention of the jobber is that he is a distributor and therefore should have absolute freedom in the purchase of goods, irrespective of whether he buys in this city or elsewhere, and that he be obliged to deal with union shops only where he gives piece goods to be made into garments.

"In my opinion, the recommendation which is intended to be imposed on the jobber will seriously interfere with the orderly administration of business and will create unhealthy competition with those firms, both in this city and elsewhere, that cannot be made to enter contractual relations with the union."

Settling Men's Clothing Strike.

Applications for settlements continued to be made yesterday to the committee of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers at the Union Square Hotel. About 10,000 men's clothing workers who went on strike ten days ago are expected to return to work by Monday as a result of the settlements now in progress. Approximately that number have returned to work because of the agreement signed several days ago between the union and the New York Clothing Manufacturers' Exchange.

Picketing will continue against those shops which have not settled. Workers employed in the shops of members of the Associated Clothing Manufacturers, Inc., will return to their places when a list of the manufacturers and the submanufacturers employed by the members is furnished to the union.

Fifty workers on men's clothing who acted as pickets against the non-union shop of Henry Fruhauf of 23 West Eighteenth Street were discharged in Jefferson Market Court yesterday, after they had been arrested on Mr. Fruhauf's charge of disorderly conduct. Fruhauf, who is an honorary captain of the Police Reserves, caused the arrests because an employe had been assaulted. Officials of the union protested that Fruhauf was abusing his honorary connection with the Police Department.

5,000 Capmakers Walk Out.

Five thousand members of the United Cloth Hat and Capmakers' Union went on strike yesterday, demanding technical changes in their contract with their employers. No demand was made for shorter hours or more pay. It was said 200 shops were affected.

The strike is directed at manufacturers not in the Cloth Hat and Cap Manufacturers' Association, with which the union has just entered into an agreement, and also against the newly formed Wholesale Cap Manufacturers' Association.

The Cloth Hat and Cap Manufacturers' Association, said to include the large manufacturers, has been in contractual relations with the union since 1916. The renewed agreement, for two years, went into effect Tuesday.

It retains the machinery for arbitration and conciliation and designates Dr. Paul Abelson as the Chairman of the Board of Adjustment. Dr. Abelson has served in that capacity for four years. The new agreement also retains the clauses providing for the minimum scale of wages, the system of week work, the fourty-four-hour week and full pay for five legal holidays.

A system of unemployment insurance under which the manufacturer and the worker each pay 3 per cent. of the payroll each week, is also established in the new agreement. As security for the faithful performance of the agreement, every member of the association is to deposit $200 into a fund known as the Security Trust Fund, which will be drawn upon to pay any fines that the Board of Adjustment may award to the union.

President M. Zaritzky of the union said that, in ordering the strike, the union was determined to secure in all shops the conditions provided for in the new agreement with the Cloth Hat and Cap Manufacturers' Association.

COURT TO SEE CITIZENS.

Justice Morschauser Will Hear Cardiac Home Case.

Special to The New York Times.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., July 3.—When the case of the Village of Irvington against the Mineola Home for Cardiac Children came up before Justice Morschauser at White Plains this morning the Justice said: "I will go to Irvington Saturday morning and sit. I want to get the views of the local residents." The action of Justice Morschauser establishes a precedent. He will sit in the Town Hall. The Mineola Home wants to purchase the John G. Luke Home in North Broadway, and citizens are fighting the sale on the ground that it will depreciate the value of their property. It is said the home cost Mr. Luke $300,000. It is said the home offered the widow $150,000. Irvington has a zoning ordinance which prohibits institutions from locating in the village within one thousand feet of Broadway.

JAIL TERM FOR SPEEDER.

Magistrate Gives Salesman Two Days as Second Offender.

The first person to be sentenced to two days in jail as a second offender under Magistrate H. Stanley Renaud's new schedule of penalties for speeding was Douglas Hertz, 31 years old, a salesman, of 731 Warburton Avenue, Yonkers, who was arraigned in the Traffic Court yesterday. Hertz also was fined $50. If he does not pay the fine, he will have to spend twelve days in jail.

Magistrate Renaud added another section to his new rules by fining 184 offenders $1 an hour for illegal parking. Harry Tappan of 1,920 Sixtieth Street, Brooklyn, paid $8 for leaving his car eight hours at Broadway and Sixtieth Street, Manhattan.

CITY SUBWAY HEADS GET $15,000 A YEAR

QUIBBLING OVER POWER

Craig Questions Delaney's Right to Fix Pay of 707 Members of His Staff.

The compensation of the three new Commissioners of the Board of Transportation was definitely fixed yesterday at $15,000 a year each in a special meeting of the Board of Estimate. That body also appropriated $700,000 to pay current expenses of the new department up to Oct. 1 next.

John H. Delaney, Chairman of the Transportation Board, submitted a tentative salary schedule of the 707 employes of the board, all of whom, with the exception of the secretarial force, had been transferred from the staff of the State Transit Commission.

Controller Craig brought up the question whether the power to fix the salaries of these employes was vested in the Board of Transportation, as it had been vested in the Transit Commission, or whether the amendment to the Transit act gave that power to the Board of Estimate. The Controller said he was inclined to believe the power lay with the latter. Commissioner Delaney took the opposite view. At the suggestion of Borough President Riegelmann, the question was submitted to the Corporation Counsel for his opinon, and in the meantime Mr. Delaney agreed to pass the payroll temporarily in the event that the Corporation Counsel's opinion should not be ready before the first regular pay day.

Commissioner Delaney asked an additional appropriation of $596,661 to meet the salaries and expenses of the Board of Transportation from Oct. 1 to the end of the year. This application was referred to the Committee of the Whole.

The Board of Estimate's special session was peacefully calm until Mayor Hylan undertook to add an item to the calendar without unanimous consent. Controller Craig voiced a vehement objection.

"Add it to the calendar," peremptorily ordered the Mayor.

"No!" shouted the Controller.

"Add it to the calendar!" the Mayor repeated.

"What is the use of having rules of procedure," growled Mr. Craig, "when the Mayor overrules them every time it suits him!"

Without further retort Mayor Hylan put the question to a vote and the disputed item was added to the calendar.

Sheriff John N. Harman obtained from the Board of Estimate an appropriation to pay the salaries of the incumbents of seventeen new positions which he has established. They are eight additional deputy sheriffs at $2,904 a year; eight assistant deputy sheriffs at $2,040 a year, and one assistant counsel at $4,000.

Sheriff Harman, after the meeting of the board, said he would announce the names of the appointees next Monday.

Yellowley Finds Exaggerations Concerning His Plans.

E. C. Yellowley, Chief of General Prohibition Agents, who is in New York City for the period of the Democratic National Convention, said yesterday that there had been exaggeration concerning his plan to arrest material witnesses in raids by prohibition agents. Mr. Yellowley's course was criticized by United States Commissioner John Boyle and Assistant United States Attorney Henry D. Mildeberger on Wednesday when five material witnesses were ordered released by Commission Boyle following their arrest in a prohibition raid.

"It is making a mountain out of a mole hill," said Chief Yellowley. "The law is simple. Where my men find violations of the prohibition law they will continue to make arrests, and if embarrassment is caused to individuals who willfully aid in the violation of the law it is up to them, not to myself."

Mr. Yellowley explained that prohibition agents making raids with search warrants had been instructed, upon finding liquor in a place, to arrest the owner or the manager, also to look around, and if they saw any one with what seemed to be liquor in front of them on the table, to arrest them also. He said the only reason he issued instructions to detain material witnesses was to insure the appearance of witnesses whose testimony was desired for convictions.

LOSES $15,000 ALIMONY.

Appellate Division Reverses Order Obtained by Mrs. May Pincus.

The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court reversed yesterday the order for $15,000 alimony obtained by Mrs. May Pincus in her suit against Abraham Pincus, real estate man, for divorce on the ground of misconduct in the apartment house at 42 West Forty-sixth Street, of which he is one of the owners. Pincus contended that he was entrapped in the apartment of Mrs. Audrey Maple Griffith, who had sent for him to discuss a lease of the apartment.

"The evidence of the conspiracy to entrap him is that he was telephoned to by the corespondent about twenty times, and on the same day of the telephone messages to him the records of the telephone operator at the apartment house where he is alleged to have met the corespondent show telephone communications from this woman's apartment to the detective agency which managed the so-termed raid," said Justice McAvoy in his opinion.

Mr. Pincus asserted that he has had differences with his father-in-law, Joseph L. Graf, over realty corporations in which they were interested and that Graf caused discord between his wife and himself.

Bank Robber Gets 14 to 30 Years.

Special to The New York Times.

ELIZABETH, N. J., July 3.—Edward Werle, who pleaded guilty to an indictment charging that he was one of five men who robbed the Roselle National Bank of $31,685 on Oct. 15, 1919, was sentenced to from fourteen to thirty years in the New Jersey State Penitentiary at Trenton today by Judge Alfred A. Stein. Werle refused to disclose the name of his confederates when it was suggested that he might help his own situation by aiding the State in that manner.

Loses $5,000 Suit for Son's Support.

Supreme Court Justice Mullan signed a judgment yesterday dismissing the suit of Mrs. Byrd Shoemaker Laumier to collect $5,000 from Herman H. Laumier, wealthy St. Louis real estate man, for the support of Herman H. Laumier Jr., who she alleges is the son of the defendant. Mrs. Laumier divorced her husband in July, 1919, and on Dec. 9 of that year became the mother of the son for whose support she sued. Laumier asked the dismissal of the complaint on the ground that the New York court have no jurisdiction over him.

Accused of Killing Shrubs.

Mrs. Agnes Gertner of 8,902 Hollis Court Boulevard, Queens Village, L. I., was held in $300 bail for Special Sessions by Magistrate Doyle in Jamaica Court yesterday on a charge of malicious mischief. Mrs. Mary Fitzpatrick, a next-door neighbor, accused Mrs. Gertner of killing hedges and shrubs in her garden. A representative of the Park Department testified that he had found the shrubbery had been killed with either kerosene or acid.

CONSULS RETIRED FOR AGE.

Thirty-one in That Service and One Diplomat Go Out in Shake-Up.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The names of one diplomatic and thirty-one consular officers retired in the shake-up in the State Department as a result of the new Rogers bill, which rearranges the American foreign service, were made public at the State Department today. All of the thirty-two were retired for age and will be placed on the pension list authorized by the new bill.

Frederic O. de Billier, Secretary of Legation, Class 1, was the diplomatic officer retired. He has been stationed at Rome. The others were:

Consul General, Class 1—Alexander M. Thackara, stationed at Paris.

Consul General, Class 4—Joseph I. Brittain, stationed at Winnipeg; Dominic I. Murphy, at Stockholm; Frederic W. Goding, at Guayaquil; Frederic M. Ryder, at Vancouver; Alfred A. Winslow, at St. John's N. F., and Francis B. Keene, at Rome.

HEADS DAIRYING BUREAU.

Dr. C. W. Larson Gets New Office in Agricultural Department.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Appointment of Dr. C. W. Larson as Chief of the new Bureau of Dairying of the Department of Agriculture, which was created by the last session of Congress, was announced today by Secretary Wallace.

Dr. Larson, since 1921, had been Chief of the Dairy Division of the department's Bureau of Animal Industry, the work of which, together with all other activities of the department relating to the dairying industry, has been transferred to the new bureau.

MEANS OUT ON $25,000 BAIL.

Jarnecke, Also Convicted in Liquor Plot, Remains in Tombs.

Gaston B. Means, former Department of Justice Agent, was released from the Tombs yesterday afternoon when a surety company filed in the Federal Court a bond for $25,000. Elmer W. Jarnecke, former Secretary to Means, was unable to raise bail and remained in his cell.

Both men were convicted by a jury of accepting money to obtain liquor withdrawal permits. Judge C. E. Wolverton sentenced each to the Federal Penitentiary in Atlanta for two years. In addition, Means was fined $10,000 and Jarnecke $5,000. They have filed notices of appeal and will not be sent to Atlanta until their appeals have been determined.

Because of the illness of Thomas B. Felder, Chief of Counsel for the defendants, Means said he had engaged Jerome Simmons of 100 Broadway, former Assistant Federal Attorney, to aid Fred J. Coxe in presenting the case to the Circuit Court of Appeals.

ASTONISHING VALUES to the lucky purchasers of these homes of 6 rooms and bath. They are as carefully built as houses of "Pre-War Construction," of which we read so much. In a great many respects they are far better.

The Architect is "on the job" daily and carelessness by workmen is not tolerated. Only the best grades of materials used. Comfort in all weathers absolutely certain. The foundations are of solid concrete. The timber is unusually heavy for houses of their size.

The roofs are guaranteed "leak proof." All flooring is double. Parquet in every room. Rooms larger than in most modern houses. High grade plumbing with Standard fixtures. A guaranteed steam heating plant. Tiled bath with shower. Large kitchen with many conveniences. Enclosed and heated porch. Houses are so compact and well arranged, housekeeping cares are reduced to a minimum.

The street is finished with sewers, water, gas, &c. No assessments to pay; garage and service driveway. Churches, stores, schools, &c., in the neighborhood. Boating, bathing and fishing within five minutes' walk. Club House and dock for exclusive use of property owners.

Again we emphasize that

East Elmhurst Homes

United States.

The commission announces this examination on July 23:

ASSISTANT AND JUNIOR AGRICULTURAL STATISTICIANS—For vacancies in the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, Department of Agriculture, for duty in Washington, D. C., or in the field. The entrance salaries will be $2,400 a year for assistant agricultural statistician and $1,860 a year for junior. Advancement in pay may be up to $3,000 a year for assistant and $2,400 a year for junior. Both men and women may enter.

The duties of assistant agricultural statistician are to plan and carry out minor statistical investigations involving the use of technical statistical methods; also to study and investigate problems of crop and live stock acreage, production, prices, movements and damage; junior agricultural statisticians are to assist in gathering, compiling, editing and computing statistics and to perform analytical work, such as making index numbers and computing coefficients of correlation. Competitors will be rated on statistical calculations and methods (if a competitor fails to attain an earned rating of at least 60 per cent. in this subject he will not be eligible and the remaining papers of his examination will not be rated), 30; general agriculture, 30; education, experience and fitness, 40.

For either position applicants must show that they have been graduated from a four years' high school course or that they have completed at least fourteen units of high school work accepted for college entrance, and, in addition, that they have been graduated from a college or university of recognized standing, or for each year lacking completion of such college course that they have had one year of statistical experience of a progressive character, involving a working knowledge of the fundamentals of technical statistics. In addition applicants for assistant agricultural statistician must show that they have had (a) two years of progressive technical statistical experience, or (b) two years of teaching experience in statistics, or (c) two years of field experience in collecting statistics, or (d) one year of postgraduate work in economics and related subjects, or (e) any equivalent combination of groups (a), (b) and (c). For either position, in order to be eligible for appointment to the field service, applicants must show that they have had at least three years of practical farm experience. The fact that the applicant lived on a farm until 18 years of age will be considered as sufficient to meet this requirement. Applicants must not have reached their fifty-fifth birthday.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Pressure continues high over the upper lake region and the Upper Mississippi and Missouri Valleys and the region of Bermuda and on the extreme North Pacific Coast, while pressure is low and has decreased slightly over the plateau region and Saskatchewan. Pressure is slightly below normal over Southern Georgia. During the last twenty-four hours showers have occurred in the South Atlantic States and at widely scattered points in the North Atlantic States, the Upper Mississippi Valley and southern plateau region. Temperatures continue low for the season from the Rocky Mountains eastward and are considerably above normal in the Northwest.

The outlook is for generally fair weather the next two days in all portions of the country east of the Mississippi River, except in the South Atlantic States on Friday. Temperatures will moderate somewhat over Northern districts on Saturday.

COUNTRY-WIDE WEATHER CONDITIONS.

In the following record of observations at United States Weather Bureau stations yesterday the temperatures given are the highest during the twelve hours from 8 A. M. to 8 P. M. and the lowest during the preceding twelve hours from 8 P. M. to 8 A. M.; the barometer reading and condition of weather are those recorded at 8 P. M., and the rainfall is for the twenty-four hours ended at 8 P. M.:

Public School Notes.

DR. GRADY SHIFTED—District Superintendent Dr. William E. Grady, who has been assigned for the last six years to the office of the Superintendent of Schools, retired from this position yesterday and will be reassigned. Dr. Grady was assigned to the office of the Superintendent of Schools by former Superintendent Dr. William L. Ettinger, and it is said by those in touch with school affairs that the shifting of Dr. Grady at the present time is part of a policy of the Hylan Administration to shift from important executive positions those formerly in close touch with Dr. Ettinger.

Dr. Grady will be succeeded by District Superintendent John S. Roberts, formerly principal of P. S. 62, and later assigned to training schools for teachers and junior high schools.

HIGH SCHOOL AT HUNTER—The 1924 session of the Summer High School for girls and boys will be held in the Hunter College Building, Sixty-eighth Street and Lexington Avenue. Academic and commercial subjects will be given. Every course of forty lessons covers a term of high school work and prepares for the September examinations. The same exemptions will be allowed as in the other vacation high schools. The school term starts on Monday, July 7, and continues for eight weeks when certificates of attendance and scholarship will be awarded. Fees payable at time of registration: $1 registration fee, $10 for one course of forty lessons, $18 for two courses of forty lessons each. Books will be loaned on a deposit of $1 each. All students who have registered, and those who wish to apply will meet on Monday, July 7, at 10 A. M., in the Hunter College Chapel, Sixty-eighth Street and Park Avenue. Classes will be restricted to thirty-five pupils, and students will be registered in the order of their application.

SMITH MAY ATTEND WIGWAM EXERCISES

CONGRESSMEN TO SPEAK

All Day Air Carnival at Mitchel Field—Music in Central Park.

Governor Smith may leave his political headquarters during the balloting some time today in order to attend the annual Independence Day celebration at Tammany Hall. He usually attends and makes the principal patriotic address. Willis Holly, Secretary of the Tammany Society, called on the Governor to ask if he would attend. Governor Smith said that he would try to do so, in order not to break his custom.

The ceremonies at the Wigwam will be the 135th annual Independence Day celebration there. The program will include music by the Sixty-ninth Regiment Band and the Tammany Quartet, the reading of the Declaration of Independence and other patriotic documents. Speeches will be made by Senator Thaddeus H. Caraway of Arkansas and Representatives Henry T. Rainey of Illinois, John McDuffie of Alabama, Thomas W. Wilson of Mississippi and Ferris of Oklahoma. The exercises will begin at 10 A. M. and will be broadcast by radio.

Air Carnival at Mitchel Field.

An aviation carnival for the benefit of the Army Relief Fund will be held at Mitchel Field, L. I., beginning at 10 o'clock this morning and lasting throughout the day. It will be the biggest air meet ever held in the vicinity of New York. The program will include sky writing, acrobatics, battle formation flying by three flights of five planes each, a speed exhibition by Lieutenant Russell L. Maughan, just back from his dawn-to-dusk flight to the Coast; a demonstration of laying a smoke screen by a Martin bomber, bombing of an imitation village, parachute drops by three men from 2,000 feet altitude, two thirty-mile air races, air fighting by the First Pursuit Group, destruction of an observation balloon to be shown in flames, with the pilot and observer dropping in parachutes, and exhibition flying by Captain Nungesser, the French ace, and Lieutenant Brookley, U. S. A. Major William W. Hensley Jr., commanding officer at Mitchel Field, will have charge of the events.

Twenty-one gun salutes in honor of the day will be fired at the Navy Yard in Brooklyn and at Fort Hamilton reservation. War vessels in the harbor will be decorated with international code flags, and their bands will play patriotic music.

The Municipal Committee on Athletics and Festivals will hold a water carnival and band concert at the lake near the Fifty-ninth Street wall in Central Park at 8 o'clock this evening. Red, white and blue streamers will decorate the lake and the boats which will be free to the public. Music will be supplied by Thomas E. Ward's Park Concert Band, on a float in the centre of the lake. The musical program follows:

Salutation—"Star Spangled Banner."
March, "Stars and Stripes" .... Sousa
Overture, "William Tell" .... Rossini
American Patrol .... Mechin
Selection, "Faust" .... Gounod
Solo .... Selection
Emily Hallock, Soprano
Herman Neuman, Pianist
American Fantasia "The North and South" .... Bendix
PART II.
Overture "Orpheus" .... Offenbach
Medley 1863 .... Calvin
Group of Songs:

Fordham University Exercises.

The Knights of Columbus and the United Councils of the Bronx, Civil, Spanish and World War Veterans and other patriotic societies, will hold exercises at 9:45 o'clock this morning at the Fordham University Field. Supreme Court Justice Arthur S. Tompkins, Past Master of Masons of New York State, will make the principal address. Albert Ward, County Commander of the American Legion, will read the Declaration of Independence. There will be a musical program. Previous to the exercises there will be a parade from the Unity Council clubhouse to the university field. It is expected that 5,000 will march.

Exercises will be held by the Knights of Columbus in Prospect Park, Brooklyn. There will be patriotic music, speeches and other ceremonies.

Behan Askenaze, 13 years old, formerly of Turkey but now of the United States, will carry the American flag in the Fourth of July parade to be held at the Hebrew Orphan Asylum, Amsterdam Avenue and 138th Street. His father was killed during the war, and the boy came here three years ago. He was about to be deported to Turkey, when he gained admittance to the asylum.

Several hundred children of Ridgewood and Glendale, Queens, will be the guests of political organizations there today. The Yale, Evergreen Republican and Ridgewood Democratic Clubs will participate.

Inmates of the city institutions will receive special treats of ice cream, cakes, tobacco and cigars in honor of the holiday. The donations were made by the Episcopal City Mission.

Special to The New York Times.

PEEKSKILL, July 3.—Colonel William R. Wright, post executive officer, and other New York National Guard officers arranged for a special celebration of Fourth of July tomorrow by the troops in the State military camp in Peekskill, which will include the firing of the national salute. A gun will be fired from the one-pounder mounted naval gun for every State in the Union at noon. There will be a special program of entertainment for the 2,600 troops of the Tenth Infantry, N. Y. N. G., commanded by Colonel Charles Walsh of Albany, and for the 105th Infantry, commanded by Colonel Ransom Gillette of Troy. Major Gen. Charles W. Berry, Commander-in-Chief of the Guard, will spend the Fourth in camp.

AMERICANS IN PARIS TO CELEBRATE FOURTH

Pershing to Take Part—American Legion Baseball Nine to Play Navy Team.

PARIS, July 3 (Associated Press).—The Fourth of July celebration in Paris will be deprived of the presence of Ambassador Herrick, who has been suffering from an attack of ptomaine poisoning, but will be enhanced by representatives of the American Olympic team, who, with members of the Paris chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution, will place wreaths on Lafayette's grave and on the statue of the American doughboy.

Ambassador Herrick's condition is such that he will not be able to participate in any of the day's elaborate ceremonies. He will be represented by Sheldon Whitehouse, Chargé d'Affaires, at the Lafayette ceremony in Picpus Cemetery, the wreathing of the American doughboy statue, the inauguration of the commemorating tablet at the headquarters of the French-American committee, the reception at the Ambassador's residence and the banquet given by the American Chamber of Commerce of Paris in the evening. Among the speakers at the banquet will be Premier Herriot, General John J. Pershing and United States Senator David A. Reed.

Tomorrow's celebration will really be started this evening with the opening of the big Franco-American charity fête on the platform of the Eiffel Tower and a dinner at the Harvard Club in the Bois de Boulogne.

Tomorrow's most impressive event will be the lighting of the "perpetual flame" above the unknown soldier's tomb under the Arc de Triomphe. This ceremony had been postponed in order that members of the Paris post of the American Legion might participate in Independence Day.

In the afternoon the American Legion baseball team will play a nine from the U. S. S. Pittsburgh and in the evening the Legion post will give a dance at the Interallied Club. All the American business houses, the embassy, consulate, &c., will be closed during the day.

By instructions of the French Government to the Prefects and other functionaries the Stars and Stripes will fly alongside the Tricolor on the flagstaffs of every public building in France and her colonies.

ALIENISTS SUBMIT REPORT ON BARING

Counsel for Man Accused of Poisoning His Wife Also Engages Experts.

Arthur S. Rowland, District Attorney of Westchester County, received yesterday the report of alienists appointed by him a few days ago to examine Clarence O. Baring, accused of trying to murder his wife by putting disease germs and arsenic in her food.

Mr. Rowland said he would not divulge the contents of the report until it had been submitted, probably tomorrow, to County Judge William F. Bleakley.

The examination of Baring by the State's alienists was permitted by Judge Bleakley on the request of Mr. Rowland after the jury had been selected. The experts, Dr. George Kirby and Dr. William L. Russell, Superintendent of the Bloomingdale Asylum at White Plains, made their tests in the office of Dr. Menas S. Gregory, head of the psycopathic ward of Bellevue Hospital.

Charles Edward Long, counsel for Baring, yesterday engaged alienists to make an examination of the defendant. Long's questions put to talesmen indicated the possibility of an insanity defense. Believing Baring sane, Mr. Rowland countered by engaging alienists who, if they found Baring sane, would be able to combat an insanity defense. The possibility that the trial would hinge on a battle of opposing alienists grew yesterday.

Mr. Rowland would not say, in view of the report placed in his hands, whether the trial would proceed on Monday as scheduled.

RADIO MERGER PLANNED.

$10,000,000 Corporation Formed to Consolidate Independents.

The incorporation was announced yesterday of the General American Radio Corporation, under the laws of Delaware, with a capitalization of $10,000,000 of preferred stock, consisting of 100,000 shares of $100 par 7 per cent.; and 500,000 shares of no par value common stock.

The executives of the new corporation are Warren S. Stone of Cleveland, Chairman of the Board of Directors; Lewis J. Selznick of New York, President; Samuel R. Stone of Cleveland and Henry M. Shaw of East Orange, Vice Presidents; Arthur S. Friend of New York, Treasurer; A. M. Grill of New York, secretary. The directors, in addition to the above, are C. D. Hickok of Cleveland, A. H. Claus of Cleveland, B. Frank Fox of Cleveland and Frank H. Shaw of Montclair, N. J.

Mr. Selznick issued this statement:

"The General American Radio Corporation is formed for the purpose of consolidating a number of the most important independent radio and accessories manufacturers. Its business will include the manufacture and sale of every kind of receiving and transmitting apparatus and all parts therefor.

"It will also manufacture non-infringing radio vacuum tubes and Tungsten filament wire under patents recently issued and now acquired by the General American Radio Corporation. These patents are considered of the greatest importance in the radio field, and this consolidation places the General American Radio Corporation in a position to manufacture and license under them to the utmost advantage of the public and itself."

GIRL SERENADERS JAILED.

Trio Appropriated Watchman's Three Red Lanterns.

For staging a serenade in front of Maloney's restaurant in Eighth Avenue near Fiftieth Street early yesterday morning three young women were arraigned before Magistrate Charles A. Oberwager in West Side Court and were sent to jail when they couldn't pay the fines imposed.

They gave their names as Mrs. Kitty Gumst, 23, of 531 West Forty-third Street; Dolly Cunningham, 22, of 511 West Forty-eighth Street, and Maida Otten, 23, of 511 West Forty-eighth Street. Mrs. Gumst, a second offender, was fined $50 or five days, and the others $25 each or three days.

According to Maloney, the serenaders were captured after a short chase from the restaurant where they did not pay their bill, but declared that they had no money. Then they went to the basement bakery of Zim Kunily, 406 West Fiftieth Street, where they asked for and received a half dozen hot rolls each. On leaving they called Kunily names, according to his testimony and and pelted him with the rolls.

A watchman at an excavation at Ninth Avenue and Fiftieth Street told of missing his three red lights and finding them in the possession of the three women at the West Forty-seventh Street station after they had been arrested by Patrolman Edward Welch.

BOLD BROOKLYN HOLD-UP.

Daylight Robbers Get $1,200 From a Man in Fulton Street.

Louis Boasi of 1,048 Seventy-fourth Street, Brooklyn, was held up by two men at Fulton and Johnson Streets, in front of the office of the Brooklyn Standard Union shortly before noon Wednesday, was struck on the head with a blunt instrument and robbed of $1,200 in cash, it was learned yesterday.

Dr. Goldberg of the Cumberland Street Hospital treated Boasi for lacerations of the scalp, after which Boasi went home. He furnished good descriptions of the robbers to detectives, who withheld all information regarding the robbery, which occurred at a time when people were passing.

QUITS CHURCH COUNCIL.

Christian Reformed Synod Votes for Withdrawal by 36 to 29.

KALAMAZOO, Mich., July 3.—The General Synod of the Christian Reformed Church today withdrew affiliation with the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. The vote was 36 to 29.

The Advisory Committee last night urged the Synod not to bring heresy charges against the Rev. Herman Hoeksema of Grand Rapids and the Rev. Henry Danhoff of Kalamazoo, at this time. It suggested that the Synod first declare itself on certain disputed points of doctrine and then request the pastors to adhere to that decision.

MAUGHAN ARRIVES FROM PACIFIC COAST

Dawn-to-Dusk Flier Made Lap of 570 Miles From Dayton in Four Hours Six Minutes.

TO DO SPEED STUNTS TODAY

Came Direct Last Night for Circus Events Instead of Making Washington Detour.

Lieutenant Russell L. Maughan came back to Mitchel Field at 8:26 o'clock last night at the end of his leisurely trip from the Pacific Coast, after having made the record dawn-to-dusk flight across the continent. He was greeted by an enthusiastic crowd. He returned in the same Curtiss plane.

Lieutenant Maughan landed close to his own hangar. He was greeted by Major Hensley, commandant of Mitchel Field, and by a number of brother officers and aviators. He said conditions on the return trip from Crissey Field would have been ideal for a westward trip. He had to "buck" the wind both ways.

"I had planned to meet the Secretary of War and some of the officials of the Air Service at Washington, but because of the air carnival on Mitchel Field tomorrow I received orders to come here direct. I had a fine trip and feel fine now. I traveled all day today without having eaten much and I propose now to 'put on the feed bag.'" Lieutenant Maughan said this as he accompanied other officers to the Officers' Club at the field.

"I hope to get to New York tonight," he added. "You know I am scheduled to broadcast at WJZ. It looks now as though I would be late in keeping that appointment."

Maughan said he covered the last lap of his trip back from Dayton, Ohio, to Mitchel Field, a distance of 570 miles, in four hours and six minutes.

Flies in Air Circus Today.

Lieutenant Maughan's part in the flying circus at Mitchel Field today will include speed flying.

"If the weather man is kind to us tomorrow, we will have the best flying circus ever seen in America," said Major Hensley last night. He announced that all preparations for the meet had been made and that the program will commence about 2 o'clock and conclude just before dark.

The Munnert monoplane, said to be the smallest and slowest plane in the world, will be demonstrated. It is equipped with a motorcycle engine and has a wing span of thirty-five feet. "The Owl," the largest plane in the United States, will be flown in company with the baby plane.

There will be parachute jumping in teams from Martin bombers at a height of not less than 1,000 feet and an attempt by the participants to land on a given mark. There will also be the destruction by bombing of a miniature city erected in the centre of the field. The shooting down of a "blimp" will be an added thrill. Hensley announced that if rain interferes today, the show will be held on Saturday.

Tells His Story to Radio Fans.

Just returned from his record-breaking dawn-to-dusk flight, it remained for Lieutenant Maughan to get what he called "the thrill of his life" from a ride in a police automobile last night. The airman was scheduled to broadcast a talk on his flight from Station WJZ at 9:45. He landed on Long Island, supperless, at 8:26. Realizing that he might be late in keeping his appointment, he started for New York in an army automobile, meanwhile having a request telephoned ahead for a police escort to expedite his passage.

The police machine with two motorcycle outriders met him at the Queensboro Bridge at East Fifty-ninth Street. The cavalcade came down Broadway at breakneck speed with sirens screaming and traffic cleared as if by magic. When Maughan got out of the machine at Aeolian Hall, where the broadcasting station is located, he said:

"Talk about riding in airplanes! It's nothing to that ride. I got the thrill of my life."

The aviator was accompanied by Major Hensley, commandant of Mitchel Field, and Major L. D. Gardner, an aviation expert, met him in the studio. As he was too tired to make an extended speech, his radio appearance was arranged in the form of a series of questions by Hensley and Gardner, which he answered.

During the course of the talk he was asked how long, at the rate of speed he traveled in his flight, it would take him to get from Times Square to the Polo Grounds. "Three minutes," was his reply. He said his plane could travel at 170 miles an hour at sea level, and 140 miles an hour at 10,000 feet, which was about the height he used to get over the Rockies.

He told his audience that, according to the times given in The World Almanac, he had arrived at the Pacific Coast before dusk, although actually it was after sunset, because the lights were on. He said his trip did not establish any official records, and he was not after one, but simply to demonstrate that if the United States were equipped with a suitable air fleet it could be mobilized to defend any part of the country in a day's time.

He said the army had now only four planes of the type he had used, and that twenty-one more were being built by the Curtiss Company.

He was asked at what speed he had landed at the end of his flight and replied that it was about 85 miles an hour.

"Well," said Major Gardner to the radio audience, "I don't need to ask any of you folks who drive automobiles and know what 40 or 50 miles an hour means, how you would like to hit the ground at 85 miles an hour in a machine that has no brakes whatever."

After his radio talk, Lieutenant Maughan and Major Hensley visited the Democratic Convention at Madison Square Garden. They were escorted to seats by Joseph Thompson, a police captain.

At the broadcasting station it was reported that many inquiries had been received from the radio fans as to how WJZ could broadcast Lieutenant Maughan when it was broadcasting the Democratic Convention. It was explained that a shift had been made last night. The Garden and the concerts at the Stadium are on the same ground wire, and therefore in order to get both, the broadcasting of the convention was shifted to WJY, while the concert and Lieutenant Maughan were on WJZ.

DAYTON, Ohio, July 3.—Lieutenant Russell L. Maughan, transcontinental flier, arrived at McCook Field here shortly after noon today from St. Joseph, Mo. The flier, who last week was successful in a coast-to-coast daylight-to-dusk flight, said he would proceed to Mineola, N. Y., this afternoon.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., July 3.—Lieutenant Russell L. Maughan hopped off from Rosecrans Field in St. Joseph at 8:25 o'clock this morning on his way to Dayton, Ohio.

Citizens here presented to him a gold wrist watch, on the back of which was engraved a map of his transcontinental flight.

GOVERNOR'S DOG LOST AGAIN

Recovered After Two Hours' Search at Coney Island.

Governor Smith's collie "Teddy" who strayed from the home of the Governor's sister, Mrs. John A. Glynn at Sea Gate a few weeks ago and was found by Salvatore Sallazzo of 30 Stryker Street, Gravesend, had the same experience all over again yesterday.

When the Governor's two sons, Arthur and Walter, failed to find "Teddy" after an exhaustive search, they reported the loss to the Coney Island police station. Sergeant John J. Ryan advised them to look up Salvatore and enlist his aid. They did so and two hours later Salvatore turned the dog over to Sergeant Anderson and Patrolman Hahn, who took him back to Sea Gate.

SOLDIER'S LETTER HELD TO BE VALID WILL

Left $10,000 to Sister While in Camp in America—Killed on Armistice Day.

A letter written by George Bignier of Company C, 323d Infantry, leaving his $10,000 war insurance to his sister constitutes a valid will, it was decided yesterday by Surrogate O'Brien.

"If anything happens," wrote Bignier ten months before he was killed in action, "I want you, sister, to take the insurance which I got out and don't let them beat you out of it. I took out a $10,000 insurance and it cost me $6.50 a month."

This was written while Bignier was in camp in South Carolina. He complained in the opening paragraph of the letter that he was "broke" and requested his sister to send him funds. He also asked her to send him a trench glass and some toilet soap.

Objections to the probate of the letter as a will were made by a brother, Conrad Bignier, of 387 East 138th Street, who contended that the main object of the letter was to obtain the trench glass and the soap, and that the paragraph about the insurance was "calculated by the writer to operate as an incentive to grant his request for a few dollars."

Bignier was killed in action the morning the armistice was signed. Because his letter was written while he was in the South Carolina camp, his brother contended that he was not actually in the service of the United States. On this point Surrogate O'Brien commented as follows:

"It would be a great injustice to patriots whose service was confined to camps in this country, many of whom made the supreme sacrifice, to hold that they were not actually in military service, as it would be also to those who executed wills while in camps here, and later gave up their lives on foreign soil.

"I hold that the decedent was in the actual military service of the United States, his intent is clearly apparent from the words he used in the letter, and his testamentary capacity has been established by the testimony of four witnesses. The letter, in so far as it affects the disposition of testator's property, will be admitted to probate. The motion to dismiss the objections filed by the contestant is therefore granted."

BURIED WORKMEN DUG OUT.

Pair Uninjured After Excavation Cave-In.

Two laborers were working yesterday in an excavation in West Forty-fifth Street when a cave-in buried them under a mass of earth and stones. In half an hour their heads had been uncovered by firemen working with pails and scoops from a nearby grocery and at the end of an hour and forty minutes the first man was lifted from the pit, unhurt beyond shock. The other was hoisted out an hour later, badly frightened but injured.

The cave-in, the cause of which is undetermined, caught the pair at the bottom of a fifteen-foot excavation for sewer and water connections in front of 312 West Forty-fifth Street, where a theatre is under construction. A shoveling platform about six feet down supported some of the weight of the earth and kept it from crushing the men to death.

A man working overhead heard the cries of the men as they were being buried and telephoned for police and firemen. Chief Denis J. Curtin and a hook and ladder from the Ninth Fire Battalion were quickly on the scene and fifteen policemen under Captain William Kelliher came from the West Forty-seventh Street station.

The firemen descended in pairs and removed the earth from over and then around the imprisoned men, handing it up in pails to their comrades above. The victims were at opposite ends of the pit and after both were clear of earth to their waists the firemen concentrated on one who seemed to be in the worse predicament. When completely dug out he was pulled up by a rope attached to a life belt fastened around his waist. He soon was able to answer questions and said he was Antonio Mamone, 27, of 229 East 108th Street. During his imprisonment he had been calm and assisted his rescuers, after his arms were free, by digging with his hands.

His companion, under the impression that he was being left to die, became excited and made long appeals for aid.

When finally hoisted out he was quivering with fear, but an examination by Dr. Ben Dysart of Bellevue Hospital disclosed no injury. He gave his name as Andrew Balano, 50, of 34 Fifth Street, Hunter's Point. He was taken to Bellevue, but Mamone was sent home.

A large crowd which gathered as the rescue work was going on was kept away by police lines established at Eighth Avenue and midway in the block to the west.

REFEREE IN LEARY ESTATE.

Heirs Object to the Accounting Filed by a Niece.

Surrogate O'Brien appointed Edward D. Dowling referee yesterday to pass on objections filed by Annie B. Varet and Alice Berry of 125 Hicks Street, Brooklyn, cousins of the late Countess Annie Leary, and heirs to one-sixth of her estate, to the accounting filed by Annie Leary, niece and administratrix of the estate of the Countess.

The aaccounting stated that the value of the estate was $820,000, but that after the payment of legacies and debts there remained only $224,204, out of which a legacy of $200,000 was provided to erect a sacristy in St. Patrick's Cathedral in memory of the father and mother of the Countess.

The cousins contend that a charge of $202,000 should be made against the administratrix because of the items to which they object.

BACHARACH IS UNCHANGED.

Physicians Think Injured Congressman Will Recover.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 3.—The condition of Isaac Bacharach, Representative in Congress from the Second District, New Jersey, who was injured in an automobile accident Tuesday night, was reported unchanged tonight. Physicians hope to avoid amputation of his left arm, which was slashed its entire length and crosswise in three places.

"There have been no developments or indications that the patient will not pull through a long ordeal of recovering from his numerous painful injuries," tonight's bulletin read.

Services for John E. Evans, a business associate of Congressman Bacharach, who was killed in the accident, will be held Saturday afternoon at his former residence in Northfield.

LIONS CLUB HAS LUNCHEON.

Makes Plans for Membership Drive Late This Month.

The Lions Club gave a luncheon yesterday at the Hotel Commodore, where arrangements were made for a general meeting of all the Lions clubs in New York at Travers Island on July 24, when a campaign to double the membership is to be started.

Th principal speaker at the luncheon was Ivan Flood, the district Governor of the club, who has just returned from the International convention of the club at Omaha, Neb.

HOUSE OF DAVID IS SUED.

Purnell Is Branded as a "Bigamist" in Receivership Action.

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., July 3.—Charging fraud, deceit and immorality, a petition seeking a receivership for the House of David, at Benton Harbor, was filed in Circuit Court here today.

The petition brands "King" Benjamin Purnell, fugitive leader of the colony, as "a religious impostor, pious fraud and bigamist," and charges that he taught gross immorality, encouraged immorality and practiced revolting rites.

AIR MAIL ARRIVES AHEAD OF SCHEDULE

THIRD BATCH LEAVES HERE

Banks and Corporations Steady Patrons and "Curiosity Letters" Decrease.

The second trans-continental air mail from San Francisco arrived at Hazelhurst Field, L. I., at 5:58 P. M. yesterday, seven minutes ahead of schedule. It was brought in by Pilot Charles H. Ames of Cleveland. Ames carried 106 pounds of mail in five pouches. He said he had encountered terrific thunderstorms across Central Pennsylvania but had had little difficulty in weathering them. Air pilots expect, he said, to encounter heavy thunderstorms during most of their trips at this time of the year.

The outgoing third air mail yesterday carried letters and packages for banks. They are believed to have constituted the principal part of the 129 pounds matter in ten pouches which left Hazelhurst Field at 11:03 yesterday morning in a plane piloted by E. Hamilton Lee, who flies to Cleveland.

The postal authorities on the field said this was the first load that contained no "souvenir mail" and that the service was now getting down to the routine of every-day business. The Federal Reserve Bank and other large banking institutions sent an important consignment to San Francisco and other Western points. It was believed to contain securities, checks, and credit reports on which quick delivery was an advantage. The banks have been among the first to testify to the value of the quick overland service.

Big Business Uses the Service.

Among the large organizations in New York which acclaimed the value of the Air Mail Service is the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, which yesterday issued a statement that the monthly financial statement for June from its head office in San Francisco, mailed there at 5 o'clock on the morning of July 1, had reached it in yesterday's first mail.

It made the point that the speed with which the air mail functions might be judged by the fact that the San Francisco letter arrived at its office, 1 Madison Avenue, simultaneously with another mailed in the head office at Ottawa, Canada, an overnight run by fast train.

"There can be no question," said Walter R. Quick, auditor of the Metropolitan, to whom the air mail was addressed, "about the appreciation of the business men. To us it means a saving of five days in the clearance of important documents, and other business institutions will undoubtedly profit just as we do. We propose using the coast-to-coast mail service frequently."

It was said that the Air Mail Service would prove particularly valuable for the transmission of important confidential documents and those involving long tables of figures, as did that received by the Metropolitan Life. Other methods of transmission offer the added risk of error, and if ordinary postal service is resorted to the loss of time is appreciable.

Coolidge-Harding Flowers Arrive.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—California flowers but two days old, brought across the Continent by the new air mail, were delivered today to Mrs. Calvin Coolidge and Mrs. Warren G. Harding.

They were placed in mail sacks at 5 A. M., July 1 by Postmaster James E. Power of San Francisco, the gift of Mrs. Powers, and dispatched on the first trip East of the Air Mail Service. They were sent down from New York by train last night, arriving here at 3 A. M., and delivered by postmen at 7 o'clock this morning.

Letters to Postmaster General New and Acting Postmaster General Bartlett were brought from Postmaster Power.

Volume of Mail Is Heavy.

CHICAGO, July 3.—Transcontinental mail planes were rushing through the air with business-like regularity today, the third day of the new coast to coast day and night air mail.

The continued heavy run of air mail convinces Colonel Paul Henderson, Assistant Postmaster General, that business generally had found the new service helpful.

"The percentage of curiosity letters is exceedingly small," he added.

To date the traffic between New York and San Francisco is, of course, the heaviest, Colonel Henderson said, and that between Chicago and New York is second, with the mail carried between Chicago and San Francisco third, as to the actual amount of mail dispatched from cities, New York and San Francisco are virtually equal. Mail in about equal quantities is being carried east and west.

The mail planes today were keeping close to schedules, although the eastbound mail was delayed thirty-five minutes at Iowa City when Pilot R. C. Page found a loose control and returned there and changed ships. He reached Chicago at 7:34 A. M., Central Time, fourteen minutes behind schedule, and Pilot S. J. Schort left for the East at 7:39, four minutes behind.

OUR FLIERS IN MULTAN; OFF TO KARACHI TODAY

Reached Umballa in Storm From Allahabad—Nelson's Plane Quickly Repaired.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SIMLA, India., July 3.—The United States air pilots, having received from Lahore the new cylinder required as replacement in one of the machines, left Umballa for Multan at 8 o'clock this morning.

They arrived Safely in Multan at 2 P. M. and expect to leave for Karachi tomorrow.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—According to a radiogram received today by the Army Air Service from Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith, commander of the three around-the-world fliers, the flight of 500 miles yesterday from Allahabad, British India, to Umballa was made in five hours in the teeth of bad weather.

The take-off was made in a drizzling rain which later developed into a heavy downpour. The British air station at Umballa, however, provided a welcome harbor for the flight overnight. Lieutenant Smith's message read as follows: "Left Allahabad 7:26; arrived Umballa five hours and twenty-five minutes flying. Nelson's cylinder leaking. Plan departure for Multan July 3."

The reference to Nelson's motor, Air Service officers explains, means that the water jacket around one of the twelve cylinders is leaking water. Such a condition is not necessarily dangerous, and doubtless was the break was welded by mechanics during the stop at Umballa. It takes only a few hours to remove the cylinder and repair the leak by use of a blow torch. Even if this were impossible, they add, the flight would doubtless proceed to Multan, where a new motor could be installed.

Plenty of motor and spare parts for the three air cruisers are available in this part of Asia, having been dispatched by the Air Service prior to the flight. The planes, however, are reported to be in good condition, and barring all serious accidents should be airworthy for the remainder of the world trip.

At Air Service headquarters here today it was denied that Lieutenant Smith had sustained an additional injury when hit accidentally with a revolving propeller. His only injury, they stated, resulted when he fell from a culvert en route to the flying field at Calcutta and sustained a slight fracture of his floating rib. The injury was not sufficient to delay the flight.
